In our last issue it was stated that Grenoble walnuts en route for Canada were being offered. These walnuts have now arrived, coming into the hands of the wholesalers just as we go to press. These nuts came by New York ex ss. La Bretagne and constitute what is expected to be the supply for the Christmas trade. The bulk lot of Sicily filberts arrived in New York this week. Locally there is nothing of particular notice to note, and prices are much as before. We quote: Brazil nuts 11 to 12½c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 20 to 22c.; Tarragona almonds, 9½ to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 12½c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, ETC.

Business is moderate, and about the only feature is the continued firmness in Japan rice. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¾c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to 4½c.

SPICES.

The bears appear to have got the upper hand for the time being in the clove market, prices having in the last few days declined. It is thought, however, that they have only temporary control of the market. The spice market generally is quiet. We quote: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 12c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 14c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 11 to 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 18 to 20c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 18 to 20c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 23 to 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 13 to 16c.; cassia, 20 to 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The Japan tea market continues strong, although we hear of no further advances. It seems to be the general opinion that stocks of Japan tea in all hands are light. Shippers' agents report a good demand for China green tea, which is scarce. China black teas are not wanted. Mail advices from London report prices for all grades of Ceylon tea considerably dearer, but cable advices subsequently received here from Colombo report that on lower grades prices are easier.

CLEMES BROS. - Toronto

A little better demand from the wholesalers is reported for Indian and Ceylon teas. The grades chiefly wanted are low and medium. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The market continues firm and our quotations are unchanged. There is not a great deal doing on the local market from first hands. Statistical advices are still strong. We quote: Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6½c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS—There is a fair trade doing and prices are without a change. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4¾ to 5c.; fine off-stalk, 5½ to 6c.; selected, 6¼ to 6¾c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

MALAGA RAISINS—Importers are expecting their bulk importations of Malaga fruit ex Bellona. Our prices remain as before. We quote as follows: Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; black baskets, $2.10 to $2.20; Imperial cabinets, $1.65 to $1.85; Royal Buckingham, $3.50 to $3.75; extra dessert clusters, $3.40 to $3.60.

CALIFORNIA LOOSE MUSCATEL RAISINS—Are in moderate demand at unchanged prices. We quote: 3-crown, 7½c. per lb.; 4-crown, 8½c. per lb.; 1-lb. cartoons, 12c.

SULTANA RAISINS—The lower grades are firmly held, and shippers advise their agents here that they see no reason to expect any change in prices in this article for some time. According to these advices the crop is estimated at 35,000 tons.

FIGS—Advices from C. Whitall & Co., Smyrna, state that the total yield of figs is fully 15 to 20 per cent. less than last year. The later arrivals in the market in Canada have shown deterioration in quality, owing to the heavy rains in the country of production. We quote: 4-crown, 10 to 11c.; 5-crown, 11 to 13c.; 7-crown, 13 to 14c.; 9-crown, 15 to 16c.; natural figs, in bags, 4½ to 5c.

PRUNES—A cable advice received a few days ago in Toronto stated that the market for Turkish prunes was practically unchanged, and that prices were being firmly held. Owing to the extremely high price of French plums considerable business has been done in Turkish prunes on this market. The smaller sizes of Santa Clara California prunes are scarce and orders have been refused for this market. The price for these scarce prunes is firmer. We quote: 40 to 50's, 10½c.; 50 to 60's, 8 to 8½c.; 60 to 70's, 7½ to 8c.; 70 to 80's, 7 to 7½c.; 80 to 90's, 6½ to 7c.; 90 to 100's, 6 to 6½c. Silver prunes (fancy), 13½c.; egg plums, 9½c.

CALIFORNIA EVAPORATED FRUITS. — Prices are practically unchanged. Owing to the low price of apricots there has been a good demand for this commodity, and shippers have some difficulty in filling orders promptly for good quality fruit. We quote: Apricots, 9 to 9½c. per lb. in 50-lb. boxes, 9½ to 16c. in 25-lb. boxes, and 13 to 14c. in 1-lb. cartoon boxes; Peaches, 9½ to 12½c. in 25-lb. boxes, and 13c. per lb. in 1-lb. cartoons.

GREEN FRUITS.

The market is rather quiet this week, the unfavorable weather causing the demand to slacken somewhat. The first shipments of Mexican oranges are on the market. Very few grapes are now on the market in condition fit to ship. Sweet potatoes are in good demand just now. We quote as follows: Lemons, fancy Verdilli, $3.25 to $3.75; choice Verdilli, $2.50 to $3. Cocoanuts, $4 a sack and 60c. per doz.; Jamaica oranges, $8 to $9 per bbl., and $4.50 per box; bananas, $1.50 to $2; Cape Cod cranberries, $7 to $7.50 per bbl., and $2 to $2.25 per box; Canadian cranberries, $5 to $6.50 per bbl., and $1.75 per box; quinces, 20 to 30c.; chestnuts, $5 a bushel; Canadian apples, $2.75 to $3.25 per barrel and 40 to 50c. per basket; Spanish onions, $1.25 per case; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; yellow Danvers, 75 to 80c. per bag of 80 lbs.; celery, 25 to 50c. a dozen; grapes, 10-lb. Concords, 18 to 20c.; Niagara, 25 to 30c.; Concords, large baskets, 1½ to 2c. per lb.; Niagara, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; sweet potatoes, $3.25; winter pears, $3.50 to $5 per bbl. and 30 to 50c. per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is a more liberal supply this week and prices are easier, though no quotable change has taken place. We quote: Fresh laid, 15 to 16c.; second grade, 11 to 13c.; pickled eggs, 12½ to 13½c.

POTATOES—Business is in a good condition. Carload lots are quoted at 55c. and small lots on the market 60 to 65c.

HONEY—Market is still easy. We quote: Clover honey, 7½c.; buckwheat, 4c.; light color, in 60-lb. tins, 6 to 6½c.; 5 and 10-lb. tins, 7 to 7½c.; comb, $1.50 to $1.75 per dozen.

DRIED APPLES—Only small lots are offering, and, if anything, the price is a little firmer, although no change in figures has taken place. Export business could be done at 4c. for choice stock, but holders' views range from that figure up to as high as 6c. in one or two instances. The idea as to price in a jobbing way is 4 to 4½c. per lb., although little or no business is being done.

EVAPORATED APPLES — There is practically nothing doing, and jobbers' prices are nominally 10 to 10½c. per lb.

BEANS—Quite a few transactions are reported at about 82½c. per bushel delivered in store for 50-bag lots of No. 1 prime.

POULTRY—The demand for all kinds has been such that dealers have kept well sold up. We quote: Geese, 6c. per lb.; chickens, dressed, 30 to 50c.; alive, 35 to 45c.; ducks, 40 to 65c.; wild ducks, widgeons, 20 to 25c.; bluebills, 30 to 35c.; mallard and black, 60 to 70c.; turkeys, 9 to 10c. per lb.

PROVISIONS.

Dressed hogs have come down greatly in price, several cars having been bought at a rate about 50c. lower than last week's quotations. The local butchers are paying about 25c. more than this for street deliveries. Lard is in good demand. Dry salted meats have declined ¼c. per lb. in price. We quote:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 7¾c. for carload lots, and 8 to 8¼c. per lb. for ton lots and cases.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 12 to 12½c.; rolls, 9c.; hams, large, 10c.; medium, 11c.; small, 11½c.; shoulder

VENISON—Is now coming in freely. Whole carcases sell at 7 to 8c. per lb.; saddles, 9 to 11c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Good dairy is offering in a little larger quantities and the demand is good, especially for large rolls. Creamery is still easy. We quote: Dairy, best grade, 16 to 17c.; second grade, 13 to 15c.; low grade, 11 to 12c.; creamery, early make, tubs, 17 to 18c.; late make, tubs, 18 to 19c.; prints, 20c.

CHEESE—The market is almost lifeless. Local quotations are 9 to 9½c., according to make.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Wheat is quiet, yet the market generally is firm. We quote: Winter wheat, 81 to 82c. at outside points; freights to Toronto are about 3 to 5c.; barley, 27 to 31c.; peas, 44 to 45c.; oats, 20 to 23c., Toronto freights, and No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $1, Toronto freights.

FLOUR—The market is firm, with unchanged prices. We quote in carloads on track at Toronto: Manitoba patents, $5.40; Manitoba strong bakers, $5; Ontario patents, $4.50 to $4.80; straight roller, $4.20 to $4.25, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Business is brisk, some manufacturers not being able to make foods fast enough to meet the demand. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.30 in bags and $3.40 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.70 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.

FISH.

The market this week is dull. This is the close season for whitefish and trout, so they are off the market. The demand for herring is good. We quote: Pickerel, 6c. per lb.; pike, 4c. per lb.; perch, 3c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. per lb.; haddies, 6c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 to $6 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads off), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, 75c. to $1.

SEEDS.

If anything, the markets the past few days showed less activity, although, perhaps, no real change in values. Red clover is still salable upon a basis of $3 to $3.25 per bushel for average qualities, a little more being paid for really fancy lots. Alsike is not in such active demand, and values are nominally unchanged at $3 to $4.50 per bushel. Timothy shows very little movement as yet, values remaining at $1 to $1.25 per bushel. These prices are what are being paid to dealers at outside points.

SALT.

The scarcity of cars is not now so seriously felt as it has been, though dealers can not yet move all they would like to. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B.. barrels, 70c.; sacks, 50c.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The market is pretty bare of stock, a good many hides going to the United States. We quote for both cowhides and steerhides: No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 8c.; No. 3, 7c.

CALFSKINS — We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8 lbs. and up, 12c. per lb.; No. 2, 10c.; Dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—We quote: Lambskins and pelts, 75 to 90c.

WOOL—Fleece wool is entirely off the market. Pulled wools are fairly active. We quote super pulled wools at 21 to 22c.; extra at 22 to 23c.

PETROLEUM, ETC.

Business is brisk this week. We quote in 1 to 10 bbl. lots, imperial gallon, Toronto: Canadian, 14c.; carbon safety, 16½c.; Canadian water white, 17c.; American water white, 17½c.; Pratt's astral, 17c. in bulk.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has exhibited no new or striking features during the week. Sugar rules fairly steady, though the competition of the cheap German granulated is being felt more keenly. With small stocks in first hands values on syrups are firmly held, and in molasses the expectation of higher prices referred to last week is strengthened, if anything. Advances in rice at primary markets are also reported, and have a stiffening influence locally. Spices and coffees continue much the same, while demand for tea is steadily expanding, and prices generally are very firm on this important staple. Dried fruit exhibit no change on spot, though prices on Valencia raisins might be shaded for sales to arrive. Other dried fruits are steady to firm in their tendency, especially currants.

SUGAR.

The sugar market exhibits nothing striking this week, demand being fair on the whole and values steady. The sale of German granulated stock is increasing and local refiners are feeling the competition more and more. The consumers have a distaste to it, but it is alleged that some of the unscrupulous retailers are mixing it with the domestic granulated and so fattening their profits. There should be some method of putting a stop to this practice. There is little change in the outside markets except in the raw article, private cables from London reporting that it was rather firmer. For current business in refined domestic granulated ranges from 4 to 4⅛c., and yellow, 3⅜ to 3¾c. German granulated is selling at 3¾c. per lb., and for the reason above given the volume of business in it is increasing.

SYRUPS.

There is no change in the situation of the syrup market. Supplies in first hands continue light, and the fact leads to values being firmly held. We quote 2¼ to 2½c., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

Demand received during the week from outside points for molasses has tended to accentuate the firm disposition manifested by holders. These enquiries were from the New England States and Newfoundland, but they did not lead to anything, as the bids were considered too low. A fair local trade is doing in a jobbing way and round lots are firmly held at 25 to 26c. In a jobbing way 1c. advance on these prices is now asked.

RICE.

The firm advices from primary markets continue in rice, an advance equivalent to ½c. per lb. having been established on crystal Japan at producing points. The local enquiry has been active and prices are firmly held. We quote: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

There has been no important change in spices, but the strong feeling, especially in pepper, is firmly maintained. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market has continued quiet, and, aside from a few lots of Rio, nothing has been doing in a wholesale way. Jobbing demand is of a quiet, steady sort. We quote: Maracaibo, 17 to 18c.; Rio, 11 to 12c.; Santos, 13 to 14c.; Mocha, 24 to 25c., and Java, 24 to 25c.

TEAS.

The improved demand for teas in a wholesale way noted last week is maintained, and it is evident that jobbers have made up their minds that prices are right, for they show every disposition to operate both for prompt and future delivery. Round lots of China greens and Ceylons have been placed to arrive at advances, and sales agents for Japans are firm, predicting an advance of 1½ to 2c. before long. Altogether the tea market gives promise of still greater activity. We quote as follows: Young Hysons, 14 to 18c. for low grades, 25 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15½ to 21c. for mediums and 28 to 40c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a fair demand in a jobbing way for canned goods and values generally are steady. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 80 to 90c.; corn, 60 to 75c.; peas, 75c. to $1.25; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, 3's, 95c.; gallons, $1.65 to $1.75; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no change in the Valencia raisin market during the past week. The estimated quantity on the Bellona is about 70,000 boxes, the bulk of which is on order. For stock on spot prices are unchanged as follows: Off-stalk, 4½c.; fine do., 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and 4-crown layers, 6¾ to 7c.

Two or three carloads of California loose muscatels arrived since last report and prices on them are steadily held. We quote: 2-crown, 5½c.; 3-crown, 6½c.; and 4-crown, 7¾c.

Loose muscatel Malagas are steady at 6 to 7c., and table layers and clusters range from $1.35 to $4, according to brand and package.

There is no change in the currant market, the strong feeling at primary markets continuing, and it seems probable that much higher prices will rule on stock now on the way and to arrive. On spot we quote: Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; Filiatra, do., 5¾c.; do. half-bbls, 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. Provincials, 5c. in bbls., 5⅜c. in cases, and 5½c. in half-cases, and Vostizzas, half-cases, 8c.

There is nothing new to report in prunes except continued firmness in all descriptions. French, in the smaller sizes, are offered at 4¼c. to arrive. Austrian prunes are steady, as quoted last week, at 6 to 7c. according to size, and there has been no change in Californias. We quote: 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Evaporated apricots are selling steady at 11½ to 12c., and peaches 10 to 12c.

There is no change in figs, which rule steady to firm at 9 to 10c. in 14-oz. boxes, 10 to 11c. in 10 lb. boxes and 4c. in bags.

NUTS.

Advices on Grenoble walnuts and Sicily filberts have been firmer. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 10c.; Sicily filberts, 7c.; Tarragona almonds, 8c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 21 to 22c.; shelled walnuts, 20c., and cocoanuts, $3.50.

FISH.

The feature of importance in the fish trade is the great scarcity of new Labrador salmon and No. 2 mackerel; in fact, there is no stock of the former on spot outside of one or two small lots of old No. 2 small fish, which are firmly held at $11 to $12 per bbl. The market for mackerel has been exceedingly strong and a sharp advance in prices of $4 per bbl. has taken place within the past week, recent sales of small lots having been made at $20 per bbl. Outside of the above there is nothing new to note, as supplies of all other kinds of fish are ample, for which the demand is fair for the season. We quote: Green cod—No. 1 large, $4 to $4.50; No. 1 ordinary, $3.50 to $3.75; No. 2, $2.25 to $2.50; herrings, No. 1 N.S. and N.B., $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl. and $2.25 to $2.40 per half-bbl.; B.C. salmon, $10.50 per bbl.; mackerel, No. 2 new, $20; 1896 pack, $10 to $11 per bbl.

A fair business continues to be done in smoked fish, of which supplies are ample and prices easy. Haddies are selling at 6 to 7c. per lb.; kippered herrings at $1.25 per box; Yarmouth bloaters at 90c. to $1 per box, and new smoked herrings at 11c. per box.

THAT IS WHAT

Enameline

The Modern STOVE POLISH.

is. Hundreds of thousands of Dollars are being expended yearly to educate the public in regard to Enameline. It sells on sight. It puts dollars into the pockets of dealers who handle it.

The demand for preserved fish is somewhat limited and sales are only in small lots to fill actual wants. Dressed codfish are selling at $4.25 per case of 100 lbs.; dried cod at $3.75 per cwt., and boneless codfish at 5 to 6c. per lb.

The supply of fresh fish is only moderate, for which the demand is fair and prices rule steady. Haddock are selling at 3 to 3½c. per lb.; B.C. salmon at 11 to 12c., and whitefish and pickerel at 6½ to 7c.

Shell oysters are arriving freely, but prices are higher than last season owing to the increased demand at producing points. Malpeques, common, $3 to $3.50; hand-picked, $4.50 to $5.50, and Miramichi, $3.50 per barrel.

DRIED APPLES.

The dried apple market continues without change, dried ruling slow at 3 to 4c., and evaporated 5½ to 6c.

APPLES.

There has been an active business in apples, and cables speak encouragingly of sound fruit, but inferior stock are not wanted in Great Britain at any price. Cables received here on Monday quoted Spies, Baldwins, Russetts, 17s. per barrel, mixed lots, 15s. and Greenings, 14s. In a local way values are held firm at $3 to $4 for No. 1 winter and Snows; seconds, $2 to $2.50, and inferior, $1.50 to $2.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is a fair demand for lemons, and the same can be said of Jamaica oranges. Cranberries also are in fair enquiry, though supplies are largely in excess of the demand. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3 per box; Jamaica oranges, $8 to $8.75 per barrel; bananas, $2.25 per bunch; California peaches, $1.75 to $2 per box; Canadian pears, $3 to $6 per bbl.; Almeria grapes, $5 to $6.50 per cask; do. California Tokays, $2.25 to $2.50 per crate; cranberries, $7.50 to $8 for Cape Cod, and $6 to $6.50 for Nova Scotia, per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for eggs was only in small lots to fill actual wants, consequently the market was quiet and about steady. We quote: New-laid, 15 to 15½c.; choice candled, 12 to 13c., and culls, 10 to 10½c. per dozen, in round lots.

BEANS—Business in beans continues of a jobbing character, but prices are sustained at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

HONEY—The market for honey was quiet and featureless. We quote: Clover comb at 10 to 11c.; bright extracted at 7½ to 8½c., and dark at 5 to 5½c.

GAME—The supply of partridge was fair, and, as the demand was good, prices were steady at 55c. for firsts and 30c. for seconds, per brace.

POTATOES—There is no change in potatoes. The demand is quiet at 45 to 50c. per bag, in car lots.

PROVISIONS.

A fair jobbing trade continues to be done in provisions, and the market is moderately active, with no change in values. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7½ to 8c., and compound refined at 5½ to 5¾c. per lb.; hams, 12 to 14c.; bacon, 12 to 13c. per lb.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

A fair amount of business was transacted in flour and the market is moderately active and steady in spite of further decline in the prices of wheat. There were enquiries from Glasgow for Manitoba brands, but no business was done. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.50; bags, $2.10 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $5 to $5.15; second do., $4.60 to $4.70, and low grades, $2.80; Hungarian patents, $5.55.

The demand for meal in small lots continues and prices are unchanged. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.40 to $3.50 per barrel and $1.65 to $1.70 per bag; standard meal, $3.30 per barrel and $1.60 per bag.

There is no change in the feed market. A fair business was done, there being a good demand from both local and country buyers. We quote: Ontario bran at $11, and shorts at $12 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, at $11.50., and shorts at $12.50 per ton.

BALED HAY.

The demand for hay was only fair, of which supplies are large and prices easy at $10.50 for No. 1, and at $8 to $8.50 for No. 2, per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market continues in its dull rut, and there appears to be little prospect of any change between now and the close of navigation. At the wharf Monday morning 2,000 boxes were offered from down the river, and the buyers are willing to take over these tail ends only at a concession. Accordingly bids were shaded ⅛ to ¼c. per pound, compared with a week ago, the 2,000 being sold at 7¼ to 7⅜c. There was no news of moment from the country districts. We quote: Finest Ontario Septembers, 8¾ to 8⅞c.; finest Ontario Octobers, 8½ to 8⅝c.; finest Townships, 8¼ to 8⅜c.; finest Ontario Augusts, 8⅛ to 8¼c.; finest Quebec Octobers, 7⅝ to 7¾c.

The butter market ruled quiet, with demand of a very indifferent character. Exporters are not in the market for creamery, except at 18c. here, and holders want that price in the country. Dairy stock is held steady at 15½ to 16c. We quote: Finest creamery, 18¼ to 18½c.; seconds, 17½ to 17¾c.; dairy butter, 15½ to 16c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cables on beet on Monday and Tuesday were rather easier, but cane ruled firmer.

The estimated receipts of raisins ex the ss. Bellona are 70,000 boxes, nearly all of which are on order.

The competition of the German granulated sugar is becoming more and more of a factor in this market.

Cables from Japan quote a rise in the first cost of crystal rice at producing points equivalent to ½c. per pound.

Refiners are still lightly supplied with syrup, and firm prices are expected to rule on account of this fact for some time.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 11, 1897.

YOUR correspondent has been particularly pleased by the great praise he has heard from all sides regarding the fall number of THE CANADIAN GROCER. It is admitted by all that nothing in its line received here has ever equalled it. The feature that is the subject of the most favorable comment is perhaps the manner in which the "ads." are displayed, though their number and the amount of general information in the paper all receive their due amount of praise. The winter export business occupies a large share of attention here. The action of the Government in asking the steamers to call at Halifax is generally condemned. Our city has spent a large amount in preparing for this business, and it is hoped the Government will do nothing to interfere with that trade which is justly ours. We now have accommodation for six steamers at the railway terminus, and except for the difficulty spoken of above, everything points to a very large quantity of goods passing through here this winter.

OIL—Except in burning oil little business is reported. In burning oil the chief stir is in the shipping of orders previously taken, which contracts extend through this month. A better demand for Canadian oil is noted this fall. Receipts of cod oil continue light, so that the price is firmly held. We quote: Best American burning oil, 17½ to 18½c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—Another cargo of 7,000 sacks of Liverpool coarse salt arrived this week. It found but limited demand because of the two cargoes just preceding it. The market is now well supplied, quite a quantity being now in store here. For fine factory filled the demand is not large at this season. We quote: Coarse, 47 to 50c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—Gallon apples are about the only line in which our dealers are really short, and had it not been that demand for the last few years has been so dull they would likely have had at least much better stock than they have at present. At a fair price there would have been a good demand this year, but the price will affect the sale. Corn, peas and tomatoes are firm at the high prices, and even higher prices are looked for. Further arrivals of canned salmon are to hand this week. Prices are easy. There is quite a range in quality. More flat tins are offered than usual. Lobsters seem in rather better supply, but are still scarce and high. Oysters are dull. Western demand for local canned fish products, particularly sardines, is good. Canned fruits in glass have some demand at this season, but price prevents large sale. Canned peaches are rather lower. We quote: Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 75 to 90c.; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.55 to $2.60; 2's, $1.60 to $1.65; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.05 to $1.15; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz,; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT.—Business is rather quieter. The price of apples is easier, with but fair demand, except Gravensteins, which seem fairly plentiful at the price asked for them. Little good fruit is coming here. The best apples are being sold for export. Oranges, West Indian, particularly Jamaicas, are of fair quality, but sale is not large. About the only bananas arriving are for retail trade. A few Canadian peaches are here, but they are small. Canadian grapes are still plentiful; the season, however, is about over. Malagas are having better sale. Cape Cod cranberries are rather higher. Quinces have fair sale. Lemons show quite a range in quality. We quote: Lemons, $3 to $5; oranges, $5 to $7 per bbl.; apples, $3 to $4.50; bananas, $1.50 to $2; grapes, 25 to 30c.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6; native bog cranberries, $5 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 per bbl.; quinces, $5 to $6 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—As usual at this season this is the line having chief attention. In raisins the market is well supplied. Upward of 6,000 Malagas are to hand this week. Prices of Malagas are low this year, particularly so in layers, with quality good. The first Malaga loose in 50-lb. boxes to be received here are to hand. Malaga loose in any shape have not been much sold here for years, but the high price of Californias this year has given them a large place in the market. Two cars of California raisins are to hand and give splendid satisfaction. Valencias are in good supply, and hold their price. California prunes and apricots have both been received. They are having a better demand this season on account of the high price of evaporated apples, which are scarce here. The high price is likely to kill the sale. A few dried are held, and bring full figures. Currants show good sale; stocks are not large. Fard dates from New York have been received. Other grades will be late. Figs are low and quality good. There seems a larger sale from year to year for natural figs, which sell at about half the price of the other kinds. Onions tend higher. Cocoanuts are scarce, and prices are likely to see quite an advance. In peels the stock held is light, and prices, particularly for citron, are firmly held. Seeded muscatels show an improved demand, but as yet sale is limited. We quote: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6¾ to 7c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 5 to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; dried apples, 3½ to 4c.; evaporated apples, 7 to 8c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6¾ to 7c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7¾ to 8c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 12 to 13c.; new Valencias, layers, 6¾ to 7c.; Imp. Cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.40 to $2.50; Dehesa layers, $2.75 to $3; citron peel, 18c.; orange peel, 12c.; lemon peel, 11c.

SUGAR—Stocks here are not large, nor is business active. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—There is a good stock held here. While there is quite a sale at present, it is not as large as it should be at this season, which makes the market easy. The cargo of Porto Rico held here on consignment has been placed. The stock of syrup is very light, and such as is offered is of poor quality. The excessive duty prevents the importation of such syrup as at a fair price would find a large sale here. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 29c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antiqua, 22 to 23c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, 33 to 34c.; fancy Porto Rico, 30 to 32c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Business is flat. In butter there is a fair demand where quality is right, but the large stock of poor keeps the price low. Cheese is easier, with but fair demand. There is more offering than a short time ago, and those who have held are likely to have to cut prices below what they are asking, particularly if they cannot sell for export. Eggs are a little better sale. Better stock is being received, and prices therefore firmer. We quote: Dairy butter, 15 to 17c.; creamery, 18 to 19c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9¾ to 10c.; eggs, 13½ to 14c.

FISH—The market holds its firm feeling. In dry cod there is good sale at the advanced figures. We again quote pollock higher. It is scarce, but no large demand is being experienced. Bay herring are rather firmer. They come in slowly and have large sale. They are likely to rule high. Pickled shad are scarce. Large pickled herring are a small stock, and quality is but fair. In alewives the market keeps dull; a few have been sold at the low prices, but the larger quantity is held hoping for higher figures. They are all sold for export. Smoked herring are good sellers, particularly for western trade. Quite a quantity have gone to the English market. Bloaters and kippers have steady sale. We quote: Large cod, $3.45 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.65 to $1.75; bay herring, $1.45 to $1.50 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 7½ to 8c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.25 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1; bloaters, 60c. per box; kippers, $1 per box.

PROVISIONS — The market seems easy. The stock of clear pork is still quite large, some old being still here. The sale is not as large as formerly, there being more beef and mess pork used. The latter, which is local packed, is much liked. Beef tends higher. Hams are easier. We quote: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — Prices of flour, particularly Ontario, are rather firmer this week, and dealers show an inclination to buy. Oatmeal is also higher. Stocks are not large, and at shaded prices sales could be made. Oats are in fair sale at firm figures. Cornmeal holds its price. Feed, which is very light stock, is rather more freely offered, and prices are rather lower. Beans are also easier, with market well supplied. Hay continues dull. Barley scarce. Split peas are higher and hard to get. Blue peas are easy. We quote: Manitoba flour, $5.70 to $5.75; best Ontario, $5 to $5.10; medium, $4.80 to $4.85; oatmeal, $3.65 to $3.70; cornmeal, $2 to $2.05; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $16.00 to $16.50; bran, do, $14.50 to $15; hand-picked beans, $1.10 to $1.15; prime, 90c. to $1.00; oats, 34 to 36c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50; barley, $3.15 to $3.25; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.25 to $3.30; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

EFFECT OF THUNDER ON FISH.

MR. R. B. MARSTON, editor of The English Fishing Gazette, who is a close observer of the ways of fishes and one of the best English authorities on angling, says:

"The other day I received a pressing invitation to fish a preserved trout stream, and with great anticipations of sport left London for the West of England by an express, which in a few hours landed me a my destination, where my friend, Mr. C. H. Gorrick, who had invited me to fish, met me. Mr. G. had been having excellent sport in the seven miles of water he preserves. Only an evening or two before he had killed 16 pounds of trout in a couple of hours. I certainly did not like the look of the weather conditions when we commenced fishing, after a capital lunch in the shade of a mill. Heavy steel-blue clouds were gathering all round. The air was oppressively close, and every now and then we could hear thunder in the distance.

"The thundery weather certainly affected the fish, for in the day and a half I fished I did not count half a dozen fish rising steadily. In the long, deep mill dam there was one rise now and then from a roving fish, but very few large fish showed themselves. It was so oppressively hot that my friends, who had traveled all over the world, said it was more like a day in the tropics. I fished hard, simply because I knew he wanted me to take a good sample of his fish, but it was all I could do to get nine trout—not one of them one pound—the first half day, and a friend of Mr. G.'s, who kindly insisted on my fishing first, could do nothing—the fish would not look at anything. Next day Mr. Gorrick and I went over the same excellent water, in which I saw an ample store of trout in the few places where it was shallow enough to see them. There was a slight breeze, though we could hear thunder all day round us, and we hoped for better luck. By working as hard as possible I got three and a half brace of rather large fish, the best being about one and a quarter pounds, but under the existing atmospheric conditions I did not expect to do much. I have had good sport in weather when there has been thunder about, but not often in the early days of a change from cloudless skies to a Turkish bath atmosphere of vapor and heat."

RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

TORONTO.

THE Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their regular monthly meeting on Monday, this week, in St. George's Hall, Elm street, with a very large attendance.

The president, J. S. Bond, was in the chair.

The Purchasing Committee reported progress in the matter of buying as an association.

The committee appointed some time ago to purchase badges for the victorious baseball team reported that they had not done their work, but would do it this week.

Letters were received from the Montreal and the Hamilton associations urging the adoption of resolutions and the securing of signatures to a joint petition to be presented to the Federal Government by delegations from the different associations, asking that all civil servants' salaries shall be garnisheeable. It was decided to co-operate.

MONTREAL.

The regular meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Monument Nationale Hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 4, President Scanlan in the chair. Letters were received from Toronto, Hamilton, London and Quebec associations in reply to theirs asking them to join in trying to have the garnishee law so amended that civil service employes will be on the same footing as other citizens. The other associations expressed their sympathy, and are willing to help in having this old grievance rectified.

The grocers do not want to take the whole amount of an employe's salary. All they ask for is that one-quarter of it be paid to them, and then if he will not come to a settlement the same thing can be done next month.

HOW TO BOIL A HAM.

The following recipe taken from an English exchange will be of interest to delicatessen stores :

How to Boil a Ham.—Soak it in cold water from 6 to 12 hours; place it in a kettle and cover it with cold water; bring it very slowly to a boil; remove the scum and simmer it softly, allowing about 4 lbs. to the hour until the skin can easily be removed. After taking off the skin, replace the ham in the liquor and leave it there until it has become cold, then rasp it in the usual way. If the ham be not probed or cut it will retain all its juices and be very mellow.

VALENCIA RAISINS EASIER.

The Produce Markets' Review, London, in its issue of October 30th says: "The quantity of Valencias offered was largely in excess of the requirements of the trade, and, as might have been expected under such circumstances, a further decline has taken place. This amounts to 1s per cwt. on the lower kinds, and 1s to 2s per cwt. on the medium. What was a few weeks ago an exceedingly strong position has been unfortunately given away and spoilt by the forcing tactics which some few of the holders have adopted, and which have had to be followed by others. The opinions which were held alike by all merchants and dealers have thus been controverted, and the average price of the crop has been brought down to a distinctly lower level than appeared likely, or, indeed, necessary. Everyone must deplore such an unfortunate state of matters, which causes distrust, and interrupts the usual course of business. In the general interest of the article, the dealers and grocers are naturally inclined to go into stock when they regard the fruit as being statistically safe; but all their calculations are of course upset if the holders are, from one cause or another, induced to try to force off more than can fairly be expected to be taken."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 8, 1897.

WHEAT market in the country has had a downward tendency for the past week, in sympathy with the foreign market, except a few points where higher prices have been paid for wheat than can be realized for it. The deliveries are still fairly large, the roads being in almost perfect condition and the farmers very willing to sell. The dealers' great anxiety is the forwarding of wheat to Fort William before the close of navigation, and would much rather there was no more wheat marketed until after the lakes freeze. Markets in all lines of produce continue steady and with good prices. Payments are being well met, and both buyers and sellers seem in a cheerful frame of mind. Very few changes are to be noted in price for the week.

GREEN FRUIT—For the entire summer and fall this trade has been good and has given satisfaction to both the retailer and the jobber, as stocks generally have arrived in good conditon and prices have been very well sustained. From this time on, this market will consist entirely of winter fruits. Winter apples are arriving very freely, both from Ontario and the States. Those from Ontario are mostly Spies, and, though very good, show, as I said before, the effects of the unusually warm fall weather in Ontario. It is generally feared this will depreciate their keeping qualities to some extent, at least. From the south the stock is Ben Davis and Willow Twigs, and it is bright and clean and coming in good condition, but, of course, the flavor is not up to that of Ontario fruit, though it is thought by some dealers that it will this year keep better. Prices are: Canadian, $4 75; southern, $4.25 per barrel, with proportionate discounts for 10-barrel lots.

ORANGES—The early Mexicans were disappointing, but the Jamaicas are a fine sample, heavy, sweet and juicy, and with very thin skins. Jamaicas, in barrels, $13; in cases, $6.50. Lemons—The stocks coming in are all California fruit. The quality first-class, and the price, $5.50. Pears—The only stock coming in is from Washington, and these are selling at $2.25; the quantity is small, and they will soon be out of the market. Bananas are still short, and likely to remain so until the quarantine is over. They are selling at $2.50 to $3 per bunch according to size. Grapes—Fancy Malagas, in kegs, medium weight, $8; heavy weight, $8.50; California tokay, per 4-basket crate, $3. Sweet potatoes, $3.

FISH—A car of Buctouche Bay oysters in shell was received last week and is having a good sale. Finnan haddies are worth $3 per box.

DRIED FRUIT—In this market the only change of interest is the arrival of a carload of Oregon prunes, the first of this product from that state to reach Winnipeg. They are all large sizes, the smallest being 70 to 80's.

CANNED GOODS—Tomatoes keep going up, and it is thought they will reach $2.50 before January, the anticipation of a possibly larger pack than at first indicated not being realized. Peas are stiffer, being now $1.75, with indications of a further rise. In contrast to the canned vegetables all classes of canned fruit are cheap, plentiful and of unusually good quality. Apples, gallon, per case, $2.50; 3-lb. preserved, $2.25; red, white and black cherries, $4 per case; gooseberries, $3.75; thimbleberries, $2.25; plums, Green Gages, Lombards and Egg, $3 per case; pears, 2-lb., $3.25 to $3.50; 3-lb. ditto, $4.50 to $4.75; peaches, 3-lb ditto, $3 to $3.50; pineapples, grated, $5.25; extra dessert, sliced, $5.25; standard, $4; Singapore, 3-lb., $5.25; raspberries, $2.65 to $2.75; strawberries, $3.25 to $3.50.

COFFEE—Slightly easier this last week, there being a drop of 1c. per lb. on price list of Chase & Sanborn.

CHEESE—Market is stiff and steady. The supply in hands of jobbers is small. No further developments as to Ontarios.

BUTTER—Dairy, 17 to 18c. per lb. Supply so far is limited.

EGGS—Are coming in very slowly. Dealers pay 16c., and are selling, after candling, for 18c.

POULTRY—Dealers are paying 10c. for turkeys and 8c. for geese, ducks and chickens.

BUCKWHEAT.

BUCKWHEAT was doubtless so designated because of a resemblance which its seeds bear to the fruit of the beech, and the name by which it is known in Germany (heath-corn) was probably assigned to it because it thrives in sandy soil, where there is an abundance of heath, writes W. H. Suckling in The Practical Baker. The Bohemians call it "Pohanka," from "pohan," signifying a heathen. It is said to have been first introduced into Europe in the sixteenth century, and it was brought thither from Greece and Asia, and that the northern part of Asia is its native home. It was introduced into France in the middle of that century, and became the staple food of the poor. This grain must have been common in many parts of Germany early in the same century; for in a Bible printed in Low German, in 1522, are the words "er saet spelz" (he soweth spelt); in Isaiah, which Luther translated, "he seyet bockwete" he soweth buckwheat). According to Gerard, buckwheat was first cultivated in England, about the year 1597.

A new species of this grain has been made known under the appellation of Siberian buckwheat, which is said to have considerable advantage over the other. It was sent from Tartary to St. Petersburg by German botanists, who traveled through that country in the beginning of the eighteenth century, and has since been disseminated throughout Europe. Linnæus received some seeds from Gerber, the botanist, in 1737, and described the plant in his "Hortus Cliffortianus." In Siberia it sows itself for four or five years by the grains that drop, at the end of which time the land becomes choked with tares, and has to be sown afresh.

The cultivation of buckwheat has never been very extensive in England, owing to the frosts of our spring and the severity of some of our winters. The chief counties in which it is grown to a moderate extent are Norfolk and Suffolk, where it is called "brank." If a small patch is occasionally met with elsewhere, it is usually for the sake of encouraging game, more especially pheasants, which are extremely partial to it.

The seed of the buckwheat is said to be excellent for horses, the flowers for bees and the plant-green for bedding cows, cattle, sheep, or swine. No grain is so eagerly eaten by poultry, or induces so much to egg-laying. The flour is fine and white, but from a deficiency in gluten does not make good fermented bread; it serves well, however, for pastry and cakes, and in Germany and Holland is extensively used, especially by farmers, dressed in a variety of ways—among others as pancakes, which, if eaten hot, are light and pleasant, but become heavy as they cool. A hasty pudding made of the flour with water or milk, and eaten with butter and suger, is considered a very tasty dish, and forms a wholesome meal for children.

FAILURE IN SMYRNA.

The failure at Smyrna is announced of Mr. T. M. P. Mainetty, dried fruit exporter, and it is stated that this gentleman, within a few days before laying down the burden of his debts at the feet of his creditors, made extensive purchases from his competitors, and paid for them with a smile only. His liabilities are estimated at $25,000, and this is said to be the second time he has failed. It is not believed that any Canadians are losers directly by this failure, but there may be some consequential losses, and many congratulations that letters of credit were not issued.

PERSONAL MENTION.

George S. Fenwick, of the wholesale grocery firm of Fenwick, Hendry & Co., Kingston, died on the 7th inst of heart trouble, after a short illness, aged 67.

CULTIVATING GINGER.

ALTHOUGH the ginger plant has generally been considered a native of the hot parts of Africa and Asia, where it has been cultivated from an early period, yet it can be cultivated profitably at elevations of 5,000 feet in the tropics, or any location where the rainfall is abundant, the soil favorable and the temperature does not fall below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. It grows wild in the districts of Huachinango, State of Pueblo, and in the States of Guerrero and Chiapas, Mexico. It is not native to Mexico, but it is said was introduced by Francisco de Mendoza, who took it from the East Indies to New Spain about the year 1540. As early as 1547 considerable quantities were sent from the West Indies to Spain.

Its chief use is as a condiment or spice, and collected, in a green state, washed, scraped and preserved in syrup, it forms a delicious and wholesome preserve. Cut up in pieces like lozenges and preserved in sugar it makes a very agreeable sweetmeat. It is a valuable medicine, its stimulant, aromatic and carminative properties rendering it of much value in dyspepsia, while applied externally it relieves headache and toothache. Remarkable cures of chills and fever are attributed to its use by taking strong doses of the tincture in cold water before the appearance of the chill, and remaining covered up during the sweat that usually follows. In some places in the tropics it is considered the only reliable and infallible specific.

None but the richest and best soils will successfully grow ginger. It will not thrive in sands or clays, or in a dry soil, or in wet lands, but is partial to rich, black vegetable loams, providing they are well drained.

In planting, the soil should be well cleaned, all weeds and rubbish that the plough can cover turned under, the deeper the ploughing the better. March or April are the best months for planting in Mexico or Central America. The soil is raised in ridges, not too high, three or four feet apart, and the cuttings are set about one foot apart in these ridges. It is propagated entirely by divisions of the rhizomes (as the tuberous roots are known), care being taken to leave one shoot, bud or eye on each cutting. Each cutting or eye is planted at a depth of not more than three inches.

The cultivation is similar to the potato. When well-rotted manure is to be had it will pay to scatter it upon the rows and ridge up to it. Leaves, both fresh and half rotten, if strewed over the ground as a mulch, will keep down the weeds, keep the ground moist and cool, and as they rot give nourishment to the plant. Ginger is a crop which will amply repay manuring, in fact, after a few successive years in ginger, one must change to another piece of land unless manure is used. A little plaster is most beneficial.

It is the custom to change the ginger crop after a few years, but this is due more to the fact that in the tropics manuring and fertilizing are comparatively unknown arts. Northern methods applied to tropical crops would often double their yield.

Ginger must be kept well weeded, and cultivators, both horse and hand, are much needed in these countries.

The plant flowers in September and October, when the shoots or tops wither, and it is then the rhizomes make their best growth. By January, according to elevation and climate, the crop is ready to harvest. Harvesting is simple ; the plant is forked out of the soil, care being taken not to injure the "hands" or tubers. The "hands" vary in size, accoring to soil, climate and care in cultivation, but they run from 2 to 4 ounces each. The "hands" are divested of the fibrous roots, cleaned of adhering soil and plunged for a few minutes in boiling water to destroy their vitality and prevent their sprouting. They are then spread out in the sun to dry.

There are two distinct forms of ginger, known in commerce as "coated" and "uncoated." The sun-dried ginger described is the "coated." The "uncoated" ginger is produced by washing, scraping and then sun-drying, and frequently by bleaching with sulphur fumes or an immersion in chlorinated lime. The white-washed appearance that much of the ginger has, as seen in the drug stores, is due to its being washed in whiting and water, or being coated with sulphate of lime. This artificial coating is supposed by some to give the ginger a better appearance. It oftener covers an inferior quality, and can be detected by the ease with which it rubs off, or by its leaving a white powder at the bottom of the jar. The natural color is a pale buff, both outside and inside.

The official report on the returns from the ginger crop are as follows: "When cultivated under favorable conditions, the crops ought to be 4,000 pounds and upwards. The cost of cultivation, harvesting and curing is 1½ to 2c. per pound. The freight to ports in the fertile lands of the valleys of the Gulf Coast of Vera Cruz, Tabasco and Chiapas will not be over $1 per hundredweight, together with the cost of the bags. The price in New York and London fluctuates from 12 to 22c., gold, per pound. Thus, a man having a ten-acre patch would have an annual income of from $5,000 to $7,000."

It will thus be seen by the official statement that an acre will yield from $500 to $700 silver (then at two for one), or $250 to $350 gold. As it is a product entirely for exportation the price of silver does not affect it. As has been said, careful cultivation, and the generous use of manures or fertilizers, should greatly increase the yield, besides large, heavy "rhizomes" or "races" bring the top prices in the markets.

Taken as a whole, there is no single crop the northern farmer can raise which on ten acres will net him $2,500 to $3,500 gold. Besides, a northern farmer, with his thrift, would soon be preserving his ginger and making it into sweetmeats and packing it into the odd styles of Indian jars to be had so cheap and getting fully forty to fifty per cent. advance on the prices of the raw article at a very probable additional expense of fifteen to twenty per cent.

HUSTLING GONE MAD.

A WRITER in The San Francisco Grocer had the following in a recent issue of that publication :

"I remember several years ago spending a few months in the summer at a Southern California seaside resort. It was a typical summer resort—rushing in summer and dead in winter. To say that the grocers helped to keep up the reputation of the town during the summer in this respect would be putting it mildly. The first and last thing that one was reminded of in that town was grocers. Their clerks boarded all incoming trains and immediately began angling for orders. The result was that everybody knew them and what they were after.

"The first day I arrived I was taking a quiet stroll along on the principal promenade there. I was taking in the fresh sea air and my thoughts were far from stores and grocers—when crash ! and a horse and rig tore past me at what seemed less than a two-minute clip. I hadn't even time to recover from my surprise when lo, another crash, and this time I discovered a grocer's delivery wagon also on the dead run. I looked at the cloud of dust which was the only thing that seemed to prove I wasn't dreaming and then at a small boy who came up and said 'that's Mr. B.'s new horse. Mr. A.'s used to be the best, but now Mr. B.'s is knockin' spots out of everything in town.' 'But who is Mr. A. and Mr. B.?' I asked. The boy gave me a most awful stare and said, 'Grocers, of course.'

"After that I asked no more silly questions. Like everyone else, I became familiar with the tactics of the grocers and their order men. Many was the exciting race I saw—not between the two delivery wagons—but between the four all at once, which represented every grocery in town.

"I never evinced any surprise at what I saw. I have seen people stopped on the way to and from church. I have seen ladies while enjoying a bath in the surf called to the edge of the breakers.

"All this and much more I saw, but one thing I will say about these four grocers, and that is—they had good horses."

A WINNIPEG GROCER WEDS.

ACCORDING to The Winnipeg Free Press, a pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Andrew's Church of that city on the 4th inst., when Mr. D. W. McLean, grocer, was married to Miss Christine Galbraith. The interior of the edifice was tastefully decorated with flowers and palms, and was filled with a large gathering of the friends of the young couple, At 10.15 the bridal party arrived at the church, the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Galbraith, of Paisley, Ont., who was present to give his sister away. The bride was dressed in a beautiful satin gown, trimmed with lace and pearls, and wore the conventional bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a large bouquet of white roses. Miss Brown, of Portage la Prairie, was bridesmaid. She wore a white muslin dress, prettily trimmed, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, Mr. McLean was attended by Mr. C. J. Campbell as groomsman. Miss Isley McDonald made a very pretty maid of honor. Rev. Joseph Hogg performed the ceremony, and the wedding march was played at the close by the organist.

After the knot had been tied congratulations were in order, and the guests, which included only the immediate relatives, retired to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. May's residence on Dagmar street, Mrs. May being a sister of the bride, where the wedding breakfast was served, and the time-honored toasts proposed and graciously responded to by the groom and others. At noon the wedding party left for the C. P. R. depot, where the Atlantic express was taken for the east, where the honeymoon will be spent; returning via the States in about three weeks' time. Many beautiful wedding presents were received by the bride, including a set of costly carvers from the commercial travelers of Winnipeg.

BEATS THE MURPHY CRUSADE.

Chicago Grocer: There seems to be quite a rage for establishing beet sugar factories out west—and even east, too—and before many years elapse we shall probably find that the business has been overdone, like fruit-growing in California, which also has been artificially stimulated by the system of robbing Peter to make Paul rich. The Denver Commercial Tribune says:

It will become so, after a while, that every other smoke-stack you see will belong to a beet factory, if half the reports of this industry are to be believed. There are half a dozen factories projected for this state, and on every side we hear of farmers pledging themselves to raise so many thousand bushels of sugar beets. It beats the Francis Murphy crusade all hollow.

ITEMS ABOUT BUSINESS MEN.

W. J. Crawford, formerly in the drug business at Ripley, has just opened out a nice new stock of groceries in that place.

John Hiles, general storekeeper, Dungannon, who adopted the cash system (strictly) four and a halt years ago, says it is a success.

Sanderson Bros., of Wroxeter, who a few months since opened a fine new stock in general lines, report business entirely beyond expectations.

Geo. Stuthers, builder, Dungannon, has purchased the grocery and provision business of J. Morrow of that place. Mr. Morrow goes to Goderich.

Thos. Reid, late of the New York Store, London, has succeeded McCutcheon & Co., at the Checkered Store, corner Dundas and Clarence streets, that city. Mr. Reid, who has had many years of experience in the grocery business, opened up on Saturday morning with an excellent stock of all new groceries.

The grape crop of Pelee Island was very heavy this year. The fruit was all gathered before the frosts, and will mostly be used for making wine. Growers secured from $12 to $15 per ton for the grapes.

ARTHUR P. TIPPET & CO., MONTREAL

HALIFAX CORNER IN HERRING.

EVERYBODY is aware of the great corners that have been made in grain and other produce in the United States, and of the immense fortunes that have been made and lost in these attempts. Halifax has the distinction just now of being the scene of an effort to create a corner in herring, which bids fair to be successful. An average catch of herring for Nova Scotia is about 75,000 barrels. The catch this season has been small, probably not more than 30,000 barrels. Consequently there is an opportunity for a corner—for some merchants or syndicate of merchants to buy up the greater part of the supply, and thus become in a position to dictate the price.

A Halifax firm engaged in the business is actively at work buying up all the herring available. Of the 30,000 barrels, it is said they already have 15,000, stored in different parts of the city. They are paying a good price, generally offering $3, but frequently giving as high as $3.25. They stand to make a good thing by the speculation—if there is no further catch of herring this season. It is a speculation against the chances of no more herring on the coast this year. If none are caught, the price will rise and the firm in question will make a big profit; if the fish strike in, the prices will drop, the corner will be broken, and the firm will be out.

It looks now as if there would be no more herring this year, but the experience of last season was contrary to this. At this time, in 1896, the price of herring was $2.75 per barrel; at the end of the season it was down to $1.25. The catch made at the unusually late period of December was what brought the price down.

It will be seen, therefore, that the firm thus making a herring corner has taken a risk against a further catch either in this month or in December.

The Coast Guard of yesterday says:

"The largest haul of herring for this season at Cape Negro Island was made on Monday night."

The paper adds in another paragraph:

"The herring fishery at this place has far exceeded in volume and value the output of any previous year. The run of fish was large and steady withal, and the continued moderate weather was in the highest degree favorable to netting operations. Fishermen thought they would do well if they secured enough for lobster bait. Fully 8,500 bbls. have been taken here, nearly half of which has been reserved for the purpose. About 5,500 bbls. have been sold, principally in Halifax, at an average price of $3 for large. These shippings have cleared in the aggregate $10,000.—Herald, Halifax.

SUGAR GOES TO THE BOTTOM.

The sugar-laden ship John McLeod, from Idoilo for Halifax, with a cargo worth $90,000 for the Acadia Refining Co., struck the rocks off Sambro on Saturday and sank stern first. The crew got off, and not any too soon. The cargo was insured to nearly its full value.

The ship, which was worth $25,000, was owned by J. W. Purdy, St. John, the captain and others, and was not insured. The ship was 1,590 tons register.

TEA ADULTERATED WITH STRAW.

Owing to the fact that a sample of tea purchased in his store was discovered to be 90 per cent. charred straw, the manager of the Peoples' Tea and Spice Co., of Cincinnati has been arrested by order of the Food and Dairy Department. Pity the culprit did not put in another 10 per cent. of straw. The goods would then have been pure—straw.—Merchants' Review.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

Vol. XI. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 19, 1897 ($2.00 per Year) No. 47

THE YOUNG GROCER'S START.

MANY hundreds of young men receive their diplomas in June and go forth to battle with the world, says The Boston Herald. For most of them the all-important question is: "How shall I succeed in business, and what line of business shall I choose?"

There seems to be very little room in the professions, except at the top, and the top may not be reached by every man. Agriculture, in some parts of the country, offers a fair field for executive ability and brains, but the average college man, after he has received his degree, looks askance at a farmer's life. He prefers to form a part of the bustle and excitement of a small city, even at the smallest of salaries, rather than to seek a competency in the country.

If the young man feels that he has not sufficient application to become a good doctor, or a sufficiently clear brain to become a lawyer, or enough taste for mathematics to enjoy the career of a civil engineer, or the moral qualities which would fit him for the ministry, he turns his attention to the world of general business.

If he cannot have a position with his father, and if he has or can command a hundred or two in cash, he looks about for something to do which will make him his own master. One young man decided to go into the grocery business in a small way. He had a very small capital, and was absolutely without experience, but he argued that he would succeed on the ground that "people must eat." There was, he knew, always a demand for groceries, and he believed that politeness and a tastefully arranged stock would carry him through until such times as he had a personal knowledge of the details of the business.

He sought out a locality which was not fashionable, but where a great many people were congregated within a small space, and he succeeded in leasing a corner store of minute dimensions.

Having the store, the question arose what to put in it. He called on a member of a big retail establishment and asked for advice. He was told that he would have to go to some wholesale grocer, and that there he would get both advice and stock, that the latter would be expensive, and that the former might be, unless he went to the right sort of a place.

The young man was fortunate in being introduced to the head of a wholesale firm which was noted for its integrity as well as its liberality. The senior partner listened to the young man's story and then summoned a grocery jobber.

The jobber explained to the candidate for grocery honors just what steps would be necessary to establish the latter in business.

"Ever had any experience in the grocery business?" asked the jobber.

"None whatever," was the reply.

"That's bad," said the jobber. "However, you seem to be a bright man, and if you will let me handle the business for you until you get fairly started, I fancy we can make a go of it."

The young man explained that he had a store, and explained the kind of locality in which it was situated. Then he asked the jobber what was the first step to be taken.

He was told that, in order to get his stock, he would have to pay cash on first orders. "Of course," said the jobber, "there are firms which, if you could satisfy them as to your honesty and good intentions, would stock your store and take their own chances, but none of the best firms will do business that way. We always demand cash for first orders, and it will cost you about $500 to open your store. After you get your first stock, we shall be willing to trust you for goods to the extent of about two-thirds the value of your stock. Now, I don't want to discourage you, but I might just as well tell you now that, unless you get acquainted with the business before you start on your own hook, there is but little probability of your success. Still, I have known inexperienced men to succeed when they employed a clerk who was thoroughly familiar with groceries.

"If you want to learn the business before you venture your capital, you can get a working knowledge in a year, but you will spend the next twenty years in learning how much there is that you don't know.

"If you go in for yourself at once, it will, as I have already said, cost you about $500 for your first stock. After that we will sell you goods on 30 days' time, and give you 1 per cent. discount for cash paid within 10 days.

"If your capital invested is, say $600, you ought to have receipts of $50 a day, to make the thing pay. And you would have to do a cash business. You couldn't give long credits to your customers. You couldn't follow the custom of many of the large dealers and have twice as much on your books as in your safe.

"Supposing you think that you can't afford to hire an experienced clerk, then you must find some salesman connected with a wholesale house in whom you feel perfect confidence and on whose judgment you can rely.

"In nine cases out of ten, this salesman, if you choose him with care, will work for your interests because in so doing he is working for his own. He knows that if he cheats you in the beginning, you will find it out, when you have gained some experience for yourself, and, that it will then be impossible for him to retain you as a customer.

"For a man without experience, even when he is assisted by a good salesman,

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH AND THE SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH

there is but one chance of success, and that lies in the way in which he manages his store. If he has neat clerks, even though they know little about the business, and if his bundles are always carefully done up, and if his goods are always kept free from dust and are artistically and attractively arranged, and if his floor and windows are always scrupulously clean, it is very probable that all the women in the neighborhood will gradually come to patronize the new store.

"You ought to number at least 100 families among your customers if you expect to make money. Yon can't very well do business with a fewer number. For a family of five persons the average bill for groceries is $256 a year.

"It doesn't make much difference what kind of people your customers are, provided they possess an average amount of respectability. It will pay you to get the best groceries, for the difference in cost between the best and the poorest wouldn't be more than two per cent. Rather than try to add this small amount to his profits, it would pay a man better to put it into his service."

The jobber gave the young man true and wise advice regarding the establishment of a small grocery, but the large retail concerns are managed in quite a different way. Some of the largest ones have a capital invested of a good deal more than half a million, and each keeps a private stable, in which are kept perhaps a hundred horses, used in delivering goods. Such an establishment carries an enormous stock, which is stored in a warehouse of many storeys.

The customers are drawn from Europe as well as from America, and the goods for sale come from every part of the civilized globe. In a sense, a modern large grocery store is a sort of a museum, in which are displayed samples of the food products of the world. There are teas from Ceylon, China, India and Japan; coffees from Java; sugars from Paris and elsewhere; oatmeal from Ireland and Scotland; rice from Japan and the Southern States and from France; gelatine from Germany; mustard from England; nutmegs from Singapore and Java; and spices from the East Indies; cream tartar from Bordeaux; vanilla beans from Mexico; chocolate from South America and Venezuela; raisins from Spain, California and France; currants from Greece; citrons and lemons from Italy; dates from Persia and Arabia; prunes from Bordeaux, California and Wiesbaden; grape fruit from Jamaica and Florida; nuts from South America, New Orleans, Texas, California and Naples; lichis from China; chestnuts from Italy, and a host of other things from all points of the compass. The stock of a large grocery is purchased generally through the American agents of foreign firms.

Comparatively few people know that all the cream tartar, or practically all, that is used in the world comes from Bordeaux, and that it is the ground crystals which form on the sides of wine casks.

The Wiltshire ham has long been celebrated for the fineness of its flavor, but the modern Wiltshire is not generally the Wiltshire of the past. In the old days these hams were hung by the English farmers in the chimneys of their houses. The peculiar flavor was caused by burning oak chips from the cooper shops in the fireplaces.

Many a man who eats Roquefort cheese with his dinner is ignorant as to just where the cheese comes from and how it is made. It is the product of sheep's milk, and, after the cheese is formed, it is placed in one of the famous caves at Roquefort, where the temperature is kept at about 40 degrees, and where there is a moisture in the air that is supposed to come from some subterranean sea which has openings into the caves. The Brie cheese is also dependent upon a cave for its perfection. It is believed to have been in use since the second century. The odorous Limburger of Holland is consumed in enormous quantities in France, and England comes second in the list. It has been said that there are no less than 213 distinct kinds of cheese made in Europe and America.

Truffles, which grow wild in the ground in France, are hunted with dogs, the dog being trained to scent a truffle as it would a woodchuck.

In a modern grocery store one may find no less than 100 different kinds of mineral waters, not to speak of cigars and confectionery, and stove polish and matches.

MONEY IN MANITOBA.

From the best information obtainable it is calculated that at least 12,000,000 bushels of wheat have been marketed to date this fall by the farmers of the province and Territories. This should mean that about $9,000,000 has been placed in the hands of the wheat raisers in the Canadian west. The receipts at Fort William were 5,364,000 bushels during September and October, and the shipments during the same period were 4,306,000 bushels. This is the largest movement of wheat during those months to Fort William in the history of the Canadian Pacific line. The number of bushels of wheat in store at interior elevators is placed at 5,000,000.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

A GROCER'S JOKE.

A Bath, Me., grocer recently perpetrated what he supposed to be a practical joke on a competitor, and sent him, according to an exchange, a communication informing him that the master of a certain vessel in port desired to see him. His purpose was to put his competitor to a little trouble, and then laugh at him. Taking the letter for a genuine communication, the grocer called on the master of the vessel, and though informed that the letter was not genuine, he found the captain in a mood to lay in some supplies, as he was about starting on a voyage, and sold him $3,000 worth of goods for cash and delivered them. When the joke leaked out it was, in the opinion of the man who wrote the fictitious letter, not so much of a joke.

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Dried Fruit Window.

Swan Bros., King street east, have the first window display of foreign dried fruits I have seen this season, and it is an excellent one. The display in shape is like a cone cut in four from top to bottom, and one quarter shown. The bottom is of currants, seedless and ordinary raisins in bulk. Above these are boxes of raisins and currants, then prunes in glass jars and boxes, then figs and citron, lemons and orange peel, and above these are 1-lb. boxes of dried apricots and peaches. Everything is clean and fresh-looking, and as the back of the window is of glass no dust can reach the display from the store.

Sawdust on the Floors.

There is quite a difference of opinion among retailers in regard to the advantage or disadvantage of sawdust on the floor of grocery stores. For the store where there is much walking (consequently much dirt coming into the store) the general verdict seems to be in favor of the sawdust. When put on about three times a week it is always cleanly in appearance, and keeps the floor clean for a great length of time, besides minimizing the rising of dust. Behind the counter it is especially useful, mixing up with paper, sugar, etc., that falls from the counter. Sawdust behind the counter should be swept out every morning.

Buying Goods.

In those parts of Toronto where cutting is carried on to the greatest extent, it generally follows that the worst price-cutters are shrewd buyers. They see how even ¼c. per lb. difference in price will attract or lose customers, so are ever on the lookout to secure the closest prices obtainable. One dealer, in speaking of cutting, made the remark that his neighbor was selling below cost. On enquiry this neighbor told me that he never sold anything below cost. Said he, "There is a class of people always looking for a snap, a bargain, and in order to satisfy these people I watch the markets, and there is always something offered by one wholesale or another that will catch these people, and I get pretty nearly everything I cut this way. If it is cheap, but not up to the standard, I would have it for general sale. I always tell my 'sensible' customers just what it is. As for the bargain-hunters, I leave it to themselves—their trade is not worth the risk of telling them that cheap goods are not always the best." This man says that a clerk is no good that cannot tell the difference between a bargain-hunter and a "sensible" customer.

Good Tea Display.

Michie & Co. have in their window this week a unique display of their teas. They have had made for their trade 1-lb. tea caddies, about six inches high and four inches wide. These caddies are lined with air-tight tinfoil, with a neat tin lid fitting neatly into the top. The outside of the caddies is of paper, neatly printed in combinations of such colors as light green, light and dark blue, pink and red. Michie & Co. cater to the trade of those who are willing to pay the price for the best goods, and the values of the teas shown in these packages range from 30c. per lb. to as high as $1 per lb. These caddies are displayed in pyramidal rows, the variety of shades in them creating a pretty effect. In the front of the window is a row of caddies, opened to display the variety of blends offered for sale.

THE RAMBLER.

BUSINESS ON KLONDIKE ACCOUNT.

The Hudson's Bay Co. is besieged with enquiries from persons desiring of going to Klondike by the routes familiar to the officials and servants of the company. Many persons are writing from United States cities, and from all indications a very large business in outfitting will be done this winter and spring by Canadian firms. A number of parties are being organized in the province to go out as soon as the trip is feasible.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

ARCTIC FRUITS.

IN spite of the latitude and the Arctic current, Labrador is the home of much that is delicious in the berry world, remarks an exchange. Even the outlying islands furnish the curlewberry and bake apple in profusion; and upon the mainland, in the proper month, September, a veritable feast awaits one.

There are three varieties of blueberries, huckleberries, wild red currants, having a pungent aromatic flavor, unequalled by the cultivated varieties; marshberries, raspberries, tiny white capillaire teaberries, with a flavor like some rare perfume, and having just a faint suggestion of wintergreen; squashberries, pearberries and curlewberries, the latter not so grateful as the others, but a prime favorite with the Eskimos, who prefer them to almost any other; and lastly, the typical Labrador fruit, which, excepting a few scattering plants in Canada and Newfoundland, is found no where else outside of the peninsula—the gorgeous bake apple.

These cover the entire coast from the St. Lawrence to Ungava. Their beautiful geranium-like leaves struggle with the reindeer moss upon the islands, carpet alike the low valleys and the highest hilltops, and even peep from banks of everlasting snow. Only one berry grows upon each plant, but this one makes a most delicious mouthful. It is the size and form of a large dewberry, but the color is a bright crimson when half ripe and a golden yellow when matured. Its taste is sweetly acid.

THE above association held their regular meeting on Nov. 9. The attendance was up to the average, but not as large as should be. Communications from Montreal and Hamilton re petitioning Legislature in regard to the Garnishee Act were read, and the secretary was instructed to acknowledge the same and inform them that this association is heartily in sympathy with the movement, and would suggest that a petition be circulated at the same time asking for an amendment in the Act relating to inspection of weights and measures. The present system of charging fees is unjust, as the tax falls on the dealers, while the inspection is supposed to be in the interest of the public generally.

It was duly moved and seconded that the secretary prepare petitions asking the Legislative Assembly to amend the Garnishee Act and also place inspectors of weights and measures on salary paid from the general fund instead of collecting fees as at present. It was further resolved to ask all associations to co-operate. Carried.

The president called for election of officers, when the following were elected as the officers for the ensuing year :

President, R. A. Jones.
Vice-President, R. H. Cullis.
Treasurer, W. H. Branton.
Secretary, E. Sutton.
Guard, Mr. F. Ward.
Directors.—J. C. Trebilcock, T. A. Rowat, N. McLeod and R. W. Rolston.
Auditors, T. A. Rowat and J. C. Trebilcock.

Mr. T. Rowat remarked that he had been for some time past considering something that he thought would be a benefit to this association and the citizens generally. He felt that the association had not made the progress it should ; there should be more life in it. The picnics and "at homes" have been successful, but he thought a pure food exhibit, similar to those being held in other cities, would be more beneficial. It was moved that Mr. Rowat and the past president, Mr. W. H. Ferguson, be a deputation to attend the Pure Food Exhibit at Toronto and obtain information respecting conducting such an exhibition.

Mr. T. A. Rowat remarked that he had just one more motion to make. He would move that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Harley, the retiring president. He felt that Mr. Harley had performed his duty as president faithfully, and while the association had not made as much progress during the past year it was no fault of his. The motion carried unanimously.

Mr. Harley replied, saying he would like to see the members take a more lively interest in the work of the association, and he hoped that the new president would be able to make the association more of a success this coming year. He said that if the members would take hold there would be no doubt of the success desired being assured.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on December 7.

SETTLING THE BOY'S CAREER.

An old Dutchman had a beautiful boy, of whom he was very proud, and he decided to find out the bent of his mind. He adopted a very novel method by which to test him. He slipped into the little fellow's room one morning and placed on his table a Bible, a bottle of whiskey and a silver dollar.

"Now," said he, "ven dot boy comes in, ef he dakes dot dollar, he's goin' to be a beesniz man ; ef he dakes dot Bible, he'll be a breacher ; et he dakes dot whiskey, he's no goot—he's goin' to be a drunkart," and he hid behind the door to see which his son would choose.

In came the boy, whistling, He ran up to the table and picked up the dollar and put it in his pocket ; he picked up the Bible and put it under his arm ; then he snatched up the bottle of whiskey and took two or three drinks and went out smacking his lips. The old Dutchman poked his head out from behind the door and exclaimed :

"Mein gracious ! he's goin' to be a bolitician."—Tit-Bits.

WESTERN FIRMS AMALGAMATE.

Thos. Marks & Co., Geo. Clavet and Dobie & Co., all carrying on business separate at Port Arthur, Ont., until recently, have formed a joint stock company under the name of the Marks, Clavet, Dobie Co., Limited, and in future will conduct a wholesale and retail hardware and grocery business, and in order to secure a fair share of the trade of the great mining district of Northern Algoma have placed a traveler on the road who will look after the company's interest from White River to Rat Portage.

If business experience counts for anything the new firm should be successful, as Mr. Marks, the president, has been in business 40 years ; Mr. Clavet, the managing director 25 years ; Mr. J. C. Dobie, the junior member, has conducted a successful business for a number of years, and Mr. Hourigan, the secretary and accountant, has been in the employ of the Ontario Bank for 11 years.

Last week THE CANADIAN GROCER called on the new firm, and, in conversation with the managing director, learned that it was their intention to buy in large quantities from manufacturers, etc., and to buy for cash only.

A DINNER TABLE IN JERUSALEM.

An American traveling in Jerusalem describes in The Hartford Courant a dinner he recently ate in Jericho. "We sat down on the porch of the hotel," he says, "after a dinner at which we were served with butter from Norway, cheese from Switzerland, marmalade from London, wine from Jerusalem diluted with water from the well of Elisha, raisins from Ramoth Gilead, oranges from Jericho (in no respect inferior to those from Jaffa or the Indian River, Florida), and almonds from the east of the Jordan, smoking Turkish tobacco, which, like the Turkish Empire, is inferior to its reputation, and a cup of coffee from—the corner grocery of Jericho."

CANADA'S WINTER PORTS.

DURING the course of an article on trade relations between Canada and the United States The N.Y. Journal of Commerce a few days ago made the extraordinary statement that in the winter months Canada can reach the sea only through the ports of the United States.

We take it for granted that our contemporary had reference only to the Atlantic coast, for on the Pacific coast of the Dominion there is no more winter than there is in the south of England. But it surely could not have been thinking what it was saying when it asserted that Canada was dependent upon the United States for an outlet to the Atlantic during the winter months. The Journal of Commerce has always been most fair in its treatment of Canada and we can explain its divergence from the truth in no other way.

But whatever may be the reason, to make such a sweeping assertion is inexcusable. As winter ports St. John, N.B., and Halifax, N.S., have been well-known for scores of years, and even in the columns of our contemporary items regarding these places as such have from time to time appeared.

We have not to hand at the moment the figures relative to the winter shipping trade of the two ports, but it is large. The steamship lines, however, which regularly run out of St. John and Halifax during the winter demonstrates that these ports are of no small importance.

From St. John the Beaver line gives a weekly winter service to Liverpool, the first boat sailing on December 8th. The boats of this line and their tonnage are: Gallia, about 6,400 tons cargo measurement; Lake Ontario, 4,660 tons; Lake Superior, 4,900 tons; Lake Huron, 4,100 tons; Lake Winnipeg, 2,300 tons. Then there is the Donaldson line with a fortnightly service to Glasgow, the Alcides, 4,500 tons; the Concordia, 4,500 tons, and the Keemun, 4,376 tons. The Allan line runs a fortnightly service to London, and the Head line a fortnightly service to Dublin and Belfast, while another line is being organized to run to Aberdeen and Newcastle. Then there is the Pickford and Black line to Bermuda, West Indies and Demerara, running monthly.

From Halifax there is the Furniss line to London. This is a fortnightly service. The boats of the Canada and Newfoundland Steamship Co. sail from Halifax for Liverpool via St. John's, Newfoundland, and arrangements are being made for running a direct line of steamers through from Halifax to Manchester, the first boat to sail early in December. The steamers of the Red Cross line ply regularly between Halifax and St. John's, Newfoundland, the year round. The Coastal is another line which runs to Newfoundland. Halifax is, of course, one of the winter ports of call for the Allan line, and out of this same port also regularly run the steamers of the Pickford and Black line to Bermuda, Turk's Island, Jamaica, St. Thomas, St. Croix, St. Kitts, Dominica, Martinique, St. Lucia, Barbadoes, Trinidad and Demerara.

In addition to the lines enumerated there are others which either make Halifax or St. John terminal ports or ports of call during the winter months, but we have gone quite enough into details to prove our case, if proof at all was necessary.

If there were not rivals in business there would be fewer survivals. Competition is the life of trade.

NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE.

On account of Thursday, the 25th inst., being Thanksgiving Day, THE CANADIAN GROCER of next week will go to press one day earlier than usual. Advertisers and others who may have copy for next week's issue will kindly govern themselves accordingly.

A TREATY WITH THE STATES?

THE value to Canada of a reciprocity treaty with the United States is not nearly as great as it was even five years ago.

Up to the time of the going into operation of the McKinley Tariff a good many people in Canada thought that with the higher tariff ruling against goods which the Dominion exported largely to the United States the country had received a blow commercially which threatened to produce dire consequences.

Everybody knows that the blow neither killed nor "nearly killed father." The worst it did was to compel us to seek markets elsewhere. And, what is more, we sought and found, with the result that our exports to all countries of goods the product of Canada were in 1896 over 30 per cent. larger than in 1890, when the McKinley Tariff went into force. Canadians will, therefore, always look back upon the McKinley Tariff as a sort of blessing in disguise.

Of course in the matter of breadstuffs the British market is more to us than the United States market ever can be. Great Britain, for instance, last year took $5,677,637 worth against $40,424 worth by the United States. In oats and peas the greater quantity also went to Great Britain. In barley, of course, we were all undone by the McKinley Tariff. We did try what we could do with Great Britain in this particular cereal, but, partly due to our own carelessness, our efforts were futile. And in spite of the almost prohibitive tariff, the United States is still our largest customer for barley, last year taking $297,438 worth against $15,483 worth by Great Britain. How enormous has been the decline in the exports of barley to the United States may be gathered from the fact that in 1890, the year the McKinley Tariff went into force, we shipped to that country $4,582,562 worth, while in one year the figures reach $7,000,000. Of flour we sent but $10,428 worth to the United States compared with $347,685 worth to Great Britain.

In horses, cattle, sheep and swine, the British market is incomparably better for us, our exports to Great Britain in any one of the class of animals enumerated exceeding those of the others to the United States put together. Of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, all told, Canada did not last year export one million dollars' worth to the United States, while to Great Britain we sent over 10¼ million dollars' worth.

Exports of canned meats and all other meats also go nearly altogether to the Mother Country. It is the same with butter, while of course with cheese there is practically no comparison, Great Britain taking nearly fourteen million dollars' worth in 1896 against $10,359 worth by the United States. Our chief market for apples, dried or green, is also in Great Britain.

In manufactured goods the exports of the Dominion to the two countries are about equal.

As a market for fresh fish the advantage of course is with the United States, but the quantity of canned salmon and lobster we export to Great Britain is so much larger that the total value last year of the exports of the product of the fisheries was $4,462,002 to the latter and $3,301,671 to the former country. It may be noted that in 1890 the quantity we exported to Great Britain was valued at $2,707,422 and to the United States at $2,850,528.

Next to animals and their products, the most important class of our exports is that known as products of the forest. Here the difference between the quantities taken by the two countries is not great, Great Britain in 1896 taking $12,186,806 worth and the United States $13,528,047. In 1890 the figures were $14,098,865 and $10,247,640 respectively.

As to minerals, the market for them, at present at any rate, is decidedly the United States, our exports in 1896 being $175,512 worth to Great Britain and $7,437,814 worth to the United States. Of the latter total nearly three million dollars' worth was coal.

On all the articles we now export chiefly to the United States the Dingley Tariff imposes higher duties, and it is, of course, in regard to these lines that Canadians are most concerned. Naturally there is some concern in regard to animals and their products and agricultural products, but as we send of the one $32,523,071 worth to Great Britain against $3,341,275 worth to the United States, and of the other $9,551,316 to Great Britain and $3,232,793 worth to the United States, it is evident we have not so much to fear from hostile tariffs. We are beginning to realize that in these particulars they have about done their worst.

It is evident, therefore, that Canada is more interested in getting a freer market in the United States for coal, lumber, fish and barley than anything else, although its extension to animals and their produce and agricultural produce generally would by all means be welcome. It is worthy of note that The Toronto Globe on Monday authoritatively stated that the conference would discuss the abolition by the two countries of the duty on coal, lumber, barley, eggs, fish, potatoes and hay.

But it is one thing to want and another thing to get what we want. Canada has importuned the United States until she is no longer in the spirit to importune. We are told that the present tete-a-tete at Washington is the result of an agreement arrived at in London last summer between Lord Salisbury, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Gen. Foster, the American Seal Commissioner. THE CANADIAN GROCER hopes it is.

But whoever made the advances, it is to be hoped that some sort of a reciprocity treaty will be secured, although it must not compromise us in the position we have taken in regard to Great Britain. Frankly we have little faith in the consummation of a treaty at present. The McKinley Administration may be favorable, but it is questionable whether the Senate will be. If that body has outlived its prejudice in regard to Canada we shall be only too glad to learn it. But Canadians generally are just now doubting Thomases.

With blood the same, language the same, Canada and the United States should not only be on friendlier terms than they now are, but they should also deal more freely with each other.

The only thing in Canada that has not reason for thankfulness this Thanksgiving Day is the turkey.

A HEAVY PEDLARS' TAX.

Moncton, N.B., has adopted a by-law taxing pedlars $8 per day, $15 per week, $45 per month or $80 a year. This does not apply to commercial travelers representing manufacturers or wholesale merchants selling to the retail trade.

HAVE REASON TO BE THANKFUL.

CANADIANS have often had good reason to be thankful, but during this coming Thanksgiving Day they have probably more reason than ever for so being.

Not only has our country been blessed with abundant crops, but in many other ways as well.

The year 1897 will undoubtedly be looked upon as a memorial one in Canadian history. In Great Britain, in the United States, in fact the civilized world over, Canada has in a few months assumed a prominence which one would have imagined would have taken years instead of months to accomplish.

The Klondike is in everybody's mouth in nearly every quarter of the globe, while the Kootenay and Northern Ontario gold fields are receiving scarcely less prominence.

As a field for agricultural settlers Manitoba and the Northwest Territories are at last being estimated at their proper value, not only in Europe but in the United States as well.

The exports the present year are the largest we ever had, and new markets are being opened up for Canadian fruit in Great Britain.

Canada can afford to be liberal in its thanksgiving and free in its disposal of turkey on Thursday next.

EVIDENCES OF BETTER TIMES.

The clearings at the Toronto banks last week aggregated $9,101,462, against $8,449,205 the same week last year and $6,573,720 the same week in 1895. In Winnipeg the clearings were $3,578,281 against $2,174,127 the same week last year and $1,981,395 in 1895. In Montreal the clearings were $15,099,019 against $13,462,176 in 1896 and $14,803,751 the same week in 1895.

The earnings of the Grand Trunk the first week in November were $521,770, against $486,913 the corresponding week of 1896, and the earnings of the Canadian Pacific were $627,000 against $522,000 last year.

The clearing houses and the railways are the recognized barometers of trade, and it needs no translation in order to understand their present reading.

ABOLITION OF SUGAR BOUNTIES.

A CABLE from London under date of the 15th instant, states that negotiations are pending between Austria, France and Germany in regard to the opportuneness of convening an international conference to secure a general agreement for the diminution or abolition of the sugar bounties.

This news will be received with pleasure by the sugar cane growers of the British West Indies.

It will be remembered that the Royal Commission appointed by the British Government to investigate the condition of the sugar industry submitted its report about six weeks ago.

The finding of this report was to the effect that the sugar industry in these islands was in danger of practical extinction. St. Vincent, Antigua, St. Kitts-Nevis, Dominica, Montserrat, Barbadoes, British Guiana and possibly St. Lucia and Trinidad all required assistance.

The cause of the deplorable condition of the sugar industry was ascribed to the "competition of other sugar-producing countries, and in a special degree to the competition of beet sugar produced under a system of bounties."

The commission consisted of Sir Henry Norman, Sir Edward Grey and Sir David Barbour, and while all agreed that the condition of the colonies, on account of the threatened destruction of their chief industry, was such as to demand assistance from the British Government, yet they were not so unanimous as to ways and means of rendering this assistance.

Sir Henry Norman's plan was to impose countervailing duties on bounty-aided sugar brought into the United Kingdom, but his fellow commissioners opposed this and favored financial aid from the Imperial Exchequer. All three, however, agreed that small plots of land should be provided for the laborers, that minor agricultural industries should be established and that steps should be taken to encourage an export trade in fruits to New York and London.

As far as we can gather from our exchanges the report by no means gives general satisfaction. If a countervailing duty is placed on bounty-fed sugar, remarks one authority, the jams, jelly and confectionery trades of the United Kingdom will be injuriously affected. But it is worthy of note that the Messrs. Keiller, of Dundee, and Gray, of Glasgow, both large manufacturers of jams and jellies, state that a countervailing duty would not interfere with their trade.

A Greenock paper, referring to the land grant proposition, asserts it cannot last. "The British purse is a long and a full one," it adds, "but it will soon be appreciably emptied if it has to fill the coffers of the planters, and, perhaps, keep the population from starving."

The idea of a countervailing duty finds favor with a great many as being the most practical way out of the difficulty, but in view of the strong free trade sentiment in the United Kingdom, few, if any, appear to have the courage to champion it.

If the negotiations said to be pending between Austria, Germany and France are successful the gordian knot will be severed and the British people delivered from their present dilemma which appears to have been increased rather than decreased by the report of the Royal Commission.

The bounties granted by France amount to £4 10s. per ton and to £1 5s. and £1 15s. in Germany. And they are getting burdensome to the people who give them as well as destructive to the people in the West Indies who suffer from them.

REMOVE THE FLY SPECKS.

The summer is ended and the flies which have made their home in the store of many a grocer are gone, but in a store here and there are still to be seen in profusion, on goods, shelving, show cases, windows and gas and lamp fixtures, the specks which they left behind them.

All the care in the world will not prevent flies from leaving their trade mark in grocery stores, but there would be fewer of these marks if more care had been exercised. Now, however, is the time to have removed these unsightly marks, and everything put into apple-pie order for the holiday trade.

THE DEER SEASON.

As, according to the Ontario Game Laws, it is unlawful to shoot deer after the 15th inst., and, as it is unlawful to transport or have in possession for that purpose any deer or raw skin thereof after the 22nd inst., it would be advisable to have all deer marketed as quickly as possible.

ADVANCE IN DRIED APPLES.

THE short apple crop this year has not only affected the price of green apples, causing fancy prices to be paid for them in the west, but it has naturally been instrumental in sending prices on other apple preparations higher.

This was evidenced this week when wholesale grocers in Montreal, who tried to procure fresh supplies of both dried and evaporated apples, were asked an advance of from 3 to 3½c. per pound on both descriptions of stock.

In one case a commission house, which had an order to fill, asked for a price from a country holder. The latter replied that he had not fixed on a figure, but that he considered his stock very good property as matters were at present. The broker made him a bid of 8c. for the evaporated and 5c. for the dried, but did not get the goods as the seller replied that he had already refused a bid of 8¼c. for his evaporated apples, because he believed that they were worth 9c.

This, of course, is an extreme view, but it is admitted at the same time among the trade in Montreal that dried and evaporated apples occupy an entirely different position this fall to what they did last. In 1896 both kinds of goods were a drug on the market owing to the enormous crops of green apples and the heavy daily receipts of other green fruit. This fall the shortage of the apple crop has been notorious, and while other green fruit has been plentiful, it is but natural to expect that the former circumstance will afford a more profitable outlet for the stocks of dried and evaporated goods carried throughout the country. The supplies of the latter also, owing to the highly unprofitable experiences of the past few seasons, are much lighter than is customary.

But it is not only dried apples that show an advancing tendency. Jobbers consider that their stocks of gallon apples are going to be highly profitable goods this season, and are asking from 20 to 25c. advance for them in the majority of instances.

According to the annual report of the Acadia sugar refinery, the loss for the year ending September 30, 1897, was $21,082.19. Competition and a decline in value of sugar are the causes ascribed for the loss.

SLUMP IN COFFEE.

PRICES of Brazil coffees are now ruling at about the lowest figures in the history of the trade. In December, 1882, Feburary delivery sold at 5.24c. Since that date until the current year the range has been between 6⅞c. and 19c. During this year, however, there has been a gradual decline and on the 9th inst., November was quoted on the Exchange at 4.45 to 4.60c. Since then the Exchange differences between No. 7 (the basis) and the other grades have been reduced, owing to the abundance of high grade coffees in the present crop, with the result that the November option has resumed a relatively more normal quotation, the closing figures yesterday being 5.50 to 5.60c. The matter of "differences" should be borne in mind while comparing Exchange quotations, as while the low record above quoted is over 60 points under that of December, 1882, the actual price of No. 7 coffee in the open market was somewhat higher than that ruling at the earlier date.

Mr. Herman Sielcken, of W. H. Crossman & Bro., said: "The decline is the result of a coffee production greater than the consumption. The quality of this crop in both Rio and Santos is the best that we have seen for twelve or fourteen years. The average is better than any crops, except the large ones of 1881-82 and 1882-83. It is proof positive that it is the product of young trees and not old trees. The quality of the old trees was so poor that during the years of 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, any coffee grading better than No. 7 commanded a heavy premium and resulted in the high differences made on the Coffee Exchange last year. The quality of this crop was certainly not expected by anybody. On the basis of the receipts up to date nobody can figure less than 5,250,000 to 5,500,000 bags Santos and 4,000,000 to 4,250,000 bags Rio. From two parties in Santos estimates have been received that the growing Santos crop is as large as 6,000,000 bags. In one case it was estimated that, including the new crop coffee, which comes in during May and June, the receipts for the 12 months could not be figured at less than 6,000,000 bags. And while this is a very high figure, actual receipts so far argue strongly in its favor. The coming crop has been estimated as high as 6,500,000 bags for Santos and 4,000,000 bags for Rio. And for the present crop, as there are new trees and a large number that will bear fruit for the first time next year, it does not seem so unreasonable. It will certainly, I should say, insure low prices for a long time to come."

The following may be accepted as the joint statement of two of the largest receivers. It was dictated by one and endorsed by the other:

"The decline in prices has resulted from two consecutive large crops and the promise of a third. The decline was started by the large crop in Brazil last year. The crop of Rio and Santos amounted to 8,680,000 bags, and receipts at Rio and Santos up to date during the present crop year, which began July 1, amount to about 5,800,000 bags, against 4,400,000 bags during the corresponding period last year, which receipts were the largest ever known. The previous largest crop was 7,397,000 bags in 1891-2. Intervening crops were 5,476,000 bags for 1895-6; 6,695,000 bags for 1894-5; 4,309,000 bags for 1893-4, and 6,202,000 bags in 1892-3. The current crop should be about 10,000,000 bags, if the receipts from this time forward equal those of last year. The receipts for the past seven years have averaged about 3,350,000 bags from this time until the end of the season, and the average of the crops during the same period has been 6,300,000 bags. With receipts no greater for the remainder of the season than the average already named (3,350,000 bags) the current crop will be about 9,100,000 bags. It is generally supposed that 7,000,000 bags will have been received by January 1.

"The world's visible supply is large. On November 1 it was 6,255,000 bags, against 3,845,000 bags last year, which in turn was the largest since 1890. The indications are for a further increase. Probably 7,000,000 bags will be reached by the first of January next. The reason for the great increase in the production in Brazil has been in large profits that have been made in growing coffee. This has influenced the planting of an immense number of new trees in the Santos district. These trees are now coming into bearing. It takes five years before a coffee tree produces.

"The Interior dealers, both in America and Europe have for some time bought very liberally in consequence of the low prices. The increased deliveries should not, therefore, be regarded as increased consumption. The question of interest in considering the future market is whether the trade by January 1 will conclude that the present Rio and Santos crop may be about 10,000,000 bags, and the next fully as large."—N.Y. Journal of Commerce, Nov. 17.

WISE COUNSEL.

When a young grocer buys goods largely on credit, he is often asked to make a statement concerning his standing. If his statement is not true, the wholesale dealer, who loses his money after giving credit on the strength of his statement, will have an action for getting goods under false pretences. The mercantile agency is resorted to for information very frequently. There is no doubt that the mercantile agency is unjust in many cases, and many people are "down on them;" but there must be mercantile agencies, and they cannot do justice in every case, for it is too difficult to obtain correct information. When a retailer is asked for information by a mercantile agency he should give it honestly, and if he has come to a point where he cannot obtain goods if the true facts are made known, it is about time to get out of business.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

MIXED EGGS.

THE mixture of fresh and stale eggs, which is always troublesome during the fall months, has been specially so this season. The disadvantages of having our receipts of fresh-gathered eggs so largely mixed up with these old country-held goods are so great that it seems most unfortunate that shippers cannot separate the various qualities.

At this season of year the old eggs with which the fresh are mixed are of very irregular quality. Some of them—those which have been held but a short time and under especially favorable circumstances—are of more useful quality than long-held refrigerators, but a large part of them are so much shrunken and of so poor a quality that dealers cannot use them even in channels where good refrigerator eggs are acceptable.

When dealers, in order to obtain a supply of really fine fresh eggs, are obliged to buy them mixed with old eggs, it can be readily understood that the latter are of less value than they would be to other and less particular classes of trade, consequently the price of the whole lot is depressed, the shipper gets less for the defective goods, and the good eggs cost the dealer a considerable premium above the price he pays for the whole. With fresh-gathered eggs of so-called choice quality selling at 18c., for instance, the really fine eggs, when candled out, probably cost the buyer fully 20c., by reason of the reduced value of the old goods.

With this fact in view, it is evident that if the goods were separated when packed, so that a buyer for fancy eggs could get them free from mixture, he would be glad to pay at least as much for them as they cost now, and probably more, owing to the saving of labor. It is also evident that the stale eggs, if packed by themselves, would bring more sold to a cheaper class of trade than to dealers who have no satisfactory use for them.—N. Y. Produce Review.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Nov. 18, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE present week in the wholesale grocery trade is about as an eventful one as we have experienced for some time. The volume of new business, while not as large as a few weeks ago, is fair for this time of the year, and particularly in view of the ruling wet weather, but the attention of the wholesale trade this week is being chiefly devoted to new goods. Shipments of foreign dried fruits, nuts and foreign sugars have been coming in freely, and, of course, going out again to fill orders previously taken. This has given the wholesale houses the appearance of a great deal of activity. About the only change in prices is an advance of one-sixteenth in yellow sugars, while all but one refinery are out of the market for what is termed Canadian German granulated sugar, and wholesalers have advanced their prices ⅛c. per lb. Canned goods are dull, although prices are being maintained. Such foreign dried fruits as currants and raisins are in good demand at firm and unchanged prices.

CANNED GOODS.

There is no change in the situation. Business is practically at a standstill, which is usually to be expected at this time of the year. There does not, however, appear to be any disposition on the part of either packers or wholesalers to shade prices. The market in England for both canned tomatoes and salmon appear to be improving, according to our exchanges from that country. We quote: Tomatoes, 85 to 90c.; corn, 65 to 85c.; peas, 85 to 87½c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 65 to 80c.; peaches, $2.25 to $3 for 3's, $1.65 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.65 to $1 90, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2 to $2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1.10; canned mackerel, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.50 for tall tins; 1-lb. flats, $2.85 to $2.95; ½-lb. flats, $1.60 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

A few transactions are reported in Rio coffees, and there has been some buying of Maracaibo coffees by roasters. The outside markets are steadier. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8½ to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 12½ to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 16 to 20c.; Jamaica, 19 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

Bright syrups are scarce and the supply is not equal to the demand. There are a few medium grades selling, but the demand is ligh. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

Advices from New Orleans report a better feeling there in regard to molasses. Locally the market is quiet and featureless. We quote: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

A much better feeling has developed on the sugar market. Yellow sugars have been advanced 1-16c. per lb. by the Canadian refiners in sympathy with the outside market. Cananian German granulated is only now being put upon the market by one refinery, and in consequence of this the price has been advanced ⅛c. per lb., making the wholesale price for ordinary quantities 4c. per lb. On Friday last beet declined ¼d. in London for November and advanced ¼d. for December, and on Monday the cables noted an advance of 2¼d. in beet, 1½d. in Java and 1½d. for fair refining. On Tuesday there was a further advance of ¼d. to 1½d. in beet and 1½d. for Java. In New York on Tuesday No. 7 refined advanced 1-16c. per lb. We

NUTS.

The trade is this week receiving shipments of Grenoble, Marbot and other descriptions of nuts for the holiday trade. We quote: Brazil nuts 11 to 12½c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 20 to 22c.; Tarragona almonds, 9½ to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 12½c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, ETC.

Trade is moderate in rice, with prices steady and unchanged. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¼c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to4½c.

SPICES.

Trade is quiet with prices steady and unchanged. We quote: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 12c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 14c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 11 to 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 18 to 20c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 18 to 20c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 23 to 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 13 to 16c.; cassia, 20 to 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEAS.

There have been some transactions in spot teas of Indian and Ceylon growth, but there is very little doing in London teas. Low-grade Indian and Ceylon teas are stiff both in London and in the primary markets. There is no improvement in the scarcity of China green teas, and advices estimate the shortage in these teas at eight million pounds. Wholesalers report the demand they are experiencing is chiefly for Assam and Ceylon of medium grades at 16 to 19c. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Stocks of currants in Greece a couple of weeks ago had shrunk to about 40,000 tons, compared with 80,000 tons a year ago. Local wholesalers report a good demand at unchanged prices. A few barrels of Provincials have been brought on from New York to compete with Filiatra fruit, but the quality is reported to be poor. This fruit is quoted at 5½c. per pound up in barrels. We quote: Provincials, 5½ to 5¾c.; Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6½c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The demand is fairly good. Prices are much as before. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4¾ to 5c.; fine off-stalk, 5½ to 6c.; selected, 6¼ to 6¾c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

MALAGA RAISINS—The fruit ex Bellona is arriving, but, as the prices had not been made up at the time of going to press, we omit quotations.

CALIFORNIA LOOSE MUSCATEL RAISINS—There is not much doing, but stocks are light. We quote: 3-crown, 7½ to 7¾c. per lb.; 4-crown, 8½ to 9c. per lb.; 1-lb. cartoons, 12c.

FIGS—Quiet and unchanged. We quote as follows: 4-crown, 10 to 11c.; 5-crown, 11 to 13c.; 7-crown, 13 to 14c.; 9-crown, 15 to 16c.; natural figs, in bags, 4½ to 5c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 12 to 12½c.; rolls, 9c.; hams, large, 10c.; medium, 11c.; small, 11½c.; shoulder hams, 8½ to 9c.; backs, 12c.; all meats out of pickle, 1c. less than above.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 6½c.; tubs, 6¾c.; pails, 7c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $14 to $14.50; Canadian short-cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $13.50.

DRESSED HOGS—We quote: $5 to $5.10 for heavy, and $5.25 to $5.35 for light hogs.

VENISON—Is now coming in freely. Whole carcases sell at 7 to 8c. per lb.; saddles, 8 to 10c.

POULTRY—The demand for all kinds has been such that dealers have kept well sold up. We quote: Geese, 5½ to 6½c. per lb.; chickens, dressed, 30 to 50c.; alive, 35 to 45c.; ducks, 40 to 65c.; wild ducks, widgeons, 20 to 25c.; bluebills, 30 to 35c.; mallard and black, 60 to 70c.; turkeys, 8½ to 9½c. per lb.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is now a good supply of dairy in large rolls and 1-lb. prints. Creamery is still quiet. We quote: Dairy, best grade, 16 to 17c.; second grade, 13 to 15c.; low grade, 11 to 12c.; creamery, early make, tubs, 17 to 18c.; late make, tubs, 18 to 19c.; prints, 20c.

CHEESE—There is little life yet in the market. Local quotations are 9 to 9½c., according to make.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN — The market is firm in all lines. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, 81 to 82c. at outside points; freights to Toronto are about 3 to 5c.; barley, 27 to 31c.; peas, 44 to 45c.; oats, 20 to 23c., Toronto freights, and No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $1, Toronto freights.

FLOUR—Though dealers are doing but a hand-to-mouth business the market is firm. We quote in carloads on track at Toronto: Manitoba patents, $5.40; Manitoba strong bakers, $5; Ontario patents, $4.50 to $4.80; straight roller, $4.20 to $4.25, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS — Business is still brisk. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.30 in bags and $3.40 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.70 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

The market is in fair condition this week. Fresh haddock and steak cod are now on the market. We quote:- Oysters, $1.25 per gal.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; fresh steak cod, 7c. per lb.; pickerel, 6c. per lb.; pike, 4c. per lb.; perch, 3c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. per lb.; haddies, 6c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 to $6 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads off), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, 75c. to $1.

SEEDS.

The demand from foreign markets has very much fallen off the past week or two, and this has a tendency to depress values here, in fact prices may be called nominal just now. Red clover, $3 to $3.25; alsike, $3 to $4.50, and timothy, $1 to $1.25 per bushel to shippers at outside points.

SALT.

Business this week is moving nicely, though enough cars for shipping are not yet

MARKET NOTES.

Advices from Bordeaux report a higher market for Grenoble walnuts.

Owing to the loss of the vessel with a large cargo of eastern sugars, the Acadia Sugar Refinery is unable to offer dark yellow sugars at present.

Canadian German granulated is quoted ⅛c. per lb. higher, and yellows are 1-16c. per lb. dearer.

Advices received in Toronto this week note an advance of from 7 to 8c. per lb. in the price of tobacco leaf in the United States.

Thanksgiving Day is Thursday, Nov. 25, and those who have produce to market for that day should have them on market two or three days before that date.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 18, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE turnover in groceries during the week has been fair on the whole, all staple lines sharing in the attention. Sugar has not been moving as freely from refiners' hands this week, but there is a good distributive movement in progress. Prices generally are steady. Syrups and molasses are firm, the latter especially so, demand for it being brisk. Rices, spices and coffees are steady. The increased enquiry for tea continues and the upward tendency in Japans is quite as marked as it was last week. Some large lots have been put through and others are under offer at full values. Canned goods are steady and gallon apples are higher than they were with a strong upward tendency. Dried fruits are steady, while Grenoble walnuts are firmer in tone. Sharp advances have been scored by dried and evaporated apples and green apples are strongly held.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market has ruled quiet, and jobbers are not operating as freely this week as heretofore, having laid in supplies for some weeks ahead. As a result business from refiners to jobbers is not as brisk as it was, but there is a good distributive business going on. The feeling generally is strong on domestic refined sugar, and though the offers of German granulated continue sellers of it find it difficult to compete with the taste that exists for the standard domestic article. Standard domestic granulated is selling at 4 1-16 to 4⅛c., and yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c., while the German granulated is offered at 3⅝ to 3¾c. The strong feeling outside in the raw article is firmly maintained both in London and New York. This is attributed to the reported formation of syndicates in Austria and Germany to maintain prices.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market is exceedingly quiet and prices are unchanged. We quote 2¼ to 2½c., as to grade in a jobbing way.

MOLASSES.

The molasses situation is undoubtedly becoming stronger each week and the sanguine ones are confidently expecting the higher prices that they have predicted. Demand from American points has not as yet resulted in any important transactions, but holders are not anxious in this particular as they believe that all the stock they have on hand and possibly more will be wanted on home account. This fact is evidenced by the increased demand that is coming from country points this week. Prices are firmly held 25 to 26c. for puncheons, 27½c. for tierces, and 28½c. for bbls. being realized this week.

RICE.

There is no material change in the rice market. Foreign advices rule strong and prices are firmly held here. We quote: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

There is a good jobbing trade in spices, and prices are firm, especially on pepper. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream jotartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is quiet and generally unchanged. We quote: Maracaibo, 17 to 18c.; Rio, 11 to 12c.; Santos, 13 to 14c.; Mocha, 24 to 25c., and Java, 24 to 25c.

TEAS.

The tea market maintains its strong tone and buyers show more disposition to operate as time passes. The light stocks of Japans tend to firmness, and the upward tendency noted last week is, if anything, accentuated. Ping Sueys are strong in New York and this disposition is felt here also. Among the large operations since last report were sales of Gunpowders at 20c., several round lots of Ceylons at 15c., and Japans at 13½ to 15c. Several other round lots are under offer at this writing. We quote as follows: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28 to 40c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

There is a fair trade in canned goods for the season, both in vegetables, fish and fruit. A leading feature is the steady distributive demand for salmon, which amounts to considerable in the aggregate. This fish is supplying a lot of the demand that formerly was directed to lobsters, in consequence of the high price ruling on the latter. Gallon apples are another article that promises to be in active request, with higher values, and they are 35 to 50c. higher than they were. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 80 to 90c.; corn, 60 to 75c.; peas, 75c. to $1.25; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2 to $2.25; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no change in Valencia raisins during the past week. The Bellona's cargo has now arrived, but it has not had any effect on values which rule steady as last quoted: Off-stalk, 4½c.; fine do., 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and 4-crown layers, 6¾ to 7c.

There are two or three carloads of California raisins near at hand, but their cost-price laid down does not permit of any change in values. We quote: 2-crown, 5½c.; 3-crown, 6½c.; and 4-crown, 7¾c.

Malaga raisins are steady. We quote: Loose muscatel, 6 to 7c., and table raisins, in layers and clusters, $1.32½ to $4, according to brand and package.

The currant market is steady and unchanged with values generally firm. We quote: Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; Filiatra, do., 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. Provincials, 5c. in bbls., 5⅜c. in cases, and 5½c. in half-cases, and Vostizzas, half-cases, 8c.

The prune market is steady. We quote: French, 4¼ to 4½c.; Austrian, 6 to 7c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Evaporated fruit rules steady, apricots selling at 11½ to 12c., and peaches 10 to 12c.

Figs are unchanged at 9 to 10c. in 14-oz. boxes, 10 to 11c. in 10-lb. boxes and 4c. in bags.

NUTS.

A new feature in nuts consists of stronger advices on Grenoble walnuts, cables stating that the supplies of Mayettes are practically exhausted. The first supplies of new Grenobles were distributed last week ex ss. Carthagenian, and they are selling at 10 to 10½c. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 10 to 10½c.; Sicily filberts, 7c.; Tarragona almonds, 8c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 21 to 22c.; shelled walnuts, 20c., and cocoanuts, $3.50 per 100.

FISH.

Arrivals of fish have been exceptionally large during the week, and the market is now well supplied in all lines. In pickled fish prices generally are steady all round. We quote: Green cod—No. 1 large, $4 to $4.50; No. 1 ordinary, $3.50 to $3.75; No. 2, $2.25 to $2.50; herrings, No. 1 N.S., $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl.; N.B., $2.15 to $2.25 per half-bbl.; B.C. salmon, $10.50 per bbl.; mackerel, No. 2 new, $20; 1896 pack, $10 to $11 per bbl.

The demand for smoked fish continues fair. Receipts of haddies are liberal and prices have been reduced to 6c. both for city and country trade. Kippered herrings are selling at $1.25 per box; Yarmouth bloaters at 90c. to $1 per box, and new smoked herrings at 10 to 12c. per box.

There is no change in preserved fish to note and sales are slow. Dressed codfish are selling at $4.25 per case of 100 lbs.; dried cod at $3.75 per cwt.; boneless codfish at 5 to 5½c. per lb., and boneless fish 2¾c. per lb.

The market is pretty bare of fresh fish at present, haddock being about the only fresh sea fish offering which are selling at 3 to 3½c. per lb.

Shell oysters are scarce which is due chiefly to the fact that dealers here are accumulating stock for late fall and winter use, consequently prices are higher. Malpeques, common, $3.50 to $3.75; hand-picked to choice, $4.50 to $5.50, and Miramichi, $3.50 to $4 per barrel.

DRIED APPLES.

There has been a decided advance in these during the past eight days owing to the higher prices asked by holders in the country for supplies of new stock. Bids of 8¼c. have been refused for evaporated and we quote 9½ to 10c. while dried apples are held at 5 to 6c.

APPLES.

The active demand for winter apples is fully maintained. Cables from Liverpool contain complaints of unsatisfactory packing, latest quotations across the water being: Western States Ben. Davis, 12s. to 19s. 6d.; average, 16s.; Boston Baldwins, 9s. to 18s. 6d.; average, 14s.; Greenings, 6s. 6d. to 15s.; average, 10s. Locally prices are firm under a good demand at $3 to $4 for No. 1 winter stock and $2 to $2.50 for seconds.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been little change in the green fruit market during the past week. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3 per box; Jamaica oranges, $8 to $8.75 per barrel; bananas, $2.25 per bunch; California

Popularity...

The sales of Cottams Seed show a marked increase month after month ano year after year. Bird keepers may experiment with other seeds, but in most cases they come back to Cottams. A wide experience with birds—great care in selecting, recleaning and packing—Bird Bread and other advantages protected by six patents—liberal profit for dealers—partly explains the popularity of Cottams Seed.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone of the egg market was firm at an advance in prices. There was considerable enquiry for new-laid stock, of which the offerings were small, and the tendency of values for this class is still towards a higher level. The demand for limed and candled was only fair, but on the whole a moderately active business was done. We quote: New-laid, 17 to 18c.; Montreal limed, 13½ to 14c.; choice candled, 13½ to 14c., and culls, 11 to 12c. per dozen.

BEANS—The demand for beans in small lots is fair and prices rule steady at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

GAME—The receipts of partridge were again small, for which the demand continues good, and prices were firm at 65c. for firsts and at 35 to 40c. for seconds per brace.

HONEY—The market for honey was quiet and prices were unchanged. We quote as follows: Clover comb at 10 to 11c.; bright extracted at 7½ to 8½c., and dark at 5 to 5½c.

POTATOES—There was no change in potatoes, the demand for car lots being slow at 45 to 50c. per bag.

PROVISIONS.

There was no material change in the situation of the local provision market, lard and smoked meats being about steady. The demand for all lines is fair in small lots, and an average trade is doing for the season. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

SALT.

There has been a good business in coarse salt during the week on the basis of 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., Liverpool, and $1 to $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs., Trepani.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

The demand for flour from local and country buyers was fair, and a moderately active business was transacted. The tone of the market was steadier, in sympathy with the firmer grain markets, but prices are unchanged, at the decline established on Saturday. There was some enquiry from London for round lots of Manitoba brands, but no sales were made. We quote: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.40; bags, $2.10 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5 ; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70 ; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

A fair jobbing business was reported in meal, the demand being chiefly for small lots at steady prices. We quote : Rolled oats, $3.35 to $3.40 per barrel, and $1.62½ per bag ; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

There continues to be a steady demand for feed, and in consequence supplies do not accumulate any, and values are fully maintained. We quote : Ontario bran at $11, and shorts $12 per ton, bulk ; Manitoba bran, bags included, at $11.50., and shorts at $13.50 per ton.

BALED HAY.

A fair trade was done in hay to-day, and the market is moderately active, with no change in prices to note. No. 1 sold at $10.50, and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton, in car lots on track.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market rules quiet but continues steady. Enquiry for cheap cheese is maintained, and goods running from 7½ to 8c. find ready purchasers. At the wharf Monday morning the offerings comprised 2,000 boxes. The quality was not exceptional and they sold at 7¼c. We quote as follows : Finest Ontario Septembers, 8⅝ to 8¾c. ; finest Ontario Octobers, 8⅜ to 8½c. ; finest Townships, 8¼ ; finest Quebec Octobers, 7½ to 7¾c.

The butter market continues without new feature. Local demand for creamery ranges from 18 to 18½c., but shippers are not buyers except at a concession of ¼ to ½c. from that range. There is little doing in dairy stock, which is scarce, and fine to finest goods of this kind find a ready sale. We quote : Finest creamery, 18 to 18½c. ; seconds, 17¼ to 17½c. ; dairy butter, 16 to 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

The raw sugar market is still cabled firm from London, and it is also strong in New York.

There has been a sharp advance in both dried and evaporated apples since last report.

Cables from Bordeaux state that stocks of Grenoble walnuts are light and that Mayettes are almost exhausted.

The strength in tea at primary markets in Japan continues unabated, according to advices to hand this week.

The first arrivals of new Grenoble walnuts were distributed to the trade at the close of last week ex Carthagenian.

The ss. Bellona is discharging her cargo of dried fruits at this writing. Prices are entirely unaffected by the fact.

There have been sales of round lots of Barbadoes molasses during the past week at an advance of 1c. per gallon.

Two or three car loads of California raisins are near at hand here, but their cost price is such that spot prices will not be influenced.

A serious fire took place late Saturday night in a grocery kept by Adelard Chausse at 31 Rachel street. Mr. Chausse went into the annex of the store to turn off a leaky tap in a coal oil barrel, and threw the lighted match he had held in his hand to guide himself, into the barrel, a fierce flame at once shooting upwards to the ceiling. The fire brigade was at once summoned, but so rapidly did the flames spread that over $2,000 damage was done before the spread of the fire could be checked.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 18, 1897.

THE wholesale grocers have had a busy week. The Annapolis Valley and St. John River Valley business is an important factor in wholesale business here, and access to both is largely cut off during the winter. Besides this the supplies for lumbermen, together with the Christmas business and the arrival of goods—particularly such lines of which the whole year's, or at least a large part of the whole year's supply, comes to hand in the fall—makes this the busy season. Winter port matters still occupy a first place in the attention of many. There is much disappointment that the steamers which have been running direct between St. John and Liverpool will have to call at Halifax both going and coming. There is no doubt, however, but that much more freight will be shipped from St. John than ever before, and there is every facility for handling the trade. Already a large quantity of goods are here waiting for the first steamer.

OIL—Little can be said this week. Large shipments of burning oil are being made in order to get contracts filled before December 1. Other lines are quiet. Cod oil comes in slowly, not enough to supply even the limited demand. Prices are held firm, and tend upward. We quote : Best American burning oil, 17½ to 18½c. ; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c. ; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c. ; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—Market is well supplied with coarse salt. The extra American duty somewhat affects the demand from Maine, but only such as goes inland, as it does not affect that used in the fisheries. The trade to Eastport and Lubec and other coast points is a large factor in the salt trade here. Our merchants are also, somewhat from the same reason, importing less salt into and via Boston. The regular steamers coming direct from Liverpool during the winter inclines to keep this market overstocked and tends to lower prices and small profits. In fine salt there is a steady demand. We quote : Coarse, 47 to 50c. ; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1 ; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag ; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25 ; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3 ; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl. ; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each ; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each ; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz. ; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—The high prices continue, particularly tomatoes and Gallon apples. The latter will be short this season. The low price of peaches is causing a large sale. As noted last week, lobsters tend to be more freely offered, but it is said some have not the necessary Government stamp, and the risk of fine is such that dealers do not care to buy. In canned meats the feeling is firm. Lunch tongue shows quite an advance on packers' list, and it is said the whole list must advance soon. Oysters seem dull. Salmon are quoted low. The demand for sardines west continues. We quote: Corn, 70 to 75c. ; peas, 75 to 90c. ; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10 ; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25 ; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50 ; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70 ; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60 ; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20 ; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50 ; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.50 to $2.75 ; 2's, $1.50 to $1.75 ; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25 ; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75 ; fruits in glass,

GREEN FRUIT — Demand for apples has been better during the week. Many buyers from outside towns have been in. They complain that even at the high prices asked it is impossible to get any quantity of good winter stock. Gravensteins are quite plentiful. In other lines a great deal of poor stock is to hand, and auction sales are quite frequent. Oranges sell slowly; they are not yet in season. Lemons have light sale. In cranberries the high price of Cape Cod berries has given the market to the native berries. They are of good quality. Very few bananas selling. Malaga grapes are higher and have better demand. Canadian are about over. We quote: Lemons, $4.50 to $5.25; oranges, $5.50 to $7 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $3.75; bananas, $2 to $2.25; grapes, 25 to 40c.; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5.50 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Business is active. In raisins a large business is being done, Malaga layers particularly having a large sale. Prices rule low. More 2-crown loose Muscatels are on the market than usual. They are not a popular grade here. In California raisins the market is easier. Prices on the Coast are lower, and the market is tending downward, but no very low prices are expected. The decline is too late to effect sales here, and quantity of California loose for here is light. There is good sale for Valencias. In prunes, California continues to show good demand for the season, which usually does not begin till a month later. There is some demand for apricots. Prices are easy. In dried and evaporated apples there is light demand. Prices are high and stocks light. New figs are being freely received this week. Sales are large and prices low. Seeded raising are in demand. There is great difference in the quality. All kinds of nuts show demand. We quote: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6¾ to 7c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.40 to $2.50; Dehesa layers, $2.75 to $3; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 5 to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; Fard. dates, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 3½ to 4c.; evaporated apples, 7 to 8c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6 to 7c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7¾ to 8c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 12 to 13c.; new Valencias, layers, 6¾ to 7c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 11c.; orange peel, 12c.

SUGAR—There is a steady demand, but values show no change. In foreign sugars, while very many samples have been received, our buyers are not inclined to take hold of them. Stocks of sugar here are not large, We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—There is only a fair demand. Holders are somewhat disappointed, but stocks are not large, and the tendency at outside points is towards higher prices. There is some inquiry for New Orleans, but so far little has been imported on account of high prices asked. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antiqua, 22 to 23c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, 33 to 34c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—There is an easy feeling in the chesse market. As is usual at the end of the season, low prices have brought to light more cheese among the factorymen than it was thought they had. Our dealers are fairly well stocked, so there is little demand. Local sale at best is not large. In butter there is no change. Values are easy. Eggs are firmer, and stock light. Quality of those received is ruling better. Sale here is light for held stock at any time. We quote: Dairy butter, 15 to 17c.; creamery, 19 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9¾ to 10c.; eggs, 14½ to 15c.

FISH—There is a firm feeling here in all lines of fish. Dry cod is still firm and pollock is about out of the market. In bay herring the feeling is much firmer than was expected. Supplies are coming in slowly, and the lack of large herring in the market tends to keep the price of bay herring up. Shad are scarce. In finnan haddies there is now a large demand from outside points, and beside those cured here many are shipped through to this market from Digby and other curing points. Smoked herring are in light supply, but there is enough to fill the demand. We quote: Large cod, $3.40 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.65 to $1.70; bay herring, $1.45 to $1.50 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 7½ to 8c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.25 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1; bloaters, 60c. per box; kippers, $1 per box.

PROVISIONS—There is a good, fair business doing. Clear pork keeps low, and lower in proportion than mess. In plate beef, prices are held firm and have an upward tendency. Smoked meat is quiet with the wholesale trade, local curers supplying the demand. Some very low prices were quoted by western houses this week for hams. Lard seems rather firmer. We quote: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Our market is fairly well stocked in flour. At this season quite a quantity is kept moving. We quote Ontario a little higher. Our people prefer old wheat flour and will give it a preference at even higher figures than quoted for new. Feed stuff is rather lower and more freely offered. It is said the fact that western farmers are raising more pork is a reason why feed has been so scarce. In beans the feeling is easy and quotations from the west tend lower. There is no change here. Split peas are scarce and hard to get. Oatmeal and oats are more firmly held. Cornmeal is still very low and moving freely. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $5.70 to $5.75; best Ontario, $5 to $5.10; medium, $4.80 to $4.85; oatmeal, $3 65 to $3.70; cornmeal, $2 to $2.05; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $16.00 to $16.50; bran, do, $15 to $15.50; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime 90 to 95c.; oats, 34 to 36c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50; barley, $3.15 to $3.25; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.25 to $3.30; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Canadian canned meat is having an increased sale in this market.

E. L. Robertson, of St. John, has started a sausage factory at Amherst.

The Canadian Drug Co. have received a large supply of Keen's mustard in 4-lb. jars; also Robinson's barley.

Shipments of Finnan haddies from Digby are now passing through here in large quantities by express for Montreal.

Mr. Joseph Finley, one of our largest wholesale grocers, is just home from a well-earned vacation trip to Boston and New York.

Large quantities of produce continue to be shipped from Prince Edwards Islands ports, among which this week were the following: A cargo, including oats, potatoes, hay, horses, etc., for Bermuda; a cargo of 5,600 bushels potatoes for Lunenburg, N.S.; a cargo of 6,000 bushels potatoes for Rockland, Maine; 7,000 bushels potatoes and 1,800 bushels oats for Yarmouth, N.S., and a steamer and a brig with oats for the English market.

While Nova Scotia orchards have not large apple crops, some good sums are realized, three orchards near Granville Ferry for winter fruit alone netting between $700 and $800 each.

A number of Fredericton merchants were in the city this week, including G. T. Whelpley, S. L. Morrison and W. H. Vanwart. While buying general goods, their particular mission seemed apples.

LATE ADVERTISEMENTS.

[The following items arrived too late for insertion in the regular advertising space. Reading notices inserted in this column at 5c. per word.]

"Lemaire" (imported) sardines, ¼'s, are meeting with ready sale with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. report quite an increase of receipts in 1-lb. prints and large rolls of good dairy butter.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol: "Circle" tea is packed in three grades. So is "Empire." "Hillwattee" brand is all red label.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. report that large local and shipping orders enable them to give prompt returns for consignments in all lines.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol: The images Lucas, Steele & Bristol are distributing with their "Kiji," "Uriba" and "Circle" teas are quite a novelty.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. report the consignments of eggs and poultry larger than any previous season. However, the very large local and shipping trade enabled them to make prompt returns with good prices.

Frank Magor & Co.: "A thoroughly reliable article always takes with good people. Our traveler recently received repeat orders for Rae's olive oil, its quality having brought forth excellent recommendations from some of our best private houses."

EDMONTON ROUTE TO KLONDIKE.

A Calgary despatch says: "Another party of Klondikers, numbering ten, is in the city waiting for Monday's train to Edmonton. As the Edmonton route becomes more known its popularity increases. The police survey party, under Inspector Moodie, is making rapid headway. As soon as the snow falls they will kill their horses for dog meat and proceed by dog train. The grass along the route has been very plentiful this year and horses have no difficulty in finding sustenance for the journey. The American parties find they can outfit in every department cheaper here than in their native states. In some cases the initial cost is less in Calgary, in others the added freight makes it cheaper to purchase supplies here."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 13, 1897.

THE snow has been falling steadily for hours, and there is small doubt that this time the beautiful has come to stay. The general feeling is that it is just as well to have snow now. The fall has been an exceptionally fine one. All classes of work are well advanced, and there is little to be gained by bare ground once it is frozen too hard to plough. Business is brisk, and steady payments are being promptly met, and a feeling of cheerful confidence prevails. Prices are good and are likely to be better, and this is encouraging. One of our leading wholesale grocers remarked this morning "It always makes a man feel good to buy in a rising market." The wheat market is almost unchanged. Deliveries are fully 50 per cent. less than last week, due, in some cases, to bad roads, but in others to the fact that prices are lower and farmers are preparing for winter. Cars are still very scarce and dealers much afraid that they will not get all their purchases delivered at Fort William before the navigation season closes. It is generally considered that 70 per cent. of the wheat is out of the farmers' hands.

The last steamer at Fort William brought 26 carloads of apples for Winnipeg dealers. This fruit is not altogether satisfactory, in fact, really first-class winter apples are not to be had this year from south or east, and the consumers may make up their minds to that. Of course the keeping qualities of the Ontario fruit have not yet been tested, but one peculiarity is very noticeable—a marked tendency to shrink in size as the middle of of the barrel is approached. There is comfort in this, however, as it shows that the end of the world is not yet, for according to Oliver Wendell Holmes there is no need of ordering Ascension robes until the apples are the same size all the way through the barrel. Some changes in price may be noted as of interest.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS—The California market for apples has advanced ¼ of a cent, while offerings from Ontario are very limited. This looks as if evaporated stock was going to be still higher than at present. Price 10 to 10½c. per lb. Dried apples are still being offered in scant quantities and very few stocks are held here. Price 6 to 6½c. per lb. The indications are that the high price of evaporated and dried apples will increase the sale of apricots and prunes, both of which fruits are reasonable in price and of very fine quality. The Oregon prunes are turning out even better than expected, and it looks as if very shortly there would be no need to import any Bosnia prunes into this market. The two varieties shown are Italian and Hungarian, though it is on the Italian that the Oregon growers pride themselves particularly, and and they are certainly a most beautiful fruit and delicious to eat just as they are. Stewed prunes are going to mean something different for the future in boarding house bills of fare.

FRESH FRUIT—This market shows few changes for the week. Apples are: Canadian, $4.75 per bbl.; southern, $4.25. In addition to the varieties of southern apples, mentioned last week, one house has succeeded in securing a supply of Genotines, which look as if they would keep in good shape until March next. Oranges—Jamaicas still the only ones on the market of first-class quality, bbls., $13; cases, $6.50. Lemons are plentiful and good, $5.50 per case. Winter pears, fancy Washington, $2.25. Grapes — California Tokays, $3 per box. Small consignment of Emperor grapes at $3.50 per box. Bananas are a little more plentiful, price unchanged, $2.50 to $3, according to size and quality. Cranberries, Cape Cod, $9.50 per bbl.

NUTS—A few old Grenobles are in the city, and are very good quality, but new stock cannot arrive before 10th or 15th December. Canadian chestnuts are out of the market.

VEGETABLES—Potatoes are going up rapidly in price. The quality is good, but the supply is short. Price, 35 to 40c. per bushel for large quantities, and 45 to 50c. for small lots; onions, per cwt., $3.50.

FISH—This market is now well supplied. Finnan haddies have so far arrived by express, but owing to favorable weather future shipments will all come by fast freight. The quality has been fine. The price at present is 9 to 10½c., but it is expected that as soon as first freight shipment arrives it will go down to 7½ to 8c. in sympathy with the difference in carriage. Cod, pure, in 2-lb. bricks, 6½c. per lb.; whole fancy cod is 6c. per lb.; Beardsley's shredded, 90c. per doz. Digby chicks or scaled herrings, 17c. per box. Bloaters—No quantities have arrived, but they will come in with the first cars of finnan haddies, and will sell at about $1.25 per box. New Labrador herrings will not arrive for two weeks.

CURED MEATS—Market firm and prices unchanged. Hams are pleantiful and so is long clear, but breakfast bellies are decidedly short. Some lots are being brought in from the United States, but even from large packers the offerings are limited.

BUTTER—Dairy is pretty well cleared up. One commission house, supposed to be the largest holders, have order for two carloads to be shipped early in the week, and this will about exhaust the stock in town. It is expected, however, that fresh made rolls and tubs will soon be moving more freely. Price, 14 to 16c. per lb., for round lots of choice dairy. Creamery, very little held at present, supplies for British Columbia are now coming through from Ontario. It is understood that purchases have been made on a basis of 18½ to 19c. point of shipment.

CHEESE—This article is scarce and prices are maintained at 10½ to 11c. Though Ontario has offered here, no shipments have as yet come in and it is difficult to find if any have actually been purchased.

LARD—Pure, $1.80 for 20-lb. pails; composite, $1.50.

EGGS—Supply very limited. Dealers are paying 16c. for fresh Manitoba eggs delivered at Winnipeg. A number of carloads are being shipped from Ontario points to British Columbia, but the energetic character of our Manitoba winter will soon put a stop to that trade.

CEREALS—There is every indication that both oats and oatmeal will be higher. American goods are not yet in, though several carloads have been sold here.

COFFEES—Rios dull and weak; extra, 19c.; fancy do., 18½c.; choice do., 17c.; pure do., 16c.

THE DOMINION TRAVELERS.

THE Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association held their quarterly meeting at Montreal last Saturday, and the meeting was largely attended. The positions in the association's gift this year are more keenly sought for than usual, as there will be a contest for the offices of president and treasurer.

The Hon. J. D. Rolland and Max Murdoch are in the field for the presidency, while Fred. Birks and Thomas L. Paton are to have a friendly contest as to which is the fit and proper person to look after the association's bank account.

The elections by acclamation were: A. T. Le Sueur, vice-president; directors, Wm. Brewster, J. E. Wright, Gus Harris, J. L. Lauthier, and Geo. A. Mann, and auditors, Riddell and Common.

The poll for the election of officers will close on December 17 at 5 p.m., L. Lefebvre and G. A. Mann being the scrutineers.

The association will hold its annual meeting on December 18. It was decided to hold the annual dinner, the details of which were left to a special committee. There seems to be a feeling among the members that the annual dinner, which has so long been a feature, has outlived its usefulness, and this re-union, many think, will be the last.

TRADE CHAT.

PICKERING, ONT., correspondent of The Whitby Chronicle. "Raspberries and roses have made their appearance hereabouts during the past fortnight. To be sure the crop is not very extensive, but the quality is good."

The merchants of Brandon, Man., report that their trade continues good and they look forward to its keeping up at least until after Christmas.

The stock of T. J. Nicholls, general merchant, Gorrie, was sold by auction to A. Dulmage, of Lakelet, for 67c. on the dollar. The stock was valued at $4.500.

The record of cars passed through the St. Clair tunnel during October indicates a good traffic. About 20,000 cars is a good average, but 22,763 went through during that month.

Mr. E. C. Henry is winding up his apple business at Tilsonburg for the season. Owing to the scarcity of the crop he has only shipped about 1,500 barrels, which is a mere fraction of the business done last year.

Campbell Bros., Rat Portage, are moving their grocery business over to the Clougher block. The premises they occupy at present on the corner of Second and Main streets are to be pulled down to make room for a new brick block.

W. A. Miner, St. Thomas, has disposed of his grocery business to J. Kingswood, and Mr. Kingswood has sold his grocery business to Mr. M. Hatch, who will conduct a butcher and grocery business in Kingswood's old stand.

Thamesville correspondent of The Chatham Banner: "Cards are out for two afternoon teas at H. E. Harrison's grocery on Monday and Tuesday, the 8th and 9th. Apples, fruits, India and Ceylon teas will be served. All ladies are invited."

The well-known firm of Hughes & Long, lumber dealers, Brandon, Man., will in future be known as Hughes, Long & Buchram. Mr. Buchram, a lumberman of Minnesota, has taken an interest in the business and becomes a partner in the firm.

The Morden, Man., correspondent of The Winnipeg Free Press: "Plowing is well advanced this fall. The past season, with the favorable price paid for wheat, has been a profitable one for farmers in general, and in consequence bank accounts have been increased, and existing encumbrances materially reduced."

Mr. E. H. Cowan, who keeps a grocery store at the corner of Richmond and Cheapside streets, London, was down town on business the other evening. Mrs. Cowan had occasion to go to the back yard. On her return she caught sight of an elderly man retreating through the store door. Hastening to the till Mrs. Cowan found that her purse, containing $52, had been opened and the money taken. The police are working on the case.

Mr. T. J. Scanlan, the well-known and justly popular young manager of McArthur's furniture store left this morning to embark in business for himself at Nelson, where he has a new building just completed, which he intends fitting up as a first-class grocery store. Mr. Scanlan has many friends in Kalso, who will wish him success in his new field. While deploring the loss to Kalso of a bright, energetic business man and a leader in social circles, we cannot but congratulate Nelson on her gain.—Kootenaian, Kaslo.

APPLES IN ILLINOIS.

Dealers who handle apples extensively are beginning to wake up to the fact that offerings of good sound stock, suitable for store trade, are comparatively light. There has been considerable inquiry, but the bulk of fruit is not up to the requirements of trade. Much of the stock from adjoining states is blighted and gnarly. Fine fruit is held at $2 to $2.50 per barrel, and this is generally regarded as a reasonable price in view of the fact that there is a shortage in the crop. —Chicago Grocer.

THE MAPLE.

(The Canadian National Tree.)

O maple, tall and slender,
Filled with the sun's rich wine,
Whether on open hillside
Or on the forest line,
You brim with your glad splendor,
The June-world's cup divine.

With warm light overflowing,
O strong and stately tree,
You spread your bounteous branches
To all glad airs that be.
O tree, of all trees growing
The dearest one to me.

All through the golden summer
Your leafy tents you spread,
When out by field and highway
The noon lies parched and red;
And out in the fields the cattle
Doze by the brook's dried bed.

When late in ripe September
Earth's fruits are gathered in,
And wealth of glowing plenty
O'erflows each brimming bin,
You with your flaming splendors
The autumn's triumphs win.

And when in bleak October
The frosty nuts do rain
And earth, more grave and sober,
Hath wrapped her pall again;
Through your great boughs the storm-wind
Goes roaring like the main.

O tree of mine own country,
I love your stately green;
Old memories of my childhood
Blow your warm leaves between,
And past your leafy radiance
Haunts each familiar scene.

Like you upon your hillside,
Filled with earth's golden glow,
Strong, towering proud to heaven
When happy June winds blow,
O tree, may my young country
In days to come outgrow.

Like you amid the forest
May she 'mid nations tower,
A Titan proud and mighty,
Filled with earth's gladdest dower,
While 'neath her widening branches
A people's hopes embower.

LIMITED PRICES AND CREDITS.

PRESIDENT G. WALDO-SMITH, of the Wholesale Grocers' Asssociation of New York and vicinity, recently submitted a report to his association in regard to limited prices and credits.

After outlining the work of the association during the year, the ninth in the history of the organization, the report continued in part as follows: "If the entire amount of cash rebates that has been secured from manufacturers whose goods we handle, and which has been secured solely and alone through the efforts of the association, is placed to its credit and only the annual dues charged against it, the balance to the credit of the association must be a very large one, and not only justifies the formation and continuance of the association, but would also justify far more interest in its work than has been manifested by most of our members.

"Of the many things that are needed to make the association as successful as it should be, I will only enumerate a few: It needs that every member should attend all of its meetings and participate in its deliberations; that everyone should be watchful over its interests and aid it in every way within their power; by watching his salesmen closely and seeing to it that limited prices are honestly maintained; by using his influence with manufacturers in endeavoring to procure better terms; by carefully investigating every alleged case of price-cutting on limited price goods, and by giving all the facts to the secretary in such cases, with names and dates. Complaints that come to the office nearly always close with something like the following, which is copied from a complaint recently received:

"'Please consider this thing confidential, and do not mention our name in connection with it; but call upon A.B.C. & Co., and let them understand that the jobber will not put up with such work. If they wish to continue the limited selling prices on sugars, they must immediately discontinue all such practices.'

"Of course, nothing can be done with such a complaint, and it is worse than useless for members to write them. Let us have the courage of our convictions, and be willing to lose a customer, if need be, sooner than return to the old practice of selling sugar for cost, or, in other words, of working for nothing and 'finding' ourselves. We all need to adopt the motto, 'The concern of one is the concern of all.' Remember that while cutting the price of staple goods may occasionally secure an order, no cut can be made that will not be immediately followed by all competitors, and thereafter the article must be placed on the list of goods that are handled at an entire loss of the cost of doing business.

THE PRICE-CUTTER MAKES THE MARKET.

"It is well known that the hundredth man, notwithstanding he may be a very small dealer, makes the price at which the ninety-nine must sell and that it is useless for the ninety-nine to attempt to obtain more for an article of uniform quality, quantity and cost than any competitor is willing to sell it for, unless he is protected by the manufacturer.

"Up to this time no better plan for maintaining a margin of profit on goods of the above class has ever been discovered than the one known as the rebate plan; and until some Columbus arises and discovers a better plan, our only hope of maintaining our business on a profitable basis must be found in some one of the various plans now in vogue. Whether the best plan for securing a rebate has been adopted as yet, I am not quite certain; but that a rebate in some form is absolutely necessary, in order that our business may be maintained on a profitable basis, I think no one will attempt to deny.

"The proportion of goods handled of fluctuating price and varying quality upon which a profit can always be obtained has become so small that the business cannot live on the profits which they alone afford. The interests of the manufacturer and the jobber are identical. The manufacturer needs the use of our plant to distribute his product, and we want to handle his goods —so long as it can be done at a profit, but not otherwise. To this end, I think, a meeting or convention should be held, where manufacturers and jobbers could meet together in a friendly way and discuss methods of handling goods that would be to the mutual advantage of both parties. The manufacturer certainly has a right to decide for himself whether he will distribute his product directly to the consumer or through the retailer only, or whether he will avail himself of the facilities offered by the plant of the jobber, but certainly if he does desire to avail himself of the facilities we have to offer, he should do so in a way and manner satisfactory to us.

"To show the power and efficacy of associated effort when properly directed, I will state that Mr. E. G. Leigh, president of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, recently sent a circular letter to 548 jobbing houses in eleven southern states, all members of the association, asking them to agree to a certain plan for handling package coffee. Answers giving assent were received by return mail from 544, the other four not having been heard from at last advices.

EASE OF GETTING CREDIT.

"One of the great drawbacks to the prosperity of our business is the ease with which credit can be obtained. A case came to my knowledge recently in which a retail grocer, who never carried more than $400 worth of stock and never claimed to have more than that amount of capital, turned over his entire store to secure one creditor, and, subsequently, six judgments were placed on record against him, amounting to some $1,200. This was an entirely needless loss to the trade, and could have been prevented by reasonable care. The habit of demanding a statement over the signature of customers asking for credit is rapidly coming into vogue, and I trust it will not be long before the practice will be universal. If we could agree together not to open an account until the applicant for credit had filed a written statement over his own signature, it would put a stop to one of the principal sources of loss that we have to contend with."

EXPORTS OF FLOUR.

Owing to the active export grain movement nearly all ocean room out of Montreal has been taken by Toronto exporters, and large quantities of grain are now being sent forward for export via Portland, Me., and St. John, N.B., over 500,000 bushels, it is said, having been engaged. A large business in Ontario flour is being done by millers both to Great Britain and Newfoundland. Ontario millers have a special advantage in export trade, as they are buying their fall wheat at about eleven cents per bushel cheaper than it is selling in Toledo and Detroit, and seventeen to eighteen cents cheaper under the price of Manitoba wheat at Goderich and Owen Sound, and are, therefore, able to sell at forty to fifty cents per barrel less than Americans can lay down the same grades in Newfoundland. It is said that Ontario millers have exported four times as much spring wheat flour as they did last year. The total grain exports this season to the close of last month from Montreal were 23,476,904 bushels as compared with 15,693,784 bushels for the year previous.

The trade should pay special attention to Laporte, Martin & Cie.'s advertisement of canned goods. It may prove profitable.

"Our low prices for raisins, Malagas, Valencias, California, etc., have drawn heavy orders," write Laporte, Martin & Cie. "We have a few lines which we can still give at old prices."

TRANSPORTATION OF TROUT IN ICE WATER.

WATER that retains oxygen supports the life of the trout, writes S. E. Land in Fishing Gazette. The transportation of trout in water at a temperature of 34 degrees has met with marked success, and is now beyond an experiment. The old notion, for want of experience, of trying to keep water in fish cans at a temperature between 40 and 50 degrees while fry were in transit, is exploded. The colder the water is kept the fewer the respirations per minute of trout and the less the quantity of oxygen exhausted from the water. If trout fry or adult fish are kept 24 hours from food before they are placed in cans for shipment, they will travel in ice water for many days and nights without loss, and do not require the care of an attendant to aerate or change the water. By the use of the square-cornered refrigerator fish can, I have successfully transported many million trout fry and many thousand adult trout during the past five years, and at all times have found that the loss in transportation was caused only when the temperature of water was above 40 degrees in the cans during the shipment, which was the result of my not being able to get ice on long journeys. My plan has been to first prepare my fish by keeping them from food at least twenty-four hours before shipment, so their droppings will not contaminate the water in cans, so it will not be necessary to change water on the trip; then my next plan was to build cans with ice chest in lid, with perforated lid slide, so dripping ice water would aerate the water containing the fry, and cans were made with four corners so the water would splash while can was in motion and oxygen would be produced in the water as fast as the fish would consume it; then I found that so long as ice was kept it the ice chest in the lid the water in the can would at all times remain at a temperature below 40 degrees, no matter how warm the air in car or wagon shipments. By transporting trout in these cans—in cold water—it is not necessary to change the water on a journey, and the loss is not 1 per cent. This is an advance made in trout culture, and a long-felt want has been supplied for those who are in line with the practical methods of the art. The man who continues to use the old milk can to transport his fry, with a loss of at least 50 per cent. on each shipment, is now considered a back number, and both himself and his can should be relegated to the rear and those whom he represents should further prevent him from wasting public money. The fact is, a galvanized iron milk can with a lump of ice on top or put into the water with the fry answers the purpose of shipping trout so long as the ice lasts, but when the ice is exhausted and the temperature rises suffocation of the trout fry eventually ensues. It is, then, evident that an even temperature must be maintained in the water with the trout, or loss is the result. We know that the best results are obtained by packing the ova of the trout in ice and moss packing for long journeys, and we know that the trout and the salmon deposit their eggs in water under the ice in their natural habitat; the eggs incubate, the fry mature and become adult fish. When we know this to be a fact, it is the height of folly to think for a moment that trout cannot be transported in ice water, or that they must be shipped in water at the same temperature at which they have been reared.

ADDRESSING CUSTOMERS.

Have you ever tried to cure your clerks of the habit of calling your feminine customers "Lady," "Mrs. Lady," etc. If not, you should begin at once, and hit upon a uniform method of addressing them, instead of resorting to "Hi, say," "Missis" and "Ma'am," etc. The other day I happened in a store where one of the clerks had evidently been giving this subject some consideration, and he was getting on gloriously by the use of the word "Madam." But there is no rose without a thorn. Among the customers in the store that day was a colored girl, and, as she was not looking in the direction of the clerk as he finished tying up the package, he said: "Madam, here is your package." She at once gave him an angry look and said with marked severity: "Who's yer callin' madam? Watcher mean by insultin' me? I'd have you know I'm a lady, I am." With which she hustled indignantly to the street.

This is surely a case where ignorance was bliss; but try and get your boys to use the word "Madam," since it is never out of place and applicable to all situations. Then there need be no fear of calling an unmarried woman "Missis," or a a married woman "Miss;" and, furthermore, your feminine trade will feel honored.

"PLUGGING OUT."

The Louisville Times seems to have found a relative of the city girl who thought it must be cold work harvesting the winter wheat.

The young woman of whom The Times has heard belongs in the west, and was lately talking with a Kentuckian about tobacco and tobacco raising.

"I should like very much to see a tobacco-field," she said, "especially when it is just plugging out."

NEW LOW RECORD FOR COFFEE.

THE temporary upward movement shown at the close of last week in the local coffee market was succeeded Monday by a sharp decline, prices of nearly all options on the Coffee Exchange showing a falling off of 30 to 40 points from Saturday's closing figures. The new low record of 5.15c. established on the Exchange on Oct. 28 was further lowered by 40 points, the November delivery being offered yesterday at 4.75c. with 4.60c. bid, no sales for that option however being made. The quotations for the November option a year ago yesterday were 10.20c. bid and 10.25c. asked, which indicates the downward movement in prices on the current crop.

Yesterday's decline was mainly attributed to advices of heavy receipts at Rio and Santos, an estimate of a large Santos crop next season, and to heavy selling for both home and foreign account.

Hermann Sielcken, of W. H. Crossman & Bro., when questioned in reference to yesterday's decline, said: "The quotation for the spot months is not a criterion for previous values. When in November, 1882, the spot quotation was as low as 5.35c. the standard exchange difference between No. 7 and No. 4 was but 160 points, as against 250 points to-day. The price of No. 7 coffee was as low as 5½c., while it is to-day 6½c. When records of prices are looked up one should also look up the records of supplies, which to-day are nearly 1,000,000 bags ahead of all previous records with invisible supplies correspondingly large. If Brazil was selling coffee on a gold basis as it is sold in the United States and in Europe, it would be fair to presume that there was not much room for a further decline; but Brazil is selling on a depreciated currency basis and that depreciated currency has the same value as it has always had for paying debts in Brazil; interest and mortgages of planters and railway freights. The Brazil planter is therefore still receiving a price which is remunerative to him, and so long as this continues and the prospects of supplies are on the increase it is difficult to tell how much lower Brazil may sell. The first estimate on the next crop was received to-day from Holworthy & Ellis, naming 6½ million bags for Santos alone, which, it is needless to say, is extremely large. The growing crop is not yet out of danger, although so far everything points to another large yield. If such is the case coffee will undergo the same experience which this country is acquainted with in the case of corn and cotton, and will not stop declining until it is selling below the cost of production."—New York Journal of Commerce, Nov. 10.

Laporte, Martin & Cie. have now in store their winter stock of wines, sherries, ports, etc., which, we are told, is very complete. Qualities to suit all tastes. Prices as usual are right.

CANNING SALMON IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

THE salmon canning industry is an important source of revenue for the inhabitants of British Columbia. The product of the rivers stands with the products of the forests and the mines as one of the three great staple industries of the Pacific Coast. The Vancouver World recently gave the following interesting account of the growth of this important business :

To Messrs. Turner and Beeton is given the title of pioneers of the salmon canning industry. Their first venture was on the Skeena, where they established the Inverness cannery in 1875. Charles Windsor, one of the old-time canners, says that a small cannery was operated at Browsville in 1872, and moved to New Westminster in 1873. On the Fraser two canneries were established in 1876, one by Alex. Ewen, who is still to the front as hale and hearty as ever on Lion Island, and the other, the Fraser River Cannery, on Dease Island, by the British Columbia Canning Co., of London, Eng.

In 1877 M. M. English, who was an American, despite his name, established the Phœnix cannery on Lulu Island. He passed away but recently, respected for his many good qualities, and admired for his enterprise. In 1878 P. Birrell, B. Douglas and H. Elliott started what is now commonly called the Birrell cannery, and in the same year R. P. Rithet and J. Laidlaw started the Delta. In 1879 A. Ewen, D. J. Munn, D. S. Hennessy and George Alexander started the Bon Accord. There has been a steady increase ever since, and at present there are some thirty-four firms engaged in canning salmon on the Fraser River, and twenty-two firms operate salmon-packing plants on other rivers of the province. When it is taken into account that a single company or canner often owns several factories, it will be readily seen that the industry brings returns to many different interests.

The process of canning the fish is very interesting. The receiving floor is made of asphalt, as is also that under the cutting and washing departments, which, being waterproof, cannot absorb any of the blood or the juices from the discarded offal, and as it is kept continually washed down, there is absolutely no possibility of the production of noxious odors. The fish are passed first from the receiving floor to the guillotines, which keep steadily at work decapitating. The fish then pass on to have their fins and scales removed, being kept all the time in running water. After being relieved of fins and scales the fish pass on to a revolving paddle-wheel, which carries them to a series of knives, which cut them into lengths to fit the cans. They then go into cans which pass through the automatic can-wiper, in which a jet of steam and a corrugated rubber roller combine to remove any particles of fish which may have adhered to the outside. Through the wiper they continue on an endless belt past operatives, who put a small square of tin on top of each can. This is to prevent the fish from filling up the blow-hole when the cans are tested later on. The tops are put on the cans by hand as they pass along, and then they go through a crimping machine, and then through a soldering machine. After the soldering, the hole in the top is filled up. The cans are then tested to see if they are air-tight. They then go into the retorts, where they are submitted to 256 degrees of steam heat for forty-five minutes. When taken out, the tops are again pierced and those that do not blow off steam are set aside as being leaky. These holes are then soldered up and the cans set aside to cool. When cool, they are ready to be lacquered, labelled and put on the grocers' shelves.

CORN PACK IN MAINE.

Concerning the Maine corn pack, The Portland Argus says: "The packing of sweet corn in this state ceased some two weeks ago, but shipping has been going on steadily ever since. It will take some little time yet before it is delivered, although nearly the whole pack is sold, and at prices on the average better than for years. A careful review and comparison gives as a fair estimate that the pack was between 400,000 and 450,000 cases. One season the packing rose to 700,000 cases, but 500,000 is about a fair average."

Good Advertising

For Wide Awake Retailers

By F. James Gibson.

Our "Good Advertising" department is to help our subscribers to do better advertising. The gentleman whom we have selected as its conductor is well known as one of the foremost advertising specialists of the day. Any of our readers who desire the benefit of Mr. Gibson's criticisms on advertisements or advertising methods, or his advice on any advertising subject, can have it or both entirely free of charge by writing to him in care of this journal.

If correspondents so desire, fictitious names or initials may be used for publication. But all requests should be accompanied by the subscriber's name.

ONE of the most difficult things for the amateur advertisement writer to attain is the ability to write naturally. The thing to do is to write just as one talks—that is, if one knows how to talk. I have frequently observed that many men who are good salesmen are poor advertisement writers. Not long ago I stood alongside a salesman in a big New York retail store. I had noticed previously that he was a bright, intelligent young man and I knew that he had made somewhat of a mark as a salesman. On the occasion referred to, I observed that as the people came along he had a winning and otherwise attractive manner. I also noticed that he used plain, common, Anglo-Saxon words and that no attempt was made to be "high-falutin." His words came out easily and convincingly. In very many instances he effected sales. In fact, he was doing well. It occurred to me that he would be a good man to ask about the advertising of his goods. I found that he had some good ideas on the subject and finally I asked him to write up a short ad. dealing with his department. The next day he handed me what he had written. I found, however, instead of writing as he talked, that he had done just the opposite. Instead of using the plain, convincing, every-day language that characterized him as a salesman, he had attempted to use long and unusual words. The whole effect was one of "toploftyness" and bombast. The root of his failure lay in the fact that he lost his naturalness as soon as he took his pen in hand. This is the fault of half or more of the advertisements put out to-day by men of real business ability—men who are perhaps equal to anyone as salesmen and otherwise. But because they try to do something more impressive than usual they make a failure of it. The failure comes because they are not natural—because they do not write as they talk. Of course, there may be the highest art in being natural, as in the case of an actor. But it certainly requires no art in being one's natural self. A man meets a friend in the street and says: "By the way, Smith, I have just opened out a stock of dry goods down in the Thompson block. Give me a call when you want anything in my line. I'll be glad to see you." This is all right. But set that man to write an ad. about his new store. The chances are that he will get off something like this: "John Jones begs to notify his friends and the public generally that he has opened out a stock of staple and fancy dry goods in the Thompson block, where he will be pleased to be favored with a call from intending purchasers." In the one case Mr. Jones is easy and natural. In the other he gets up on stilts and loses his effectiveness.

When you write an ad. write as you talk.

Catch phrases and expressions are great helps to advertising. A phrase or an expression that slips smoothly off the tongue, that's easily remembered and that is really suitable, is worth many dollars to an advertising man who knows how to use it. Which of us is not familiar with the "grateful-comforting" of Epps's cocoa, or the "best and goes farthest" of Van Houten's cocoa? "Children cry for Pitcher's Castoria" has probably sold many thousands of dollars worth of Castoria. "You push the button, we do the rest," has been adopted into general use by the English-speaking world. It has come to mean a great deal more than its original application to kodaks. But whenever it is mentioned one naturally thinks of kodaks. Who can measure the value of such advertising as this. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of ordinary advertising wouldn't begin to compare with it in real value. A big department store, opened not long ago in New York, electrified the city by putting up sign boards all over the place reading, "Meet me at the Fountain," referring to the big fountain playing in the rotunda of the store. This phrase was also run, and is still being run, at the head of all the firm's ads. So extensively was it used by the firm in question that before three months had elapsed it was the talk of the town. It was copied and parodied by hosts of imitators. It was incorporated in topical songs in the theatres and music halls. It was in almost everyone's mouth. The firm's advertising man who invented the expression more than earned his year's salary (a big salary too) when he hit upon it. Another big New York house has made a great hit with "It pays to buy at Vantine's." A leading Boston dry goods store uses very successfully the expression "The busiest store on Boston's busiest street." Cases of successful advertising catch phrases could be multiplied indefinitely, but enough has been said to show their great value from an advertising standpoint. Let it not be supposed, however, that it is an easy thing to conjure up a really first-class advertising catch phrase. But with enough patience and diligence the ordinary advertiser can probably invent one more or less suitable. But having once found a good one, let him use it for all it is worth.

One of the snags that beset the feet of the unwary retail advertiser is the entering into contracts with publishers of papers. Many an advertiser finds that he has bound himself down to use a certain space in each issue of a paper. This compels him to use the exact space every time he advertises. Often it happens that he does not really need so much space. Sometimes it occurs he needs more space than his alotted amount. The result is that part of the time his advertisements have a crowded-up appearance and part of the time the printer is compelled to fill the space with big type. It is always best to resist making any contract at all. Say to the publisher that you are anxious to use all the space that you possibly can. Tell him that if he names you his lowest rate you will probably use more than any space you would contract for any way, but that the exact space you will use will depend on conditions wh you can't forecast. But if a contract must be made let it b contract to use so many lines or inches as the case may be, within, say, one year. Another good arrangement and a fair one all around is to pay the publisher his regular rate and get a discount or rebate at the end of, say, each month or each three months. This discount, of course, would be graduated according to the amount of space used.

I am asked to say what I think of these two advertisements of Ramsay & Morlock's. I am also requested to handle them "without gloves." There can be no question as to which is the better ad. of the two. In fact the flannelette ad. is a good one while the dress goods ad. is a poor one. The reason why the flannelette ad. is good is because it gives plenty of specific information about the goods offered for sale. It is also a good ad. because the language is modest and there is no attempt to be smart or funny. It is just a plain and unvarnished business statement. It is convincing and interesting because of these things. The dress goods advertisement is much better, of course, than the average country merchant's ad. When I say that it is poor, I mean that it is poor as compared with the other. This ad. appears to me to be an instance of the common practice of trying to fill up a certain space in the paper. There seems to be no good reason why one-half the space occupied would not be enough and to spare. In other words, this ad. costs fully twice as much as it ought to. The head line "Dress Lengths," is not nearly so catchy as "Trade Winners" is. Besides this, not enough information is given. We are not told what kind of dress goods are for sale, what the colors are, what the patterns are like nor what the prices are between 50c. and $1.50 a yard. Both the ads. would be better without the ornaments. In fact, the plainer an ad. is set up the better it is as an ad. I think that Messrs. Ramsay & Morlock would do well to always use the same font of type in setting up their ads. This is especially desirable in the setting up of the firm name. Two different styles of gothic type are used for their firm name in the two ads. If they always used one particular kind of type for this purpose it would be better. A good plan for them would be to get an artist to draw their name in plain and distinct letters with the addition of the words "cash and one price" and the address. From this a plate could be made and duplicates sent to the various newspapers used by the firm for advertising purposes. The design could also be used on the firm's stationery and circulars. By-and-bye the public would become familiar with it. In this sense it would really be a trade mark and a valuable one. I notice that in these two advertisements the name of the town does not appear. In the case of country papers where so large a proportion of the circulation is outside of the places of publication it is probably better always to add the name of the town to all advertisements.

I have three advertisements of J. A. Hunter, also of Durham, Ont., which I am asked to criticise. I have only room to reproduce the two smaller of them. The head line, "A suit to order," indicates that the first part of the first of these two ads. is about clothing. The two cuts would seem to indicate quite a different line of goods. This is a deplorable lack of harmony. The lower section is much better, as the cut is in harmony with the head line. What this ad. really needs is to be divided into sections —say a clothing section, a grocery section, a dry goods section and a hardware section. A few items and prices ought to be quoted in each section. Each of these sections, by proper type arrangement, could be made to stand out by itself. Instead of the ad. having the mixed-up appearance it now presents it would be more artistic in appearance as well as business-like.

The other or "Klondike" ad. is a much better one. It is nearly all about one line of goods (dry goods), and this is better than the "mix up" of the other ad. The principal objection I have in connection with it is the use of the word "Klondike." As a matter of fact the word "Klondike" has been worked to death by advertisers anyway. In the second place, the use of such headlines is based on a wrong principle. The idea seems to be that people are more interested in gold mining in the Arctic circle than they are in where to buy dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, hardware and such like goods. This is, I believe to be, all wrong. I believe that the people in every community are more interested in making their dollars go as far as possible than they are even in the Klondike mines. This I believe to be particularly true of women, and women, it is well known, comprise about 50 to 90 per cent. of the customers of the retail stores. What shortsightedness, then, for a dealer to go so far away for a subject matter for a headline for his advertisement when he has a whole store full of interesting things to write about. One of the great essentials is for the advertiser to firmly believe in the goods or the store or whatever it is which he is advertising. The fuller he is of it, the more saturated he is with it, the better he can advertise it. A merchant-advertiser who lives up to this standard is likely to think that his store or his business is the most interesting thing on earth, the Klondike not excepted. A natural and proper thing for such a man would be to say something about his store or his goods instead of something quite foreign. And this is the kind of man who succeeds as an advertiser. I was quite struck by a remark made to me recently by the man who so successfully advertises Sapolio. He said: "I think of Sapolio by day and I dream of it by night. I eat Sapolio and I drink Sapolio. I am Sapolio all through."

At the bottom this ad. says, "Drink only Kolona Ceylon Tea." Whether Kolona is a package tea or a bulk tea is not stated. If a package tea, whether it comes in pounds or half pounds or both is not stated. Yet these are all points on which the public need more or less instruction. I happen to know that Kolona is one of the numerous excellent brands of Ceylon tea on the Canadian market, but everyone within shopping distance of Durham does not know this. If I were a merchant in Durham and wanted to push the sale of Kolona tea, I would put out some advertising like this:

> Millions of pounds of tea are spoiled every year through being handled loose or in bulk.
> KOLONA CEYLON TEA is sold only in air-tight pound and half-pound packets, which preserve the strength and flavor.
> 60c. a pound, 30c. for halves.

> Are you satisfied with the tea you drink?
> If not, why don't you try KOLONA? It is a pure, high-grade Ceylon tea.
> Put up in air-tight pounds and halves.
> 60c. a pound, 30c. a half.
> One of the reasons why Ceylon teas are so much better than China teas is because they are cleaner.
> They are cleaner because in the picking, curing and packing of the leaf, the handling is done almost entirely by machinery.
> KOLONA TEA is a pure, high-grade Ceylon tea.
> In air-tight pounds and halves, 60c. and 30c.

The Quebec timber business seems to have enjoyed a very healthy season. The quantity of waney white pine culled at that port to date is 4,311,340 feet, or double that of last season at the same time. White pine reached 832,589 feet, nearly treble that of the preceding year; while red pine shows 211,217 feet, four times the quantity of last season. There is also an increase of about 25 per cent. in elm and ash, the figures being 622,577 and 132,425 respectively.

A Popular Starch.

All laundresses agree on this one point, that in order to obtain the best results, a high-class starch is indispensable. Celluloid has long been recognized as the Laundresses' reliable friend, whose verdict in its favor has been so unanimous that it has won for itself, as a cold-water starch, a reputation which is world-wide.

Vol. XI. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 26, 1897 ($2.00 per Year) No. 48

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING IN AMERICA.

BY HENRY AUSTIN.

THE first Thanksgiving! This is a theme which even a flippant writer would perforce be compelled to approach with a feeling akin to reverence.

Even John Boyle O'Reilly, a man not born in the faith of our Pilgrim fathers, but representing an antagonistic creed, spoke always throughout his life with a certain enthusiasm in regard to this great original of a now historic and national ceremony.

For the festival of Thanksgiving to-day, though an American institution and a matter of proclamation on the part of the Administration, is a thing that goes deeper than its national significance, and finds its firm root, not merely in the affections and the customs of one people, but in that potent imagination everywhere that speaks the aspirations of mankind, and voices in no vague tones the triumph of common humanity.

To us individually Thanksgiving signifies a reunion of kinsfolk under the natal roof, at the hearthstone, which is the heartstone, and this reunion is for a joyous discussion of especially good cheer and a gentle rewelding of the old associations of consanguinity.

But to us collectively as a people Thanksgiving means more. It stands to-day for what it stood in that almost primeval wilderness, when the forlornly brave little band which came over on the Mayflower celebrated their gratitude to Him who had preserved them from the perils of the deep; when they performed the rights of hospitality to the savages whose minds had been inclined toward them in kindness; and when, furthermore, they gave shape and example to that spirit of co-operation and fraternal love which was destined to ripen in the following century into a republic broad-based on the rights of every man.

And now that we realize the wide significance in a historical way of the first Thanksgiving, let us understand it in detail and behold it in all the vitality of a picture as an event by itself.

The festival began about a year after the landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock, for it was on November 21, 1620, that the Mayflower with 102 Pilgrims cast anchor off Cape Cod.

Their voyage had taken about ten times the time which a crossing of the Atlantic now consumes, and the poem of Mrs. Hemans, that so many of us learned by heart in childhood, was no exaggeration of the storm and gloom which had companioned their flight across the sea and their landing where "the breaking waves dashed high."

The first half of their first year on the roaring ocean edge of the wilderness had been a period of deaths, of haunting doubts, of constant hardships and of danger; though not danger in any large degree from the hostility of the natives, because it is a curious fact that the New England Indians were originally well-disposed toward the white men.

It is of record that, shortly after their first landing, one of their exploring parties received the sudden salute of a flight of arrows from ambush; but these arrows did not kill anybody, and evidently were intended solely as a salute, or to apprise the strangers of the presence of the owners of the land.

Friendly relations were established with the Indians at the start, and might have continued undisturbed had the Government of the colony been supremely single, instead of general, or had the subsequent additions to the colony been of equally high character and benevolent intent with the first comers.

Their Indian friends had taught the Pilgrims how to plant and fertilize corn, and it is interesting to note that for this fertilization the bones of shad and other fish that abounded along the coast were used.

The first year of the Pilgrim settlement, in spite of that awful first winter when nearly half of them perished, had therefore been comparatively successful. They had planted themselves well, and it is easy to understand why this fact should have appealed to the pious mind of their second governor, William Bradford, as an especial reason for proclaiming a season of thanksgiving.

The exact date of this first Thanksgiving, which also might be considered as in some sense a natural evolution from the old harvest festivals in England, is not certain; but from the fact that it was an open-air feast, it is evident that it must have occurred in that lovely period of balmy calm, cool air and soft sunshine, which is called Indian summer, and which may be considered to range between the latter week of October and the latter week of November.

Edward Winslow, whose name stands third as a signer to the original compact in the cabin of the Mayflower and who was thrice made governor, 1633, 1636 and 1644, writes an account of it, supposedly to one George Morton, under date of December 11, 1621. This account runs as follows:

"You shall understand that, in this little time that a few of us have been here, we have built seven dwelling houses and four for the use of the plantation and have made preparation for diverse others.

"We set the last spring some twenty acres of Indian corn and sowed some six acres of barley and pease and, according to the manner of the Indians, we manured our ground with herrings, or, rather, shads, which we have in great abundance, and take with great ease at our doors.

"Our corn did prove well; and, God be praised, we had a good increase of Indian corn, and our barley indifferent good, but our pease not worth the gathering, for we feared they were too late down. They came up very well and blossomed ; but the sun parched them in the blossom.

"Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling, that so we might, after a special manner, rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors.

"They four in one day killed as many fowl as, with a little help beside, served the company almost a week, at which time, amongst other recreations, we exercised our arms, many of the Indians coming amongst us, and among the rest their greatest king, Massasoyt, with some ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted ; and they went out and killed five deer, which they brought to the plantation and bestowed on our governor, and on the captain and the others.

"And, although it is not always so plentiful as it was at this time with us, yet, by the goodness of God, we are so far from want that we wish you partakers of our plenty."

Certes, from this frank, straightforward letter, the four men sent out as gunners, or fowlers, for this was the word used in that day, by Governor Bradford, were veritable Nimrods, men of mark as marksmen ; or else the New England forest was more plentifully supplied with game than even the woods of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are to-day.

That they killed many wild turkeys, which the women, in dressing, probably stuffed with beech nuts, and that they brought home wood pigeons and partridges in abundance, is clear.

But it seems they must have lacked deer, since the Indian nobles in the train of King Massasoyt volunteered to go out and bring in the venison.

The Indians, of course, knew the haunts of the deer better than the Pilgrim fowlers.

What a cheerful spectacle it must have been when their Indian guests reappeared carrying a many-branched buck, slung downward on a pole, or a pretty little doe, possibly hung across the stalwart shoulders of some giant red man who, in endurance and activity, could have easily eclipsed one of our modern professional athletes !

Shall one doubt that the Pilgrim gravity of demeanor was for a moment dispelled, when the Indians returned with their delicious contribution to the fraternal feast, and that a welcoming cheer arose from the throat of many of the deep-lunged Englishmen, or that the younger of the women may have clapped their hands and beamed upon their red brothers with smiling eyes of Saxon blue ?

There was no prejudice then in English breasts against a man on account of the color God had given him. That feeling was to come later in some of the descendants of the English toward another dark-skinned race.

The men and women of the Mayflower met the copper-colored semi-savage as a man and brother on equal footing, though, of course, a pagan whose soul had to be saved.

And the religious exercises that accompanied every day of that first Thanksgiving season were doubtless intended to serve the double purpose of expressing their own gratitude to God and of impressing on the minds of the strangers in enjoyment of their hospitality the beauty and truth of a worship more suitable to the diversified human mind than the Indian's simple deism.

Between the feastings, in generous emulation, like the athletes of olden Greece or the knights in mediæval tourneys, many of the dusky suite of King Massasoyt contended with the younger Pilgrims in various games and races or in feats of strength and agility. Perhaps Massasoyt himself unbent from his kingly dignity to show how straight he could send an arrow at some improvised target. Maybe, some Puritan maiden, remembering her bowman ancestors at Hastings, laughingly tried her hand on an Indian bow.

Possibly, too, in the military drill and evolutions which Miles Standish, with his little regiment of twenty, went through, there was a sagacious intention on the part of that stout little warrior to give the Indians an idea what a formidable foe the white man might be, if provoked.

The feasting through those balmy days, and with such an army of unexpected guests, was doubtless mostly out in the open and the cooking done at huge fires.

Naturally, the deer, like the oxen of England at the old popular feasts, or like animals at our Southern barbecues, was in some cases roasted whole, though it is likely that, as they had barley flour, the cunning hands of the Puritan women composed some delicious venison pasties, and possibly some pies and puddings with wild fruit.

Fish, broiled to a rare brown turn; clams, roasted or stewed, and oysters, also brought in by the Indians and believed to be the first ever eaten by the Pilgrims, were likewise among the dainties.

Some "firewater," too, it is fair to infer, was passed about, for our Pilgrim fathers, there is abundant evidence to prove, though temperate, were not teetotalers.

Whether the Indians sat on settles at rude tables improvised for the occasion, or whether most of them stretched along the ground in the Roman fashion of dining, is a question for imagination to decide.

To their king, Massasoyt, it is presumable that a seat of honor must have been offered, and it would be a satisfaction of the mind to know whether were present on this occasion his two sons, Metacom and Wamsutta, or Philip and Alexander, as they were afterward styled, who, in the unfraternal years to follow, fell victims to the cruelty and greed of the white man.

The eye of imagination beholds at this feast the Puritan women handing about to their guests bowls of delicious food with a grave and simple courtesy that must have made its impression on the Indian mind.

Perhaps the memory of their grace and graciousness lingered long. We know that, in the frightful wars that subsequently occurred, the New England Indians, as a rule, treated well the white women who fell into their hands. There is the testimony of Mrs. Rowlandson, that even when held in captivity by King Philip, who had the deepest of reasons to hate the white man, she was always an object of most courteous consideration. The king even paid her a shilling for making a shirt for his little boy.

And the ear of imagination hears in that first season of Thanksgiving, along with the solemn music of the stern Pilgrim hymns, the ripple of feminine merriment and the deep laughter of the soldiers of Miles Standish.

And if Massasoyt and his ninety men did not forget momentarily their racial gravity and join audibly in this laughter, it still must be believed that their hearts laughed and leaped in their bosoms and their dark eyes brightened in conviviality and friendship. That friendship, hallowed by Thanksgiving hospitality, continued unbroken, though occasionally disturbed, for about half a century.

Contrary to the line in Mrs. Hemans', for poetry abhors the exactness of history, every day there was heard "the roll of the stirring drum;" but it summoned not to battle, simply to prayer; and at every set of sun, again with prayer and song, the gratitude of all hearts was poured forth.

And one of the leading cooks of this wonderful woodland banquet was none other than Priscilla, whom Captain Standish made the grand mistake of wooing through another man, instead of trying to take her heart like a true soldier, by storm, face to face.

She it was who presided over the largest kitchen, for some of the cooking of especial dishes was done inside.

What a picture is here for some historical painter: Priscilla at the fire or flitting through the throng outside with some dainty offering for Massasoyt, while the eyes of all the younger men follow her footsteps!

And what a noble, inspiring picture is the whole scene—a picture of piety, of human brotherhood and of poetry, for which the universal heart of man, when realizing its profound significance, must gladly and proudly give thanks.

A NEW TALLOW TREE.

The French journal, Revue Coloniale, gives the following description of a new tallow tree: The Myristica surinamensis Roland, of Guiana, and the Myristica Kombo H. Bn., of the Congo, yield a fatty substance very closely allied to tallow, which has caused the name of "tallow tree" to be given them. The tree to which we now draw attention, however, belongs neither to the same species nor to the same family. The tallow tree of East Africa must be placed in the family of Guttiferœ; at first the name of Stearine-tree (stearodendron) was given to it, and this was afterwards changed to Allanblackia. The Allanblackia Stuhlmanii Engler, known in Ussambara under the native name of Msambo, is a tall tree, whose rather large fruit-buds, fleshy and of a strange shape, immediately attract the attention of the traveler. The fruit, which attains the size of a human head, contains a considerable number of seeds, which are extraordinarily rich in a fatty substance. It is stated that the seeds of four of these fruits will yield as much as 1 to 1½ kilogrammes (say 2 to 3 pounds) of fat. This fat is of the same stiffness of tallow, and can be used for making candles. At Bagamoyo, indeed, this trade has reached considerable proportions. The wood of the tree, which is of a red color, could be utilized in house-building, and perhaps even for cabinet-making.

THE HARVEST.

So a small seed that in the earth lies hid
And dies, reviving, bursts her cloddy side,
Adorned with yellow locks, of new is born,
And doth become a mother great with corn,
Of grains brings hundreds with it, which, when old,
Enrich the furrows with a sea of gold.

—Sir William Drummond.

A VALUABLE NEEDLE.

The following story is told by an English paper:

"It is difficult for us of the present generation to realize the privations of the pioneers who first went to Canada, the straits to which they were at times reduced from lack of articles now as common as water and air, and the preposterous value they often set upon them.

"An aged resident of Fitzroy, Ontario, recently said that he well remembered the time when there was but one darning needle in that country and the only mill was a day's journey distant.

"One day Mrs. Dickson, who chanced to have temporary possession of the darning-needle, and had it carefully stuck to her apron in a holder, set off to the mill with a bag of grain laid on the back of a horse. The good lady had a rough road to travel, and unfortunately lost the darning-needle.

"This was really a public calamity in Fitzroy. Nearly 20 housewives depended upon that darning needle for repairing socks and other coarse mending. It passed from one log house to another, by special messenger, and every woman had the use of it one day in three weeks. Another darning needle could not be procured nearer than Perth, a matter of fifty miles away.

"Tidings of the disaster which had befallen Mrs. Dickson soon spread, and on the following morning a dozen women, some of them accompanied by their children, and some by their husbands, turned out to search three miles of forest path.

"It seemed to be a well-nigh hopeless task, but keen eyes were bent upon every portion of the highway, and at length one little girl espied it.

"A great shout was raised, and the good news was carried along the line of searchers. The party returned home, and the rejoicings in the newly settled Fitzroy that day was great."

THE HAY-MARKET OF MONTREAL

AMONG the antique landmarks of this beautiful Canadian city is the hay market. Situated in the central part of the town, near the river, is a large, open space two squares long by one wide. Before or after market time, it is most dreary and desolate looking. Fancy a tremendous plot of ground, the black soil unrelieved by a single blade of grass, unshaded by tree or shrub, with a gray stone weighing-house in the centre, and the hay-market lies before you.

The weighing house is quite modern. It has a turreted side like a fanciful ferry house, and over its most prominent doorway is cut in the stone :

HENRY STARNS, MAYOR.
Erected A.D. 1866.

Below this are six names of aldermen and councillors, all French or Irish, who were instrumental in bringing about the erection of this new building.

Facing the square are factories, a large depot for agricultural implements and two churches. These last, being of the Protestant order, have been subjected to many missiles from the lower prejudiced order of Catholics, and are much battered and mutilated, looking like time and battle-scarred warriors, still on duty. On St. Paul street a row of quaint little two-storey gable-windowed houses still hold up their smoky little faces. Quite a number being dining and luncheon places. Others drinking and sweetie shops, where the unwary farmer may easily spend his profits.

At the side of the turreted weighing-house is a covered scale where loads are weighed. Every fine day, winter or summer, is market day, and until noon the square is a scene of lively bustle. The farmers—to a man, swarthy, black-browed French Canadians—drive their loaded carts to their places in rotation, each cart having its number and consequent location.

Driving into market, their carts are weighed and they pass along to wait patiently for a buyer. Some of the men perch on top of the load, others sit on the ground, and some bring low, primitive camp chairs, where they sit in state till a purchaser arrives. When the hay or straw is sold they drive slowly to the buyer's establishment (the Canadian never does anything hastily), and then drive again to the weighing house so that tares may be perfectly estimated.

On the opposite side of the St. Lawrence lies the town of Longueuil. A ferry brings it in connection with Montreal, and most of the farmers who sell hay come from places back over the river. In winter they bring the hay over on sleighs. Sometimes the wind is too keen to risk open loads of unpacked material, and then they bring what they have baled or bundled.

The weigh-master was a pleasant Scotchman, with a keen eye and a melodious burr. He gossipped pleasantly about the easy, business ways of the people.

"Who fixes the prices on market days?" asked I. "Is it regulated on the Board of Trade?"

"Bless yeer hairt, no," answered he, with a smile at the innocence of my question. "Ye see, these folk dinna care owre much about method. They just bring in theer gudes, and like till sell and turn the siller in theer ain pockets. Theers verra leetle baled or bundled hay and straw. It a' makes a pother to prepare, an' that does na suit."

He went on to say that the Government tried to regulate prices by fixing hay at so much per ton, thinking to make business easier for buyer and seller. This received the most violent opposition from the producers, and beyond a few who were willing to bundle their hay, not an inch of advancement has been made in the business since the days of their grandfathers.

"Why," said I, "they are a regular set of old women."

"Maybe, maybe," quoth the old man, adding with a canny gleam from his calculating eye, "E'en an' auld wife kens hoo tae fill her stockin'."—Elvira Floyd Froemcke in New England Grocer.

WETTING THE PIPE.

"The practice of wetting the bowl of a new briarwood pipe before filling it with tobacco for the first time is an essentially German custom here in New York," remarked a tobacco dealer in lower Broadway the other day as a man who had just purchased a pipe walked over to the water cooler and filled the bowl with water. "A briar pipe is the easiest thing to hold between the teeth when you are working at a desk or on the street, and nine Germans out of ten smoke them during the day, though at night, when comfortably digesting dinner, they prefer to puff away at a long-stemmed affair.

"The reason for wetting the pipe first is simple enough. The wood gets bone dry after having been in the shop for months, as most pipes are, and if it was not wet it would burn out in a comparatively short time. If you allow a pipe to soak for a few minutes before lighting it for the first time the wood will char very gradually, and as time goes on it will absorb more evenly the nicotine, which will make it sweet to the hardened pipe smoker.

"Most people think that there is a vast difference in the quality of the wood between a briar pipe that costs $2 and one that costs 25c., and nearly every dealer is glad to foster this idea. But the fact is that the difference in price lies in the mouthpiece. The $2 pipe has a mouthpiece of amber, and the finer the quality of amber the higher the price. But the quality of the wood is about the same in a cheap pipe as in one that costs dollars. Of course, in a cheap pipe there may be flaws in the wood that have been deftly puttied up, but a careful buyer, when he has a number of pipes to choose from, can easily detect these if he looks sharply. A 25c. pipe, if judiciously selected, will smoke just as well and last as long as a more costly one."

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Canned Goods. Generally speaking, retailers report that the trade in canned goods is becoming a much better all-the-year-round trade, especially in such lines as peas, corn and tomatoes. Those whose trade is largely with boarding houses and restaurants find this remarkably true of their business. The cause assigned is that the goods are better put up, and that, at their present prices, housekeepers find they save more in time by using the canned goods than they save in money by buying and preparing the vegetable itself. Canned fish is generally found to meet with the same or a slightly increased sale. Lobsters, when put up in the flat tins, have proved lately to be more free from discoloration than formerly. There is an increase in the demand for canned meats, which are now offered in more varied forms than in the past.

Keeping Candy. The stores not on the busiest streets generally have for sale an assortment of candies to attract the younger population; and in every case the trade is spoken of as a profitable one. There is a good percentage of profit on the goods, a good demand, and what little is not readily sold is mixed up and put in grab-bags. Apart from the profit in the goods, one dealer said he would not part with his candy trade, for good reasons. He said: "I find that children who buy candies here bring me trade; that often they are sent for an article, and, with no instructions where to go, and as in such a case they always bring the cash, their trade is a desirable one. Besides, there is a pleasure in serving some children that makes me like to see them coming in my door." Evidently this man thinks there is some sentiment in business, and, if appearances are any criterion, such sentiment brings business to him.

Grab Bags. How early in life human nature exerts itself! Sometimes we are inclined to look upon the bargain-hunting spirit as an evolution of modern circumstances, but it is not so. There is in the make-up of the genuine bargain-hunter a certain love of mystery with a willingness to risk something in the hope of ultimate gain; a sort of gambling instinct. And this is not foreign to children—some children prefer to pay a set price and get what they want; others spend their coppers in grab bags, gum draws, etc., not knowing whether they will get their money's worth or not, but willing to risk it in the hope of getting more than the value of the cash invested.

Showing "The Grocer." Some grocers, I understand, are in the habit of showing their customers copies of THE CANADIAN GROCER, sometimes even lending it to them. Undoubtedly this paper is one calculated to interest the general public, but it is not intended for such circulation, and it is not to the interest of grocers to have it, with its market prices, wholesale advertisements, go into the hands of the general public. It is a mistake to leave THE GROCER lying around on the counter or any other place where curious customers may be tempted to seek for information wherewith to beat the dealer in his prices.

STEAMER ROUTE TO CHANGE.

The Owen Sound Times last week said that information had been received to the effect that next season the steamers of the Ogdensburg Transportation Co., eight in number, would run between Chicago, Duluth and Parry Sound, Ont., instead of between Chicago, Duluth and Ogdensburg, N.Y., as formerly. The Times says this and the improved facilities for the transportation of freight in Parry Sound will make that place Owen Sound's only rival for the commercial metropolis of the Georgian Bay, and that next season there will be a larger fleet of vessels on Georgian Bay than ever before.

THE BASIS FOR RECIPROCITY.

THE statement made by the Premier since he returned from Washington, to the effect that there was no intention whatever of negotiating a reciprocity treaty with the United States which would affect Canada's preferential tariff on British goods, will doubtless assure a good many who were dubious as to where he was going to lead the country in the negotiations now pending.

Any other course would be unwise, to say nothing of its being dishonorable. Canada courted extended trade with the United States until she was black in the face, but she got a stone instead of bread for her pains. And now that Canada has in Great Britain a customer "to have and to hold," it would be short-sighted, indeed, to antagonize that customer by any species of double dealing whatsoever.

But there is no reason why Canada should not have closer trade relations with the United States without at all affecting our preferential relations with Great Britain, even if they come through the medium of a reciprocity treaty.

According to a statement made by the Premier the discussion at the recent conference in Washington was confined to the reciprocal abolition of the duties on coal, lumber, fish, hay, potatoes, barley, eggs and other similar articles. No matter to what extent trade between Canada and the United States developed in these articles it would have no effect upon the Canadian-British trade.

It will be interesting in this connection to notice the extent of the trade between Canada and the United States in the articles enumerated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as being the subject of reciprocity discussion. The following table gives the imports of the articles in 1896 into Canada from the United States:

IMPORTED FROM THE UNITED STATES.

Coal, bituminous	$3,520,499
" anthracite	5,656,572
Logs and round manufactured timber	286,683
Lumber and timber, n.e.s.	14,581

Fish	337,632
Hay	28,832
Potatoes	28,743
Barley	9,146
Eggs	35,090
	$11,747,916

The following table gives the exports of these same articles to the United States from Canada.

EXPORTS TO THE UNITED STATES.

Coal	$3,145,419
Wood and manufactures of, not including household furniture	....
Logs, all kinds	1,720,601
Deals, spruce and others	500,000

It will be seen from the above tables that coal is the article which we purchase more of from the United States than we sell to that country, while our total purchases of the articles enumerated are valued at $11,747,906, against our sales of $18,825,091, or about 38 per cent. in favor of the latter.

The rates of duty in the two countries on the articles enumerated are:

Western Ontario requires United States coal. She can use no other, from the fact that distance is a greater obstacle to the use there of Nova Scotia Scotia coal than is the tariff. Nova Scotia coal never came farther west than Belleville, Ont., and that was, if we remember rightly, one cargo. Then just as it is natural that Ontario should use Pennsylvania coal, so it is about as natural that the New England and Pacific States should use respectively Nova Scotia and British Columbia coal.

Notwithstanding that the United States Congress has seen fit to put a duty of $2 per thousand feet on Canadian pine, the people of the Eastern States are just about as much in need of Canadian lumber as the people of Ontario are in need of Pennsylvania coal. It may be quite true that, taking the country as a whole, Canada only supplies the United States with about 3½ per cent. of its total consumptive requirements, but a well-known authority has estimated that Canada supplies the State of New York and the New England States with at least 50 per cent. of their total requirements.

For hay and potatoes, the product of the Maritime Provinces, the New England States are the chief outlet. Then a market for Canadian eggs, which declined about $400,000 in four or five years, would be worth again possessing.

No matter what may be done, it is unlikely that Canadian barley will ever again occupy the place it did in the United States, but unquestionably a good many brewers would again use it if the conditions before obtaining were restored. The year the McKinley tariff went into force Canada exported over $4,500,000 worth of barley to the United States, against only $297,439 last year, so there is quite a margin to work upon and still we may be a long way from being where we were in the years gone by.

By excluding manufactured articles from the proposed reciprocity tariff the parties to the recent conference have been wise, for manufacturers in both Canada and the United States would be certain to exert their influence against any reciprocal arrangement which tended to upset the present conditions as far as they are concerned.

FOREIGN DEMAND FOR POULTRY.

LAST fall there was quite an active demand for Canadian poultry for export, and a good business was done in this connection. This year this outlet for the result of the farmwife's thriftiness will be even larger, if present indications are any criterion.

According to reports received in Montreal, there has been active buying in the country districts of Ontario and Quebec for two weeks back on this account. Turkeys have realized all the way from 7½ to 9c. at country points, and they point still higher.

The contracts now being entered into will be shipped via Portland so as to reach the British market to catch the Christmas demand.

Last year our plump Canadian turkeys were highly spoken of, and there is every reason for thinking that a large and increasing export business can be done in our poultry in England.

To satisfy the British trade, the birds have to be dry-plucked and nicely wrapped up in oil tissue paper. Farmers should exercise care in this particular.

Blistered birds, with unsightly patches of the skin torn off them here and there, will be bound to interfere with the sale of the more carefully prepared.

This foreign demand from England and the United States means an increased competition from jobbers on domestic account who will want supplies for their holiday trade, and of course the poultry raiser will benefit. An indication in this connection is the fact that the daily receipts of poultry so far in Montreal have been much lighter this fall than last.

SELLING TOBACCO ILLEGALLY.

The Canadian Inland Revenue officials have received information that American tobacco has been smuggled from Maine into New Brunswick, and an official was sent down to look into the matter. He found no traces of this smuggling, but found that the dealers were breaking the regulations regarding Canadian tobacco.

Every package of Canadian tobacco contains instructions to the dealer, and among the instructions are these: (1) this package is to be opened in such a manner as to break the stamp, (2) this package is not to be used for any other tobacco when the present contents are removed, (3) the contents are not to be removed except for immediate sale, (4) when the package is empty the stamp must be destroyed.

Five merchants, of Centreville and Florenceville, N.B., were charged with violating these regulations. Four of them did not put in a defence, and were fined $50 and costs apiece. The fifth merchant made a plea of ignorance of the law, and after a stirring fight regarding the matter, judgment was reserved.

MOTIVE POWER OF THE DOLLAR.

How mighty is the dollar. THE CANADIAN GROCER always thought its trade contemporaries were unanimously opposed to gift schemes. We have, however, learned that we were laboring under a delusion.

While perusing our exchanges a few days ago we came across an editorial in a New York trade journal favoring gift schemes under certain conditions.

Every editor has a motive for everything he writes, and the motive in this instance was found a few pages further on in the same journal.

It was the advertisement of a mustard firm which gave away a clock with every case of mustard.

CANADIAN ROAD HEADS THE LIST.

Railway earnings in Canada for the month of October were most remarkable in some respects, the increase in those of the C.P.R. being larger than those of any other railway system on the North American continent.

The earnings of this railway were $2,784,000 against $2,091,000 in October of 1896, an increase of $693,000, or a little over 33 per cent. The next largest increase was $197,000 behind the C.P.R., namely the Missouri Pacific system, its gain being $496,000.

The earnings of the Grand Trunk increased $17,704, the figures being $2,359,461 against $2,341,757 October of last year.

The earnings of the C.P.R. for the ten months of the year were $19,180,330 against $16,791,040 the same period last year, and those of the G.T.R. $19,108,868 and $18,811,769 respectively.

These figures require no comment.

BENEFICIAL TO OUR FISHERIES.

AS most of our readers are doubtless aware, the new Customs tariff of the United States contains a section specifically dealing with such imports as are bounty-fed in the country of production. This section is known as No. 5, and reads as follows:

That whenever any country, dependency or colony shall pay or bestow, directly or indirectly, any bounty or grant upon the exportation of any article or merchandise from such country, dependency or colony, and such article or merchandise is dutiable under the provisions of this Act, then upon the importation of any such article or merchandise into the United States, whether the same shall be imported directly from the country of production or otherwise, and whether such article or merchandise is imported in the same condition as when exported from the country of production, or has been changed in condition by manufacture or otherwise, there shall be levied and paid, in all such cases, in addition to the duties otherwise imposed by this Act, an additional duty equal to the net amount of such bounty or grant, however the same may be paid or bestowed.

This clause, it may not be generally known, is proving of some benefit to Nova Scotia fishermen.

Of late years, it appears, the Boston market has been supplied with dry codfish by French fishermen, but as France gives its fishermen a bonus for the cod they catch in North American waters, these fish have run counter to the provisions of the anti-bonusing section of the Dingley tariff, with the result that Nova Scotia fishermen are experiencing a demand from Boston for dry cod, and the first cargo for some years left Lunenburg, N.S., the other day for that market.

Under an Act passed by the Parliament of Canada in 1882, provision was made for distributing $150,000 annually among the fishermen and vessels employed in the deep sea fisheries, and in 1891 the amount was increased to $160,000. Vessels in 1895 were paid at the rate of $2.60 per ton, one-half to owner and one-half to crew, $3 per man to boat fishermen, and $1 per boat to the owners.

One unacquainted with the circumstances might conclude that this was at least an indirect species of bounty. It is, however, the method the Canadian Government adopted for distributing among the fishermen the interest on the five and a half millions of dollars awarded to this country by the Halifax Fisheries Commission as remuneration for the use of our Atlantic fisheries by fishermen of the United States from 1866 to 1871.

ST. JOHN'S WINTER PORT.

MR. W. S. FISHER, president of the St. John, N.B., Board of Trade, on Monday last addressed a meeting of business men and others at the Toronto Board of Trade in regard to St. John as a winter port.

Mr. Fisher, in his opening remarks, referred to the efforts made by the people of St. John themselves to improve their port. They had spent in the past two or three years $750,000 out of the taxes on new wharves. Their idea was not to make it a local but a national scheme, and St. John asked the co-operation of the people of the west in carrying out their idea. They had done their share in building up a highway across the continent, and they felt it was time they should profit. As showing how the port had developed, Mr. Fisher mentioned that the Beaver line, which, with a small subsidy, formerly gave a fortnightly service between St. John and Liverpool, were now running a weekly service, and there was a fortnightly service to London, Glasgow, Dublin and Belfast, while there would be three sailings during the winter to Aberdeen. Mr. Fisher pointed out that St. John could not be considered the rival of Halifax, although each port should take advantage of its geographical position. The true rival of St. John was Portland, and it was a question of whether Canadians were going to build up a foreign port at the expense of their own.

TRADE DEVELOPMENT.

When, Mr. Fisher said, the Canadian Government had refused to grant subsidies to steamers calling at foreign ports, the United States Government appropriated $800,000 to expend on Portland harbor, and hold Canadian trade. Mr. Fisher said he was authorized by the transportation companies to say that they would grant as low rates out of St. John as could be obtained from any other port. As instancing the increase in the lumber trade alone of St. John, Mr. Fisher stated that in 1895 63 sailing vessels and 55 steamers carried 129,000,000 feet of lumber to the Old Country; in 1896 52 sail and 95 steam craft carried 168,000,000 feet; and in the ten months of 1897, 52 sail and 180 steam craft carried 226,000,000 feet of lumber. The winter exports last year were 78,000 tons of general freight, 1,500,000 bushels of grain, 8,000 cattle, 3,000 sheep and lambs, and 1,288 horses. Mr. Fisher quoted from a railway rate sheet, showing that the import rate on first-class goods by the all-Canadian route was 36c., against 53c. by the American route. This was a striking difference.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

Turning to trade with the West Indies, Mr. Fisher pointed out that there was a field for Canadian enterprise. The present was an admirable time for shippers of flour to secure a foothold in the West Indies, as he was informed that Canadian millers could undersell the American millers. Last year there were shipped out of New York 600,000 barrels of flour, which showed that there was the business to secure. So far as the facilities at St. John were concerned, Mr. Fisher promised that exporters would be given quick despatch.

Mr. Fisher also referred to the favorable position Canada had secured in the minds of the people of Great Britain, and now was the time for us to follow up the advantage we had gained. He said he cordially approved of the suggestion that a commercial agent should be appointed in the old country. He thought it a very good scheme. Some of the other colonies had business representatives in Great Britain, and he thought it strange that the Antipodeans were smarter than we were in that respect.

At the conclusion of Mr. Fisher's address the following resolution was moved by Mr. A. E. Kemp and seconded by Mr. B. E. Walker:

That this meeting reaffirms the policy of the board in the direction of using its influence in the fostering of export and import trade by the Canadian railways and seaports—Canada for the Canadians. That the hearty thanks of this meeting be tendered to the president of the St. John, N.B, Board of Trade, Mr. W. S. Fisher, for the very valuable and instructive manner in which he has laid before us the claims of St. John N.B., as a Canadian winter port.

WHAT SHIPPERS DESIRE.

One of the members of the Board of Trade, who explained that he was a flour exporter, stated to Mr. Fisher that there were a few matters he would like to bring to the attention of the steamship companies. The first was that unless they could give quick transportation they should not take the freight; also, when the stuff was loaded shippers should be notified. The steamship companies should be asked, also, not to load flour with chain hoists, and not to make platforms of sack flour on the other side to unload other goods over, as was sometimes done.

Mr. A. E. Kemp, in moving the resolution, expressed the thanks of the Board of Trade to Mr. Fisher. He said the tendency now was to send our own produce via Canadian ports, and he thought shippers should pay more attention to St. John as a winter port.

A BANKER'S VIEW.

Mr. B. E. Walker, who seconded the resolution, said he thought Canadians had largely themselves to blame that more was not known about Canada. There was no question as to the desirability of shipping goods via St. John in winter, but a business man must get just as good terms from there as he could obtain anywhere else. Canada desired that other countries should know her as one of the great shipping powers of the world, but for us to admit that we had no port from which we could ship goods in winter was an admission that we could not hold all the year round the position of a great shipping place.

Dr. Parkin, of Upper Canada College, referred to the fact that the Maritime Provinces had at first not prospered under Confederation, and the great effort St. John had made was really a struggle to get out of the depression that took place as a result of the changes of Confederation. He believed with Mr. Walker that Canada would never be able to take her proper place till she shipped goods through her own ports all the year round. People's views had changed very much lately in regard to the value of St. John as a winter port, and the results that would come from such a change of mind were well worth striving for. Dr. Parkin believed that the Government should back up St. John in its efforts, and grant it as much assistance proportionately as it was giving to Montreal. The motion was passed unanimously, and after Mr. Fisher had expressed his thanks to the members of the Board of Trade the meeting adjourned.

THE POULTRY MARKET.

Heavy receipts have left dealers in Toronto with an abundance of poultry in stock. Prices have been reduced materially as a consequence. Quite a number of inferior, thin birds, principally turkeys, chickens and ducks, have been placed upon the market.

Last Saturday tons of turkeys sold at 6c. per lb., while some were known to sell as low as 4½c., which was considered a good price for birds in such condition.

Some shippers seem to think that everything will meet with a good sale, but there can be little profit in handling such poor stuff.

It is important to see that poultry is in nice shape, that it is dry plucked, and the crops carefully removed Care in this regard will pay shippers 100 per cent.

A WINDSOR WHOLESALE FIRM.

Wall & Guppy, who about a year and a half ago branched out into the wholesale fruit, fish and provision business in Windsor, Ont., do not appear sorry they made the venture, a nice, steadily increasing trade being their experience. They have spacious premises, their warehouse consisting of two buildings turned into one. Mr. Wall looks after the inside part of the business and Mr. Guppy the outside. Wall & Guppy were formerly in the retail business, and are bright, enterprising fellows.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Nov. 24, 1897.

GROCERIES.

GRANULATED sugars were advanced 1-16c. per lb. on Tuesday by the Canadian refiners. Canned tomatoes are also quoted higher. These are about the only changes in prices. Business is a little more active than it was a week ago, and the wholesalers all seem to be well employed. Notwithstanding this, however, it is the opinion that the volume of business this fall is not as large as some expected it would be, in spite of the fact that it is a great deal larger than it was a year ago at this time. The demand for canned goods is fair for this time of the year, and extra granulated sugar is selling rather better since the advance in the Canadian-made German article. Foreign dried fruits are all in brisk demand, with the price of currants showing a further advance in the primary market.

CANNED GOODS.

Wholesalers are, as a rule, quoting canned tomatoes about 5c. per doz. higher than they were a week ago. In other lines prices are unchanged. The demand for canned vegetables is fair, being especially so for tomatoes, and one feature of the market is the fact that retailers who purchased rather sparingly are now enquiring for goods. One wholesale house reports the sale of a round lot of tomatoes for shipment to the Klondike. We quote: Tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corn, 65 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 65 to 80c.; peaches, $2.25 to $3 for 3's, $1.65 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.65 to $1 90, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2 to $2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1.10; canned mackerel, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.50 for tall tins; 1-lb. flats, $2.85 to $2.95; ½-lb. flats, $1.60 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

The Brazilian coffee market is still weak and prices lower in country of production. Roasted coffees declined ½c. per lb. in New York on Monday. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8½ to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 12½ to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 16 to 20c.; Jamaica, 19 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

A few transactions in bright syrups from first hands are reported at good prices and more is offering on the same basis. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

Although the deliveries of molasses at New Orleans are large, the price of the open-kettle description is firm, and in New York sales are reported at full prices. We quote as follows: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

The feature of the Canadian sugar market is an advance of 1-16c. per lb. in the price of extra granulated. This took place late on Tuesday. The outside markets have been somewhat irregular the past week, and London cables on Monday announced a decline of ¾ to 1½c. in beet sugar. Licht has, however, reduced his estimate of the beet crop in France by 15,000 tons, which, with the reduced estimate of 10,000 tons in German crop, makes a total decrease of 40,000 tons in the European estimates, making the yield there 4,885,000 tons against 4,917,840 last year. We quote, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Extra granulated, 4 3/8c. for less than carload lots, and 4 5-16c. for carload lots; yellows, 3⅝ to 3⅞ per lb.; Canadian German granulated, 4c. per lb.;

NUTS.

Shipment ex Bellona are still arriving, and the wholesale trade is now pretty well supplied. Advices from Sicily state that shipments of almonds have been stopped. Tarragona almonds are reported to be lower. We quote: Brazil nuts 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 25c.; Tarragona almonds, 9½ to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 8 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 9½c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, ETC.

The rice market is quiet with prices steady and unchanged. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¾c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to 4½c.

SPICES.

The spice market rules quiet with prices much as before. We quote: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The tocal tea market rules quiet, and the little that is being done is chiefly in spot goods, but a better business is looked for shortly, there having really been little buying since April last. A cable received in Toronto a few days ago from China stated that the market for Young Hysons had closed, and that there would in consequence be no more shipments except of such lots as may have been held over. These teas are scarce and prices higher. The markets in India and Ceylon has been strong for medium and low grade teas, and good profits have been made on shipments from these countries to Great Britain. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business this week has been good. Oranges are moving more freely, though the high prices this year have made trade a little slower in picking up. There is a brisk demand for cranberries, and as stocks are light, prices have advanced. Very few good grapes are now offered, and the few find ready sale. Apples are meeting with a good demand. Onions are moving slowly. We quote as follows: Almeria grapes, $5.50 to $7.50 per keg; Lemons, fancy Verdilli, $3.25 to $3.50; choice Verdilli, $2.50 to $3. Cocoanuts, $4.50 a sack and 60c. per doz.; oranges, California navels, $4 to $4.50 per crate; Jamaica oranges, $8.50 per bbl., and $4.50 per box; Mexican oranges, $3.75 to $4 a box; bananas, $1.50 to $1.75; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl., and $2.75 to $3 per box; Canadian cranberries, $6.75 to $7.50 per bbl., and $1.75 per box; Nova Scotia cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; quinces, 20 to 30c.; chestnuts, $5 a bushel; Canadian apples, $2 to $3.50 per barrel and 40 to 50c. per basket; Spanish onions, $1.25 per case; Canadian onions, red or yellow, in 80-lb. bags, 80c.; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; celery, 25 to 50c. a dozen; grapes, 10-lb. Concords, 18 to 20c; Niagara, 25 to 30c.; Concords, large baskets, 1½ to 2c. per lb.; Niagara, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; sweet potatoes, $3.50; winter pears, $3.50 to $4 per bbl. and 30 to 50c. per basket.

EVAPORATED APPLES — There is practically nothing doing, and jobbers are 9½ to 10c. per lb.

BEANS—The market is more lively this week with prices quoted at from 80 to 82½c. per bushel delivered in store for 50-bag lots of No. 1 prime.

PROVISIONS.

Business continues active. In many lines there is difficulty in keeping stocks, especially in heavier meats and lards. The cold weather will probably bring an increase in receipts of hogs. There are no special features in trade, though prices are firm, especially in hogs, which have advanced 25 to 50c. per cwt.

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 7¾c. for carload lots, and 8 to 8¼c. per lb. for ton lots and cases.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 12 to 12½c.; rolls, 9c.; hams, large, 10c.; medium, 11c.; small, 11½c.; shoulder hams, 8½ to 9c.; backs, 12c.; all meats out of pickle, 1c. less than above.

DRESSED HOGS—We quote: $5.25 to $5.50 for heavy, and $5.50 to $5.75 for light hogs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The supply of dairy in large rolls and 1-lb. prints continues to increase, and it is now difficult to keep sold up. Prices are easier. The quantity of choice dairy in tubs is not large, and would sell readily at 15 to 16c. Creamery is more plentiful, quite a large number of winter creameries having commenced operations. We quote: Dairy, best, large rolls, 15 to 15½c.; pound prints, 16 to 17c.; tubs, best grade, 15 to 16½c.; second grade, 13 to 15c.; low grade, 11 to 12c.; creamery, early make, tubs, 17 to 18c.; late make, tubs, 18 to 19c.; prints, 20c.

CHEESE—The market is still quiet, with local quotations remaining at 9 to 9½c., according to make.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

Business is good, all lines moving nicely. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Oysters, $1.25 per gal.; fresh haddock, 6c. per lb.; fresh steak cod, 7c. per lb.; pickerel, 6c. per lb.; pike, 4c. per lb.; perch, 3c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. per lb.; haddies, 6c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 to $6 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 per half-bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads off), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, 75c. to $1.

SHEEPSKINS—We quote: Lambskins and pelts, 75 to 90c.

WOOL — Pulled wools are very quiet, though prices are unchanged. We quote supers at 21 to 22c.; extras at 22 to 23c.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN — The market is still firm in all lines. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, 81 to 82c. at outside points; freights to Toronto are about 3 to 5c.; barley, 27 to 31c.; peas, 44 to 45c.; oats, 20 to 23c., Toronto freights, and No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $1, Toronto freights.

FLOUR —Though the business done is just what is needed to supply present needs the market is firm. We quote in carloads on track at Toronto: Manitoba patents, $5.40; Manitoba strong bakers, $4.90 to $5; Ontario patents, $4.50 to $4.80; straight roller, $4.20 to $4.25, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS — Trade is in excellent condition, with prices unchanged. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.30 in bags and $3.40 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.70 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.

SEEDS.

Foreign markets report a continued stagnant condition of trade in clover seeds, and this is confirmed by indifference in buying, liberal concessions in price on the part of shippers being necessary to induce business in alsike, values for which range from $3 to $4.50 per bushel, the latter only for really choice qualities. Red clover commands some attention for really fancy qualities, for which a fair price is being paid, prime to choice quoted at $3 to $3.25 per bushel at outside points. Timothy is unchanged at $1 to $1.25 per bushel for machine-threshed seed.

SALT.

Trade is still handicapped by the lack of transportation facilities. Otherwise trade is in a brisk condition. We quote: Carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B.. barrels, 70c.; sacks, 50c.

PETROLEUM, ETC.

Business is still good, with prices unchanged. We quote in 1 to 10 bbl. lots, imperial gallon, Toronto: Canadian, 14c.; carbon safety, 16½c.; American water white 17½c.; Pratt's astral, 17c. in bulk.

MARKET NOTES.

Currants are cabled 6d. dearer in price.

Granulated sugar has been advanced 1-16c. per lb.

The N.Y. Journal of Commerce of Tuesday says: "Local independent and Canadian refiners appeared to be willing to make purchases of centrifugals 96 deg. test at 3⅞c., but this was below importers' ideas, who generally held for 4c., although in instances intimating that a bid of 3 15-16c. would buy."

"Door" and "store" rhyme, and so the door and the store should be harmonizing factors in inducing trade.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE general grocery market has recorded no striking change during the week, demand being fair while prices generally are firm. This especially is the case in sugar, German granulated ruling strong at the advance, though standard is unchanged. Syrups are steady, and molasses is distinctly stronger in tone. Rice and spices are as last noted, while coffees are easier, owing to the position outside, and buyers here have been offered supplies at a material decline. Teas are steady to firm, and the same can be said of dried fruits, nuts and other lines.

SUGAR.

The stronger feeling that marked the sugar market abroad at the close of the week continues, the advance in the price of Canadian German granulated being a testimony to this fact. Standard granulated shows no change, but refiners assert that prices are well maintained. Demand, however, continues somewhat limited for the reasons outlined last week, but a steady jobbing movement is carried on. Advices from abroad state that Licht has reduced his estimate of the German beet yield 25,000 tons. We quote: Granulated, 4 1-16 to 4⅛c., and yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c., with German granulated 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

There is little change in the syrup market, which rules quiet at 2¼ to 2½c., according to grade.

MOLASSES.

There has been a more active demand for molasses from first hands and cargo lots of Porto Rico have, it is understood, been placed this week, the terms being private. Transactions in round lots of old Barbadoes and mixed goods have also transpired on the basis of 23½c. in straight large lots. Stocks of new Barbadoes here are very small; in fact, only one firm has a respectable quantity, and they are firm in their views at 25 to 26c. Outside of this there are a few small lots of new Porto Rico, the balance of the supplies consisting principally of last year's crop. Demand from the country for jobbing quantities is good and supplies in second hands are said to be rapidly decreasing. Prices are firmly held, 25 to 26c. for puncheons, 27½c. for tierces, and 28½c. for bbls. being realized this week.

RICE.

There is a good enquiry for rice with no change in prices to report. We quote: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

The spice market has a strong upward tendency, in sympathy with the advices from abroad. Local enquiry is quite brisk, with prices generally steady. We quote as follows: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream jotartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is decidedly easy in tone, owing to the immense yield in Brazil, and a sharp decline has taken place in Maracaibo and Rio, straight invoice lots of the former being offered at 11c. and the latter at 7c. Java coffee is nominal, though lower values are looked for, owing to the big break in prices in Holland. We quote: Maracaibo, 12 to 14c.; Rio, 8 to 12c.; Santos, 10 to 12c.; Mocha, 24c., and Java, 24c.

TEAS.

There is no new feature in tea, the market ruling quiet and firm. All grades of suitable stock are in light supply, and in the case of all negotiations sellers find no difficulty in obtaining full prices. Supplies of low-grade Gunpowders are especially light, and it is rather difficult to obtain supplies. Medium grades are fairly plentiful, but not so much asked for. Japans continue scarce and strong, while Ceylons have been placed at full prices. China greens have been asked for and have sold at 9½ to 11c. in round lots. We quote as follows: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little change in this department, and prices generally are steadily held, both from first and second hands. We quote: Tomatoes, 80 to 90c.; corn, 60 to 75c.; peas, 75c. to $1.25; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2 to $2.25; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

The chief business since last report has been trading in round lots of Valencia raisins ex Bellona, round lots of these aggregating in the vicinity of 8,000 boxes at a range of 4½ to 4⅝c. for off-stalk and fine off-stalk, and 5½ to 5¾c. for selected. In a jobbing way demand has been very moderate. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine do., 5 to 5¼c.; selected, 6 to 6¼c., and 4-crown layers, 6¾ to 7c.

California raisins continue firm with a stronger tendency, and higher prices are asked this week as follows: 2-crown, 6¼c.; 3-crown, 6½ to 7c.; and 4-crown, 8½ to 8¾c.

Malaga raisins are steady and unchanged.

Currants are firm, with but little business doing. We quote: Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; Filiatra, do., 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. Provincials, 5c. in bbls., 5⅜c. in cases, and 5½c. in half-cases, and Vostizzas, half-cases, 7½ to 8c.

The prune market is steady and unchanged. We quote: French, 4¼ to 4½c.; Austrian, 6 to 7c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

There is little doing in evaporated fruits and prices generally rule steady.

Figs are steady, but quiet, at 9 to 10c. in 14-oz. boxes, 10 to 11c. in 10 lb. boxes and 4c. in bags.

NUTS.

There has been no change in nuts, which rule steady. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 10 to 10½c.; Sicily filberts, 7c.; Tarragona almonds, 8c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 21 to 22c.; shelled walnuts, 20c., and cocoanuts, $3.50 per 100.

FISH.

The severe weather on the coast has led to a scarcity of fresh fish in this market, supplies during the past few days being almost nil. Lately, however, receipts have been larger. Pickled, smoked and preserved fish continue in large supply, for which demand is fair. We quote: Green cod—No. 1 large, $4.25 to $4.50; No. 1 ordinary, $3.75 to $4; No. 2, $2.50; herrings, No. 1 N.S., $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl.; N.B., $2.15 to $2.25 per half-bbl.; B.C. salmon, $11 per bbl.; mackerel, No. 2 new, $20; 1896 pack, $10 to $11 per bbl.

In smoked fish haddies are offering freely at 6c.; Yarmouth and Bay bloaters at 90c. to $1 per box; kippered herrings at $1.25 and smoked at 10 to 12c. per box.

The demand for preserved fish is limited, sales being only in small lots. Dressed codfish are selling at $4.25 per case of 100 lbs.; dried cod at $3.75 per cwt.; boneless codfish at 5 to 5½c. per lb., and boneless fish 2¾c per lb.

The market for shell oysters continues strong and prices show a further advance, 50c. per bbl, with a light demand. We quote: Malpeques, common, $4; hand-picked to choice, $5.50 to $6, and Miramichi, $3.50 to $4, and Buctouche, $5.

DRIED APPLES.

The firmness noted in dried apples during the past week continues and the advance is well maintained. Jobbers refused 10c. this week for evaporated and we quote 10 to 10½c. with dried 5½ to 7c.

APPLES.

The strong feeling in apples continues and prices are held at $3 to $4 for No. 1 and $2 to $2.50 for No. 2.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been a quiet, steady trade in green fruit, and during the past day or so demand on city account has been better on account of Thanksgiving Day wants. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3 per box; Jamaica oranges, $8 to $8.75 per barrel; bananas, $2.25 per bunch; California peaches, $1.75 to $2 per box; Canadian pears, $3 to $6 per bbl.; Almeria grapes, $5 to $6.50 per cask; do. California Tokays,

Popularity...

The sales of Cottams Seed show a marked increase month after month and year after year. Bird keepers may experiment with other seeds, but in most cases they come back to Cottams. A wide experience with birds—great care in selecting, recleaning and packing—Bird Bread and other advantages protected by six patents—liberal profit for dealers—partly explains the popularity of Cottams Seed.

POULTRY—The receipts of poultry have been small, which met with a ready sale at steady prices. Turkeys sold at 8½ to 9c.; chickens, 7 to 7½c.; ducks, 8 to 8½c.; geese, 5 to 6½c per lb.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes is still slow, and the market is quiet but firm at 50 to 60c. per bag in car lots.

PROVISIONS.

There is no material change in the provision market. The demand for small lots of all lines continues fair. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

A few small lots of dressed hogs have been coming forward, and are selling at $6.50 per 100 lbs.

SALT.

Business in salt continues about the same. Coarse Liverpool is selling at 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

The feature of the flour market was the demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba grades, and of several 1,000 sack lots was made for shipment to London via this port, and other lots were placed with a Glasgow buyer, which will go forward by the first vessel sailing to Glasgow from St. John, N.B. Locally the demand continues fair, and the market on the whole is moderately active and steady. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.40; bags, $2.10 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

Extra Fancy Maiori and Sorrento Lemons, Bananas, Cocoanuts, Sweet Potatoes, Spanish Onions, Cranberries, Peaches, Pears, Apples, Grapes, etc.

A fair business in a jobbing way was transacted in meal, and prices are without change. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.35 to $3.40 per barrel, and $1.62½ per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

The tone of the feed market is steady under a fair demand from both local and country buyers. We quote: Ontario bran at $11, and shorts $12 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, at $11.50., and shorts at $13.50 per ton.

BALED HAY.

The situation of the hay market is unchanged. The demand for stock on spot is good and prices for such rule firm, but the demand for future delivery is limited, and as soon as the country roads improve in condition liberal receipts are expected and a lower range of prices is anticipated. We quote: No. 1 at $10.50, and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese continued quiet to-day. There was some trading in medium grades between 7¼ and 7½c., but stock available at these figures is not plentiful, having been cleaned up previously this week. Good qualities available under 8c. are evidently wanted, but really desirable goods are difficult to obtain under this price. There is nothing new from the country or over the cable. West of Toronto the factorymen are still holding, and it is likely that supplies in first hands in that section will not be moved for some time unless buyers decide to meet sellers. We quote as follows: Finest Ontario Septembers, 8½ to 8¾c.; finest Ontario Octobers, 8¼ to 8⅜c.; finest Townships, 8¼; finest Quebec Octobers, 7½ to 7¾c.

Indifference is the most prominent fact in the butter market. Shippers are doing very little, and as factorymen are reluctant about accepting the lower bids made, the movement in a large way is practically nil. For local wants there is a quiet trade doing around 18¼ to 18½c., but these prices are impossible for export. We quote: Finest creamery, 18 to 18¼c.; seconds, 17¼ to 17½c.; dairy butter, 16 to 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

California raisins are held firmer on thi market than they were last week.

Round lots of Valencia raisins have sold ex Bellona to jobbers at full prices.

Evaporated and dried apples maintain the advance established last week and point still higher.

Buyers here have been offered new supplies of Rio and Maracaibo coffees since last report at a material decline.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 24, 1897.

THE past week has been a busy one. Weather has set in cold, and orders are being hurried off before the closing of the river, and the withdrawing of the packets and also some of the smaller steamers running to bay points. Of late much dissatisfaction has been expressed by the merchants here because of the delay in getting goods from the west. The railway people claim lack of cars, but this does not remove the inconvenience. Volume of business this season seems to be hardly as large as last, but this month will make a better showing than last. The profits, however, both now and through the whole season, have been ahead of last year, particularly in tobacco and canned goods. Cream of tartar is easy. Coffee is also very low in price. There is no sale here whatever for Rio. In rice the market is well supplied and prices are held firm.

OIL—Dealers in burning oil have this week been shipping forward as fast as possible the last of the fall contracts. Prices are held firm. Lubricating is dull, and will be quiet during the winter. Cod oil is scarce, and prices are likely to go higher. Cod liver oil for medicinal purposes is higher, particularly Norway oil. The supply in Newfoundland is about exhausted. We quote: Best American burning oil, 17½ to 18½c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—There have been no arrivals of English salt this week. Market is, however, well supplied. The partial failure of the herring fishing has made itself felt in the lack of demand. Regular weekly steamers will soon be arriving from Liverpool, and there will be no lack of stock. Canadian has a regular sale, particularly box salt. Rock salt has but light sale. We quote: Coarse, 47 to 50c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—Jobbers are still buyers in a light way. They report a good demand from the retail trade. There is little change in prices. The feeling all round is firm. Meats and vegetables are firmer. Some factories at the Coast are sold out. Lobsters are higher. Oysters are quoted higher this week. There is better demand. Gallon apples are in light stock. Cohoe salmon have very light sale in this market. Fruits are low and are likely to have a good sale. We quote: Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 75 to 90c.; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.50 to $2.75; 2's, $1.50 to $1.75; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.05 to $1.15; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz,; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT — Apples continue high, While there are fair arrivals, good stock is hard to get. Some of the stock is such that in any year when apples were plentiful it would not be brought to market at all. The stock of oranges is still confined to West India fruit. Lemons are in fair demand. Malaga grapes have a large sale. Prices tend rather higher. The quality is only fair this season. There is still a fair sale for quince. Cranberries are in fair demand at full figures. Cape Cods are scarce. Except for retail trade very few bananas are arriving. The effect of the cold weather in this line of business is much felt. Malaga lemons now supply this market. We quote: Malaga lemons, $6 to $7; oranges, $5.50 to $7 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $3.75; bananas, $2 to $2.25; grapes, 25 to 40c.; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5.50 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Supplies are now well to hand and dealers are having a busy time. There is little new to report. The California raisin market tends easy. There is quite a range in quality of Canadian raisins. Some of those arriving are made from old raisins and cannot be compared with the new fruit. In California prunes and apricots the demand is good, particularly the former, which have a better sale than ever before. Prices are held firm. The evaporated peaches have as yet little demand. In dried and evaporated apples, while prices are h gh, there is enough as yet for the demand. No new fruit has yet been received. Malaga raisins move freely. Prices are low. Currants are firmly held. Stocks are not large. There is a larger demand than ever for cleaned goods. Figs are plentiful and quoted low. Peels are in light supply and hold their prices. Dates are plentiful. We quote: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 5 to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; Fard. dates, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 3½ to 4c.; evaporated apples, 7 to 8c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3 crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11½ to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 11c.; orange peel, 12c.

SUGAR—Prices are firmly held. Stocks are lighter than for some time. Good sales reported. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS—While fair quantities are moving, prices are held easy, and little change can be expected for some time. The local market has fair stocks. Good syrup is scarce and hard to get. The sale in this market is not large. New Orleans in barrels, which of late years has had a good sale, is in very light supply. Prices are higher than last year. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antiqua, 22 to 23c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, 33 to 34c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Except in eggs, the market is dull. Eggs are light stock, and are quoted higher, with tendency still upward. Cheese is dull and rather lower. Quite a number of factories have a great deal to offer: in some cases early cheese, which should have been sold long ago, when prices were higher. Butter is quiet, and medium grades are low. For choice butter there is always a good demand at market prices. These provinces will turn out more creamery butter this winter than ever before. We quote: Dairy butter, 15 to 17c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9¾ to 10c.; eggs, 14½ to 15c.

FISH—This continues a firm market. Dry cod hold their full quotation. The principal demand is for medium fish. Arrivals are light and no large demand. Pollock are scarce, and are quoted higher than for a long time. Pickled bay herring are in light supply. Large pickled fish are scarce. Smoked herring are rather dull and rather easier. Bloaters and kippered herring, while in fair supply, are likely to be scarce. The later eatch of herring is light. Finnan haddies have large sale, particularly for the west. Supplies are ample. We quote : Large cod, $3.40 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.85 to $2 ; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.80 per half-bbl. ; smoked, new, 6½ to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75 ; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3 ; wolves, $2.25 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1 ; bloaters, 60c. per box ; kippers, $1 per box.

PROVISIONS—There is but light general movement. In pork and beef stocks are not large. Our market has been much hurt during the past season by old pork held here. The smoked meat trade is confined very largely to the retail trade. Lard, which is a good stock, is firmer again, after what was for a little while a rather easier feeling. We quote : Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50 ; mess, $13.50 to $14 ; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50 ; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c. ; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour shows little change. If anything, there is a rather firmer feeling. Oatmeal tends higher. Stocks here are quite ample. Oats are much higher, with good demand. The higher price of Ontario oats is making a demand for those of our own province. If our farmers were more careful they should get as good price as is obtained for the western oats. Cornmeal is easy. Beans have but fair sale and market is easy. Barley tends higher. Split peas show quite an advance. Stocks here are light. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $5.65 to $5.75 ; best Ontario, $5 to $5.10 ; medium, $4.80 to $4.85 ; oatmeal, $3.65 to $3.75 ; cornmeal, $1.90 to $2 ; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $16.00 to $16.50 ; bran, do, $15 to $15.50 ; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10 ; prime 90 to 95c. ; oats, 34 to 36c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50 ; barley, $3.15 to $3.25 ; round peas, $1.25 ; split peas, $3.45 to $3.50 ; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Local dealers are exporting a large part of the cheese output of Prince Edward Island.

Dearborn & Co. have bought the building next to them and will use it as a spice factory.

Winter port business has started, and a large quantity of goods has gone into the elevator. The first steamer to load will be the Alcides, of the Donaldson line. There are at least fifty-four sailings arranged for.

A St. John schooner with tin plate was seized this week at Eastport, Maine.

Robert Young, fish dealer, of Caraquet, Gloucester county, N.B., is trying to compromise. He offers 60c. on the dollar.

While the crop of apples in Nova Scotia is light, Messrs. Neiley & Co., of Aylesford, are packing upward of 300 barrels per week.

The wholesale house of Dunlap & Co., Moncton, suffered a small loss by fire last week. Loss was fully covered by insurance.

THE CANADIAN GROCER notices with pleasure the marriage of John Hughes, grocer, of Charlottetown, and extends best wishes.

The West Indian steamer arriving this week had a cargo largely of fruit, including a quantity of cocoanuts. She had upward of 300 bbls. oranges.

W. G. Lawton has resigned the agency of Armour & Co., Chicago, and gone west. Whittaker & Co. have been appointed agents for New Brunswick.

Str. Campanna this week made her last trip from Prince Edward Island to Montreal. She had a full cargo, including 2,000 cheese, 700 bbls. oysters and 12 tons starch.

The amount sent from St. John to Windsor for the aid of the fire sufferers was $5,000, beside which large quantities of clothing, bedding and provisions were sent.

THE CANADIAN GROCER notices with pleasure the promotion of Lieut. Ernest Macmichael to be captain in the 62nd Fusiliers. Mr. Macmichael is a member of the wholesale house of C. & E. Macmichael.

GROWING IN FAVOR.

The "White Moss" cocoanut, made by the Canadian Cocoanut Co., of Montreal, appears to have caught the public taste. The demand for it this season is simply unparalleled, and the manufacturers are compelled to ask the trade to give them a little more time to fill orders. The entire staff of the factory have been working both night and day, but the supply does not begin to equal the demand. Mr. J. Albert MacLean, manager of the company, hopes, however, to fill the balance of orders received by the end of another week, and asks the trade to have a little patience in the meantime.

GETTING TRADE FROM BRITAIN.

It is an old story that THE CANADIAN GROCER is read from the Atlantic to the Pacific in this country, but now it would seem that the trade in Great Britain are reached by it as well. The Canadian Cocoanut Co., of Montreal, received a letter a few days ago from a prominent Liverpool, Eng., firm referring to their advertisement in our special fall edition and asking further particulars as to their "White Moss" cocoanut.

THE CYCLE PATH OF LIFE.

Let me moralize, and don't interrupt me unless you want to lend me money.

To-day we are an infant on the wheel, held up by some friendly hand, progressing slowly, filled with vague fears and soothing syrup.

To-morrow we can wabble a little, though we suffer many falls.

The next day our line is straighter, we call ourself a "wheelman," join the C.W.A. and own the sidewalk.

Then comes our rapid youth. We scorch—and sooner or latter are laid up for repairs.

Afterward we learn to ride more sedately, and we think seriously of life.

Now we begin to eschew the solitary path and seek the broad road where two may ride abreast. We try and discover to our delight that we can ride with one hand while the other encompasses the slender waist of a pretty girl.

Then we enter the holy state of tandem riding. In a sense we have to learn to ride over again. There is another period of wabbling, but eventually we do as well as the rest.

Now comes the period of caring tenderly for smaller wheels.

Finally we become so expert that we can ride the straight and narrow path.

And then we croak.—Yellow Book.

TO SELL TEA IN THE NORTHWEST.

Mr. T. H. Cairns, lately with Messrs. Steel, Hayter & Co., has made an engagement with the Consolidated Tea and Lands Co., Limited, to represent them in Winnipeg and west of that point. This is one of the wealthiest and most enterprising of the large English companies owning and operating large tracts of tea and coffee lands besides dealing extensively in cocoa, India rubber, etc., of their own production. Mr. Cairns' office and headquarters will be in Winnipeg and he will supply the wholesale trade only of that and the western cities.

Mr. Cairns is essentially a tea man, having spent the whole of his business career in handling that article, and there is probably no man better or more favorably known to the trade of Ontario and the western provinces. Being supplied by the growers direct from some of the finest Indian and Ceylon estates, Mr. Cairns should be able to compete with any one in the market. And we have no doubt that the success that has always followed him in the past will be increased under the favorable conditions attending his connection with the Consolidated Company.

"SURPRISE" SOAP MAN IN TOWN.

Mr. J. E. Ganong, manager of the St. Croix Soap Manufacturing Co., makers of "Surprise" soap, St. Stephen, N.B., spent a few days in Toronto this week, and, in company with Mr. Henry Wright, his Toronto agent, paid his respects to the grocery trade.

"The lumber trade is rather quiet in New Brunswick at present," said Mr. Ganong, in reply to a question, "but the general trade is good, and prices are now such that everyone is making a little money."

"'Surprise' soap people, too?" I interpolated.

"Well, competition is pretty keen in the soap trade, but we are well satisfied. Our trade is increasing steadily, and," he added with a laugh, "quality is still the key-note of 'Surprise' soap."

Mr. Ganong left for New York on Tuesday evening.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. are devoting special attention to the export of dried and evaporated apples, and would like to communicate with holders or buyers.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, have received their importation of "Anchor" Japan, choicest spring pickings, in 30-lb., 50-lb., and 100-lb. fancy canisters.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. report that owing to larger receipts of large roll choice dairy butter it is difficult to maintain prices on local market, but their large shipping demands have enabled them to keep well sold out at good prices.

"We have brought on with our Malaga fruits per Bellona a small stock of 'Non Plus Ultra,' the finest of all clusters, fit for the most exclusive trade," say the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Cleaned and stemless currants of their well-known brands are again in full supply with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited, who apologize to the trade for unavoidable delay in shipping in some cases.

Recent quotations advise an advance in jams and marmalades shortly. Frank Magor & Co. carry a full line of Southwell's goods which they will invoice at present figures until stock is run off.

W. H. Gillard & Co. have just received a large consignment of Gillard's new pickle and Gillard's new sauce, and can now supply their retail friends. These articles are made in Great Britain, and contain nothing but the choicest vegetables and pickling spices.

The note asking grocers to apply for Keen's new show cards in last week's CANADIAN GROCER brought enquiries from several towns in Western Canada. "We also sent some of these cards nearer home in the province of Quebec," write Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, agents for Keen, Robinson & Co., London, Eng.

WILL ADOPT THE CASH SYSTEM.

T. P. McGillicuddy, general merchant, Harriston, Ont., has decided to adopt the cash system, and he announces it in the following pointed manner, in a local paper:

On the first day of December next, we will change our system of doing business, put away all books, sell only for cash or produce, and are thoroughly convinced that it will be more profitable for our customers as well as for ourselves. A storekeeper must have the same prices for everybody or he will be continually getting into trouble. If he charges the credit customer more than the cash customer, he will offend him and lose his trade, therefore he must charge the same prices to the one who pays in one month, one or two years, or the one who never pays, and it is impossible for him to do justice to his cash customers. His profits must necessarily be large enough to pay running expenses, interest on the accounts he carries in his books, and to cover his bad debts. We know from experience that the great majority of the people of Harriston and surrounding country are strictly honest, will pay for everything they get, and any storekeeper will never lose a cent by selling to them on credit. But those are the people who have everything to gain and nothing to lose by buying for cash and getting their goods at the lowest prices. Every town and country have their dead beats, and every business man doing a large credit business will have bad debts. Where does the money come from that makes up for bad debts? Do you honest people ever think of that? You are the people. When you pay your bills, or buy goods for cash, you pay for the bad debts the storekeeper makes. You are working hard to pay for what the lazy, worthless, extravagant dead beat eats and wears. After the first of December our customers will pay no high prices—will pay nobody's debts. We will buy and sell for cash, keep down expenses, and give them such good values that they will find it to their advantage to pay the cash and deal with us as in the past.

SWEET CONTENT.

Sweet are the thoughts that savour of content;
The quiet mind is richer than a crown;
Sweet are the nights in careless slumber spent;
The poor estate scorns Fortune's angry frown:
Such sweet content, such minds, such sleep, such bliss,
Beggars enjoy, when princes oft do miss.

The homely house that harbours quiet rest,
The cottage that affords no pride nor care.
The mean that grees with country music best,
The sweet consort of mirth and modest fare—
Obscured life sets down as type of bliss:
A mind content both crown and kingdom is.

NEW GROCERY IN GALT.

W. W. Lawrason, who was for several years in the employ of John Sloan, of Galt, has begun business on his own account in that town. His store is in the "Hotel" block and is up-to-date in every respect. The windows are plate glass, and the interior of the store is finished in oak. The fixtures are of the latest design, and a neat office is set apart for Mr. Lawrason's private use.

P. Dill, grocer, etc., Seaforth, has this week added a fine stock of staple dry goods to his business.

TRADE CHAT.

THE largest canning factory in the United States is talking of establishing a branch factory in Ontario, and the Chatham Board of Trade is advocating its city as the proper place for such a business.

Mr. P. J. Watt has purchased the stock of P. J. Watt & Co., wine and spirit merchants, 428 Richmond street, London.

Mr. Thomas Paine, of Woodstock, Ont., has gone into the grocery business in Galt, having purchased the stock of a Mr. Volsey, in that place.

Wm. & J. Pridham, Mitchell, Ont., shipped last week two carloads of lambs to the English markets. The average price paid was $2.75.

If our fisheries were protected as well as those of Canada our fishermen would not be in such a chronic state of financial distress. —N.Y. Fishing Gazette.

Lambton county has two fields of wheat each of 100 acres, upon which have been grown fine crops. The Petrolia Advertiser says they presented a fine appearance this fall.

Brook correspondent of Owen Sound Times: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lethbridge have returned from their wedding trip and have opened a large grocery store on Market street.

A despatch from Hamilton says: "Mayor Colquhoun says the representatives of the Heinz Pickle Co. are satisfied with the concessions granted by the city, and he thinks a branch factory will be established here."

The London Advertiser says it has been shown a carrot 62 ounces in weight and 16 inches in circumference, and grown in that city, which is claimed to be the largest ever grown in that vicinity. London must be a great agricultural city.

A German doctor has started a theory that most drunkards can be cured by a very simple and pleasant course of treatment—namely, by eating apples at every meal. Apples, if eaten in large quantities, possess properties which entirely do away with the craving that all confirmed drunkards have for drink.—Guelph Herald.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture reports the number of sheep kept in the province in 1895 to have been 2,022,735 and the number kept this year to be 1,690,350, a decrease of 332,385. The English Live Stock Journal, commenting on these figures, says that "the small number of sheep kept in a province much larger than the United Kingdom, seems remarkable" England alone keeps nearly seventeen times the number of sheep that Ontario keeps.

J. B. Stringer & Co., our local exporters, have lately booked the largest single transaction for Canadian corn they have yet made. The sale is for 450,000 lbs., equal to fifteen carloads, and calls for No. 1 yellow inspection, to reach which grade they are required to give it attention of a special character. The grade gives it a value proportionately. Business of this volume has in the past been effected by Toronto and Montreal houses, while for the last couple of years now the enterprise of Chatham's shippers has centred the trade here. This applies also to Kent's enormous bean shipments and to the barley, oats, wheat, buckwheat, millet, hay, wool and dressed hogs, etc., that in the aggregate is an enormous trade and daily more controlled by Chatham's progressive shipping merchants. —Chatham Banner, Nov. 18.

MANITOBA BUTTER.

The output of Manitoba creameries this year exceeds in value that of 1896 by $105,000. This is a large increase, and indicates the rapid strides being made in this branch of agriculture. Nearly the whole of the output sold for consumption west of Port Arthur.

THE VINTAGE OF AUSTRALIA.

THE wine industry of Australia increases yearly as a consequence of the improved methods that have been adopted in the preparation of the wine produced, and, in bringing it on the market in good condition. It is not, perhaps, well known that Australia now ranks next to France, Spain and Portugal as an exporter of wines to England, having completely overtaken Germany and Italy.

In a recent letter to The Times, Mr. E. Burney Young, a commercial representative in London of the South Australian Government, gives some interesting information respecting the present condition of the vintage of Australia. Mr. Young says that, owing to the splendid climate of Australia, the vine-growers there have but little experience of the evils that have affected the vineyards of France. In some districts late frosts occasionally injure the vines in the spring, and oidium shows itself in a very modified manner, but the former are rare, and the latter easily coped with by the use of sulphur. No cryptogamic diseases of any kind have ever proved virulent in Australia; they have always been checked without difficulty or baneful results. Apart from an occasional thunderstorm, which, Mr. Young says, adds greatly to the yield, there is no climatic inclemency to interfere with the gradual and healthy ripening of the grape—warm, bright, settled weather always prevailing at this season. The same pertains to the weather at the time of the vintage, and, though sometimes warmer than is quite desirable, it is usually mild and bright. Many of the growers are counteracting the effects of hot weather by scientific methods of cooling their "must" with excellent results. Some attention, too, has been given to the question of adding wine-yeasts to the fermenting vats, though as yet it has not been studied to the extent which the subject deserves. The cooling of the "must," however, forms part of the question and is a long step in the right direction. The object of cooling is to give full play to the wine-yeasts or saccharine ferments, which propagate most rapidly at a temperature of about 65 to 80 degrees Fah., and dominate the fermentation to the exclusion of mischievous bacteria.

A somewhat new departure has been adopted by the Government of South Australia in establishing a bonded depot in London for the reception and treatment of the wines of the colony after their long and trying voyage. The effect of the voyage on wines shipped in bulk is that they frequently arrive in England in a state that is colloquially known as "sick." Such wines must not be neglected, and with proper care they not only quite recover, but are improved by the voyage. The depot is said to have proved so far a success, as many wine merchants are now considerable buyers of South Australian wines.

SOAP AT FOOD SHOWS.

Pure food shows are scarcer than usual this season, and the millers are not giving much support to those started. On the other hand, the manufacturers of soap and washing powders are well represented. The flour makers have learned their lesson and retired with that feeling of complete satisfaction which one experiences when he has enough and knows it.—American Miller.

A NERVY THIEF.

South Sudbury was visited by a cool and calculating burglar Thursday last week. The fellow opened a shutter in the rear of George H. Hunt's grocery and general store, carefully cut out a light of glass, opened the window and climbed in. Pulling down all the curtains in the front store, he barricaded the front door with a barrel of rolled oats, then made a complete change in his outfit, under-clothing and all, left the old clothes behind and wore away the new, including cuff buttons. Before leaving, however, he rifled the money drawers in the main store and in the post office, but got little for his pains. Needing a shave, he helped himself to the necessary razor, soap and other articles, and proceeded to complete the removal of his beard before he said good night. Things were stirred up generally in the store, and the amount of the loss is not yet fully estimated.—New England Grocer.

NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR.

Owen Sound now claims the best facilities for handling grain on Georgian Bay. The C.P.R. has lately erected there an elevator 240 feet long by 70 feet broad, with the main building 125 feet high and the tower or work end 161 feet high. Its capacity is 800,000 bushels, and is furnished throughout with the most modern appliances for the speedy transportation of grain from boats to its bins. The machinery, etc., when tested proved satisfactory all round, and The Owen Sound Times is enthusiastic in its description of the elevator's work, and is now advocating that Owen Sound should, if possible, secure the elevator which it is rumored the G.T.R. are about to build on Georgian Bay.

SHOW WINDOW DISPLAY.

THEORETICAL authorities on the subject of window dressing generally advocate the use of few articles and only a small quantity of each when making a striking display, but practical window dressers do not seem inclined to follow the hints. On the contrary, the finest window displays of grocers, those which are the undoubted work of experienced and able dressers, are invariably produced by a massing of many different goods and a considerable quantity of each. It is the same plan that prevails across the Atlantic. The window displays that earned prizes at the recent Groceries Exhibition in London were all examples of the crowded or massed order of dressing.

The Manchester Grocers' Review, with commendable enterprise, publishes an illustration of the efforts of each of the prize winners, from which we gather that the best authority in Engiand favors giving a profitable staple the post of honor in the windows, the design that earned for its author the first prize being made up chiefly of tea in open and closed caddies and in small packages, with large and small show cards and placards. This tea, by the way, bore a proprietary label not the dealer's own. The tea was arranged in a row of open metal caddies, divided by pillars of pound packages and enormous show cards, along the bottom of the window, and each caddy was surmounted by a smaller show card. Two of the pillars of pound packages near the middle of the window were built up five or six feet, forming an arch, topped by a single pillar, and upon each side of this arch was displayed several pounds of white sugar, bearing a price ticket. At the extreme right and left of the window was shown a pile of canned meats and salmon, supported by jars and tumblers of jellies and jams. Near the top of the window, on a level with the piping bearing the gas-burners in ground glass globes, and forming the apex of the display were pyramids of canned goods and jams and jellies. Each description of tea and most of the other articles bore a price ticket.

The second prize window had an open chest or tray of Indian and Ceylon tea, blended, as the central attraction, resting upon small packages of tea bearing the retailer's own label. French coffee in tin and either canned goods or jellies in wrappers supported the package tea upon the extreme right and left, and above the tea, etc., reposed two small pans of sugar, catsup in bottles, canned fruits, jams and marmalade, coca wine in bottles and canned meats and fish. Across the top of the window was a strip of cardboard advertising a brand of ale and porter, and nearly every article was ticketed.

The third prize window contained several conspicuous loaves or "titlers" of pure white sugar standing up half a foot or eight inches above the surrounding articles, but not all on the same level, as this window display, like the two mentioned above, was built up in tiers, and the lower row exhibited five sugar-loaves and the uppermost one only two. Canned lobsters were piled up at each side of the lowest tier, about ten cans (flat) high and five cans wide, and the intervening space in the tier was filled with tea—tea in open caddies and in packages, with numerous show cards and price tickets—the sugar-loaves being set up at the back of the lobster and tea. Behind and above the goods just mentioned rose piles of canned goods of various kinds, but principally meats, fish and fruits, and also a couple of the sugar loaves, which against the darker background looked like marble minarets in an oriental city. Price tickets were in evidence, as usual.

We have given space to the description of these prize displays because Great Britain is noted as the home of elaborate grocery window dressers, and because the most successful windows that we have seen have been after the same general plan, our own grocers usually favoring an abundance rather than a scarcity of goods in their show windows.

There is no doubt as to the value of good window display, and as window dressing is always inexpensive, we recommend that grocers generally give more attention to the art.—Merchants' Review.

GOODS AT REDUCED PRICES.

The following appeared in The Harriston Review and was signed by John Waddell, a grocer of that town :

DEAR SIR,—I wish to call the attention of the public to methods certain merchants in the country have of conducting their business, by advertising and selling certain lines of seasonable and staple goods on certain days, at, as they say, greatly reduced prices, and in some cases, below cost. Is it just or honest to charge a higher price for the same goods in the same stores on any other day of the week, (in the absence of any legitimate advance in the cost of said goods). For instance: If certain goods are only a certain price, in certain stores, on Saturday, should those same goods be worth any more money on any other day of the week? In my opinion they should not. People would therefore be governed accordingly, and not allow themselves to be charged any higher prices in those stores on other days of the week than on Saturdays, or any other set day. I maintain that the only legitimate mode of doing business is one price for all on every day of the week. A little profit on everything, and not too much on anything. Of course, it naturally follows, that extra prices must be charged on other lines of goods sold, to make up the loss on special lines sold below cost on special days, for there is not enough profit on legitimate sales of any goods in the grocery line to make up the loss referred to, without an overcharge being made, either directly or indirectly, on lines not specially advertised. People would do well for themselves to purchase the special lines on special days, but be careful in making purchases in other lines of goods, either on those days or any other.

Go where you will, seek where you may,
Yet it will always follow
That loudest noises ever come
From vessels that are hollow.
And so, with men, it is the same;
He that is always blowing
Would, if good sense were measured, make
The very poorest showing.

POULTRY FOR EXPORT.

PROF. ROBERTSON, of the Dominion Experimental Farm, visited Great Britain this year in the interests of the Canadian Department of Agriculture. He has now issued a bulletin for the benefit of those interested in the exportation of poultry to Great Britain.

The exportation of turkeys from Canada to Great Britain is yet in the experimental stage, few dealers having gone into such trade regularly; yet if properly prepared, packed and shipped to suit the British market, a good demand will be found, with prices ranging from fivepence to ninepence per pound.

The time to ship is from the 1st December to the 1st March, but cock turkeys of large size should be marketed before Christmas.

Prof Robertson's bulletin gives directions for the dressing, packing and shipping of turkeys intended for this trade. It says the birds should be fasted twenty-four hours to empty the crop and intestines, and should be given a small quantity of water just before killing, which should be done by "wringing the neck," and not by knifing or sticking, and the birds should be plucked while still warm. The intestines should be removed from the rear of the bird, care being taken not to break the gall bag. Some British dealers recommend breaking down the breast bone by pushing it to one side with the two thumbs, the bird having its back pressed up by the knee. The wings should be twisted to the back of the bird, and may be held there by a string, which, however, should not encircle the body. As soon as the feathers are off the bird should be hung up by the feet and thoroughly cooled, not frozen. The cases for packing should be shallow, only deep enough to hold one layer of birds. (A size recommended is six feet long by twenty inches wide by from seven to eleven inches deep), and these cases should contain only birds of nearly the same weight, graded to to within two pounds, with cocks and hens in different cases. A quantity of wood pulp or clean straw should be on the bottom of the case, and on top of the birds, which should be each one wrapped in paper. The birds should be packed with backs down, heads to one side. No old, tough birds; in fact, no birds but which show a good, plump, white, broad breast should be exported. The cases should be marked plainly at both ends, giving on the upper left-hand corner the number of birds and whether cocks or hens, and on the upper right-hand corner gross, tare and net weight of the birds.

A few British importers speak favorably of turkeys with feathers on. These should be treated in a similar manner as the plucked turkeys, except that they should be killed by sticking the brain, through the roof of the mouth, taking care not to disturb the feathers. The head should be wrapped in thick paper to absorb the blood, and should be laid in the middle of the back, not under the wing. These birds should be packed in air-tight barrels or boxes.

Geese, ducks and fowl are not raised in Canada to such an extent as to much more than supply the home demand. But in cases where shipments are made, the fowl should be prepared in the same way as turkeys. Geese and ducks should be killed in the same way as feathered turkeys, and all feathers should be plucked off, except on the tips of the wings, leaving the down on if desirable. They should never be dipped in water. Entrails may be left in. No birds under nine pounds should be packed; the larger the birds sent the better. They should be packed ten in a case.

A story is told of the late Baron Hirsch that conveys a valuable lesson. After writing a message announcing the gift of a fortune to a school, the great millionaire went over the telegram carefully a second time, condensing it so as to save a franc.

In the matter of tea drinking the people are especially thankful for being freed from the colored and uncleanly made teas of China and Japan.

The introduction of the pure, clean, healthful, invigorating teas of Ceylon and India have practically driven out the unsatisfactory China and Japan teas, "for which we are truly thankful."

TAFFY.

Who does not like Taffy? We make a big variety of it. Tastes differ of course. Some like Nut Taffy, others Plain. We can give you any kind you like. Our Royal Satin Taffy in boxes is just the thing for grocers to handle this time of the year; no waste, pays good profit. Try couple of dozen and be convinced. You can retail it at 10c. box, enough taffy for three people a whole evening. Cures sore throat too.

All laundresses agree on this one point, that in order to obtain the best results, a high-class starch is indispensable. Celluloid has long been recognized as the Laundresses' reliable friend, whose verdict in its favor has been so unanimous that it has won for itself, as a cold-water starch, a reputation which is world-wide.

THE MAKING OF A DOLLAR BILL.

BY ALEXANDER COLIN CAMPBELL.

ALTHOUGH those persons who feel that they have enough money for all their requirements are probably the rarest specimens of the human family, the receiving and spending of money is an experience common to more people than any other we enjoy as members of civilized communities. In Canada we have never troubled ourselves to make gold coins. Our silver and copper pieces are quite sufficient for the small transactions of daily life, and, in place of the gold of former times and other countries, we use the more convenient system of a paper currency. To the banks is remitted the privilege of issuing the $5, $10 and $20 bills which commonly liquidate debts between traders, while the Dominion Government monopolizes the issue of the $1, $2 and $4 bills, the humbler but more constant acquaintances of the common people, and the principal means of maintaining a good understanding between traders and their customers. There is a series of bills of high denomination—$50, $100, $500 and $1,000—which also are issued by the Dominion Government. These evidences of wealth are not without interest, but as they rarely come within the ken of the ordinary man or woman, but are used mainly in banking transactions, it is not necessary to say more about them.

Though the handling of the bills of the smaller denominations is a daily experience with everybody, few know how these pieces of paper money originate, or how they get into the hands of the people, or what becomes of them after their work is done. Let not the gentle reader turn from this brief article in dread of brain-wrenching complications concerning standards, media, and parities of values. The Dollar Bill is a Thing, and an interesting one, and to that we will confine ourselves.

To those who have visited Ottawa, the Eastern Block is a familiar memory. On the ground floor of this massive and beautiful building are the offices of the Finance Department. At the end of one of the lobbies, away from the track of the casual visitor, is a small suite of offices, the headquarters of the Currency Branch, the native home and final resort of the familiar $1, $2 and $4 bills. The head of the branch is Lt.-Col. Fred. Toller, whose official title is Controller of Dominion Currency. The total circulation of Dominion notes has been as high as $22,893,259, but it usually runs from eighteen to twenty millions of dollars, increasing in the fall when the moving of the crops causes the heavier business. Besides the care of this great circulation Lt.-Col. Toller is charged with the custody of millions of dollars of securities deposited with the Government by the insurance companies. Not only must these be kept so as to be accounted for at any moment, but, as they bear interest, the coupons must be clipped as they mature and sent to their owners. Dealing with slips of paper which are practically money, this is a business demanding absolute accuracy. It will be seen then that there is hard work for the small staff engaged.

But over and beyond this, there rests upon the head of the Branch a weight of responsibility which only the least nervous of mortals could endure. Lt.-Col. Toller has in marked degree that first necessary qualification for a specially trying position —he loves and takes pride in his work. An Englishman by birth, he had some experience in banking in his native country, which he extended by some years of work in banks in Canada. He has been twenty-five years in the service of the Dominion Government, and has been head of the Currency Branch ever since it was established fifteen years ago. The currency system of Canada is probably as perfect as that of any other country in the world. But such systems are not wholly automatic, and the better the laws the more honorable, intelligent and painstaking must be the officers who enforce them. Though the slightest hitch in the currency system would cause an instant and angry outcry on the part of the people, the fact is that, like the healthy man who is said not to know he has a stomach, the people of Canada hardly know they have a currency system. Year after year the appropriations for carrying out the work and paying the salaries of the Branch are passed in Parliament, and even the most inquisitive or querulous of the people's representatives rarely even ask for a formal explanation. This silence is the most eloquent praise that one in Lt.-Col. Toller's position could receive. The immunity from error and confusion is due, in the first place, to a thorough knowledge on the part of the head of the Branch of the duties of his position, and, in the second place, to the rigid adherence to rules that experience has proven to be wise. The Currency Branch works hard, but it distinctly declines to get "rattled."

There are agencies in Charlottetown, Halifax, St. John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Victoria—one in each province. These are presided over by officers known as Assistant Receivers General, all of whom, except the one at Montreal, have duties also in connection with Government Savings Banks. These agencies deal with the ordinary banks in furnishing Dominion bills and receiving the worn-out bills which are unfit for further circulation. The Currency Branch at Ottawa performs similar functions in connection with the banks in that city. Thus there is one general source of supply, and there are eight reservoirs, so to say, which supply the banks which, in turn, supply the public. As more bills are required for the business of the country they are easily and quickly supplied, and as the changes of season or other circumstances lessen the demands, the currency system "hauls in the slack," as the steamboat men say, and thus not a dollar is forced out or kept back undesirably.

The printing of the bills is done under contract. This interesting process should be the subject of a separate article. To deal with it now would occupy too much space and would interrupt the consideration of the duties of the Currency Branch. Let us suppose that the printing is done and that the messenger has brought the bills to the Branch. They are in bundles of sheets, a thousand sheets to a bundle, and four bills in a sheet. First the sheets are counted and carefully examined. The officer receiving them must note carefully three things. First, he must see that the bills are accurately numbered. Any undetected mistake in this respect would lead to confusion, and dealing with merchandise which is soon to be turned into money at its face value, anything like the shadow of the possibility of a mistake must be avoided. Next, he must see that the sheets are all the same size; otherwise when the bundles go to the cutting machine some of the bills would be spoiled. In the third place, he must see that the printing is right, for upon uniformity and perfection in printing depends to a great extent the protection of the public against counterfeiters, and besides, the Dominion pays for first-class work and insists upon getting it. Very seldom, indeed, is anything found to be wrong, and the bundles of sheets are signed for by the officer receiving them.

The bills, as they come from the printer, bear one signature in fac-simile, that of Mr. J. M. Courtney, Deputy Minister of Finance. Another signature must be written in at the lower left-hand corner under the word "Countersigned." This work of signing the bills is relegated to a staff of nine ladies, who occupy a room by themselves. These clerks all sit at one large desk the surface of which is divided into compartments by glass partitions. Thus, while each clerk is in full view of the others, there is no danger of the precious documents they handle getting intermingled. The signer receives the bills in bundles of a thousand sheets, no second bundle being given until the previous one has been returned with signatures complete. Each delivery either way is signed for in a book kept for the purpose, the receipt for the signed bills being given by two officers. It is impossible for the most expert of the ladies to sign four thousand sheets in one regular working day, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with an intermission for lunch, but by working overtime it has been done. The average time required for signing four thousand bills is from two and a half to three days. This is really rapid work. Let anybody who doubts it sit down and sign his name clearly and neatly four thousand times on a thousand separate sheets of paper. The ladies who sign the bills are not permanent but temporary clerks, and are paid only for the days of actual work. There are no employes of the Dominion Government who earn their money harder. The bundles that are not signed or not delivered back to the teller are put in a tin box which is made to just hold one bundle, each signer having a separate box the key of which she keeps. These boxes are placed in the vault with the other valuables.

With so many millions of dollars' worth of paper to be cared for, it can readily be understood that a secure receptacle is one of the features of the Currency Branch. There is not in Canada a more perfect safe than that whose ponderous doors open from Lt.-Col. Toller's private office. The body is of seven thicknesses of chrome steel and iron, there are double doors to open which the working of two combinations is necessary and each combination is in possession of a separate officer, and the time lock affords a further protection. Massive as a railway bridge, yet fine as a watch, such a safe is a thoroughly characteristic specimen of modern art.

The signed bills are sent to the Assistant Receivers General or handed to the representatives of the local banks as required. They are given out in sheets, again restored to the familiar thousand sheet package. Those sent out are sent by express in boxes specially designed for the purpose. Each delivery to the Express Company is attested by the signatures of two officers, who stand ready to declare that on the date and at the hour given the bills whose number appear in the book were duly delivered.

While the stream of new bills sets outward there is an almost equally large stream of worn, greasy defaced bills inward. These latter are destroyed. This seems a simple thing to say, and yet the destruction of a battered old hulk of a bill is attended with just as much form and just as much circumspection as the issue of a new one. If any one requires it he can get clean or new bills to any amount he cares to pay for from the Assistant Receivers General. It is the duty of bank tellers to retain and return Dominion bills that are unfit for further circulation, but the public are really their own protectors against disreputable looking paper currency. The Assistant Receivers General issue new notes in place of old ones, and it is through these officers that nearly all the worn bills are returned from the banks and from the public. Worn bills are cancelled in the offices of the Assistant Receivers General before they are sent to the Currency Branch, the cancellation being affected by cutting out two pieces from the lower side, like a hungry boy's two bites from a piece of bread and butter. These worn-out bills are placed in a special vault, practically as strong as the principal safe, there to await the day of their destruction.

When the work of signing bills has been carried somewhat in advance of the requirements of the country, the ladies in the big room are required to count the old bills and arrange them according to the office through which they were issued—Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, etc. On a day and at an hour appointed an officer of the Auditor General's Department attends and receives the old bills, and he and an officer of the Currency Branch together take the bills to a room in the basement in which is a furnace, a sort of annex to the general heating furnace of the building, and throw them into the fire. The furnace is then locked and the key borne away to the Auditor General's office. Bound in bundles as they are and covered with the dirt of their travels, the bills do not burn rapidly, and that is why the officers do not wait for their complete destruction. A whole day hardly suffices sometimes to reduce the last package to ashes.

There is a tradition current in Ottawa that on one occasion a number of bills were drawn up the chimney by the fierce draft of the furnace and scattered over the grounds. To hear the story one would suppose that the lawn was covered with these ragged refugees, and that the populace of the Capital had a finer opportunity for acquiring wealth than the traditional occupants of Tom Tiddler's ground. The fact is, however, that only two or three bills escaped through a crack in the furnace plate caused by the heat. The mistake is not likely to occur again. Still, the method of destruction is not quite satisfactory, and Lt.-Col. Toller looks forward to the time when the system in use in Washington will be adopted —that of boiling the bills to a pulp in the presence of responsible officers.— Canadian Magazine.

PADDY AND THE TERRAPIN.

The chef of the Lindell Hotel, St. Louis, sent Paddy Brennan, a recent importation, into the cellar for a couple of terrapin. Paddy hadn't heard the name before, but thought they must be some new kind of birds. The cellar was dark, and he lighted a candle, dribbled a little grease on a thing that looked like a stone and set his candle in the grease. Then he turned to look for the birds. To his horror the "stone" walked off with the candle. He called for help, and they found him on his knees praying for his sins. The laugh was on Paddy, and now when asked if he knows what terrapin are he replies: "Begobs, I does."

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Christmas Trade. The general opinion prevails in Toronto that this week or next should see the opening of the Christmas fruit trade. Currants and raisins have already begun to sell freely in some parts of the city. I notice some dealers speak with great hope and confidence regarding the prospects of the season, while others are not making any special push for the season's trade. Wholesale dealers tell us that this season has been the largest for years, especially in Christmas novelties, etc. This means that the majority of retailers are confident, as they should be, for there is no trade which fluctuates more in sympathy with good or hard times than the Christmas trade. It is the season of the year when many a man who has, generally speaking, to content himself with the necessities of life, feels the greatest desire to partake conjointly with his family of life's luxuries, and, if times are good, his wife and his children have placed at their disposal the wherewithal to make Christmas Day a day of good cheer. And, as this is a special occasion, the supplies are not bought at the nearest store, but the money is judiciously (in the buyer's opinion, at least) expended, so that the man who has a good range of attractive goods will reap his reward.

Soap Display. Porter Bros., Queen street east, Toronto, have this week a striking display of soap in their window. Bars of soap (which, by the way, are made for Porter Bros., and have the firm name in large letters on each bar) about fourteen inches long and two by four inches around have been piled in cross rows with the tops curved to form an arch at the back and at the wall side of the window. In the doorway of the arch facing the street is a full size portrait of the head and shoulders of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, in a large gilt frame, which picture is given away with soap. Leading up to the doorway of the arch on the floor of a window is a "walk" of small cakes of Old Brown Windsor. The rest of the floor is covered with soaps in quietly colored packages. A good feature of the display was the placing of price tags on the tickets.

THE RAMBLER.

NEW PROCESS OF MAKING BUTTER

Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Agricultural Department at Washington, has made a report to the Secretary of Agriculture on what is known as the Boardon process of making butter. The report describes the process, which consists of churning a certain quantity of butter with cream, and also the experiments conducted by the Department. The resulting compounds were sent to New York, where an expert was requested to score them. He reported as follows:

"In relation to the three boxes of butter marked 'X,' 'Y,' 'Z,' will say that, upon examination of the same, my opinion is that it is what is known on our market as 'process butter,' and on that class of butter I can neither place grade nor score, as I have no rule to govern grade on manufactured butter under this process. It cannot be classified as creamery, imitation creamery, factory or dairy butter, and we have no grading on any other kind of butter except these kinds. I find these samples poor of flavor, the grain is badly broken, showing that it has been much overworked, and is very salvy; consider it unfit for table use; only use that could be made of it would be to a cheap class of bakers' trade."

CANNED GOODS IN THE STATES.

The American Grocer says that on November 1 seven packing houses connected with the Western Packers' Canned Goods Association held about 40,000 cases of tomatoes, 118,000 cases of corn, 17,000 cases of peas and 10,000 cases of pumpkin. The pack of corn by members reporting to the association was about 675,000 cases, and of tomatoes, 338,000 cases.

PEANUT SITUATION.

A PEANUT firm in the United States has issued the following: "The season of 1896 and 1897 broke the record as to the quantity of peanuts sold into consumption. The crop of 1896 was generally poor quality and an unusual quantity went into shelled and low grades of cleaned goods; yet, contrary to general prediction, there was no lack of stock suitable for first-class hand-picked nuts, and there was carried into this season over 50,000 bags farmer's grade Virginia peanuts, most of them being refusals because of inferior quality. This year's crop suffered in some sections from drouth, while in other portions of the peanut belt there was sufficient rain for a large yield, and of good quality. Unfortunately for both growers and dealers there is no reliable data from which to obtain correct information as to the quantity of the crop of peanuts of any year, and it is because of this there is the constant story of a short crop, which has been told so often most dealers regard it as an idle tale. The area of cultivaton of Virginia peanuts this year was slightly reduced in North Carolina and correspondingly increased in Virginia, and we think the average yield per acre as large as in 1896, and a much larger quantity of fancy hand-picked goods would have been produced from the crop if a considerable portion of it had not been seriously damaged while in the shocks by a severe storm. This storm of rain and high winds commenced October 23rd and continued nearly a week and blacked or spotted the shells of about half the nuts in the shocks then standing in the fields; a few nuts had been picked from the vines, and a considerable portion of the crop not dug.

"The late harvested nuts are expected to be the choice of the crop if the weather is favorable for curing them. We estimate twenty to twenty-five per cent. of the crop to be black or spotted; some of these nuts will be fed to the pigs, but most of them will be worked into low grades of cleaned and hand-picked goods. Very probably some will be bleached, as was done with the similarly damaged crop of 1887, but this was only partially successful, because the process of whitening leaves more or less acid on the nuts that gives them a disagreeable odor which roasting greatly increases and age does not obliterate. These low-grade nuts will be a great factor to keep down prices (as was the case last season), and for this reason the damage to the present crop is regarded as a serious misfortune. The Spanish crop is generally conceded to be much larger and of better quality than last year; some well-informed persons say it is the largest ever grown. These nuts were also discolored by the storm, but the kernels received very little damage, and, as nearly all of them are shelled, but little loss will be sustained, except the increased supply of Virginia shelled will cause Spanish to sell at low prices. The Tennessee crop is reported to be somewhat less than last year, the quality averaging about the same; the quantity of old ones carried over is inconsiderable. Marketing of the new crop has been retarded by the stormy weather, and most of the nuts brought in have not been in condition to clean, but the weather has been more favorable recently, and good stock may now be obtained to supply all demands."

A SIGN OF BETTER TIMES.

Only a few cars of wheat have been received by the C.P.R. land department this year from settlers in payment for land purchased from the railway company. Last year, when wheat was 38 and 40 cents a bushel, the company offered 50 cents a bushel to all settlers who wished to apply their grain on land payments, but as the market is better this fall wheat growers prefer to receive the cash. The company made well on last year's purchases, as they retained the grain until the market went up and sold at a price which gave them a small margin of profit.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

THE BROKER AND HIS WAIL.

"Will you buy a little sugar?" said the broker with a wail,
"A boom is shortly coming, and it surely will not fail;
"See how short the crop in Cuba (p'raps in Germany and France),
"You cannot do much better, will you come and join the dance?
"Will you, won't you, will you, won't you, won't you take the chance?
"You only risk a brokerage, oh come and join the dance."

"What matters it how much you buy?" the broker further cried,
"There is at least a shilling on the turning of the tide;
"The farthest from the highest, the lowest prices come,
"So do not quail and do not fail, but anyhow buy some.
"Will you, won't you, will you, won't you grasp the splendid chance?
"Remember! just a brokerage! oh come and join the dance!

"You really have no notion how delightful it will be
"When you sell and take your profit, say, of shillings two or three."
But the client sighed, "Too much, too much," and gave a look askance,
And thanked the broker kindly, but he did not care to dance.
"Thank you, thank you so much, thank you, thank you for the chance,
"A brokerage! (and margin p'raps) it does not pay to dance!"

—Alice, in Mincing Lane.

MAKE THE PLUNGE.

Don't be afraid to climb the hill of life, remarks a contemporary. Nothing venture, nothing have, you know, and the man who is afraid to climb will never get into a bicycle saddle or reach the top rung in the ladder of success! Don't be chicken-hearted, and point out that "the reason why some men never fall is because they always stay at the bottom." What if you do have a fall or two, either off the wheel or in life! It won't hurt you, and will simply spur you on to higher deeds. Make the plunge. Faint heart never spelled success—either in life, love, or sport.

AN IRON WILL.

ONE secret of England's great power over her colonies and those of other nations has been her indomitable will ; her grasp is like that of Destiny. But she does not always remember that her children are of the same blood, or she would have hesitated to arouse the spirit voiced by Patrick Henry : "Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God ! I know not what course others may take ; but, as for me, give me liberty or give me death." Animated by such a spirit, the American colonies could not be conquered, as Chatham, himself a man of iron determination, clearly understood. It was the weak, vacillating, obstinate and stupid George III who precipitated the conflict, from which his Minister sought to dissuade him, "Four regiments will bring them (the colonies) to their senses ; they will only be lions while we are lambs."

"Impossible," said Napoleon, "is a word found only in the dictionary of fools." He would have melted the rocks of St. Helena before he would have remained a prisoner there had he not lost that imperious will before which all Europe trembled.

When General Grant took command of the Northern armies the Confederates knew that their doom was sealed, for in that mighty will they felt the grip of fate. "On to Richmond !" was his watchword. Old commanders shook their heads, but the silent man with the iron will, who never knew when he was beaten, swerved not a hair's breadth from his purpose until Lee surrendered his sword at Appomattox.

Garrison wrote in the very first issue of The Liberator : "I am in earnest. I will not equivocate. I will not excuse. I will not retreat a single inch ; and I will be heard." Such uncompromising determination was not only the making of himself, but also of such heroes as Lincoln and Grant, and the thousands of unknown heroes dead upon the field of honor. That was a will worth having.

At the close of the Revolutionary War, that consummate debater and unequalled master of sarcasm, the younger Pitt, began his long administration as Prime Minister of England. His policy was strongly opposed to the French Revolution. But, at the end of many successes, Austerlitz proved his death-blow. Hearing of Napoleon's victory, he pointed to a map of Europe and said, "Roll up that chart ; it will not be wanted these ten years." He then fell in a stupor, from which he awoke but once, murmuring faintly, "Alas, my country !" Napoleon's supreme will had overborne and crushed a mind and will of the very highest order ; a mind sagacious enough to measure very accurately the force of events, as it was, almost to a day, ten years to Waterloo.

Tupper may be a little old-fashioned, but he has written four lines which can never die :

Confidence in conqueror of men · victorious over them and in them ;
The iron will of one stout heart shall make a thousand quail ;
A feeble dwarf, dauntlessly resolved, will turn the tide of battle;
And rally to a nobler strife the giants that had fled.

CANCELLING PATENTS.

The Dominion Government, through the Department of the Interior, is cancelling a large number of overdue time sales on land purchased in the early 80's, but which have been held principally by speculators, and not by bona-fide farmers. This is particularly true of the districts east of Emerson, around Stonewall, and north of Swan Lake, in Lorne municipality. The land agent in the latter district has notified all the parties this week that their land patents will be cancelled in a few days if some explanation is not forthcoming. Already 200 sections have been thus dealt with, and the policy will be continued until all such portions of the province are made suitable for settlement.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS IN BRITAIN.

CANADA'S best foreign customer is Great Britain. This will be denied by no one. Our exports to that country in 1896 were valued at $66,690,288, against $44,448,410 to the United States, our next best foreign customer.

Taking it in another way, Great Britain takes about 60 per cent. of the goods exported from the Dominion. This is certainly a matter for congratulation. But a great deal of the satisfaction which induces this congratulation gives place to dissatisfaction in most instances when we begin to compare the value of the various articles we send to the Motherland with that of the same lines of goods the latter imports. The following table gives the value of some of the imports into Great Britain in 1896 and the amount contributed by Canada according to our own trade returns :

Article.	Imports into G.B from all countries.	Exports from Canada to G.B.
Cattle	$45,284,601	$6,816,361
Sheep	5,517,019	1,722,091
Bacon	38,225,306	3,799 428
Hams	15,262,300	570,921
Butter	74,674,537	958,649
Cheese	23,848,749	14,251,790
Eggs	20,364,892	704,768
Fruits	15,433,726	1,304,261
Barley	27,756,147	15,483
Beans	4,075,429	9,046
Peas	4,148,663	881,589
Oats	20,564 470	172,704
Wheat	105,503,026	7,891,874
Flour	44,851,433	347,685
Fish	15,635,198	3,710,378
Beef (fresh)	24,473,629	3,402

In compiling the above table we have only included such articles as Canada is qualified to supply. Of cheese, it will be noticed that Canada contributes about 60 per cent. of Britain's total importation of this article, and while we may hope for an enlargement of this proportion yet we have no reason to be chagrined if such is not accomplished. But when it comes to the making of comparisons in every other article it is evident there is a great deal that should stir us up to greater activity. Even in cattle Canada's contribution is only about 13 per cent. of the whole. Of wheat we supply less than 7 per cent. A proportion of 20 per cent. is not bad for fish, but this should be capable of enlargement. The quantity of flour we supply is enough to make us hide our head. Our proportion is only about three-fourths of one per cent. In eggs, butter, barley, oats and beef we are nowhere. In bacon our exports to Great Britain have increased enormously during the last few years, and it is to-day the favorite article on that market. During the five years ending 1896 the increase in the exports of bacon and hams to the Motherland was over 300 per cent. But even here it is evident there is room for improvement when it is remembered that in spite of the great increase our proportion is only 7 per cent. of the whole.

The reason Canada does not contribute a greater share of its products to Great Britain is obviously not because there is not the market there. Neither is it that we are not qualified to supply a larger proportion. It is simply because we have not taken advantage of our opportunities.

No matter how excellent may be the quality of goods which manufacturers turn out or merchants have upon their shelves they must be brought before the public if they are to be sold. In other words, they must be advertised, and, all other things being equal, the measure of success with which they meet will be in proportion to the judicious advertising which is employed. And what applies to individual business men applies with equal force to a nation assaying to do an export trade.

Canada has not been sufficiently advertised in Great Britain, or in any other country for that matter. In Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Strathcona Canada has had good High Commissioners, but their functions have been more of a diplomatic than of a business nature.

What Canada wants is one or more practical business men in Great Britain to represent her in a purely business capacity with what may be termed a sample room of products of the Dominion at their respective headquarters. It has paid some of the colonies in Australasia to do this and what has paid them will certainly pay Canada if business commonsense is exercised in their management.

Canada is the "white haired boy" in Great Britain at the moment and it is to be hoped the Government will act with business-like promptitude in supplying what is so obviously a necessity.

Certain physicians are now telling us that bread is no longer a staff to sustain life, but an influence for its destruction. It may be so; but most people will conclude that these iconoclastic physicians were bred in a bad school.

A HUNTER'S WINDOW.

Among the sportive grocers who visited the Muskoka region this year in search of big game was J. W. Sanderson, corner of Brock avenue and Dundas street, who on returning evolved, as a result of what he saw, a representation of a Muskoka log cabin and surroundings for a display in his window. A small but very accurate copy of a cabin such as are to be seen in those parts was placed in the window, with leaves scattered in and around it. A couple of rabbits moving about gave life to the scene, while guns, revolvers, harness and ammunition gave it the hunter's air, and canned goods, bottles of maple syrup, pickles, etc., gave evidence to the fact that the average hunter goes after more than big game when he goes north.

The whole scene was lifelike in its rurality and suggestive of a pleasant outing in the beautiful Canadian woods in the calm, mild days of Indian summer, and the first evening it was in the window it was found necessary to secure the assistance of the police to keep the boys from blocking the streets.

A clerk who can never get above his own interest will never have a high value set upon himself by those in whose employ he may from time to time find himself.

LOOK OUT FOR REJECTED TEAS.

THERE were rejected in New York in one day last week five thousand half-chests of Pingsuey and Japan teas, and it is estimated that about twenty-five thousand packages of various teas must be lying condemned at the various entry ports in the United States. This is not without more than a passing interest to Canadians.

According to the tea inspection law all teas rejected by the United States Customs officials must be shipped out of the country within six months or be destroyed.

As it is very improbable that any of these teas will be returned to the country of production it is certain an effort will be made to find a market for them in other consuming countries. And the market to be first prospected will certainly be that of Canada, in fact, teas rejected at San Francisco and Tacoma have already been shipped to Canada.

The tea inspection law in Canada is only such in name. The very principle underlying it is a farce. The idea of the technical work of tea inspection being delegated to chemists is absurd. A chemist may be able to determine the constituent elements of a parcel of tea, but even in this particular very often no two agree.

Not long since a lot of tea was rejected by one of the Government analysts. The importer of the tea was persuaded an error had been made, and so he submitted samples to a couple of well-known analysts, one of which was Prof. Ellis, of Toronto, and while these two did not agree in every particular, yet it was determined beyond all question that the teas should not have been rejected. The Government then very sensibly allowed the tea to pass.

What we have said many times before we say again : the only way to properly test tea is to test it as the expert tea man does. Tea experts may differ a little as to values, but there would be no difference in their views as to whether a tea was good or bad, and it is in this latter particular that a tea expert's capability would be called into requisition.

To delegate the duty of testing tea to any other than a tea expert is just about as sensible as to delegate to a butcher the duties of a surgeon.

It is obviously the duty of the Government to amend the present regulations, and that without delay. In the meantime, however, special instructions should be issued to the officers at the various ports of entry to enforce the present regulations as vigorously as possible.

In the interest of the health of the people as well as the interest of dealers in Canada who assay to do a trade in good teas it should be seen that this country is not made the dumping ground of teas rejected in the United States.

SPURIOUS JAPAN TEA.

INFORMATION, which should put the Customs authorities on the qui vive, has just been received in Canada by the representatives of reputable Japan tea houses.

According to this information, certain of the Japanese tea men in Yokohama and Kobe have seized the opportunity which the closing of the market there afforded of collecting the sweepings of the warehouses, the refuse of the gardens, leaves that have already been infused, and leaves which are not from the tea plant at all. This collection of rubbish has been re-fired, heavily colored, and packed in cases handsomely labelled as the finest uncolored tea.

But this action, while interesting in itself to Canadians, is still more so when it is stated that these fraudulent teas are to be shipped to the Canadian market. They were first offered to some at least of the English houses doing business in Japan, and it was when they refused to touch them that it was decided to send them to this country.

Naturally the reputable tea houses in Japan are alarmed at what is certainly a menace to the Japan tea trade, and they have accordingly sent out warnings to their representatives in Canada.

Of course these teas cannot go to the United States. The inspection law there is too rigorous. Canada, we are ashamed to say, is the only country into which it is possible to get them. One house in Japan writes: "Canada is the only country in the world which would admit such stuff. In England they would destroy it."

It is to be hoped the Canadian Customs Department will see that this spurious tea is at least kept out of the country.

NEW SEASON'S DATES.

THE first shipment of new season's dates are on the Toronto market. The fruit arrived in New York on Saturday ex the fast steamship Paris and reached their destination yesterday (Thursday).

The shipment is a special one, the regular direct lot not being due for a couple of weeks yet. This shipment might have been on this side of the Atlantic one week earlier had it not been for the perverseness of the shippers in not allowing the steamer which brought the fruit from the primary market to be unloaded for a week after she reached London. The object of this is said to have been a desire on the part of the owners of the cargo to allow last season's stock to be sold off before the new fruit was placed on the market. They are, however, alleged to have failed of their purpose.

Toronto wholesalers are quoting new Hallowee dates at 6½c. per pound, and Sairs at 5½c., which are accounted low figures in view of the general condition of the market and the fact that the fruit came by high-priced freight.

If a man cannot push himself to the front in business all the forces in the universe will be unable to drag him to the front and keep him there.

SPOT CEYLON TEAS.

Spot teas of Ceylon growth have been much in evidence on the Toronto market lately, some good sales having been effected, while little or nothing has been done in teas of this description from London. These teas were low-priced, were bought about three months ago and were imported direct from country of production.

These teas were sold at from ¼ to 1½d. per pound below the figure that similar teas could be laid down for to-day. Stocks now remaining on spot are held from 1 to 1½c. per pound higher than the figures at which the bulk of the goods changed hands.

The only London teas upon which there have been any bids or sales are fine broken Orange Pekoes at 1s. per pound and over, there being no teas of this description on the spot.

It is the opinion that if there were any Japan teas on spot customers could be found for them.

BARLEY AND RECIPROCITY.

THE knowledge that barley is one of the articles which it is proposed that Canada and the United States shall put upon the free list carries one back to the time when this commodity was one of Canada's chief articles of export and not one of the least, as it now is.

Fifteen years ago our exports of barley were valued at no less than $10,114,623, but in 1892, ten years later, they had dropped to $2,613,363, while last year they were only valued at $316,029, a decline since 1882 of about equal to $2 per head of population.

Of course the cause of this enormous decline in the export barley trade is the hostile tariffs of the United States instituted by the McKinley bill and perpetuated in the Dingley bill.

When the McKinley tariff went into operation it was realized that if the barley industry in Canada had to depend upon the United States for its existence it was doomed. An effort was accordingly made to cultivate two-rowed barley for the British market. Seed was secured by the Government and distributed among the farmers, and two-rowed barley was grown and exported, but whatever hope was entertained was in a couple of years blasted. Two-rowed barley is now almost a forgotten thing.

It is very doubtful, whatever we had done, whether Canada would have ever developed a trade of any great importance with the Motherland in barley, but we have no hesitation in asserting that this country did not do all it might have done in the premises.

One thing is certain, tricks were practised that throttled the movement in its infancy. We have reference particularly to the practice of unscrupulous persons in mixing with two-rowed barley that which was not of that description. Who was guilty of the practice we know not, but this we do know: Shipments which had been sold by sample were frequently found to have been adulterated when they arrived on the other side of the Atlantic.

The export barley trade to Great Britain might have died of itself, but that does not alter the fact that its death was hastened by the practices of dishonest Canadians.

The removal of the present tariff restrictions in the United States would, doubtless, stimulate Canada's defunct barley industry, but as to whether it will ever again assume its old-time importance is another question. It would, however, be agreeable to be given a chance to try what could be done, for the knowledge that the total exports of barley are about 80 per cent. less than they were even as far back as the year after Confederation, is humiliating to say the least.

WILL CHEESE PRICES IMPROVE ?

THE future course of cheese values is one of keen interest at present for the reason that a large percentage of the 450,000 boxes of cheese carried on this side the water this fall is owned by Canadians.

To the close of navigation the exports from Montreal were 2,102,000 boxes, against 1,726,000 last year, an increase of 376,000 boxes. Last year also the stocks in Canada at this time did not exceed 200,000, so that, taken altogether, there is 600,000 boxes more Canadian cheese to be consumed this year than last.

Prices are low at present, very low in fact, being fully 1c. per pound below the level of last year at this time. Whether they will improve or not depends entirely as to whether the low cost will encourage consumption sufficiently to offset the large increase in the make. Besides this the production of cheese in the United Kingdom this year is considered to be a fair average, which means about 143,000 tons, or 13,000 tons in excess of last year.

It was the great scarcity of cheese last year that caused prices to rise to such an uncommon figure, and by the same law the large supplies of this season will have the effect of reducing values to a very low level. This at least is the reasoning of many in the trade, but they are not without disputants, who believe that prices will improve after the turn of the year, and they are not anxious to sell as a result.

TRANSIENT TRADERS' LICENSES.

The people of Sarnia seem determined that transient traders shall pay for the privilege of doing business in their town, as the Sarnia Council, at a recent meeting, fixed the license for such tradesmen at $250, whether for a year or any portion thereof.

IT HAD ITS EFFECT.

The article which appeared in THE CANADIAN GROCER a few weeks ago, pointing out the menace which so much of last season's product was to the market for dried apples, had its beneficial effect.

It was therein asserted the presence of such a large quantity of old dried fruit, a great deal of which was of inferior quality, was a most serious disturbing element, and that this fruit should be got out of the way as soon as possible.

From reliable sources we have learned that this advice was acted upon, and practically all this old fruit has been exported, with the result that the market for new season's dried apples has assumed a healthy condition, prices being upon a firmer basis.

This is another illustration of the wisdom of keeping the market well cleaned up, not only in dried apples, but in every other commodity as well.

LECTURES FOR CLERKS.

The Montreal Retail Grocery Clerks' Association intend holding a series of lectures, one of which will be given each month during the ensuing winter.

The first one was held on the 28th ult. in St. Joseph Hall, and was given by Mr. S. Cote, secretary of the Chambre de Commerce. His subject was the products of the different provinces of Canada and what she exports. Mr. Cote wished to impress upon the clerks' mind that Quebec did not comprise the whole of Canada, but when one thinks of Canada he must take in all her provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He stated that the first thing for a person to think of is what each of these provinces produces, and where it goes. He pointed out all the industries which Canada has. During his lecture he gave the clerks many useful hints on stock-taking and general arrangement of a store.

The next lecture will be on December 12.

GROCERS GO A-HUNTING.

A jovial party of Toronto grocers took advantage of the open season for deer this fall and wended their way to the hunting grounds of the Muskoka district. Among the grocers in the party were J. W. Sanderson, H. E. Snell, John Kelly, of Kelly Bros., James Simpson, Thos. Clark and W. J. Sykes. All the members of the party got game and had an excellent time.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 2, 1897.

GROCERIES.

IT is now just before the rush for the holiday trade sets in, and consequently there is a little lull in business, although up to the close of last week most of the wholesale houses were busily employed, being in some instances compelled to do night work in order to keep up with the orders. Interest is, of course, centred at the moment in foreign dried fruits and nuts, which are all going out rapidly. By the time this issue is in the hands of our readers some of the wholesale houses will have new season's dates in stock. There has been a little readjustment in the prices of Austrian granulated and Canadian German granulated sugars, the quotations now being uniform at 4 1-16c. per pound. Little or nothing is being done in canned vegetables, but prices rule firm. Canned fruits are being enquired after a little more. Coffees are meeting with a fair demand, and the feeling in regard to price is still easy. Retailers are, if anything, buying teas with a little more freedom than they were, but the same can scarcely be said in regard to the wholesalers.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is uninteresting. A few more enquiries are being heard this week for canned fruits, but canned vegetables and canned salmon are receiving scarcely any attention. Tomatoes and peas continue to rule firm. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corn, 65 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 65 to 80c.; peaches, $2.25 to $3 for 3's, $1.65 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.65 to $1 90, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2 to $2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1 25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1.10; canned mackerel, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.50 for tall tins; 1-lb. flats, $2.85 to $2.95; ½-lb. flats, $1.60 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

A rather better feeling exists in regard to Rio coffee, presumably on account of the report that the Brazilian Government has arranged a loan. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8 to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; Santos, 12 to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 12 to 20c.; Jamaica, 16 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

There are a few bright syrups offering, but there is practically no demand. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

The local market is quiet and featureless. The market in New Orleans rules steady. We quote as follows: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

The wholesalers have made a slight rearrangement in the price of Austrian granulated and Canadian German granulated sugar, both now being quoted at 4 1-16c. per pound for ordinary quantities. In other lines prices are unchanged. The sugar market both at home and abroad rules steady, and there has been a further slight advance in beet sugar in London. We quote, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Extra granulated, 4⅜c. for less than carload lots, and 4 5-16c. for carload lots; yellows, 3⅝ to 3⅞ per lb.; Canadian German granulated, 4 1-16c. per lb.; Austrian granulated, 4 1-16c. in bags for less than carload lots.

NUTS.

Nuts are meeting with a good demand. Grenoble walnuts have advanced 3½ francs at point of shipment. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 25c.;

SPICES.

Business in spices has eased off. We quote as follows: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The London, England, market is strong on Indian and Ceylon teas of all classes, and no decline in prices is looked for at least until the New Year, and not necessarily then. A tea circular from London states that the moderate importations and the extensive consumption of these teas have contributed to reduce stocks by 5,000,000 pounds in three months, while grades which sold a year ago at 8⅝d. are now selling at 9d. The lowest priced teas on the London market are quoted at 5¾d., which, with cost, freight and insurance, would bring the laid down price here to about 13½c. per lb. On the Toronto market there is practically nothing doing in teas from London. There is, however, a demand for low-grade Ceylons on spot at about 13½ to 14c. per lb, but supplies are rather limited. Indian teas at 15 to 16c. are showing good value, but there are not many of these to be had. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Advices from Patras report the market strong, with an upward tendency, while stock in Greece was said to be down to 33,000 tons. We quote: Provincials, 5½ to 5¾c.; Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6½c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The demand is good, and prices unchanged. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4¾ to 5c.; fine off-stalk, 5½ to 6c.; selected, 6¼ to 6¾c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

MALAGA RAISINS—Are meeting with a fair request. We quote: London layers, $1.60 to $1.70; black baskets, $2.20 to $2.40; blue baskets, $2.30 to $2.50; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20 to $2.40; dessert clusters, $3.50 to $3.75.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS — A rather better feeling prevails on the Coast in regard to loose Muscatel raisins owing to freer buying on the part of purchasers in the east. Locally there is nothing new to note. We quote: 3-crown, 7½ to 7¾c. per lb; 4-crown, 8½ to 9c. per lb.; 1-lb. cartoons, 12c.

DATES—The first shipment of new season's dates reached the Toronto market on Thursday. The bulk of them had sold to arrive. Wholesalers quote 6½c. per lb. for Hallowee and 5½c. per lb. for Sairs.

Messina oranges are on the market this week.

The tendency of the currant market is still upwards.

New season's Persian dates are on the Toronto market this week.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. find this week a better tone in the poultry market, with prices higher.

The wholesale houses have fixed the price of Austrian granulated sugar and Canadian No. 2 granulated at 4 1-16c. per lb. for both grades.

Have you received one of Keen's animated fishes? If not, write to Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, and you will be forwarded one free.

J. A. McLean states that receipts of poultry have been heavier this season than for many years, but that the average prices for all lines have kept higher than usual.

According to cable advices from Bordeaux, the primary market for Grenoble walnuts is under close control and the feeling is very firm. This report states that the effort made by Dadelszen to corner the market is likely to prove successful. Owing to the scarcity of pure Mayettes a difference of 13 francs per 100 kilos is made between the price of these goods and commercial, the former being quoted at 70 francs and the latter at 57 francs.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, Dec. 2, 1897.

GROCERIES.

The general grocery market exhibits little change in its general conditions. There is little doing in sugar, but values are very firmly held, and the same strong feeling is conspicuous in the case of tomatoes, gallon apples and molasses, which are the points of great strength in the grocery situation. Syrups have met a fair enquiry, as have also dried fruit and nuts, which rule very firm. Otherwise there is little to report.

SUGAR.

The refined sugar market continues firm, but business has been of moderate volume, refiners reporting that jobbers are buying at present only in a hand-to-mouth way. Sales have comprised some round lots of granulated, chiefly on western account, on the basis of 4⅛c. for 250 bbl. lots, with the usual cash discount off this price. Yellows are held steady, and there has been some enquiry in this province for low-grade yellows, but it has not led to much business. We quote in a jobbing way: Granulated, 4 1-16 to 4⅛c., and yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c., with German granulated 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

There has been a fair demand for syrups and some good-sized lots have been moved at firm prices. Canadian in half-barrels runs from 2 to 2½c., as to grade and quantity.

MOLASSES.

The strength of the molasses market is fully retained, especially for Barbadoes, and with stocks slim and steadily diminishing holders want higher prices. In fact, it is doubtful if a jobber could go out on the market to-day and replenish his stock under 25c. if he wanted 1897 product. The strong disposition is shared by other kinds of molasses, the small stocks of Porto Rico on this market being steadily reduced. In a jobbing way values on Barbadoes are stiff at 25 to 26c. for puncheons, 27½c. for tierces, and 28½c. for bbls.

RICE.

The rice market rules steady under a good enquiry. We quote as follows: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

The strength abroad continues in spices, and though it has not led to any further changes in values, prices are very firm in their tone. Demand is quite active also. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The unsettled feeling in coffee continues and it is difficult to quote stable figures as a consequence, as offers vary every day. We quote: Maracaibo, 12 to 14c.; Rio, 8 to 12c.; Santos, 10 to 12c.; Mocha, 24c., and Java, 24c.

TEAS.

Demand for tea is very moderate, despite the strength exhibited at points of supply, and buyers are only dealing in a hand-to-mouth way. Among the transactions noted this week from first to second hands were some 100 package lots of Japan at 18 to 19c., and some cheap Congous at 9c. China greens rule quiet and steady. We quote: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 10 to 17c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been more enquiry for canned goods in this market during the past week, and canners' agents have placed quite a quantity of corn, tomatoes and gallon apples, all three lines being in active enquiry and firm in tone. Bids of 83½c. were refused for tomatoes, and it is doubtful if they can be had under 90c. now in a jobbing way. Gallon apples are very firm also. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 85 to 90c.; corn, 60 to 75c.; peas, 75c. to $1.25; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2 to $2.25; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

Valencia raisins are firmly held and demand is more active from retailers. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine do., 5 to 5¼c.; selected, 6 to 6¼c., and 4-crown layers, 6¾ to 7c.

California raisins are firmly held and jobbing enquiry for them is also improved. We quote: 2-crown, 6½c.; 3-crown, 6¾ to 7c.; and 4-crown, 8½ to 8¾c.

Malaga raisins are steady with demand quite active in a jobbing way. The same can be said of Sultanas.

Currants are firm. We quote: Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; Filiatra, do., 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. Provincials, 5c. in bbls., 5⅜c. in cases, and 5½c. in half-cases, and Vostizzas, half-cases, 7½ to 8c.

Prunes are steady under a good enquiry. Large sizes are scarce. We quote: French, 4¼ to 4½c.; Austrian, 6 to 7c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Figs are steady, at 9 to 10c. in 14-oz. boxes, 10 to 11c. in 10-lb. boxes and 4c. in bags.

NUTS.

There is a better demand for nuts. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 10 to 10½c.; Sicily filberts, 7c.; Tarragona almonds, 8c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 21 to 22c.; shelled walnuts, 20c., and cocoanuts, $3.50 per 100.

FISH.

Pickled fish rule steady under moderate receipts and a fair enquiry. We quote: Green cod—No. 1 large, $4.25 to $4.50; No. 1 ordinary, $3.75 to $4; No. 2, $2.50; herrings, No. 1 N.S., $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl.; N.B., $2.15 to $2.25 per half-bbl.; B.C. salmon, $11 per bbl.; mackerel, No. 2 new, $20; 1896 pack, $10 to $11 per bbl.

Smoked fish meet a quiet demand; haddies at 6c.; Yarmouth and Bay bloaters at 90c. to $1 per box; kippered herrings at $1.25 and smoked at 10 to 12c. per box.

Prepared fish sell quietly, as last quoted. Dressed codfish, $4.25 per case of 100 lbs.; dried cod, $3.75 per cwt.; boneless codfish, 5 to 5½c. per lb., and boneless fish 2¾c. per lb.

DRIED APPLES.

The firm feeling is maintained in these, and we quote dried apples, 5½ to 7c., and evaporated, 10c.

APPLES.

These show very little change, good sound keeping stock readily commanding full figures, viz., $3 to $4.50 for No. 1 and $2 to $2.50 for No. 2.

GREEN FRUIT.

Green fruit of all descriptions has ruled quiet and steady. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3 per box; Jamaica oranges, $8 to $8.75 per bbl.; bananas, $2.25 per bunch; California peaches, $1 75 to $2 per box; Canadian pears, $3 to $6 per bbl.; Almeria grapes, $5 to $6.50 per cask; do. California Tokays, $2.25 to $2.50 per crate; cranberries, $7.50 to $8 for Cape Cod, and $6 to $6.50 for Nova Scotia, per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for eggs was good to-day and the market was more active, with a larger volume of business at firm prices. We quote: New-laid, 20c.; choice candled, 14 to 15c.; Montreal limed, 14 to 15c., and western limed, 12½c. per dozen.

BEANS—There was no change in beans, sales being in small lots at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

GAME—The demand for partridge was good and prices ruled firm at 70 to 75c. for firsts, and at 45c. for seconds per brace.

POULTRY—The receipts of poultry were smaller, and owing to the more favorable weather the tone was firmer and prices somewhat higher for turkeys and chickens. Turkeys sold at 8½ to 9c.; chickens, 7 to 7½c.; ducks, 8 to 8½c.; geese, 5 to 6c. per lb.

HONEY—The demand for honey was slow, and prices rule steady. We quote: Clover comb at 10 to 11c.; bright

Cottams Seed

It is the only packet seed prepared from the standpoint of the experienced fancier. It is not put up solely to get as much profit as possible regardless of the rubbish the birds have to eat. In Cottams Seed the birds' requirements are supplied first. Profit is a second consideration. Such a statement may not have the orthodox commercial ring. But it's truth. And truth is bound to win.

Cottams Seed is sold by all Wholesalers.

extracted at 7½ to 8½c., and dark at 5 to 5½c.

POTATOES—Trade in potatoes shows some improvement, there being more enquiry, and prices rule unchanged at 50 to 60c. per bag in car lots.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was without any new feature. The demand was slow and the trade quiet, with no change in prices. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

Receipts of these are increasing and prices have declined as a result, the range this week being $5.75 to $6.25, as to grade.

SALT.

Continues quiet. Coarse Liverpool is selling at 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

A fairly active business was done in flour on local and country account, there being a good demand for small lots to fill actual wants at steady prices. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.40; bags, $2.10 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

The tone of the meal market was stronger for rolled oats, and prices advanced 10 to 15c. per bbl. under a fair demand. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.50 per barrel, and $1.75 per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

There was no change in feed, the demand being fair at steady prices. We quote: Ontario bran at $10.50; shorts $11.50 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, at $11.50, and shorts at $13.50 per ton.

BALED HAY.

The hay market is firm for choice grades, owing to the fact that supplies of such are small, while low grades are plentiful and easy. No. 1 is firmly held at $10.50, but holders of No. 2 would shade at $8 to $8.50 for round lots on track.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese continues quiet and steady. The public cable declined 6d. to-day, but the fact caused little comment on the street, as holders do not appear to be anxious about doing business at present. Values, therefore, are mostly nominal. In the country cheese is gradually passing out of first hands, for we learn to-day that the London and Listowel districts had been practically cleaned up last week of what stock remains in first hands. We quote as follows: Finest Ontario Septembers, 8½ to 8¾c.; finest Ontario Octobers, 8¼ to 8⅜c.; finest Townships, 8¼; finest Quebec Octobers, 7½ to 7¾c.

The butter market is dull, and business is confined to trading in a small way on local account. For parcels of finest creamery for this demand full prices are realized, but shippers are doing little or nothing. Cables from Liverpool quote finest at 92s., and good at 60s. We quote: Finest creamery, 18 to 18¼c.; seconds, 17¼ to 17½c.; dairy butter, 16 to 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Canned tomatoes and gallon apples are held very firm on this market.

There has been an advance of 10 to 15c. in the price of rolled oatmeal this week.

The unsettled tendency continues in coffee, and prices are very irregular and difficult to quote reliably.

Barbadoes molasses is held much firmer under diminishing stocks, and some holders have refused an advance of 1c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 29, 1897.

THE week has been a busy one. The holiday has aided in making it so. This is true of a holiday, particularly in a busy season and in wholesale houses. The day before there is extra work, so that no orders be held over, and the day after there is an accumulation of mail with orders demanding attention. The river is closed, and much of that business is over till spring, though to most up-river points connection can be made by rail, but freight rates are much higher. There is one business that is particularly active at this time. That is the candy manufacturing. The outlook is said by our local manufacturers to point to a larger output than last season. All factories are working overtime, and will continue to do so till well toward Christmas. In markets there have been no very marked changes. Prices are steady and in some cases firmly held. Wholesale people find their stocks about complete, and as little buying as possible will be done from now till after stock-taking.

OIL—The rush is somewhat over. The fall shipment of burning oil has been large. In Canadian oil the first quality is finding a very large sale. The cheaper oil, which they sold so largely a few years ago, is giving way to the better, which at the difference in price gives much better satisfaction. Lubricating is quiet. Spring orders are beginning to receive attention from some dealers. Cod oil is arriving in small quantities. We quote: Best American burning oil, 17½ to 18½c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—There is but little movement. In coarse salt there is quite a little held in store. There have been large arrivals during the past few weeks, one house receiving upward of 24,000 bags. The price during the winter is likely to rule low. In other grades there is just fair demand. Some little rock salt is held here, but the sale is only limited. We quote: Coarse, 47 to 50c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—In these lines business is quiet. Prices in most lines remain firm with upward tendency. Some of our dealers failed to make the advance in vegetables, having sold freely at low prices to arrive. The new factory in New Brunswick, which came into the market with high prices, is now making sales freely. In oysters, prices have advanced and tend higher. Meats are held firm, but this is the dull season. We quote as follows: Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 75 to 90c.; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.50 to $2.75; 2's, $1.50 to $1.75; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.05 to $1.15; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT — The milder weather of the past few days has very much aided shippers. There is, however, no large business. Stocks are light. At this season there is little good fruit. Oranges, while quiet, are plentiful. There is quite a market for West India fruit in season, as a steamer comes here direct monthly. Beside oranges, there are now on the market shaddock, sweet and sour limes and grape fruit. In Malaga grapes prices are firmly held, and tend upward. Apples have but limited sale, and prices high and quality poor. Lemons and native cranberries are freely offered. We quote: Malaga lemons, $6 to $7; oranges, $5.50 to $7 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $3.75; bananas, $2 to $2.25; grapes, 25 to 40c.; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5.50 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.. Shaddock, $3 per bbl.; grape fruit, $3 per bbl.; sour limes, $1.75 per box; sweet limes, $2.50 per box.

DRIED FRUIT — Movement continues quite large. The market is well supplied except perhaps in peels. In Malaga layers sales, owing to low prices, have been large. Another car of California raisins is to hand this week. California seeded raisins are having a good sale. In prunes the sale is much larger than usual at this season, small lots of Californias arriving almost daily. The first full car to be sold here was made up among the different dealers this week. The market is easy. In foreign prunes there are very few here. Evaporated apples are about out of the market. There is no particular demand. Dried are also quiet. There are no dates except a few Fard as yet here. The Valencia raisins were late arriving this season, resulting in delay in merchants filling orders. A few cleaned currants are still brought in here from the States. In nuts there is improved demand. We quote: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 5 to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; Fard. dates, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 3½ to 4c.; evaporated apples, 7 to 8c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3 crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11½ to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 11c.; orange peel, 12c.

SUGAR—There is more of the second grade granulated being put on the market than at least for a long time, if not ever before. It gives better satisfaction than was expected. It answers splendidly for some grades of candy making. It is said to be a better value at the price than yellows. In sugar stocks are not large. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—In the face of light stocks and firmer prices at outside places, the market here is easy, and business is but fair. Holders are inclined to sell. Stocks here are about confined to Barbadoes and Porto Rico. There is some inquiry for New Orleans, but the price is against it. Syrups are scarce. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antiqua, 22 to 23c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, 33 to 34c.

DAIRY PRODUCE — Eggs continue to strengthen in price. Receipts not large, and there is a good demand for fresh stock. There is a better feeling in butter and rather better prices can be obtained for first quality. The market is, however, weakened by the quantity of poor held. Cheese is easy. Nearly all the different factories have a few yet to offer, but dealers here are not very free buyers. We quote: Dairy butter, 16 to 18c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9½ to 9¾c.; eggs, 15½ to 16c.

FISH—Prices, except in smoked fish, are firm, and likely to remain so. Pollock particularly rule high. They are quoted at just double the price of last year. There is no particular demand, but there is no fish. In dry cod there are fair arrivals and a good steady trade is being done. Prices firm. Grand Manan pickled herring are again quoted higher and stocks are light. Prices expected to hold if they do not further advance. A few frozen cod and smelt have been handled; but the weather is too soft for much business. Smoked haddies are in good supply and have full sale. Pickled shad is scarce. We quote: Large cod, $3.40 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.90 to $2; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 6 to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; elevator. The first steamer to load will bl do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.25 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1; smoked haddies, 4½c.

PROVISIONS—The market is quiet. Stocks not large. In mess pork there is fair sale. Our local packers largely supply the market. Beef is firmly held. The sale this season has been light. In smoked meat only a fair business is doing. Lard has turned firmer during the week. We quote as follows: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—There has been quite a movement in flour during the week. Prices have tended higher, particularly in Ontarios. Oatmeal, while higher west, does not show much change here. A fair stock is held, and dealers offer as low as some of the millers quote. Western oats keep high, and this has made quite a demand for those of this province, which are offered under western prices. Cornmeal keeps low. In hay the market is easy and sale dull. Beans are easy and the market is well supplied. Barley is firm. Split peas are scarce and high. There is some demand for yellow-eye beans. We quote: Manitoba flour, $5.75 to $5.80; best Ontario, $5.10 to $5.25; medium, $4.80 to $4.90; oatmeal, $3.65 to $3.75; cornmeal, $1.90 to $2; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $16.00 to $16.50; bran, do, $15 to $15.50; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime 90 to 95c.; oats, 34 to 36c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50; barley, $3.15 to $3.25; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.45 to $3.50; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

The Bank of Nova Scotia agency at Campbellton has moved into new quarters.

They now occupy a handsome brick and stone building.

Winter port matters are now active. The first steamer to arrive was the Alcides, of the Donaldson Line. She will take a full cargo from here.

The output of cheese on Prince Edward Island for the past season is valued at $300,000, thirty-two factories running. In the winter there are nineteen creameries in operation.

The Provincial Government are now running the Sussex creamery. Cream is supplied by outlying skimming stations, and the butter is manufactured at Sussex. A dairy school will be held in connection with the creamery after the New Year.

There is talk of a new steamship line next spring to run from St. John to Bridgetown via Digby. There are also two new lines of railway in contemplation, one for New Brunswick, to run from Campbellton to St. Leonard, and one for Nova Scotia, to run between Windsor and Truro.

Shipments of sheep and geese from P. E. Island to the American market have been very large of late. Three shipments from Summerside of sheep numbered 8,661, while one shipment of geese numbered 2,905; total value of all, $18,101. The shipments of geese are not as large this year as last. It is said to be due to quality.

Mr. A. F. Easty, of Clairmonte, Man & Co., Barbadoes, called on THE CANADIAN GROCER this week. The call was a particularly pleasant one. His firm have quite large business connections with our city. They do not ship as much molasses to this port as some other Barbadoes firms, but they receive large quantities of goods on consignment from here. Mr. Easty gives as a reason for the better quality ruling in Barbadoes molasses this year the perfecting of the production of a new grade sugar cane, which they find particularly suited to their island. He claims their molasses will run even better next year. He finds much fault with the steamers now running between here and Barbadoes, they not being properly ventilated for business in that hot climate, much goods being spoiled in the hot close holds of the steamer. He also thinks the steamers call at too many places to allow of the business being the success it should be. He holds the shippers largely responsible for low markets and poor returns, the consignment, often being goods which, because of quality, are unsalable at home. Such goods, besides not bringing satisfactory prices themselves, very much interfere with the sale of better stock. Shippers also often send goods not at all suited to the market, and of course are dissatisfied with the results. This could be avoided by writing to the island before shipping the goods and finding out the facts regarding their likely sale there. The market is not a large one, and shippers should be very careful not to overload it. Mr. Easty feels a much larger business should be done with Canada, particularly in flour. He says Manitoba flour is now sent there by New York houses, who rebrand it at New York. In fish he thinks the outlook for the spring is for better prices. He would have more attention given to the packages in which pickled fish are shipped, the fish often arriving there dry, this never being the case with Scotch and Irish shipments. Mr. Easty's visit to our city is sure to lead to increased business between our shippers and his firm.

COST OF GOOD COFFEE NOT REDUCED.

There has been an item in the papers lately to the effect that there has been a fall in the price of Java coffee of 9½ cents a pound. It has made considerable trouble for Boston coffee merchants, consumers demanding a reduction.

The fact is, that the item in question referred to an interior coffee raised on the island of Java which is sold entirely in Holland. The 9½ cents referred to is Dutch currency, equal to about 3 8-10 cents of our money. This grade of coffee is what is known as Malany, and corresponds to the grade Santos No. 3, a cheap South American coffee. The value is about 8½ cents a pound.

The Java coffee sold in this country ranges in price from 24 to 30 cents per pound raw. During the week, 2,000 mats of interior Java coffee were sold at 24 cents and about 200 mats or mandhelings at 30 cents per pound raw. This last-named coffee would cost over 36 cents, roasted, and the price for it is practically as high as it ever has been.

In short, good coffee is selling for what it usually sells.—Boston Herald, 23rd November, 1897.

The Alpha Chemical Co. reports brisk shipments in "Quickshine" stove polish to the wholesale trade. The demand for this polish is said to be large.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited: "We have a fine assortment of fruits, etc., in cartoons, very effective for window display, such as California choice and fancy apricot and peaches; Griffin and Skelly's and 'Clover Leaf' seeded raisins; Rein's Malaga blue baskets, all in 1-lb. cartoons; California fancy cluster raisins in 2½-lb. cartoons; and Batger's 'London Cut' mixed preserved peel in 1-lb. drums."

"Sunnyside" tomato catsup, packed in Cincinnatti, O., in pint bottles to retail at 15c. is having rapid sale with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Tarragona almonds, Grenoble and Marbot walnuts, new Brazils and filberts, fancy peanuts and polished pecans are in store with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

All lines of Christmas fruits, including finest Jordan, finest Valencia and "Swan" confectioners' shelled almonds are in stock with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

D. Gunn, Bros., & Co. report consignments of large roll butter still large, but that they have been enabled to keep well sold up by their large shipping orders.

Poultry dressing, sage, savory, thyme, sweet marjoram and pastry spice are being offered by Lucas, Steele & Bristol in handsome glass pots with screw tops, at $1 per dozen.

A full assortment of Rae's olive oil, in glass and tins, at Frank Magor & Co., 16 St. John street, Montreal. "This is the purest olive oil brought to Canada," write the firm.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, draw the attention of the trade to their stock of Valencia raisins, which includes off-stalk, f.o.s., selected and layer fruit by the best-known packers.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. report that receipts of poultry for Thanksgiving trade were far in excess of any previous season, and that the demand was so good that stocks were well sold up.

Many housekeepers prefer buying their mincemeat as wanted instead of making it. Storekeepers should therefore have a supply. H. P. Eckardt & Co. report a good demand for both Wethey's and Heinz mincemeat.

W. H. Gillard & Co. are now in receipt of their "Paradise" and "Haycastle" currants, and orders are being filled. Their sales of these two grades have this season greatly exceeded those of last year, showing that the quality and appearance of these goods are appreciated.

The F. F. Dalley Co., Limited, of Hamilton, say their trade for their self-rising buckwheat and tea biscuit flours has been fourfold the output of last year, and they were somewhat behind in filling some of their orders, but with their increased machinery, which they have just got in place, they will be able to catch up, and they hope their numerous patrons will bear with them for the delay that may have taken place in filling orders.

WORK ON CROW'S NEST PASS.

A gentleman who has returned from a trip along the Crow's Nest Railway, said yesterday that excellent progress was now being made by the contractors, mostly all of whom are Winnipegers, under the direction of Manager Haney. The grading is at present finished to the summit of the mountains, to Crow's Nest Lake, a distance of 72 miles from McLeod. Grading parties are strung out all along to the crossing of the Kootenay River. The rails are laid to Pincher Creek, 22 miles from McLeod, where the work is stopped by the construction of a big bridge, which is one of the heavy parts of the road. Work is also being pushed in an easterly direction from Kootenay Lake, and the wagon road has been made 30 miles. This is always the first part of railway construction, a road to bring in supplies to the camps.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

B. C. SALMON IN THE EAST.

The Herald of Trade, of San Francisco, says, in its issue of November 19: "Puget Sound advices report that sockeyes are all placed, and considerable of the fall pack. All the better grades of fish packed at all points on this coast are said to be practically sold to distributers, as is a large proportion of the second grades. It is stated that the sales of British Columbia fish east have interfered with the successful placing of as much Alaska as has been desired, and in consequence it is said that some cutting has been done east."

THE WALLACE KLONDIKE.

One of the greatest displays of gold nuggets in New York is shown in the window of Wallace & Co., 31 Cortland street. The nuggets are put up in canvas bags doubly sealed with green wax and tagged Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express. A ton and a half of these yellow nuggets are being put up daily for those ladies who cannot reach the Klondike regions before spring, and desire a fine chocolate as a tonic to their impatience.

Toronto flour exporters are taking advantage of the favorable conditions of the Old Country market and are sending a large amount to the Liverpool market. CONDIMENTS AND SAUCES.

THOUGH there is much of science in cooking, we have now and then to give science the go-by and simply appeal to the senses. Therein lies the solution of the mystery that puzzles many a good soul, viz., the great variation in performance that is shown by a company of cooks who are given the same recipes, the same materials, and the same conditions to work with. But they do not all use their eyes to see with, they have not the touch to feel, a keen sense of smell, and a quickly perceptive taste. To succeed in flavoring, a cook must not only be active and tasteful in the preparation of dishes, but she must not allow defects to rise or flavors once present to escape.

While a perfectly sound and healthy palate may not crave condiments, yet the majority of digestions require to be humored and kept in order, and their peculiarities must be studied. Dr. Brunton says: "Savory food causes the digestive juices to be freely secreted. Well cooked and palatable food is, therefore, more digestible than the unpalatable. If food lacks savor, a desire naturally arises to supply it by condiments, not always well selected or wholesome."

In the fourteenth century spices were both costly and rare, most of them going from the Levant to the rest of the world. Chaucer mentions many by name—canella, macys, clowe (cloves), grains of Paradise, nutmegs, caraway and spikenard. The ancients, especially the Greeks and Romans, used condiments very freely. An old English historian, referring to the earlier Roman court, says: "The best magistrates of Rome allowed but the ninth day for the city and publick business; the rest for the country and the sallet garden." From this it would seem as though the education of taste was accounted of some moment in those days.

And nowadays the best chef de cuisine looks upon condiments as nothing less than necessities, depending upon them largely for the success of his pet creations; yet he uses them with the greatest discretion and sparingly.

The value of sugar as a condiment is not always sufficiently realized. It renders watery and insipid vegetables more digestible, and in unsuspected quantities it softens and heightens the flavor of sauces and ragouts.

The Belgian and Dutch housewives think very highly of the virtues of lemon peel, and depend upon the home-grown herbs rather than the warehousemen's stores.

The boquet garni is the mainstay of the French woman, and well it may be. It is more delicate and subtle than spices or dried condiments are apt to be. Usually the boquet garni is composed of sprigs of chevril, chives, thyme, bay leaves, tarragon and parsley.

Of the cruet sauces that are to be bought in these times too much cannot be said. There are mushroom, walnut and tomato catsups, anchovy, shrimp and other essences, with innumerable sauces that can be depended upon to make a very flat sort of a concoction expand into a delectable dainty, indeed.

Curry, really a condiment, is, strictly speaking, a mixture of many others. Perhaps only an Indian can make it to perfection, many of its ingredients being native to the country whose poorest peasantry look upon curry as a daily necessity.

As a condiment, pepper is valuable in heightening the flavor and giving piquancy to savory dishes, and it behooves a cook to know just what pepper shall be used and for what dish; for by the use or abuse of this sort of seasoning it is quite possible to make or mar the happiness of a dinner.

As a flavoring and digestive agent (hearken to this, sufferers from dyspepsia) vinegar holds a first place. But it must be of the best quality. A few drops of vinegar are of great value in the composition of stews and sauces, but, like onions, it is to be suspected only—not proclaimed.

While a fine and discriminating taste is natural to a few only, it may be cultivated in some degree by all. It is the fortune of the cook who possesses it; and possessin it not, he or she, though heavily handicapped, may, through plenty of experience, acquire a very fair semblance of it.—The Epicure.

CANADA AND THE CAPE TRADE.

Mr. G. H. Flint, of Montreal, who has just returned from an extended trip through the British and German colonies and the Transvaal, takes a most hopeful view of Canada's commercial prospects there. The United States does a considerable trade, but Canadian and British commercial methods were more acceptable. The Afrikanders do not like the general American way of drawing at sight on purchases. The sight drafts are sent by mail steamers, which necessitates paying for goods before the slower-going freight steamers arrive with them. British and Canadian traders show their faith in the people by delivering goods before demanding payment. This is fully appreciated, and there are comparatively few cases of bad faith. Mr. Flint believes there is a good opening for Canadian trade in grain, cheese, butter and such machinery as is made in the Dominion. It is almost impossible to get first-class butter or cheese in the country, and eggs are scarce and dear. The current price of eggs in Cape Town was equal to about 2s. a dozen, but that was regarded as exceptionally low, 3s. being the average rate.—London Financial News.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Messrs. W. H. Ferguson and T. A. Rowatt, representing the Retail Grocers' Association of London, were in Toronto this week inspecting the food show.

Major Oxley, of the wholesale grocery firm of Bauld, Gibson & Co., Halifax, visited some of the wholesale grocery warehouses in Toronto last week, and expressed himself at being well pleased with what he saw. He has been taking a course in cavalry at the Stanley Barracks and passed his examination on Saturday last. The firm of which he is a member was established in 1816.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29, 1897.

DELIVERIES of wheat have almost entirely ceased owing to the bad roads and the fact that dealers show very little anxiety to purchase, being afraid of not getting grain out of Fort William before navigation closes. Dealers are now getting themselves in shape to buy on a May basis, which will naturally reduce the price several cents. The bulk of the wheat, which a few weeks ago was in country elevators, is now pretty well shipped to Fort William. At time of writing exporters are finding difficulty in obtaining boats. Not only have freight rates gone up, but owners of boats are seemingly reluctant to bring them to Fort William, no doubt afraid of getting them tied up there for the winter. A very great difference of opinion exists as to the amount of wheat still in the farmers' hands, some putting it at 5,000,000 while others estimate it at from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000. At a great many points the supplies are, without doubt, exhausted. Prices until Saturday have been ruling at 77c. on a standard rate of freight.

The oatmeal question is assuming rather an ominous aspect in Manitoba. The oat crop here has all along been known to be very short. In previous years the yield of oats was heavy, and a large and profitable trade in oatmeal was established; in fact, the Manitoba made oatmeal had attained considerably more than a local reputation. This year, owing to the scarcity of oats, the millers are confronted with this problem. Tariff on oats from the United States is $6 per ton, and the tariff on oatmeal is $4. This means, of course, that it is quite impossible to import oats and compete with American meal, and already some of the mills have closed down. Manufacturers of oatmeal are moving to induce the Government to arrange the tariff on a more equitable basis. As very large sums of money have been invested in this industry it is felt that Government should come to its assistance and save it from utter annihilation.

Trade generally continues very fair. Of course, wholesale houses have largely shipped their Christmas orders and there is a little lull, but business on the whole is very good, prices are maintained and payments are prompt. There are some few changes of interest.

BUTTER—Dairy is a little easier as regards supply, but there is not enough so far to affect the price, although it is anticipated that the price will fall as the supply increases. There is little or no creamery butter. First-class fresh creamery is being brought through from Ontario, the price paid being 18 to 18½c. at point of shipment.

EGGS—Dealers are paying 18c. per doz. delivered in Winnipeg. The supply is still short and likely to remain so for the next two months. In fact the egg situation reminds me strongly of a rhyme seen in the autograph album of a poultry expert:

"Mary had a little hen,
'Twas feminine and queer,
It laid like smoke when eggs were cheap
And stopped when eggs were dear."

POULTRY.—Market at present is firm. Trade for Thanksgiving was good. One firm have orders in from British Columbia for 160,000 lbs. to be delivered before Christmas, and of course Ontario will be requisitioned for much of this as well as for our own Christmas supply. Dealers are paying to producers 8c. for chickens, 9c. for ducks and geese, and 10 to 11c. for turkey, according to quality. It is thought, however, that as Ontario supplies arrive more freely these prices will go down.

CURED MEATS.—Market is firm and prices maintained. Breakfast bellies are coming in a little more plentifully, but are still a short market. Prices are about the same. Hams, 12c.; extra short clear American, 7¾ to 8c.; shoulders, 8½c.; short spiced rolls, 9 to 9½c.; dry salt, boneless, 8¼ to 8½c.; backs, 9 to 9¼c.

FRESH FRUIT—Mexican oranges are in and the lot are a fine sample; much ahead of the shipment received earlier in the season. Price, $5 to $5.50. Lemons have been short for a few days, but new stocks arrive early in week, price, $5 to $5.50. Apples, Canadian winter, $4.50; American ditto, $4.25; pears, $2.25; bananas, $2.50 to $3, according to size of bunch. Cape Cod cranberries have dropped to $8.50 to $9.

FISH — Finnan haddies, 8c. per lb. Oysters, $2 per gallon.

CANNED GOODS—Market very firm and prices in some lines advancing. Tomatoes are now $2.35 per case; corn, $1.60; peas, $1.75; beans, $1.75; pumpkin (of which large quantities are sold here) $2 per case; baked beans, 3-lb., $3 per case; pork, beans and tomatoes, 1's, $2.80 per case of 4 doz.; 2's, $2.25 per case of 2 doz.; 3's, $3 25 per case of 3 doz.; French peas, Petite pois Moyens, $15 per case of 100 tins; Petite pois Moyens, fin, $18 per case of 100 tins, and Petite pois Moyens, tres fin, $20 per case; mushrooms, 1st quality, $21 per case; buttons, $24; canned apples, (for which there is a good demand) 3's, 2 doz. in case, $2, gal., ½ doz. in case, per case, $1.25; peaches, Canadian, 3's, 2 doz. in case, $5.50; Cal., ditto, 2½'s, 2 doz. $4.75 to $5, according to brand; 2's, 2 doz. in case, $3.50; pears, 2's, 2 doz. in case, $3; plums, G.G., 2's, 2 doz., $3; egg, 2's, 2 doz. in case, $3.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—This market is firm and advancing. Dried apples, offerings very small and price 6c.; evaporated, 11c. per lb. This is an advance of 1c. during the week, and means that evaporated apples are now ½c. higher than California apricots and the same price as peaches. The evaporated apple market has gone so high as to be almost prohibitive, and in consequence there is large sale of apricots and peaches. Nectarines, yellows, 10c.; reds, 11c.; pears, 11c.; plums, 10c. Prunes, 40-50, 8½c.; 50-60, 8c.; 60-70, 7½c.; 70-80, 7c.; 80 90, 6½c.; 90-100, 6c.; 110-120, 5c.; small prunes, 4½c.; raspberries, 22c.

DRIED FRUITS—Raisins, ordinary off-stalk Valencias, $1.75; layer Valencias, $2; California loose muscatels, 2-crown, 6½c.; 3-crown, 7½c.; 4-crown, 8½c.; seedless, 7½c.; California Valencias, 6¾c.; loose muscatels, seedless, in 1-lb. packages, 11½c.; table raisins, 6c.; Crown Imperial clusters, $3.50 per box of 20 lbs.; 5-crown Dehesa clusters, $3 per box; 4-crown fancy clusters, $2.50; 3-crown London layers, $2; 5-lb. cartoons, $1 each; 2½-lb. cartoons, $4.50 per doz.

FIGS—New goods we quote at 14, 16 and 18c., according to number of crowns and size; quality good. Figs in glove boxes, $2; cooking figs, natural, 5½c. per lb.; 1st quality, 6c.; superior, 7c.; extra, 8c.

CURRANTS—This market is high and firm, with no signs of decline in price. Provincials, bbls., 6¼c.; half-bbls., 6½c.; cases, 6¾c.; Filiatras, ¼c. advance on these prices.

NUTS—Shelled almonds, 25c. per lb.; soft shelled Tarragona almonds, 12½c.; Brazils, 12½c.; filberts, Sicily, 10c.; Barcelona, 12c.; peanuts, green, 9c.; do, roasted, 11½c.; Grenoble walnuts (old stock), 12½c.; filberts, 12c.; hickory nuts, 10c.; butternuts, 9c.; cocoanuts, $1 per doz.

TOBACCOS—The situation still retains its peculiar feature of one manufacturer having advanced 3c. per lb. and the others remaining at the old figures. General prices of tobaccos here are: Prince of Wales, 3's, 4's, 8's or 16's, 65c. per lb.; British Consols, 80c.; T. & B, 3's or 4's, 78c.; Lily, 63c.; Crescent, 8's, 60c.; Derby, 4's, 66c.; do, 8's, 65c.; Woodcock, 4's, 67c.; Beaver, 9's, 73c.; Lucky Strike, 65c.

COFFEE—The price and situation remain unchanged.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

A despatch from Winnipeg, under date of Nov 30, says: "John A. Gaynor, agent for Marshall & Co., tea merchants, London, Ont., had drafts falling due this month. He did not have money to make payment, and hit his head against a telegraph post, rendering himself apparently unconscious. Doctors worked on him some time, and when he recovered he said he had been robbed of $600. It was subsequently discovered he was only shamming, and he confessed that he had concocted the story to avoid paying the drafts. He was arrested to-day charged with concealing money for the purpose of defrauding his creditors."

A BIG SHIPMENT OF TEA.

The Salada Tea Co.'s business with the United States is assuming nice proportions. This week the company is shipping ten tons of "Salada" in half-pound packages to Boston, while four additional tons are being forwarded for distribution in Buffalo and Pittsburg. It is said that this is the biggest lot of tea ever shipped to the United States by one firm in one week.

HEALTH AND UTILITY OF THE LEMON.

So much has been written and said about the large quantity of lemons that have arrived at this port from the Mediterranean, that it is advisable, perhaps, to bring to the attention of the public in general the necessity for partaking of the juice of the Italian lemon, and give a few points as to its being marvelously beneficial to health. I have conversed with several eminent physicians in regard to the use of lemon juice. In the course of our conversation, facts developed which demonstrated most conclusively that for weak and debilitated people the free use of lemon juice is sure to produce good results. A bilious attack may be soon overcome by taking the juice of one or two lemons in a goblet of water before breakfast. When taken on an empty stomach, the lemon juice is rapidly absorbed by the system. Lemons are an excellent remedy in pulmonary diseases. When used for lung troubles, from six to nine a day should be used. For this complaint the lemons should be boiled. First place the lemon in cold water and bring slowly to a boil.

Permit them to boil slowly until they begin to soften, then remove them from the water, and when cool enough to handle, squeeze them until all the juice is extracted, after which strain the juice and add enough of loaf or crushed sugar to make it palatable, being careful not to make it too sweet. For feverish and unnatural thirst soften a lemon by rolling on a hard surface, cut off the top, add sugar and work it down into the lemon with a fork, then suck it slowly.

During the warm weather a sense of coolness, comfort and invigoration can be produced by a free use of lemonade. In the winter months, when colds are prevalent, hot lemonades will break them up sooner than anything else. Make them the same as ordinary lemonades, using boiling water.

A very nourishing drink for a convalescent is to add a fresh egg, beaten as light as possible, to a glass of strong lemonade. The lemon will destroy the raw animal taste that is so offensive to some.

The discomfort caused by sore and tender feet may be lessened, if not entirely cured, by applying slices of lemon to the feet.

Lemons will remove roughness and vegetable stains from the hands. Silverware, also, can be cleaned and will be kept in better condition by the use of lemon juice.—Laurence B. Contencin in The Fruitman's Guide.

WEST INDIA SUGAR QUESTION.

"Get rid of the foreign bounties." That, says Mr. Edward Kynaston, in his latest West India circular, is the gist of the 170 pages embodying the report of the West India Commissioners. The assertion made in London and elsewhere, that the growth of sugar in the West Indies was in a highly unsatisfactory condition, has, he declares, "been fully confirmed" in the report. "The whole volume rings with the same tune." Waxing warm with his subject, Mr. Kynaston, who may be said to express the opinion of Mincing-lane, goes on to say that "there can now be no excuse for allowing matters to come to such a crisis that the West India colonies will return to barbarism; and if it were possible to conceive such a course of action on the part of the Government, the fair name of England would be so stained that history could only write of this act as 'the great betrayal.'" Further, he asserts that the complications that would ensue on the sugar industry being abandoned in the West Indies are of such a nature that, sinking the shame of it, the cost to the Home Government would be on a colossal scale, such as this country would have reason to regret for many a year to come.—Grocers' Journal, London.

MISLEADING THE GROCERS.

THERE is a strong tendency observable among some of the leaders and trade organs to "jolly" the members of the grocers' associations—if the slang term is admissible. When some ineffably childish scheme is proposed for an incurable evil, these well-meaning advisers are apt to greet it with encouraging smiles and plaudits, with the results that great waste of time and energy ensue and an acuteness of disappointment that bodes ill for further usefulness of the association. It may seem to be the height of politeness and the shrewd thing to encourage one's readers or followers in some delusion which appears to be harmless, but the notion, say, that department stores and price cutting can be abolished by law is not likely to be followed by a mood that is favorable to useful work for the associations; indeed, we can think of few things so fatal to trade organizations as deep disappointment accentuated or sharpened by the belated perception that the search for a remedy must be hopeless.

Almost to a man the trade editors succumbed to the "jollying" temptation when the department store evil seemed to urgently call for a remedy, but since then, with few exceptions, they have recovered their self-respect and courage.

But the "jollying" will still go on. When one topic loses its interest, and there is no longer any necessity to remain in a deceitful attitude toward it, some other evil or subject will bob up and the process be repeated.

The true friends of the grocers will never urge them to seek remedies the use of which can do nothing but cover them with ridicule. —Merchants' Review.

THEY PREFER OLD EGGS.

In the matter of eggs it is, after all, we suppose, a question of taste whether they should be taken "new laid," "fresh country," "very fine," "specially selected," or otherwise. Now, in China they look upon eggs from a totally different point of view. Shocking as it may seem, the older the egg in China the more perfect from an epicurian standpoint does it become, for no Chinaman who has a right regard for his palate eats fresh boiled eggs. Taken fresh, eggs are sent to soak, after having been washed, in a tub of aromatic water. After a time they are removed, and the water used in mixing a paste of lime and salt, in which the eggs are packed in jars. These are hermetically sealed and set aside to stand for a month, when they are supposed to be fit for eating. Those left packed in lime and salt for twelve months or more, when opened, are found to have changed color, solidified partly, and are colorless.

THE BLUE RIBBON MILLS.

G. F. & J. GALT, of Winnipeg, have always been looked upon as among Winnipeg's most progressive merchants. A firm faith in the country and large capital at their command has enabled them to extend their business in many lines advantageous to themselves and of benefit to the community. For some years they have put up a package tea known as "Blue Ribbon" which has met with much favor from the public.

"Blue Ribbon" tea being an established success, they decided to make further use of the name and within the last month have opened a large mill to be known as the Blue Ribbon Manufacturing Co., where the "Blue Ribbon" brand of coffee, spices and baking powder will be put up.

This mill is situated on Elgin avenue near Princess street and not five minutes walk from the great warehouses of the firm It will be run as a separate department and is in charge of a man well known in the grocery, coffee and spice trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific, J. D. Roberts, or, as he was so long and so familiarly called, "Pure Gold Roberts."

Your correspondent dropped in the other morning to see how the enterprise was faring and found Mr. Roberts up to his eyes in business. The Galts, following a long-established rule, have had all the work in connection with their new enterprise done in Winnipeg. The machinery had, of course, to be imported, but the boxes, cans, cartoons, labels and the hundred and one things needed in a business of this kind have all been prepared in Winnipeg under the personal supervision of Mr. Roberts. The labels are all of very pretty design and on each and every one the blue bow is prominent with pleasing effect.

The first department visited was the baking powder room, which is kept at such a high temperature that a short stay only is possible. The powder turned out is velvety in texture and pure white in color. In reply to the jesting remark "Is there any alum in it?" Mr. Roberts said: "No; and no lime either." There is quite a controversy here just now between the Price people and some of the local manufacturers of baking powder, as to the purity of their goods, so that this is rather a burning question at the present moment. The Blue Ribbon powder will be put up in 6, 8, and 12 ounce, and 1, 3 and 5 lb. tins.

In the spice room a Burns grinder and separator combined was in operation. The spices after being sifted fall from hoppers on the second floor to the stones and as they are ground pass, by carrier shaft, to the ceiling, from which point the perfectly ground falls into one receptacle, the waste into another, and the partially ground is returned to the stones. A feature of the output of the new mill is "Blue Ribbon" pastry spice. This is a mixture of thirty-one different spices all ground together. The odor was so delightful it instinctively carried the mind forward to Christmas pudding, plum cake, mincemeat and all sorts of delectable dainties that will be in order this month.

The coffee department is the largest in the mill. Here a Burns coffee roaster, with a capacity of 2,200 pounds per day, was in full blast; the green beans fall from the upper floor through a long shaft into the revolving cylinder, below which is a slow and steady fire of coke. Round and round flies the cylinder, the beans performing a mad dance for 35 minutes or so, and the air meanwhile full of the delicate aroma. When the roasting is complete a handle is turned and down pour the beans, through a long spout into a great iron bin with a perforated bottom. Another handle is drawn forward and the large fan is set in motion, and as the beans are swiftly stirred the hot air is forced out and carried away through a flue, the idea being to cool the coffee as rapidly as possible to prevent the loss of aroma through the open pores. From this bin the coffee is shovelled into large galvanized iron tanks with close fitting covers. These tanks are on rollers and can readily be moved from one section of the building to another. In one corner of this room is the large coffee grinder. The motive power throughout the building is electricity.

In another corner is a small hand roaster and a tiny gas stove for testing coffee. Mr. Roberts offered to brew a cup for your correspondent, and as it was a snapping cold morning the offer was gladly accepted. After the beverage had been duly tasted and its fine flavor commented upon, Mr. Roberts said: "That is made from some coffee I have been trying hard to spoil. We ground it on Saturday, left it lying exposed to the air all day Sunday, and this morning I have added more water than we usually use, and still you find it a good cup of coffee. For the past two months I have been experimenting daily to get just the right coffee for the 'Blue Ribbon' brand, and, having finally succeeded in getting what we wanted, I was anxious to see what it would stand without spoiling, and after the treatment mentioned you find it still makes good coffee. Now, let me give you one made as it should be made." The first cup was good; the second was simply delicious. "We propose," continued Mr. Roberts, "to buy only the very best raw materials in all lines, and to prepare them in the latest improved scientific manner and put them on the market in perfectly sealed packages, so that it will be impossible, or next to impossible, for them to suffer deterioration. The test I have just shown you with the coffee is a severe one, but it is necessary for us to try these things, as very frequently sellers and consumers are careless in their methods of handling goods, and an article that will not stand a certain amount of of roughing without deterioration will not do for our trade. At present we are employing eight hands, four women and four men, but just as soon as all our labels, tins, boxes, etc., are ready we will run the mill to its full capacity in all departments, as orders are coming in rapidly."

It will, perhaps, be of interest to some of the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER to know how "Blue Ribbon" coffee (and all other, for that matter) should be made. A metal pot (granite or block tin), a teaspoonful of coffee for every cup required, rapidly boiling water. Pour the water on the coffee, set the pot on the fire, let come to a boil and boil three minutes, then pour a teaspoonful of cold water down the spout of your pot, let stand a moment, and you will have a cup of coffee, clear and golden, and fit for a king, and which should not be insulted by the addition of cold milk, but hot milk, if you have no cream.

LARGE LUMBER SHIPMENTS.

A despatch to The Halifax Chronicle from Parrsboro, N.S., says: The deal shipping for the season from this port is finished, and what promised to be the largest shipment by about one-third, was considerably reduced by the heavy fall in the price of lumber in about the middle of the season, and on this account fully ten millions of deals are held over expecting a rise in the price by spring. But notwithstanding this, Parrsboro has again this year forged ahead another notch and has shipped 44,397,133 feet, against 43,315,244 feet in 1894, and in round numbers 1897 has beaten 1896 by a million feet. In carrying this there was employed 33 vessels of 40,598 tons register and comprising the following class: 10 steamers, 4 ships and 19 barques. Below is a list of the shippers, the number of vessels loaded by each, the tonnage and the cargo carried:

Shippers.	Vessels.	Ton.	Cargo.
W. McKay.....	14	19,184	22,091,171
George McKean.	18	19,767	20,846,918
A. C. & C. W. Elderkin....	1	1,647	1,459,044

The general store of G. H. Falconer, Streetsville, was entered by thieves, who made a considerable haul, carrying off about $300 worth of goods, including dry goods, silks, velvets, boots and shoes, underwear, groceries and tobacco. The load removed was such a big one that the thieves must have had a horse and wagon to help them.

TRADE CHAT.

MUNRO & CO., wholesale liquor dealers, Winnipeg, are now to be found in the Daly & Coldwell block.

The exportation of stockers from Manitoba into the corn belts of the United States still continues.

It was estimated that from September 1 and up to November 17 the amount of wheat delivered by the farmers in Manitoba was 17,000,000 bushels.

The Canada Milk Condensing Co., operating in Antigonish, have been obliged to close down for a time on account of the supply of milk failing.

St. Johns, Que., proposed to grant a bonus of $22,500 for the establishment of a vinegar and preserve factory in that town. The Messrs. Lefebvre are to conduct the factory.

Briggs—I didn't know that you were near-sighted, old man.

Griggs—Near-sighted. Why, I walked right up to one of my creditors yesterday.—Judge.

A Kingston, Ont., despatch says: "A company at Bath, engaged in evaporating business, has successfully discovered a process of evaporating potatoes and onions, and can reduce goods into one-tenth the space they originally filled. The evaporating process for onions is highly successful, and a carload will be made ready for the Yukon market."

The supply of potatoes in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is almost exhausted, and P.E. Island stocks are in great demand. Several large shipments were made to Boston last week.

City Clerk Beasley is writing to a number of cattle dealers and shippers, as to the probable advantages to be derived from the establishment of stock yards in Hamilton, inviting an expression of opinion from them.

A buyer on P. E. Island advertises for 1,000 geese, 1,000 ducks, 500 turkeys, 1,800 chickens. 300 quarters of beef, 300 carcases of mutton, 100 tubs of butter and 3,000 bushels of oats. He intends to make a shipment to Newfoundland.

Rose & Lewis' new grocery on Front street, in the Bank of Montreal building, was opened to the public Tuesday. The firm are young men and popular, especially among the railway people, and will doubtless do a good business, their stock being complete and up-to-date.—Sarnia Post.

The grocery store of George Hunt, at the corner of Herkimer and Caroline streets, Hamilton, was broken into the other night and fifteen pounds of chewing tobacco, two boxes of cigars and a quantity of candies stolen. Entrance was effected by forcing open a door at the rear of the building.

An Eastport special to The Lewiston, Me., Journal, says that a new line of passenger and freight steamers is mentioned for next season between that place and Digby, which will connect with Halifax and the larger towns of the province by rail, and when Eastport has rail connection with the west several hours can be saved by this route.

The Government dairies in the Regina district have had a successful year, having made about 350,000 pounds of butter from ten creameries, four skimming stations, and seven cream-gathering stations, which will net the patrons in the neighborhood of sixteen cents. A large quantity of this make has been shipped to the British markets.

The late Thomas Lawry, of Hamilton, left, besides the important packing business, real estate valued at $50,000. The will, which left the deceased's interest in the business to Harry Lawry, the eldest son, was not signed, and this neglect will necessitate the appointment of an administrator and postpone the division of the property until the two youngest children become of age.

A MATTER OF WINES.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome is credited with the following story, which, no doubt, contains a certain amount of truth. He was discussing the question of wines to be served with the head waiter—a kind, fatherly old man—before the guests arrived. "Well," said the waiter, "if you take my advice, you will give them a good champagne to begin with—let's say Deutz and Gelderman (1880)—and let that go round twice. After that, sir—well, here's a very good wine that I always recommend at 5s. a bottle; and then, if I were you, sir, I would finish up with this!" And he pointed to a modest little brand at 3. 6d. "And don't you think," said Mr. Jerome, "that they will know the difference?" "Lor' bless you, no, sir," replied the old man; "we generally do it that way. I would not undertake to tell the difference myself between champagne at 16s. and champagne at 5s. after the first two glasses."

Vol. XI. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, DECEMBER 10, 1897 ($2.00 per Year) No. 50

TEA CONSUMPTION.

BY R. O. FIELDING, HAMILTON.

NOTWITHSTANDING the high duties which have been placed on tea in England at various times, the increase in consumption is proportionately higher there than in this country. That it is far short of its full practical development here is apparent to anyone who has observed the means taken to extend its use in England.

WHY MORE TEA IS NOT DRUNK.

Various causes may be assigned, viz., want of knowledge as to the best mode of brewing; the use of unsuitable water; the abuse or overuse of tea, by making too strong an infusion. To these, in part, may be attributed the lessened consumption. Where an actual distaste for tea exists, it has arisen chiefly from the introduction of false tea, or of a very inferior quality of genuine tea. Low grade tea has, in part, been imported as the outcome of a demand for a cheap article, so called, although the lowest cost tea must intrinsically be the dearest.

PRIDE THEMSELVES ON POOR TEA.

It seems strange that while gentlemen will not tell that their wines are cheap, but rather want them to be thought costly, the ladies pride themselves upon getting their tea at a low price. A gift tea company will, perhaps, give a gilt-edge cup and saucer with a pound of 50c. tea, and the bona fide grocer who cannot afford to give a present will sell a better tea at 50c., or one of the same quality as that sold by the gift tea company, for 40c. per pound. People note that the gift tea company and the grocer are running low prices, and forthwith get the notion that it is a mistake to pay a high price for tea.

TEA CONSUMPTION IN ENGLAND.

One reason for the difference in the progress of consumption in England, as compared with this country, is the use of better qualities of teas in England than here. As in England the duty is the same on all classes of teas it follows that the consumer of a poor tea pays a higher percentage of duty on the cost than he does on a high-priced tea. Between the two grades the latter is most in favor; the appetite grows by what it feeds on, and in time the taste for a genuine article of luxury overcomes the matter of cost and the burden imposed by the Government. In this country, on the contrary, poorer kinds of tea are introduced—poorer in quality and actually in economy—resulting in the use of the beverage being limited by the distaste created from the inferior article.

ADVANTAGE OF FINE TEAS.

When it is considered that a large part of the cost of tea is made up of the land and canal carriage in the countries of production, the cost of chests and lead to fit it for shipment to consuming countries, and which from their nature are made proportionate to bulk and weight, it will be seen that tea costing 60c. increases no more on the pound for these charges than a tea costing 30c., and that while these charges, assumed at 10c. per pound, make up one-third of the cost of the last named, they amount to but one-sixth the cost of the 60c. tea, thus leaving in genuine intrinsic value five-sixths of the cost of the latter, and showing that 30c. invested in one-half pound of the better tea would leave 25c. value in tea, while the same outlay in the lower quality would leave but 20c. value in tea. It is only necessary to extend this calculation to a family's annual supply to show how material is the pecuniary saving by the use of fine tea, which, however, is not so important as the avoidance of what may be injurious to health in the spurious or low qualities.

GROCERS BLAMED.

The grocers are also, in a measure, to blame for the small consumption of tea. They know the burden of the various losses incidental to their business on tea; they do not give sufficient time to the study of the different kinds so as to blend them in the best manner, and thus obtain a flavor which shall always be the same, but which it is impossible to obtain when teas are sold straight. Sufficient study is not given to the effects of water on tea, for a tea which is fine-flavored and full-bodied in one section would be flavorless and thin when used with water in some other section of the country.

"CASH" AS A MOTTO.

The retailer who wants to succeed should adopt as his motto "I buy and sell for cash only," remarks an exchange. If this is done you either have the goods on the shelves or the money in the bank, instead of on your books. A dealer who is known as a cash buyer and can handle reasonable quantities, can get prices that the credit buyers never hear of.

Merchants should sell popular goods; goods that their customers know all about; goods that their clerks don't have to spend precious time talking up.

The Modern STOVE POLISH.

is. Hundreds of thousands of Dollars are being expended yearly to educate the public in regard to Enameline. It sells on sight. It puts dollars into the pockets of dealers who handle it.

CALIFORNIA LEMONS.

THE present season in the Mediterranean lemon trade, which opened about two weeks ago, has been a decided disappointment to local importers. The receipts of foreign lemons up to date have not been half those for the corresponding weeks of last year, while cargoes afloat at present are relatively smaller still. Nevertheless, prices are not only lower than those prevailing at this time a year ago, but ever since the opening of this season there has been a material decline; cargoes sold this week bringing from 50c. to $1 per box less than the same brands realized at the first sale.

One of the principal reasons advanced for the present condition of the market is the increasing competition of California fruit, which this year has entered markets in quantity where it was almost unknown previously. It is the opinion of some that the California fruit will eventually displace imported lemons in practically all sections of the country as it already has in the west. E. L. Turner, of Buffalo, representing the Pattee & Lett Co., of Riverside, Cal., heavy shippers of California oranges and lemons, who is at present in this city, when questioned in reference to this competition yesterday, said: "From my correspondents throughout the Missouri and Ohio Valleys, as well as other sections, it appears that during the present season, or say during the past 90 days, California lemons have almost entirely displaced the imported article, and prices up to the present have been very satisfactory. While the arrivals of Messina lemons have been only about one half those for the same period last year, on the other hand, these have been distributed along the Atlantic seaboard, and the quantity has been more than equal to the demand. Shipments in transit from the Mediterranean are fairly heavy, and it would seem that low prices, considering the high rate of duty, are bound to be the rule for some time ahead.

"Prior to this fall very few California lemons came east of the Missouri river, with the exception of Chicago, to which city a considerable number of cars were consigned, whereas, this season they have pushed their way into all markets distant more than 500 miles from the Atlantic coast and a few cars have even been shipped to New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and sold at good prices.

"It is estimated that the California lemon crop (for the crop year of 1897) was in the neighborhood of 250,000 boxes, whereas the 1896 crop was not more than 150,000 boxes. From all indications California will have fully 500,000 boxes of lemons to market in 1898."

Another prominent receiver of lemons said: "One reason for the present depression is that there were a good many lemons held over from last season which were sold recently at low prices, thus weakening the market. I also believe that the consumption of lemons is not as great as formerly. There can be no question that the California fruit is cutting much more of a figure this year than ever before."—New York Journal of Commerce.

EARNINGS IN CARIBOO.

Those who intend to pursue their visions of wealth in the Yukon will be interested in the fact that while the Cariboo district, some parts of which were equally as rich as Yukon, yielded $38,166,970 between 1858 and 1875, and the average number of miners employed yearly was 3,220, the average earnings per man per year were only $658, remarks an exchange. At Yale, the head of navigation on the Fraser river, provisions were higher than they now are at Dawson City, eggs having sold for as much as $1 each.

There are several men now living in Manitoba who joined in the rush to Cariboo. They are not among those who talk of going to Yukon.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS.

Regarding the raisin situation on the Coast, The California Fruit Grower says in its issue of Nov. 27: "There is little, if any, change in the general situation. Shipments to date are placed at about 2,000 cars. There is an ample supply on hand, including rain-damaged goods, which are being offered at all sorts of prices and are being liberally consigned to eastern points. Reports from the east indicate a slow, quiet market at steady prices. Numerous rejections are reported from nearly all points. Claims for rebates and rejections are made upon grade and quality of goods (the price having declined). The price to-day in the sweatbox is what packers choose to pay. The season has been a most unsatisfactory one from whatever standpoint one chooses to look. For strictly choice, sound, merchantable fruit, properly graded, there is an asking price, and most packers are firm in their views, but so-called 3-crown and rain-damaged goods are being offered at prices very much below what holders of choice raisins will accept. In quoting this market on raisins, condition and quality of stock must be considered."

IGNORANT SHIPPERS.

The writer was on Saturday shown a foot note to an invoice of goods shipped by a firm in Germany to a Halifax house, in which it was explained that owing to this port being closed to navigation for the season by ice the goods were being sent by the way of Portland, Me. It is quite evident that notwithstanding Halifax has the finest harbor in the world the year round there is room for an "educative campaign." Haligonians have always treated the statement that their harbor freezes as a joke, under the impression that everybody who said so and those who heard knew better, but constant repetition by jealous rivals or by ignorant people it appears travels so far that it sometimes finds credence.—Chronicle, Halifax.

THE POSITION which has been attained by us as the leading QUICK SHIPPERS is attributable to the personal care all orders receive, and the fact that our stock is always large enough to supply all demands. The USUAL TENDENCY is to put off buying Christmas supplies until Christmas comes. Would it not be wise to order NOW from . . . .

FUSSY AND EXPENSIVE OFFICIALS

THE following, signed by "Grocer," recently appeared in The Kingston Whig :

"The ill-directed efforts of some public servants in the employ of the Inland Revenue Department in harrying merchants with fines and penalties imposed under the Adulteration of Foods Act and tobacco excise regulations, are causing a good deal of comment just now in trade circles.

"If half the reports be at all reliable far more attention is given to seizures and fines for failure to comply with the exact manner prescribed in which a tobacco package is to be opened by retailers, than is expended in protecting the country's tobacco revenues by endeavoring to check the increase of border smuggling of Yankee makes, while in other lines officials have shown more zeal than knowledge.

"At the expense of at least thousands of dollars, a report of the duplicate analysis of 'sixty-six samples of commercial mustard,' collected from one end of the Dominion to the other, was lately paraded, showing the summer's work of several highly-salaried scientific officials, and probably scores of understrappers, wherein a great wonderment is made that no pure mustard was found to be on sale. Now, any grocer's clerk or observant housewife could have informed these sapient officials what they ought to have known themselves, that an absolutely pure ground mustard is not an article of commerce. Such a grade, from its oily and heating nature, has so great a tendency to ferment and turn rancid that the very best English makers, in their very best brands, mark every package as an admixture, as any purchaser of Keen's or Coleman's 'double superfine' grade can see by reference to the label. And as this grade is found to be too strong and pungent for many palates, milder grades are provided by adding still more corn starch, flour or other useful mixture, as in their 'superfine' and 'fine Durham' grades. An absolutely pure mustard could not be sold and would not keep without fermentation long enough to be an article of trade.

"Yet these fussy and expensive officials, in the bulletin under consideration, coolly recommend that 'prosecutions should be instituted,' and urge the Government to adopt a scientific minimum pungency for mustard for Canadian palates ranging from twenty-two per cent. of fixed oil for 'mixtures' up to thirty per cent. of fixed oil of what they prate about as 'pure mustard.'

"This mustard and tobacco racket with some variation of the farce by a hunt for oleomargarine has been going on, to the great annoyance of merchants and no known good to either the consumer or the public revenues, each summer for a dozen years or more, affording officials pleasant little outings at the public expense and all this time, day after day, train loads of impure food have been freighted down unsuspecting throats, big and little, in the shape of adulterated sugars.

"Canadian granulated sugars are, as a rule, good, honest goods, and in the better varieties each barrel contains a copy of analysis showing almost 100 per cent. purity, but, as is very well known, the brown or yellow grades contain only about 80 to 85 per cent. of sugar. What composes the 15 to 20 percentage of admitted adulteration has not, to the knowledge of the trade, ever given our will-paid laboratory officials even a passing thought. Sugars have been foisted on the public so full of acids and other impurities, the result of cheap refining processes, that their chemical nature and effect when added to a cup of tea is to immediately blacken the infusion. And this stuff is allowed to be used by children and delicate women, year in and year out, without ever exciting a word of protest from our well-paid busybodies of mustard and oleomargerine fame and sticklers for exactitude in the red tape of tobacco regulations. It may be easier to hunt the hard pushed corner grocer than to tackle such large game as sugar barons, but this is a matter of the public health, and the Minister of Inland Revenue should let no time pass without insisting on a change of tactics and let poor folks know what the residuum of 15 or 20 per cent. of their sugar food is composed of and cease to annoy well-meaning merchants, whom, instead of being subjected to fines and penalties, should be the recipients of the Department's apologies for the meddlesomeness of its ill-informed officials."

TO PHOTOGRAPH A DISPLAY.

IT is well known that one of the chief reasons why more window trimmers do not photograph more of their displays, so as to have them for future reference, is the poor results that are usually obtained, says a Chicago paper. Reflections spoil over half the pictures that are taken, and after one has made three or four unsuccessful attempts to get a good photograph of a window it is no wonder that he gives up in despair.

One who understands the many peculiarities of photography says that reflection or the spot of white that appears on the negative if an electric light is allowed to burn during the exposure, are the commonest annoyances and are much exaggerated in any attempted reproduction for purposes of publication. "One method to produce a good picture," he says, "is merely a large black screen to cut off the reflected image. A commercial photographer of wide experience and high attainment has, however, been making experiments of late in this direction, and gives as the final result of his investigation the conclusion that perfect results are almost invariably secured if a very early hour, about sunrise, be selected, and the plate given a long exposure. At such a time, when the day is fine and still, the light comes from the east, low in the horizon, and the atmosphere seems also to possess a peculiar actinism of considerable help in producing a clear, sharp negative."

PRICE CUTTING.

ONE of the most common and at the same time serious evils of the retail business of to-day is the custom of selling merchandise at so-called "cut-rate" prices, arising primarily from loss of trade incident to the recent hard times, says Trade. Beginning with the large down-town department stores who adopted the plan to attract trade, and trusted to the tempting display of other articles to lure the bargain-seeker to buy what he did not need, and thereby in a measure offset the cut-rate purchase, it has slowly but surely wormed its way into the smaller stores until to-day the entire retail business of our cities is honeycombed with it, and hardly a corner grocery or meat shop but flaunts its cut-rate announcements in the public eye. The system is certainly a pernicious one and it will require a long period of good times and a good bit of determination on the part of the retailer to overcome it unless some feasible plan of co-operation can be agreed upon. Every merchant is surely entitled to a reasonable profit on all the goods he sells, and the buying public should be perfectly willing to allow it, but an epidemic of bargain, closing out, remnant, removal, going to move, inventory, ready-cash, fire, mortgage, basement bargain, dissolution of partnership, estate closing, take off, catch on and heaven knows what other kind of sales have so educated the average buyer that bargain-hunting has become a fin de siecle mania of alarming proportions.

It is a notorious fact that many of the gigantic retail institutions in the congested districts of our cities no longer hold the regular patronage which formerly made the backbone of all commercial houses, and are now dependent entirely upon the army of bargain-hunters who scan the columns of the daily press for marked-down sales as religiously as the head of the family looks for the news of the day. The natural sequence of such a condition is that many of the most lavish advertisers have adopted a plan of deliberate misrepresentation, but a little if any short of genuine fraud, and the honest merchant who does what he advertises is thereby placed at a most unfair disadvantage in addition to the other evils incident to a "cut rate" policy.

One of the worst features of this course is the fact that it has arisen out of a real need for better values, superinduced by hard times and a consequent reduction of incomes. The practice has a tendency to unsettle trade, make the buyer dissatisfied with the price, be it ever so low, and cut away largely, if not entirely, the profits of conducting business.

Now that times are better and bid fair to remain so permanently, it would seem as though the opportunity were here for a determined attempt to correct this abuse. We believe that with a steady policy of honest goods at honest values and a gradual abandonment of the credit business, which is in itself an evil of no mean proportions, merchants will find less need for price-cutting than has existed for some time past.

The trite saying of Abraham Lincoln about fooling the people is going to find another practical demonstration in the gradual return to better and more discriminating methods on the part of the buyer, and the opportunity will present itself to enable the merchant to command at least a decent profit on his sales. Taken all in all, on the average you get what you pay for, and the old saw "good horse, good money" is beginning to reveal itself to the chronic bargain-seeker as never before. Let us hope it is the dawn of a better era for the merchant.

CALGARY AND KLONDIKE.

The number of Klondikers in Calgary, N.W.T., is said to be surprising. There are two separate parties of Englishmen of twelve each under the leadership of Capt. O'Brien and Mr. Clatworthy respectively. Still another English party, consisting of five men under Capt. Bernard. Then there is a fourth party from Illinois. These men are all taking upwards of twelve months' provisions, besides ammunition, mining tools and gold testing instruments. They will all proceed overland in a few days. They have provided themselves with an adequate supply of horses, husky dogs, sleeping bags and tents and experienced cooks, and should travel prove impossible at any stage of the route, through excessive snow or frost or accident, they can at least form a merry camping party till winter breaks. Many of the parties are already accustomed to Arctic travel.

The parties have outfitted at London, Eng., Montreal, Winnipeg and Calgary.

SHIPMENTS OF SALMON.

Concerning the salmon situation on the Coast The San Francisco Herald of Trade says in its issue of Nov. 26th: "The market is slow. It is stated that the east was flooded with large quantities from Blaine, which has operated somewhat against placing Alaska. Some Sacramento spring is still obtainable from first hands on the basis of $1 for talls. The movements at the east are slow and likely to continue so until supplies in distributers' hands are worked down. The impression grows that with mackerel and codfish strong and tending up at the east and abroad, salmon is good property at current quotations. While admitting this it is conceded also that in putting up inferior fish and also trash packers have injured the business, and any firm placing their stuff on the market for them has also done great injury to the industry. England reports a big consumption for the season, but buyers are not disposed to anticipate wants to any extent. The following vessels have cleared from British Columbia ports for Liverpool with canned salmon: Balmore, 68,171 cases; Kehreweider, 54,471; Tekoa, 111,785; Silberhorn, 84,071. Total, 318,444. The following have cleared for London: City of Benares, 70,707; Seestern, 65,414. Total, 136,121 cases. Grand total so far this season for England by sail, 454,565 cases. The Mennock sailed from Seattle for Liverpool with 20,945 cases sockeye salmon packed at Friday Harbor, Washington."

BRITISH CREDITORS AND CANADA.

WHILE acknowledging the necessity of a Dominion insolvency law for the protection of British manufacturers and merchants doing business with Canada, yet we contend that business men in Great Britain who have lost money on account of failures in Canada have unduly magnified these losses

The losses entailed on Canadian account by British creditors have been probably less than in any other colony or foreign country, commercial importance and population considered.

One thing is certain: more has been lost by them in one year in some of the South American republics and in Australasia than in Canada all told since it became confederated thirty years ago.

Canada has never, during its existence as a Dominion, suffered a financial crisis. We have had dull times, but dull times are not crises.

No country probably ever passed through a more severe financial crisis than did the United States recently. But closely as Canada is in touch with the United States, at no time was there anything approaching a financial crisis.

Our banks, like a rock, stood unshaken in the storm, to the satisfaction of ourselves and to the admiration of financial men in the United States who have ever since been agitating to a more or less extent for the remodelling of their banking system on the lines of the Canadian.

Some British houses have unfortunately lost rather heavy sums in Canada; but while Canadians have been somewhat to blame for not having a Dominion insolvency law, yet the skirts of the British creditors who have lost money are by no means altogether clear.

Canadians in touch with commercial matters have often been astonished at the indiscreet manner in which credit was accorded in this country to those who were known to be altogether unworthy of it. Only a short time ago we had two failures in Canada which were striking examples of this.

Business common sense demands that the Canadian Parliament pass a Dominion insolvency law. It also demands that British manufacturers and merchants in Great Britain who are not now doing so shall exercise greater discrimination, and not sell goods to every Tom, Dick and Harry who is willing to place orders with them.

It is a good thing for a merchant to once and a while cast an eye upon his competitor, but it is dangerous to keep it there all the time. He may run amuck.

WATER-FED EVAPORATED FRUIT.

A few weeks ago THE CANADIAN GROCER had occasion to refer to the water-fed California evaporated fruits which were being offered on the Canadian market. Judging from the quantity of this inferior fruit which is still in evidence, a further reference to the matter will not be untimely.

The modus operandi of the shippers of this kind of fruit is to dip apricots and other evaporated goods into hot water just before packing them in boxes. The object, of course, is to increase the weight of the fruit at the expense of the consumer.

No reliable packer would be guilty of such a practice, and dealers throughout the country should be careful whose brand they are purchasing when supplementing their stocks.

As the water-fed fruit turns sour if kept any length of time, it is obvious the merchant has his own interests to guard as well as those of his customers.

KEEP COURTING BRITISH TRADE.

A JUST and equable treaty of reciprocity with the United States would undoubtedly be acceptable. Anything which tends to the reciprocal removal of barriers to trade would naturally be acceptable to people possessed of business common sense.

For coal, lumber, fish, eggs and barley the United States is our most important market, and to have freer access to this market for these particular products is something not to be accounted unworthy of being attained.

But it is better that our relations with the United States should remain ever as they are than that in the obtaining of reciprocity Canadians should be induced to lessen one jot or tittle their solicitude for British trade.

The British market is undoubtedly the market upon which Canadians should concentrate their efforts to possess. We should do this on the ground of business common sense, leaving the matter of sentiment out of the question altogether.

The best market for Canadian products is undoubtedly Great Britain, and it has been consistently so since 1890. This table, giving our exports to Great Britain and the United States respectively, proves it:

	To Great Britain.	To United States.
1889	$38,105,126	$43,522,404
1890	48,353,694	40,522,810
1891	49,280,858	41,138,695
1892	64,906,549	38,988,027
1893	64,080,493	43,923,010
1894	68,538,856	35,809,940
1895	61,856,990	41,297,676
1896	66,690,288	44,448,410
	$461,812,854	$329,650,972

It will be observed from this table that from 1889 to 1896 there was an increase of over 74 per cent. in the exports of Canadian produce to Great Britain, and an increase of only 2.35 per cent. in the exports to the United States, while the aggregate trade for the eight years was $132,161,882 (or 40 per cent.) larger with the Mother Country than with our neighbors to the south.

Canada's chief industry is easily agricultural. Consequently it is the exports in this particular which we are most concerned about. We find that in 1896 of animals and their products we sent $40,694,222 worth to Great Britain and $6,173,875 worth to the United States, and in purely agricultural products we exported $9,551,316 worth to Great Britain and $3,232,793 worth to the United States. These figures require no comment. They speak for themselves.

The figures quoted above show how unwise it would be for Canada to allow anything to diminish her efforts to build up her export trade with Great Britain. But there are other reasons why she should not rely less upon the British market and more upon the United States market. And chief of these is the uncertainty of the market to the south of us. Not only do we know from experience that the United States Congress is controlled only too often by demagogues who are no respecters of treaties, but we also know that with the advent of one political party is very likely to depart the policy of its predecessor.

In Great Britain, on the other hand, we know the country is ruled by statesmen, and that the trade policy is about as permanent as most things material are.

By all means, let us have a fair and just reciprocity treaty with the United States if we can get it. But whether we get it or not let us as persistently as ever court British trade.

What we have we should hold, and as much more as we can grasp we should get.

THE FOOD SHOW A FAILURE.

TORONTO has had its first food show, and the results have been such that they do not augur well for any similar scheme that may be floated there.

It is the general opinion that the building in which the show was held was unsuitable, not being on a street car line. At any rate, the attendance was poor, in spite of the fact that in addition to the exhibits there was a school of cookery and a programme of vocal and instrumental music to attract the people. Even the grocers did not patronize the show as well as expected.

Then, all the space allotted to exhibits was not taken up, while two spaces were occupied by soap, one with varnish, another as a news stand, another with brushes, and still another with the new game of blowball.

As far as the exhibitors are concerned, they did their part well. Not one of the booths could be considered common-place, while some of them were decidedly handsome and costly.

From conversation with several exhibitors there appears to have been a great deal of dissatisfaction on their part. Their chief dissatisfaction was with the smallness of the attendance. Then the lectures on cooking, the brass and string band, the concerts and the blowball games were greater cynosures to the people than were the exhibits. They all realized that the articles of food occupied a secondary place in the eyes and minds of the people who visited the show, and the class of people who visited the show are declared to have been of the better class as a rule.

The show lasted two weeks, and as some of the exhibitors were put to a great deal of expense they naturally feel dissatisfied. Some of the exhibitors paid as high as one hundred dollars per week for electric lights alone, to say nothing of the cost of space, wages, samples of goods distributed, advertising matter, etc.

From what THE CANADIAN GROCER can gather, the feeling obtains in the trade that in order to the success of a pure food show it must be promoted by and conducted by grocers for grocers.

We must, however, confess that our faith in food shows was always weak, and that to-day it is weaker than it ever was before.

MUST PAY THEIR DEBTS.

Mr. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury in President McKinley's Cabinet, has instructed the clerks in his department that they must either pay their debts or lose their situations.

To issue such instructions is one thing and to carry them out is another. Most civil servants have friends in court and out of court who can often make it unpleasant for heads of departments who assay to dismiss subordinates, whether justly or not.

Under party government as it is to-day heads of departments have to spend almost as much time steering a course which will keep them in office as they do in transacting the legitimate business devolving upon them.

If Mr. Gage is taking a new departure he will receive the smiles of the business men in Canada as well as those in his own country, for it will establish a precedent with which they can importune the Dominion and Provincial Governments in Canada to go and do likewise.

A LOT OF TEA DETAINED.

THERE is to be a more rigid inspection of low-grade teas of all sorts entering Canada for consumption, if recent action by the Customs Department is any criterion.

It has been notorious for years back that the system of inspection in Canada permitted the sale of tea that would come anywhere near passing the test to which teas are subjected for entry into the United States. Recently, however, several lots of tea were condemned at New York, and representation was made to the Comtroller of Customs that these rejected teas would very likely be offered for sale in Canada. It was pointed out to the Department that a law already existed on the Canadian Statutes which prohibited the sale of inferior tea. This law was passed in 1894, being an Act to prevent the adulteration of food.

The clause in this Act relating to tea was embodied in the Customs Act as follows :

Schedule C, Clause 640. — Tea adulterated with spurious leaf or with exhausted leaves, or containing so great an admixture of chemical or other deleterious substances as to make it unfit for use.

This being the case, all that was necessary was to instruct collectors to see that the Act was enforced. This has been done, and the first result was the detention last week at Smith's Falls, Ont., of 200 packages, valued at $2,000, of black tea, part of a direct consignment of 1,300 packages to a Montreal dealer, while since then another lot, consisting of dust, has likewise been detained. The rest of the shipment was declared to be all right, but the 200 packages in question were held, in the opinion of the Government experts, to be composed of a mixture of exhausted leaf, and therefore contrary to the Act.

The importers in Montreal deny that this is so, and are having an analysis made, and will lay the matter before the Department at Ottawa.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has nothing to say regarding the merits of this particular case, but it is certainly gratified to learn that a reform which it has urged time and again is about to be inaugurated.

The owners of the tea under consideration claim that it is within one-fifth of the degree announced by the Government and that this difference is more than offset by the pure ash contained in the lot.

PATRONIZE CANADIAN PORTS.

WHEN Mr. W. S. Fisher, president of the St. John, N.B., Board of Trade, was making his tour through western Ontario there was one thing he endeavored to impress upon importers, and that was that they should instruct people from whom they were purchasing goods abroad to ship goods by all Canadian route when rates were as low, or lower, than by any other route.

There is nothing unreasonable in this request. No appeal is made to patriotism. The request is simply based on business. Importers are only asked to have their goods shipped by an all Canadian route when the freight rates are equal to those of any other route.

Business is business. And in these days, when patriotism has often to give way to business, little fruit would be expected from an appeal like this based purely on national sentiment. We by no means claim this is right. We are speaking of things as they are, not what they should be. But Mr. Fisher's request does not conflict with the business sentiment, and there should therefore be enough of patriotism in the business men of this country to comply with his request when the conditions which he sets forth obtain.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is pleased to know that some firms are already complying. One firm, James Turner & Co., of Hamilton, have had slips printed to be pasted on the bottom of their orders, instructing their shippers along the lines suggested by Mr. Fisher. The following is a copy of the slip :

PLEASE SHIP ALL GOODS FOR US BY THE All Canadian Route IF RATES AND DESPATCH EQUAL.

JAMES TURNER & CO.

James Turner & Co. are to be commended for their promptness, and it is to be hoped the example they have set will be followed by others.

WANT A PORK-PACKING FACTORY

An effort is being made to have a pork-packing establishment built in St. John, N.B. One well-known Toronto pork-packing firm has been prospecting in the field, but as yet has not come to a decision. At present many farmers in the Maritime Provinces ship their pork to Montreal, where it is cured and shipped back as hams, shoulders, etc., and naturally they want a market for their goods closer than Montreal.

The St. John Board of Trade is communicating with the farmers as to the number of hogs that could be supplied annually to such a factory.

The successful merchant is the up-to-date merchant.

A BOARD OF TRADE GONE WRONG.

THE internal troubles which are now convulsing the Toronto Board of Trade are due to the fact that the board essayed to undertake that which was beyond its province.

The Toronto Board of Trade was designed to be what its name implies, namely, an institution for the promotion of the business interests (1) of the city in which it is located, and (2) of the country of which that city forms a part.

Life insurance it had no business to meddle with, and because it did meddle with it the board not only finds itself in dangerous waters, but it is compelled to devote its best energies trying to pilot itself out of these dangerous waters when it should be employed in promoting insolvency legislation and other matters appertaining to the commercial welfare of the country.

For some reason or other the Toronto Board of Trade has been gradually deteriorating, until at present it is little better than a sinecure as far as its work and influence in trade matters are concerned.

Montreal has a board of trade which is doing something both for its own city and for the country, while the work which the St. John, N.B., Board of Trade has accomplished in the way of providing steamship accommodation in order to equip its harbor as a winter port should make all the boards of trade of the country blush.

Unless the Toronto Board of Trade throws aside the weight which is now proving so besetting, it will be flagged in the race.

A contemporary dilates on the question, "How to live a century." What troubles most people is how they are going to live the allotted three-score and ten years.

SUGAR DEARER.

ALL grades of refined sugars were advanced 1-16c. per lb. by the Canadian refineries on Wednesday. This was somewhat of a surprise, for, while the outside markets have taken a firmer turn, the demand in Canada is dull, besides which foreign granulated is coming into competition with the domestic article.

Beet sugar advanced ¾ to 1½d. in London on Tuesday, but New York is the strong feature in the situation. About a week ago the Canadian refiners were buyers of raws there, and this put prices up 1-16c., but now the refiners in the United States who are independent of the trust have purchased ten thousand tons of Java sugar for January-March delivery at ⅛c. per pound above the figures which were established as a result of the advent of the Canadian refiners upon the market.

The action of the independent refiners has strengthened materially the confidence in the future of the market.

The young man who zealously guards the moments shall in his latter days have affluence and hours of ease.

TARRAGONA ALMONDS ADVANCE.

Private cable received in Toronto on Wednesday morning last brought the intelligence that the price of Tarragona almonds in the primary market had advanced and was now ¾c. per pound above the lowest point of this season.

The market is strong at the advance, and, as stocks in Canada are thought to be only moderate, the advance in the primary market has naturally created a great deal of interest.

ADVANCE IN CHOCOLATE AND COCOA.

As will be noticed in our Prices Current, quotations on some lines of chocolate have been advanced from 1 to 2½c. per pound, while bulk cocoas are about 5 per cent. dearer.

The cause of the advance is the appreciation in the price of raw materials.

He is an unwise man who allows trade to slip from him, for when trade slips away it is a proof that the merchant is not on the watch tower.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 9, 1897.

GROCERIES.

TRADE appears to be recovering from last week's lull, all the houses being fairly well employed. Foreign dried fruits are still going out in large quantities and at firm prices. Currants of the higher grades are getting into small compass, and the supply of Malaga raisins is somewhat limited. The new season's dates, the arrival of which was noted in last week's issue, are going out rapidly. A little more interest appears to be taken in canned vegetables, but very little business is being transacted. Prices, however, remain firm. The sugar market continues to rule quiet and steady. On account of higher prices ruling on their raw material, the manufacturers of chocolates and cocoa are advancing their figures. Chocolate is from 1 to 2½c. per lb. dearer. Nuts are going out briskly and Tarragona almonds are cabled dearer. Syrups and molasses continue quiet. Payments are fair.

CANNED GOODS.

Tomatoes are a little more the subject of conversation on the street than they have been for a couple of weeks. There does not, however, appear to be any more business doing. A canner who was on the street this week claimed to have sold a carload of canned tomatoes at $1 per dozen for shipment to the Klondike. The ruling price with wholesalers for tomatoes is 90c., but it is charged that some sales have been made within the last few days as low as 85c. We have been unable to confirm this, and cannot, therefore, say whether it is true or not. Some people appear afraid to buy at present prices, but, generally speaking, the feeling appears to be in favor of higher rather than lower values. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corn, 70 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 70 to 95c.; peaches, $2 to $2.60 for 3's, $1.40 to $1.75 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.40 to $1 70, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2.25 to $2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1 25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1; canned mackerel, $1.20 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2 70 for tall tins; ½-lb. flats, $1.65 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

Brazil grades of coffee on Tuesday closed 5 to 10 points higher, and the feeling in general in regard to the market is firmer. The fact that the estimates of the Brazilian crop have been reduced has helped to strengthen the position. The crop is now estimated at 2,500,000 to 2,750,000 bags. Locally, there is a fair demand for green coffees, and the mills report a good business in ground coffee. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8 to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; Santos, 12 to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 13 to 17c.; Jamaica, 16 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

Trade is still only moderate. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

Very little doing. We quote as follows: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

All sugars were advanced 1-16c. per lb. on Wednesday. This was in sympathy with the outside markets. In New York the Trust has been buying sugar, after having been out of the market for several months, and on Thursday and Friday last is reported to have bought between 15,000 and 16,000 tons of centrifugals. Full prices were paid for centrifugals, and early this week an advance of 1-16c. per lb. was paid for muscavedos and molasses sugars. The London market has been a little irregular, but the cable on Tuesday announced an advance of ¾ to 1½d. on beet sugar. Dark sugars are scarce in Canada, and most of the houses on the street are completely sold out. Wholesalers report the demand a little better than it was a week ago, although business with them is still on the quiet side. The wholesalers are buying little or no sugar at present. We quote, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Extra granulated, 4 7-16c. for less than carload lots, and 4⅜c. for carload lots; yellows, 3 11-16 to 3 13-16c. per lb.; Canadian German granulated, 4 1-16c. per lb.; Austrian granulated, 4 1-16c. in bags for less than carload lots.

NUTS.

The demand for nuts is brisk, retailers buying better than is even usual at this time of the year. A cable received in Toronto on Wednesday morning stated that Tarragona almonds had advanced ¾c. per lb. from the lowest point. We quote: Brazil nuts, 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 23 to 25c.; Tarragona almonds, 9 to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 8 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 9½c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, ETC.

There is a fair demand for rice, etc. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¾c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to 4½c.

SPICES.

The conditions are much the same as a week ago, business being quiet. Business in spices has eased off. We quote as follows: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The little that is being done from first hands is still nearly altogether in Ceylon teas on spot, London teas receiving but comparatively little attention. The spot teas are showing much better value, and, in competition, have, of course, the advantage. An invoice of Indian Pekoe Souchong received here shows an appreciation of 1 to 1½c. per lb., compared with the same teas a year ago, although the purchase was made a couple of months ago. All descriptions of tea are firmly held. In fact, in some instances higher prices are being asked than was quoted a week or so ago. Wholesalers report a fair movement, but the tea business appears to be more and more centreing on the package goods. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The demand is good and stocks in Canada are likely to fall short of the requirements. This is particularly true of the high-grade goods. We quote: Provincials, 5½ to 5¾c.; Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6¼c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The demand is good. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5½c.; selected, 6 to 6½c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business is good. So far as can yet be seen, the indications point toward a good Christmas trade. Oranges and lemons are in brisk demand. The light stocks of cranberries still keep the demand good. Spanish onions, grapes, chestnuts and sweet potatoes are practically off the market. Cocoanuts are moving well. There are sufficient winter pears on the market to supply the demand. Canadian onions are moving fairly. We quote: Almeria grapes, $5 to $8 per keg; lemons, Messina, $3.25 to $4 a box; cocoanuts, $4.50 a sack and 60c. per doz.; oranges, Valencia, $5 to $6.25 per case; California navels, $4 to $4.50 per crate; Jamaica oranges, $7.50 per bbl., and $4 per box; Mexican oranges, $3.50 to $4 a box; bananas, $1.50 to $1.75;

CURRANTS

Here is valuable information on the situation of Currants received direct from a most reliable and authoritative source:

PATRAS, GREECE, 19th Nov., 1897.

"In face of the very strong position of our market, we think it necessary to call your attention to the fact that "there is very little chance of seeing lower prices for the rest of the season, whereas we should not be sur- "prised to see Currants go still higher owing to the greatly reduced stocks which now remain in Greece, and "which are not sufficient for universal requirements, there being scarcely 30,000 tons left for export. The "market is in consequence very strong, and holders, who are well aware of this favorable position, are very "reluctant and not disposed to part with their fruit, being convinced that they can only gain by waiting a "little longer."

Notwithstanding these favorable circumstances to advance our prices, we have not yet altered our quotations and we offer, viz:

Alsike is quoted at $2.50 to $4.50; red clover at $2.75 to $3.60. There is very little timothy offered. What comes in brings from $1 to $1.25 per bushel.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Dec. 9, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been little change in the grocery situation during the past week, business in most lines being of a quiet character. As a rule, however, with few exceptions, values are steady, especially in dried fruits and other lines seasonable for the holidays, and when the demand on this account commences to make itself felt advances are looked for on several staple articles. Scarcity of large size prunes continues to be a feature, and values on tomatoes, corn and gallon apples point higher, as there have been some large transactions between first and second hands at full prices.

SUGAR.

The sugar market continues much the same as far as the demand is concerned, but prices are 1-16c. higher. We quote in a jobbing way: Granulated, 4⅛ to 4 3-16c., and yellows, 3 7-16 to 3 13-16c., with German granulated 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrup is quiet and values are steady, as quoted last week, at 2 to 2½c. for Canadian in half-barrels, as to grade and quantity.

MOLASSES.

There is nothing new to report in the molasses market, the firm tendency being fully maintained. Holders are confident that all they have will be wanted in the near future and are not urging sales at all. Round lots of Porto Rico have changed hands at 26c. and Barbadoes in small lots are held firm at 26c. in puncheons, 27½c. in tierces, and 28½c. in bbls.

RICE.

Business rules quiet and prices are steady as last quoted. We quote as follows: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

There is little to report in the spice market, jobbing values ruling steady. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market continues irregular in its disposition. Values here rule about the same. Maracaibo, 12 to 14c.; Rio, 8 to 12c.; Santos, 10 to 12c.; Mocha, 24c., and Java, 24c.

TEAS.

The firm feeling is well maintained in all descriptions of tea, and demand from first hands has been somewhat better than it was. Still the majority of buyers are working on very conservative lines. We quote: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 10 to 17c. for mediums and

CANNED GOODS.

The demand noted for canned goods last week has led to some extensive transactions in gallon apples, corn and tomatoes at full prices, and as these goods are costing jobbers higher, the jobbing values are apt to be affected by this increased cost later on, though there has been no material change in this connection yet. We quote: Tomatoes, 85 to 90c.; corn, 60 to .75c.; peas, 75c. to $1.25; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2 to $2.25; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is no change in Valencia raisins, values ruling steady. Demand is of a quiet character, as follows: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine do., 5 to 5¼c.; selected, 6 to 6¼c., and 4-crown layers, 6¾ to 7c.

California raisins rule quiet, but firm. We quote: 2-crown, 6½c.; 3-crown, 6¾ to 7c.; and 4-crown, 8¾c.

Currants remain quiet, but very firm as to values. We quote as follows: Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; Filiatra, do., 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. Provincials, 5c. in bbls., 5⅜c. in cases, and 5½c. in half-cases, and Vostizzas, half-cases, 7½ to 8c.

Prunes meet a fair enquiry and stocks are light. The scarcity of the larger sizes is still a leading feature. We quote: French, 4¼ to 4½c.; Austrian, 6 to 7c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Figs continue quiet and steady, at 9 to 10c. in 14-oz. boxes, 10 to 11c. in 10 lb. boxes and 4c. in bags.

NUTS.

There is nothing new to report. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 10 to 10½c.; Sicily filberts, 7c.; Tarragona almonds, 8c.;

There is a moderate trade doing in fish and prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Green cod—No. 1 large, $4.25 to $4.50; No. 1 ordinary, $3.75 to $4; No. 2, $2.50; herrings, No. 1 N.S., $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl.; N.B., $2.15 to $2.25 per half-bbl.; B.C. salmon, $11 per bbl.; mackerel, No. 2 new, $20; 1896 pack, $10 to $11 per bbl.

Smoked fish continue as last reported: Haddies at 6c.; Yarmouth and Bay bloaters at 90c. to $1 per box; kippered herrings at $1.25 and smoked at 10 to 12c. per box.

Prepared fish are steady: Dressed codfish, $4.25 per case of 100 lbs.; dried cod, $3.75 per cwt.; boneless codfish, 5 to 5½c. per lb., and boneless fish 2¾c. per lb.

DRIED APPLES.

There is a good demand for both dried and evaporated apples and with light stocks prices are firm at 5½ to 7c. for dried, and 10c. for evaporated.

APPLES.

These continue steady also at $3 to $4.50 for No. 1 and $2 to $2.50 for No. 2.

GREEN FRUIT.

Without new feature, only a quiet trade doing. First arrivals of California navel oranges arrived this week. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3 per box; Jamaica oranges easier at $7 per bbl.; Almeria grapes, $5 to $6.50 per cask; Cape Cod cranberries, $7.50 to $8, and Nova Scotia, $6 to $6.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was no change in the situation of the egg market, the tone being steady, with a fair amount of business doing. We quote: New-laid, 20c.; choice candled, 14 to 15c.; Montreal limed, 14 to 15c., and western limed, 12½c. per dozen.

BEANS—The demand for beans continues slow, and prices rule steady at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

GAME—There was a good enquiry for partridge, of which the offerings are small and prices firmer at 80c. for firsts and 50c. for seconds per brace.

POULTRY—A fairly active trade was done in poultry, and prices rule steady. Turkeys sold at 7½ to 9c.; chickens, 7 to 8c.; ducks, 8 to 9c.; geese, 5 to 6c. per lb.

HONEY—The market for honey was unchanged. We quote: Clover comb at 10 to 11c.; bright extracted at 7½ to 8½c., and dark at 5 to 5½c.

PROVISIONS.

There was no new feature in the provision market, trade being quiet and of a jobbing character. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

Business in dressed hogs has been of a moderate character, and prices are steady at $5.75 to $6.25, as to grade.

SALT.

Remains the same. Coarse Liverpool, 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

A fair business continues to be done in flour on local and country account, and the market rules moderately active and steady. We quote: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.35 to $4.40; bags, $2.10 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

Business in meal was quiet at the advance, the demand being only for small lots. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.50 per barrel, and $1.70 per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

The feed market continues steady and business is quiet. We quote: Ontario bran, $10.50; shorts $11.50 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, at $11.50, and shorts at $13.50 per ton.

BALED HAY.

There was no change in hay, No. 1 being quoted at $10.50, and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton in car lots.

GRAIN.

The grain market is firm and unchanged, very little business being reported at present. We quote: Ontario red winter wheat, 91 to 92c.; peas, 51c.; oats, 27 to 27½c.; rye, 51½ to 52c.; buckwheat, 35½ to 36c., and feed barley, 36 to 40c. in store.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese continues quiet and steady, with little trading to report. None of the holders here seem anxious to realize at present, nor is there any urgent enquiry from the other side. Under such conditions nothing but dulness can result, and there appears to be no expectation of it lifting until after the New Year. It is understood that some other factories in the west are consigning their goods direct to Great Britain, but it is learned that one of the banks is acting in the case practically as a middleman, and will undoubtedly demand remuneration for its trouble and responsibility. The factory in question is situated in the Campbellford district and the lot sent forward comprises 2,400 boxes. The official stocks of cheese in Liverpool on the 1st were 129,500 boxes. We quote as follows: Finest Ontario Septembers, 8¼; finest Ontario Octobers, 8¼ to 8⅜c.; finest Townships, 8¼; finest Quebec Octobers, 7½ to 7¾c.

The butter market gave indications lately of a rather better feeling, inasmuch as there appeared to be more inclination to buy creamery. One operator here has, it is understood, purchased the September and October make of two creameries, which will amount to over 500 boxes at 17½c. at the factory, while exporters had orders to-day that would permit the payment of 18½c., which is an advance of ¼ to ½c. on limits previously allowed over the cable. In a local way, demand is good for fine fall creamery at 18½c. The declared stock of butter in Liverpool on the 1st was 6,800 packages. We quote: Finest creamery, 18 to 18½c.; seconds, 17¼ to 17½c.; dairy butter, 15½ to 16½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Jobbers here have purchased rather largely recently of tomatoes, corn and gallon apples at full prices.

Currants are firmly held, but demand for them is light and gives no indication of improvement.

Scarcity of large size prunes of all descriptions, both California and Mediterranean, is still a leading feature.

The first arrivals of California navel oranges reached here this week, and have met with a fair demand at $4.

Mr. George Mann, manager of the Montreal branch of the Salada Tea Co., reports the biggest week's business in their history, for the week ending Dec. 4.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 7, 1897.

WHILE the season is getting late, there is still good business doing. The weather is fine but snow is needed. It makes a great difference, particularly to the retail trade. Country orders are about filled. There is still some city trade to be done by wholesalers before Christmas. Wholesalers are doing very little buying. Markets show very little change. In hops our market is a dull one. Dealers find it hard to get their ideas up to present prices. Candy manufacturers are all working overtime. They report good business. Biscuit men are also very busy. In soda biscuits, rather oddly, our best trade is supplied by an Ontario manufacturer, but this is about the only biscuit coming here from there, though quite a quantity of fancy biscuits are imported from the States and England. In cream of tartar, while prices remain low, the market is rather firmer. Very large quantities of turkeys were this week shipped to Liverpool via Beaver Line steamer from here.

OIL—The shipments are light in burning oil. Prices tend higher, particularly for American, which we advance ½c. In lubricating for present use business is quiet. Some few orders are being taken for future. Cod oil comes in slowly. The price is firm, but little change is expected. In cod liver oil prices are higher. The output at Newfoundland this year was small, owing to the low prices ruling early in the season. We quote: Best American burning oil, 18 to 19c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—The first regular mail steamer of the Beaver line from Liverpool which arrived this week brought some 1,800 bags of coarse salt. It was almost all shipped at once from the vessel. Two or three other lots are quite near at hand. There will be no lack of stock during the winter. It is surprising where it all goes. One firm here, the principal one handling salt, turns over about 90,000 bags of coarse salt in a year. Besides the English salt a large quantity of Ontario is continually arriving.. We quote: Coarse, 47 to 50c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—Some new goods continue to arrive from some of the packers who have shaded prices a little in order to make sales. There does not appear, however, to be any weakness in the market, but the tendency is upward. There is good demand, except for canned meats, which, while tending higher, have light sale. Oysters have better movement, and they also are expected to go higher. Salmon show quite a range in quality and some low quotations are heard. They are, however, considered by holders good stock at the prices paid for them. Fruits in glass have but limited sale. We quote as follows: Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 75 to 90c.; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.50 to $2.75; 2's, $1.50 to $1.75; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.05 to $1.15; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz,; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT — Shipments are more active, and the Christmas demand will keep business good for a few weeks. Oranges, while not of extra quality, are now here in quite a number of varieties. Some new Valencias, Floridas and Californias are being received, and quite a quantity of West Indias are still here. In apples, good stock is hard to get. The absence of Bishop Pippins, which is one of our very best apples, is much felt. There are a good many poor apples on the market. In cranberries the feeling is towards higher prices. Cape Cods are so high as to be about out of the market, and the stock of native berries is light. In Malaga grapes there is a fair stock and prices are firm. During the winter very little is done in bananas. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $4; oranges, Valencia, $4.75 to $5 per box; do., California, $3 to $4.50; do., Florida, $5 to $5.25; do., Dominica, $4 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $4.50; bananas, $2 to $2.25; Malaga grapes, $5 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $9 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.. Shaddock, $3 per bbl.; grape fruit, $3 per bbl.; sour limes, $1.75 per box; sweet limes, $2.50 per box.

DRIED FRUIT—Business is active. The stock of raisins is much reduced here. Some shipments of Valencias have not been received, which is a great put-back to those who expected them. In California raisins the market is easy, prices on the Coast having gone off ¼c. during the week, which means a decline of 1c. in 4-crown and ½c. in 3-crown since the first sales were made here early in the season. The demand from year to year seems to be for the better qualities, 4-crown California having a large sale this year. In seeded California a good trade is doing. Currants, particularly cleaned, have a large demand. One city firm has cleaned one hundred barrels in the last month. California prunes continue in good demand. Prices are easy, though they are not expected to go much lower. The larger size prune is having a good sale. Evaporated apples are scarce, and very few new are yet to hand. Prices seem rather easier west. Quite a few onions arrived this week. Prices show no change. We quote as follows: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 4½ to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; Fard. dates, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 3½ to 4c.; evaporated apples, 8 to 9c.; onions, $2 to $2.15 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11 to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 11c.; orange peel, 12c.

SUGAR—There is a good sale. Prices show no change. Stocks are not large. In powdered at this season there is a large demand. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—Show no change in price. There is quite a demand for small packages, and New Orleans at a price would sell, but this season it seems hard to get a satisfactory quality at a right figure. Barbadoes and Porto Rico are keeping low. There is little syrup here, but the local sale is always limited. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antigua, 22 to 23c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, extra, 33 to 34c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Cheese is quiet. St. John has got to be a rather small market, dealers throughout the province getting supplies direct from factories, which are quite near to them. There are no exporters here except in a small way. Butter, for best quality, tends firmer, but there is an oversupply of poor to fair. Eggs show good sale where they are fresh. Prices are higher, and there is a good demand. We quote: Dairy butter, 16 to 18c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9½ to 10c.; eggs, 16 to 17c.

FISH—There is good business doing, and prices are fully maintained. This is particularly the case with pollock and pickled Bay herring. In smoked the price is easy, and only a fair business is being done. Quality is good. The high duty in the States very much affects this business. The fish are sold by the fishermen fresh to the American smokers. Finnan haddies have an active demand, large quantities going west. Boneless codfish has also been shipped west largely during the week. Prices are firm and should be higher. There is considerable competition, and buyers should consider quality. Holders are finding a very poor demand for their alewives. In frozen fish, season is about here. It means active work for the dealers. From year to year our weather is more uncertain, and frozen fish must be handled quickly. The supply of herring is expected to be light. Smelt fishing is in full blast at the north shore. It is a large business. We quote: Large cod, $3.40 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.80 to $2; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 6½ to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.45 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1; haddies, 4½c.

PROVISIONS—The sale of beef and pork is light this fall compared to last year. Prices show little change. Clear pork keeps low. In lard, price is firm. There is quite a stock here. Smoked meats have a fair sale. We quote as follows: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — There is a good steady business reported by the wholesalers. They are, however, at present not active buyers. Manitoba flour holds quite firm. In Ontario there is a tendency toward an easier feeling. Oatmeal continues to advance slowly, particularly here, where quite a stock is held. Western oats keep high, which very much affects the sale, and aids in the placing of this province oats, which are all right, but not as well cleaned as they should be. Hay is dull, and price rules low. Cornmeal is easy. Feed also tends toward lower prices. Barley and split peas are firm. Beans seem firmer. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $5.75 to $5.80; best Ontario, $4.90 to $5; medium, $4.75 to $4.90; oatmeal, $3.65 to $3.75; cornmeal, $1.95 to $2; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $15 to $16; bran, do, $14 to $14.50; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime 90 to 95c.; oats, 34 to 36c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50; barley, $3.10 to $3.15; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.45 to $3.50; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Millar's "Paragon" cheese is being actively pushed in this market.

Among the neat souvenirs this year is a pocket match-box, sent out by Whittaker & Co.

The last shipment of oats for the season is being made from Prince Edward Island. Two cargoes cleared this week for Bristol, England.

W. R. Miles, who represents Peek Bros. & Winch, Limited, in Eastern Canada, will spend Christmas in England. He sails this week in the steamer Gallia.

THE CANADIAN GROCER extends congratulations to Geo. M. Troop, of Troop & Co., vinegar manufacturers here, who this week was married in Yarmouth to Miss Cassie Harris.

Smelt fishing on the north shore is now active. The buyers at Richibucto, A. & R. Loggie, R. O'Leary, W. J. Emerson and W. S. Loggie are being kept busy. At Chatham one fisherman is credited with a hundred dollar catch in one day during the past week.

Wm. Thomson & Co., of our city, have now a fine fleet of four steamers, two of which are running in one of the regular lines to London this winter. The firm have just contracted for a fifth steamer.

The Windsor Hotel, St. Stephen, N.B., so well known to travelers, has changed hands, Mr. A. L. Drake having retired. At present Mr. Dunphy, who had been acting clerk, is in charge until final arrangements are made.

The steamship line which has been running between St. John and Montreal this season has been quite a success. The low freights have been appreciated by our merchants. The last steamer of the season arrived here last week.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6, 1897.

THERE is little change in the situation to report this week. In groceries the wholesale houses report that their full stocks are now in for the Christmas trade. Business is good, with the indication that it will remain so until January at least. Business in wheat is practically at a standstill over the whole province, the same occurring every year just about the close of navigation. Dealers expect to get all their wheat out of Fort William before the close actually takes place, but this will depend altogether upon the weather during the next 48 hours. Manitoba last night had the first blizzard of the season, so that it is hard to say just how matters will eventuate.

The reduction of freight rates on the the C.P.R. east from Fort William will likely occasion a much larger delivery from this country in the next month or six weeks than would otherwise take place, as it will enable dealers to pay farmers several cents more per bushel. The price at present is nominal, being 75c. on a 19c. rate of freight for No. 1 hard. All the elevators in the country belonging to grain dealers are absolutely clear of wheat. Any wheat being held is in elevators belonging to milling companies. There is a feeling among farmers that wheat is going to be higher after seeding, and this may possibly lead to smaller deliveries during the winter than are at present anticipated. Already estimates are in from all points in the province as to the amount of land that will be sown in wheat next spring, and these estimates, by many reliable men, reach the two million acre figure.

A very large amount of American corn is being brought into this market and is having the effect of keeping down the price of oats, notwithtanding the fact that there is almost a famine of that cereal; the Crow's Nest Pass having absorbed the entire available supply of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

SUGAR — Almost the only noticeable change in price during the week is the advance of 1-16 of a cent on sugar, granulated now selling at 4⅞c., and yellows at 4⅛c.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Show no change, but the market is very firm.

DRIED FRUITS—This market is particularly well supplied and trade is brisk, but there are no changes in price to report. Sultana raisins and Smyrna figs are due to arrive this week. Valencias, $2 per box; California loose muscatels, 2-crown, 6½c.; 3-crown, 7½c.; 4-crown, 8½c.; seedless, 7½c.; California valencia, 6¾c.

CURRANTS—Provincials, bbls., 6¼c.; ½-bbls., 6½c.; cases, 6¾c.

NUTS — New Grenoble walnuts have arrived and the sample is a particularly fine one. Price quoted is 11½ to 12½c. per lb.; new shelled almonds, 24 to 25c. per lb.

CANNED GOODS— Market is good with prices for canned vegetables particularly firm. Tomatoes, $2.35; corn, $1.60; cream corn, $1.80; ordinary brands of peas are $1.75; beans, $1.75.

CANNED FISH—There is always a large sale for this class of goods here and each year Maconochie Bros.' fish preparation meet with increasing sale. Kippered herring, $1.90; herring in tomato sauce, $1.90; herring in mustard sauce, $1.90; herring in anchovy sauce, $1.80; herring in fennel sauce, $1.80; Findon haddocks, $2.25.

FISH, CURED — Finnan haddies have arrived in large shipments per freight and are selling at 7½c. The quality is claimed to be the finest that has yet reached Winnipeg. Bloaters, 60's, are $1.50; 100's, $1.20. Codfish, pure 2-lb. bricks, 6½c.; dried cod, $6 per case; Beardsley's shredded, 90c. per doz.

FISH, FRESH—The market is now well supplied with all lines of white fish, fresh salt-water herring, Halibut and B.C. salmon.

MINCE MEAT—A new claimant for notice in the canned goods line is W. Clark of Montreal's mince meat, which is put up in attractive 1-lb. tins and sells at $1.20 per dozen. It is meeting with a ready sale.

EGGS—The market is much better supplied that it was a week ago, but prices advanced this morning, and jobbers are now selling to retailers at 20c. per dozen.

BUTTER—The anticipated increase in supply of dairy has taken place. The quality is good, and the price 15c. for round lots point of shipment for fresh made.

CREAMERY BUTTER—All on this market is now coming through from Ontario.

POULTRY—Manitoba raised are selling as follows: Chickens, 10½c.; ducks and geese, 8c.; turkeys, 10½c. One house is known to have five carloads coming in from Ontario.

CURED MEATS—Absolutely no change in this market. Prices are firm and sales good.

COFFEE—There is a drop all round of 1c. per lb. on coffees. Green coffees are also cheaper, a good quality of Rio being quoted at 10 to 10½c. per lb.

TEA—Market steady, with no change in prices.

THE LAUGH ON THE GROCER.

At the pure food show held in Toronto, in the lack of crowds of visitors some of the exhibitors turned their minds to practical joking, assisted by a grocer well known as one of the practical jokers of the city. The grocer picked up a package of tea off one of the booths and threw it at a yeast exhibitor, who was preparing a batter for pancakes. The yeast man picked as much of the tea as he could, and, putting in a little batter to consolidate it, threw it at a vinegar dealer, who he thought had thrown the tea. The grocer, emboldened by his not being found out, waited his opportunity, and threw some pulverized sugar down the yeast man's neck. The yeast man caught on to the perpetrator of the joke, and, a little riled, grabbed his ladle, and filling it with the soft batter, sent it with unerring aim at the grocer. The missile struck fair between the eyes, and in a moment the joking grocer was a spectacle. Words are not descriptive enough to describe his appearance.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. R. V. Woods, of Arthur P. Tippet & Co., sails for England on the Gallia to spend Christmas with his parents.

Mr. C. E. Colson sails on Tuesday for London, Eng., on his annual visit in connection with Crosse & Blackwell and his other agencies.

Mr. John Morrow returned to Toronto on Friday last after about a year's stay in Europe. He appears to have recovered from his recent illness.

A. W. J. Bedbrook, for some time connected with the wholesale grocery firm of A. Macdonald & Co., Winnipeg, left on December 1 for England, where he will reside in future.

H. L. McLean, the genial representative for W. Frank Hatheway, St. John, will shortly take unto himself a wife. His fellow travelers on the road will hear the news with pleasure. Mr. McLean is a quondam Halifax boy who, since his departure from Halifax a few years ago, has achieved great success as a commercial traveler.—Chronicle, Halifax.

A BIG CHOCOLATE FACTORY.

Chocolat-Menier's chocolate factory constantly employs 2,000 workmen. Their annual output is 33,000,000 pounds, or 115,000 pounds for every single day of the year. Of course, the everyday consumer can hardly form an idea of the magnitude of this concern—which, in short, produces its own cocoa on its own plantation in Nicaragua, South America; has its own fleet of steamers transporting the raw cocoa to the European seaports; its own sugar refineries producing the best white sugar; its own railroad—in fact, everything pertaining to the manufacture of Chocolat-Menier.

IMPURE TEAS.

The Minister of Customs has caused a circular to be sent to all collectors of Customs asking them to forward to the Department at Ottawa, for approval, samples of all tea imported into Canada from Britain or the States before delivery, unless a Customs certificate from these countries is produced by the importer to the effect that the tea has been duly approved for home consumption in the United Kingdom or United States. This step has been taken to prevent the importation into Canada of tea which is not genuine.

H. D. Hungerford, of Granby, and Geo. Cook, of Magog, have recently opened up a grocery establishment in Granby, Que.

DIAMOND MATCH CO. AND E. B. EDDY AMALGAMATE.

WHEN a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER was at Hull the other day he noticed a more than usual bustle, if possible, about the Eddy Co.'s works, and after looking over their new and complete system of electric sidings for quicker loading and delivery of freight to the railways running into Hull and Ottawa, found new plans and specifications being made looking to the remodelling of their match plant, and learned from Mr. Eddy that, with his usual determination to always keep abreast of, and, with his inclination to be sometimes a little ahead of, the times in match making, he had just returned from a trip west, where he has been by special appointment to meet the president and directors of the Diamond Match Co., and consummated a deal between these two large companies, the result of which will be the immediate building of a large extension to the E. B. Eddy Co.'s match factory, the remodelling of the whole plant and machinery of that department and the placing of the most modern and exclusive match machinery in the world in early operation in Canada.

This will create a complete revolution in match making in Canada, and next spring will see the new equipment turning out not only all of Eddy's well-known brands, but also a lot of new styles, makes and brands of matches for the home and general trade. Mr. Eddy has for nearly fifty years held with a bold and determined hand the supremacy of the Canadian match trade, and although the Eddy Co. has always been in very good shape all round to meet competition, Mr. Eddy now says that he is in a position to defy competition from anywhere, at home or abroad, whether English, French, German, American, Japanese, Swedish, or what not.

With the ceaseless power of the Chaudiere Falls at their back, with the arrangements just completed with the Diamond Match Co., with the splendid trade connection in Canada, in the United States and in Europe, there is no telling where the limit of the sales and operations of this great company in the match business will end.

HAMILTON RETAIL GROCERS.

The retail grocers of Hamilton held their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening in their rooms, 100 King street east. There was a large attendance of members. President J. O. Carpenter, occupied the chair.

Messrs. J. Seller, A. L. Reeves, W. T. Hunter, D. Munroe and E. Shaver were proposed as new members.

W. F. Walker and Major Snider appeared before the association in the interest of the Hamilton, Chedoke and Ancaster Electric Railway Co. They explained the project fully, pointing out the advantage such a road would be to the retail trade generally.

Mr. C. H. Peebles thought the road would be as great a benefit to Hamilton's retail trade as the other electric roads had been, and that the promoters should have every encouragement. This idea seemed to be held by all, and the following resolution was passed :

That this association hear ily endorses the building of the Hamilton, Chedoke and Ancaster Railway, and assures the promoters of its hearty sympathy and support.

Mr. J. O. Carpenter, on behalf of the association, thanked the company's representatives for the full information they had given.

A communication from the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was received. It prodosed that a delegation from each of the associations in the Dominion be sent to Ottawa to present petitions jointly, asking the Federal Government to amend the Act in order that the civil service employes' salaries may be attachable for just debts.

Messrs. J. Ronan, J. O. Carpenter, A. Ballentine and C. H. Peebles were appointed a committee to draft a resolution asking the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Commissioners to erect a pavilion for the convenience of the picnickers and a shelter for the band.

The following were nominated officers for 1898 :

President, J. C. Bolligan, F. R. Close, Charles Duff; 1st vice-president, F. R. Close, Wm. Smye ; 2nd vice-president, Charles Duff, J. Main, J. H. Horway, Geo. Hayes ; treasurer, C. Bremner, C. H. Pebbles ; secretary, Wm. R. Harvey ; executive committee, A. Ballentine, C. Duff, J. O. Carpenter, C. Holt, Geo. Hayes, C. H. Peebles, Wm. Smye, J. Ronan, Jas. McKay, R. E. Wales, Geo. Kendall, J. C. Bolligan, F. R. Close ; auditors, Geo. Powell, C. Holt.

Owing to the lateness of the hour consideration of the secretary's report on the Collection Department was postponed until next meeting.

WM. R. HARVEY,
Secretary.

AN ENGLISH FIRM'S OFFER.

Thomas Hemming & Son, Limited, Redditch, England, long ago made a name for themselves as manufacturers of the finest needles, fish-hooks and tackle, and for years have been winners of the leading prizes at the big exhibitions. Their make is known to many in Canada, but under the preferential tariff they intend doing more in the Dominion. In order to place their samples before the trade they will send a package free to any firm enclosing their business card or letter heading and mentioning this paper.—Dry Goods Review.

The $6,000 bankrupt stock of the estate of L. Nadleman, Steveston, B.C., has been purchased by J. G. Hutchinson, who, besides conducting a general store at the latter place, is also president of the British Columbia Supply Co., Limited, Vancouver. HINTS TO BUYERS.

This department has become so popular that many more notices than there is space for are received every week. In future only important items of information will be inserted. "Sales of dressings and mixed spice in glass jars with screw tops are away above our expectations," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol; "also of the handsome glass pots of jams, jellies and marmalade at $1 per dozen."

At this season Keen's mixed spice (in 1-ounce tins) is in demand. This article is superior to any ground spice in the market, being specially selected and ground by the manufacturers of Keen's mustard. Frank Magor & Co., 16 St. John street, Montreal. handle these goods.

"We recently sent out nearly 50 lots of Keen's show cards by express to grocers in different parts of Canada who applied, mentioning THE CANADIAN GROCER. If we missed anyone, now is the time to advise us, before our supply runs short," write Frank Magor & Co., 16 St. John street, Montreal.

AGREEMENT AMONG SALMON MEN.

As readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER are aware, there has been for some time an agitation among British Columbia salmon canners for some arrangement or combination by which they might pool their supplies on the English market, and by joint effort prevent what has hitherto been a matter of serious prejudice to their interest, namely, the depreciation of sale values, by the remaining on the British market almost every year of a large surplus of unsold salmon of the previous season, ready to be unloaded on English and Scotch retail produce men at ruinously low prices.

A despatch from Vancouver says that arrangements have been completed by which a combination including the Anglo B.C. Packing Co., an English organization which controls many leading canneries, also the notable houses R. P. Rithet & Co., Robert Ward & Co., Todd & Son, Turner, Beeton & Co., Evans, Coleman & Evans, and many others. The combine will in the first instance fix a uniform price, affording a reasonable profit on 100,000 cases of the B.C. packs of 1896 which are still unsold in the British market. It will also fix a profitable price for 500,000 cases of the 1897 pack which are still on hand in England and lastly endeavor, in respect of the season of 1898, to prevent a glut of canned salmon production and obviate the packing of inferior fish. It will also take strong action in the way of prosecution or damage suits against several persons who have damaged the market in England by issuing false slanderous reports as to the quality of some of the B.C. pack of 1897.

AN INTERESTING MEMENTO.

Crosse & Blackwell, through their Canadian agent, Mr. C. E. Colson, are sending out to their patrons a handsomely mounted fac simile of "Ye olde Englishe" label that the firm used in 1706, a small reproduction of which appears in this week's CANADIAN GROCER. It makes a handsome souvenir, and customers who have not received one are asked to apply to C. E. Colson, 22 John street, Montreal.

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Keep Posted.

In every community there is a percentage of the people who are curious who are always on the watch for something new. These people see or hear that some new brand of goods are extensively advertised, and are persuaded that they are "just what I want." They look for this article first in their usual grocer's store, and sometimes ask for it. If they cannot get it there they look around the other stores, when, of course, they are likely as not to buy some goods there. One retailer told me this week that he made it a point to keep posted on everything that was currently advertised, and have it in stock, though he never pushed a new article till some competent housekeeper informed him she had found the brand satisfactory.

Better Goods Desired.

One noticable trend of trade this fall has been toward a better class of goods than has been usual in past years. As one retailer expressed it, "People generally are awakening to the fact that the quality or purity is of much more importance than the quantity or price, and now, when they have a little more money, they are more particular about what they buy for the household, especially kitchen purposes. They have had their fill of cheap foods, and have found them wanting." This feature seems to be widespread, and the merchant who has consistently condemned cheap and poor articles is reaping his reward. Now that the public is viewing foods in this light, every effort should be made to retain such a healthy impression by advocating the quality rather than the quantity for the money of the goods offered.

Christmas Boxes.

While standing in a large retail store this week a number of beautiful straw and cane boxes, lined with silk or satin, and having underneath a delicately colored paper, containing an assortment of exquisite chocolates, were brought into the store. The boxes ranged from three inches each way to about a foot in diameter. One of the clerks gave me the information—that they were not to be sold, but given away to customers as Christmas presents. Just then the proprietor came along. On enquiry he told me that these and many more presents would be given away. "But," added he, "don't you recommend other retailers to follow my example, as it is a very bad habit to get into. Why, my bill for presents given away at Christmas is often nearly $400, and eats up my December profits entirely. And I cannot well drop the spstem, as my customers now expect to receive something nice from me at Christmas. I find, moreover, great difficulty in giving in such a way as to make no customer jealous. I would advise no person to begin giving presents, as it is undoubtedly a bad habit."

THE RAMBLER.

THE N. W. TRAVELERS.

In response to Secretary O'Loughlin's call for a meeting, there was a large attendance of members of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association in the Board of Trade rooms, Winnipeg, on Saturday week. Mr. A. L. Johnston, the retiring president, occupied the chair. The meeting was held for the election of officers for the ensuing year, and the result was as follows :

President—J. C. Mundie.
First Vice-President—F. W. Drewry.
Second Vice-President—W. Hargreaves.
Treasurer—L. C. McIntyre.
Directors—A. L. Johnston, A. P. Jeffrey, F. J. C. Cox, Horace Wilson, O. R. Steele, Kenneth McKenzie, G. F. Bryan, R. M. McGowan, J. T. Persse.

All the officers and directors were elected by acclamation.

The most interesting matter which was discussed was the annual entertainment. It was decided to hold a conversazione on Monday, Dec. 27, at the Hotel Manitoba.

The patrons of the cheese industry in Harrietsville shipped 918 boxes of cheese for the European market. The creamery is running at full blast, and has an output of about 700 or 800 pounds of butter daily.

The old "Omaha" store in the Porter block, Ridgetown, Ont., has been refitted and is now known as "The Fair." All the stores in this handsome block are occupied and with the electric lighting present a brilliant and attractive appearance at night.

The recent issue of $13,000 Fort William debentures, being at 4½ per cent., and running twenty years, realized $600 premium. This speaks well for the increasing credit of Fort William in the money markets of Canada, as previous issues have been sold at 98.—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Lake Superior & North Shore Transportation Co. is the name that has been decided on for a new steamboat company that is organizing to operate a line of boats between Duluth and Port Arthur and intermediate points next season. The capital of the company will be $50,000, divided in shares of a par value of $25 each.

It is stated, says The Rio News, that near a place called Corrego Alto Santo Antonio in Minas Geraes a field of 20,000 seven-year-old coffee trees produced this year 256,000 litres of coffee berries. This is equivalent to 360,336 quarts, or 11,260 bushels of coffee, or over half a bushel of coffee per tree. This is a phenomenal yield.

E. A. Gidney, Digby Neck, N.S., is building a large factory for fish canning and packing, to be finished during the winter. Mr. Gidney will can haddies and lobsters, and his new premises will be most conveniently situated for the purpose, as the St. Mary's Bay fisheries will be in close touch, and those of the Fundy are but a short distance removed.

The West Oxford cheese and butter factory at Ingersoll has been busily engaged since Nov. 10 in the manufacture of butter. It is put up in 56-pound boxes, and is being turned out at the rate of 500 or 600 boxes per day. Mr. C. W. Riley, the local cheese exporter, has purchased all that is to be manufactured by the company for export to the Old Country.

Fire visited Carleton Place on the 6th inst. and the following merchants suffered: D. McDiarmid, gents' furnishing store, stock all saved; R. Mathie, barber, stuff mostly saved; Bell Telephone Co., lost all except the books; McGregor & Co., grocery and restaurant, lost all; J. W. McDonald, grocery stock, partly saved; Geo Kees, building totally destroyed, stock of boots and shoes partly saved.

THE SALARIES OF CLERKS.

A CASE of theft has been reported in one of the stores of Boston, says The Herald, in which a clerk took property from his employers of the value of some thousands of dollars. The crime was deliberate, and appeared to have been systematically continued for some time. On a closer examination of the circumstances, it is developed that this clerk held an important position, that he had been in the store for four years, and that at the end of that period he was receiving but $6 a week as his salary. The question may be asked if, in view of this, it would not have been policy as well as justice on the part of the employers to have paid him more money. Certainly it would have been prudent in them to know how this clerk was living. An enquiry might easily have satisfied them that what they were paying him was not adequate to his support. This and other instances that have been made public, and probably more which have not been brought to light, indicate that compensation is less than it should be in some departments of business in Boston. It arises, doubtless, from the competition to obtain positions in stores where the work is lighter and more "genteel," as a phrase is, than in mechanical pursuits; but it strikes us as a mistaken policy in more than one aspect. It is apt to induce a feeling of injustice in the minds of those who receive but a pittance for their service and to render them more open to the temptation to dishonesty. On the account of their clerks, as well as in their own interest, those in whose employ they are should know to a reasonable extent the amount of money their clerks are spending.

BOSTON MONTREAL CHICAGO

MONTREAL GROCERS.

THE regular meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Monument National Hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 2, President Scanlan in the chair. A deputation was sent to Quebec to interview the Provincial Government, and see if they could get the law so amended that they would be able to sell patent medicines, bicarbonate of soda, linseed meal and other articles which are drugs in the eye of the law as it now stands.

The committee which went to Quebec comprised Messrs. John Scanlan, J. P. Dixon, Mr. Boucher, Joseph Levesque, S. Demers, ex-Ald. Gauthier and S. D. Vallieres. The deputation was successful inasmuch as the Government have promised to support Mr. L. Gouin's bill, which seeks to remove the disabilities under which grocers in the province of Quebec at present labor.

A communication from the secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade was read, expressing the cordial agreement of the council of the board with the Grocers' Association in regard to the desire of the latter with respect to the attachment of the salaries of Federal civil servants for debt.

A letter was read from the secretary of the London, Ont., Retail Grocers' Association in which the hope was expressed that petitions from the various grocers' associations of the Dominion to the Ottawa Government on the civil servants' salaries question might be uniform in character, and further asking the Montreal association for a copy of the petition the latter proposed to send; that it would include the inspection of weights and measures. They think the present system is unjust, taxing each merchant for the inspector's fees, when it is not only for the benefit of the grocers, but the whole public, and the inspectors be paid by the Dominion Government.

It was decided to call a special public meeting of all the grocers of the city and adjoining municipalities, whether members of the association or not, for Thursday evening, Dec. 9, on which occasion this important question will be laid before them in its entirety, and thoroughly discussed.

Mr. Wm. Clark, of Montreal, whose name is familiar to readers of THE GROCER as a manufacturer of all kinds of tinned meats, is making a line of evaporated vegetables, such as cabbages, turnips, etc., specially adapted for the northern mining regions. In this state the vegetables are very light, and, as they do not lose their flavor, a handful thrown into boiling water will make a very palatable addition to the ordinary mining camp dinner.

A PUZZLE TO THE CLERKS.

A grocer bought two cases of eggs of 36 dozen each. One case contained strictly fresh eggs, for which he paid 25 cents a dozen. He sells those 10 for 25 cents. The other case contained eggs for which he paid 15 cents a dozen. These he sells 15 for 25 cents. The clerks (by mistake) sold the best eggs for the cheaper kind and gave the customers 15 for 25 cents of them, while of the cheaper kind they gave but 10 for 25 cents. After all the eggs were sold the mistake was found out. Did the grocer lose or gain by this transaction; and how much more or less did he lose or gain than if the eggs had been sold the regular way? —Advocate.

IT IS QUALITY, NOT COLOR.

There has been some comment caused lately among the trade by the receipt from Crosse & Blackwell of dark colored peel. There seems to be an impression that it was old peel. This is not so. It is the finest new season's Corsican peel, large caps. This peel, which is in great favor in Great Britain, is dark compared with cheaper kinds of citron, which come from different parts of Asia. This darkness, however, is not a sign of age, but of quality. This can be easily demonstrated if the peel is tested, when it will be found that the flavor is all that can be desired.

CANADIANS BEWARE!!

Over 5,000 packages of China and Japan teas were rejected last week by the United States Inspectors because they were not up to standard, being Unclean and Scummy, and these teas must come to Canada.

Look out for them, if you handle China or Japan teas. What a Yankee won't drink must be bad, very bad indeed, and Canadians cannot afford to encourage the drinking of unclean, hand-made trash of China and Japan.

Avoid all trouble and annoyance by buying and encouraging the use of the clean, machine-made teas of Ceylon and India---they are famous for their wholesomeness and cleanliness.

Vol. XI. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, DECEMBER 17, 1897 ($2.00 per Year) No. 51

THE EDMONTON ROUTE TO THE KLONDYKE.

By C. L. S

NOT long ago the Board of Trade of Victoria, B.C., issued a circular complaining that the trade in supplies for the Klondyke was being gobbled up by American merchants who, with their usual promptness and business sagacity, had taken advantage of the rush to the Yukon to monopolize the supply trade. There is no doubt that so long as the West Coast route is used not only the Victoria merchants, but those throughout the entire country will be hampered by our more enterprising neighbors. The gold is ours, but we are willing to share it with all comers; the trade we can have entirely to ourselves if we exercise ordinary business methods.

It is estimated that 500,000 people will go to the Klondyke during the coming spring. The excitement in Great Britain and throughout Europe over our gold fields, in Australia, Africa and the Islands of the Pacific, as well as in the United States, is even greater than in our own country, probably for the reason that distance lends enchantment to the view. When we consider what supplies for such a number of people mean we will begin to realize that the merchants and manufacturers of Eastern Canada have a little Klondyke of their own at home, supplying this vast, hungry multitude. Those who are well informed on the subject say that every man going to Klondyke will have to spend at least $200 on his food and clothing outfit; so that even if only 200,000 people go at $200 each it means $40,000,000—a tidy little sum to be added to Canada's yearly trade. Even supposing that only 100,000 persons take the Edmonton and Calgary route, that would mean $20,000,000.

It is understood that the Hudson Bay Co. are opposing the Edmonton route* and favoring the Stickeen and Lake Teslin route, as the country to be traversed by pack trail from Edmonton is through their best fur-producing and hunting country, and undoubtedly the horde of miners would frighten the game and drive it further north. The C.P.R., it is believed, is advocating the West Coast route, for the reason that it would give them a longer haul than the Edmonton route.

San Francisco firms are flooding British Columbia with their advertisements of Klondyke supplies and when we take into consideration the advantage they possess over Eastern Canada in the matter of freight rates we may feel sure that Californian merchants will get a fair proportion of the business if trade sets in through the British Columbia route. If, on the contrary, the Canadian Government can be induced to open up the Edmonton land and water route we shall get it all, as the difference in freight will be sufficiently in our favor to shut out competition from that quarter.

In addition to the enormous quantities of supplies that would have to be purchased in this country, a pack trail from Edmonton will open up a market for Alberta cattle that will be another Bonanza Creek to the ranchmen. Those going by the land route would require pack horses and saddles, and the ranches in the vicinity of Calgary and Edmonton can supply the former at $15 to $20 apiece. If the water route is chosen, a highway would be used that has been traveled for years by the Hudson Bay Co. and private traders, and that is well known to hundreds of men in that district whose services could be secured as guides. Boat-builders are ready at Athabasca Landing to build boats at reasonable figures.

The pack trail route, which it should be the prime object of all eastern business men to induce the Government to build, has this to commend it to the miner which the water route does not possess, viz., it passes through the greatest number of gold-bearing streams on the road to the Yukon. Not only this, but in the vicinity of Edmonton and on the line of railway is a farming community who harvested this year nearly 3,000,000 bushels of grain, and who would find a market for their produce amongst the miners. This alone would be reason enough to favor the Edmonton route.

Leaving Edmonton with pack horses and travoise or flat sleds (whichever was decided upon) the miner would go out nine miles to St. Albert, and from thence along a beaten wagon road to Lake St. Ann, a distance of 40 miles. Here he could either go round the lake in an easterly direction or cross at the narrows. Proceeding in a north-westerly direction about 18 miles, he comes to the crossing of the Pembina River, 37 miles further on he comes to the Athabasca River, crossing it at the junction of the McLeod. Going onward in a north-westerly direction between Hawk Creek and Burnt Wood Creek, 20 miles, he crosses a branch of Hawk Creek and then a branch of the Burnt Wood. He then proceeds nearly due west, along the chain of lakes about 70 miles, and turning northward for about 25 miles he comes to the narrows of Sturgeon Lake. From Sturgeon Lake to the crossing of the Smoky River is 30 miles, and from there to Fort St. John is 120 miles more. From Edmonton to Fort St. John the miner has traversed what can be made into a first-class road, and which it is to be hoped the Government will cut out and make without further delay. A great many prospectors have traveled this road during the present fall, but no one has found the road bad. Of course there are creeks to be bridged and swamps to be corduroyed, scows to be built at the crossings of the larger rivers, and fallen timber to be removed; but apart from these improvements, which are necessary with every new road, there are no physical difficulties, as the country is in general level.

At Fort St. John begins the uncertainty; but we have the following data to show that a passable trail exists :

(1) Mr. Ogilvie on his way south from Nelson saw well defined, and in some instances well-beaten, horse trails going in different directions. (2) Wm. Cust, who mine in the district north of the Peace River, speaks of a horse trail in that country. (3) Mr. McConnell, in his report on that section of the country, speaks of Indians going north on horseback. (4) Mr. Ogilvie, in his report of the survey of the Dease, speaks of a horse trail going about 90 miles east in that direction. (5) All Hudson Bay traders in that district know that the St. John and other Peace River Indians hunt along the Liard and that they use horses. (6) It is also known that the Beaver Indians, who hunt north of the Peace River, had formerly large numbers of horses. From this data we are right in believing that a good road can be made from St. John on the Peace River to Sylvester's Landing on the Dease, a distance of 360 miles. From Sylvester's Landing to the lower post is 50 miles, from there to Fort Francis 90 miles, and from there to Pelly Banks 75 miles, a distance of 215 miles, which there is every reason to believe may be traveled without a great amount of trouble. Mr. Ogilvie speaks of a wide valley with good grass on the bottom where horses could be pastured; there are no glaciers to be crossed, and the freezing of the rivers helps rather than retards progress; it will be free from congestion, as no amount of traffic can block this road; storms of whatever kind cannot affect the arrival of supplies, and so long as there are horses enough, there will be no fear of any stoppage. While on the West Coast we have the dangers of the sea, the mountain passes and canyons, on this route there are no dangers which cannot be avoided by ordinary good judgment. The rich gold fields along this route make it doubly desirable; every stream crossed bears gold, the Pembina, the Athabasca, the Smoky, Dease, Findlay and Omenica have all proved rich enough on the bars to satisfy geologists that the bed rock will be very valuable. The Pelly, which is really the headwaters of the Yukon, is as rich, if not richer, than that water itself. South of the Peace River is a large tract of country known as La Grande Prairie in which immense droves of cattle could be wintered and fed as well as in Alberta. Then there are large hay meadows where hay could be cut and the miners could be fed on cattle and grain raised within a short distance of the mines.

The Government will some day need this road for colonization purposes, as treaties will have to be made sooner or later with the Northern Indians, for the Peace River country is far too rich to be left to Indians and wild animals.

The water route from Edmonton commences at Athabasca Landing about 96 miles of good road from Edmonton. Freight is carried there from Edmonton for $20 per ton, and there need be no fear of stoppage, as a large number of teams are ready for hire. At Athabasca Landing boat builders are prepared to build boats suitable for use in the northern waters, and guides may be secured to take parties below the rapids. From Athabasca Landing to Peel River requires very little work, except over the rapids, as the stream flows in the direction the miner wishes to go, at about 6 or 8 miles an hour. From Athabasca Landing to Grand Rapids is 167 miles, and here the difficulties of the trip begin, as the boat has to be let down the rapids by ropes and the goods transported half a mile by land to where the miner can run the rapids. He then follows the course of the stream to Big Cascade; from thence he goes to Fort McMurray, 87 miles, and from Fort McMurray to Fort Chipewyan, a distance of 185 miles, after crossing Lake Athabasca, a distance of about 15 miles. From there to Smith Landing there is no obstruction in the river. A few miles from Fort Chipewyan is the mouth of the Peace River.

On arrival at Smith Landing two courses are open, either to get goods and boat transported by land or to procure a wagon and proceed down the river to Five Portages. The portage from the landing to Fort Smith is 16 miles and then from Fort Smith to Fort Resolution is 194 miles of smooth sailing. Fort Resolution is on Great Slave Lake. From Resolution to Providence is 168 miles, and then, coasting to the southeast end of Great Slave Lake, and passing several small streams whose mouths form safe harbors in case of necessity, we arrive at Big Island, where there is a fishery which will some day be of great commercial importance. Providence to Fort Simpson is 160 miles; Simpson to Rigley, 136 miles; Rigley to Norman, 184 miles; Norman to Good Hope, 174 miles; Good Hope to Peel River, 252 miles. From Simpson to Peel River we have traveled a distance of 800 miles on one of the noblest rivers in the world with a width of from one to four miles and a depth, except in one or two places, capable of carrying an ocean steamer of light draught.

With the exception of one place, the whole river as far as Fort Smith is navigable by steamboats drawing from eight to ten feet of water. After descending the Peel River for some 18 miles we enter the Peel River proper. Going on down the Peel we enter the Rat River, and going up it for 30 miles we reach a portage of about three-quarters of a mile and are at the Bell River. Descending the Bell River for some 60 miles we enter the Porcupine; still going down stream 400 miles we strike the Yukon River about 300 miles below Dawson City. If we do not find the yellow metal here, and it is the opinion of many that we will, all we have to do is to turn our faces up stream—for the first time in 2,400 miles, with the exception of 30 miles on the Rat River—put on our best speed and enter the far-famed Klondyke, a distance of 2,700 miles from Edmonton.

THE DAVIDSON & HAY, Limited Wholesale Grocers, Toronto

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Christmas Fruit Stand.

P. Macdonald, Church street, Toronto, has an excellent method of displaying his raisins, currants, etc., for Christmas season sale. His counter runs along the south side of the store, the door opening on the west end. Mr. Macdonald has placed on the north side of the store near the door a large able, upon which is a stand divided into some six or seven compartments, each about 30 inches by 18 inches in size. In these compartments he has placed the different grades of currants and raisins which he intends to push, each with its price marked on a neat card. In front of this stand on the table is a margin of about ten inches, which is used to draw attention to a jelly-making powder which is offered for sale. Samples of jelly made from this powder have been sent to the store by the manufacturers, and are placed on the table, with spoons close at hand, and customers are invited to give it a trial. This has been found an excellent way of introducing these goods, as in a very short time after this method of showing the taste of the jelly was adopted, the firm was completely sold out of the powder.

Watch the Markets.

Whatever life work a man chooses, be it business, the professions or the farm, if he desires to be up-to-date he must watch, more or less closely, the rise and fall of market quotations. The great concentrating effect of modern inventions and trade influence has had the effect of interweaving the interests of different classes so that one desirous of "climbing to the top" now finds it well to know the conditions that affect those of other lines of business. And as it is beneficial to keep versed on the general market, how much more necessary it must be to follow closely the fluctuations of the articles going over one's counter. This week a grocer has been selling a line of canned tomatoes at 90c. a dozen which he bought some time ago, but which he could not buy for less than 95c. per dozen, and this man is strongly opposed to selling below the market price. "But," as he expressed it, "I have not been following the market for the last two weeks. I generally do, but not having wanted to buy anything I read hardly anything but the advertisements and the editorials in the last two issues of THE CANADIAN GROCER. I am not often caught."

Window Dressing For Christmas.

The Christmas season is the one time of the year when many grocers use their utmost taste and ingenuity to produce an attractive window. Both in the cities and in the country towns it seems to be an understood thing that the grocers will endeavor to make a picture more or less entrancing for the delight of children—not all of whom are young in years. And it is a good custom, both from a retailer's and from a consumer's standpoint. Many articles are put in the window at this time which the use and value of are not generally understood, and, as people are in a buying mood, many new goods are tried. Trade is thus increased. Then, in a general sense, this custom creates a feeling of brightness and joy which makes life more worth living, and takes the mind from business to an extent which is beneficial, if not occurring too frequently. Business is business, but business is only a part of life.

THE RAMBLER.

THOUGHTFUL GROCERY CLERKS.

The Montreal Retail Grocery Clerks' Association have got out a handsome calendar. It is about 2 feet 6 inches long by 1 foot 10 inches wide. In the centre of this is a picture of the president, Mr. Jos. P. Beauvais, around which the different months are stamped. At each corner there is a picture of the three officers and founder—Mr. P. J. Wayland, vice-president; Mr. G. Robert, treasurer; Mr. J. C. Marchand, secretary; Mr. J. B. E. Poirier, founder of the association. A border, which surrounds the calendar, is composed of advertisements of various wholesale houses and manufacturers.

A FACTORY LEAVING MONTREAL.

Montreal is losing one of its manufactories. It is the canning establishment of Martel, Lefebvre & Co., on Papineau avenue. For some time the people of St. Johns have been speaking of granting a bonus to the firm, and Mr. Lefebvre has been in St. Johns looking after the matter. He returned this morning, and is very well pleased with the arrangements he has made. The Council have already issued the grant, which will be $22,500, and it is to be submitted to a vote of the ratepayers on Monday next. There is no doubt that the by-law will pass, as some time ago the matter was discussed in a public meeting called for that purpose, and a vote was taken which showed an overwhelming majority in favor of the grant. Thus Montreal loses one of its oldest firms, through the attractions held out by the Council of St. Johns.

Mr. Lefebvre said this morning that the work of moving would begin immediately, and that a few weeks would see his factory in Montreal closed up.—Herald, Dec. 11.

A STRIKING WINDOW.

Gravel Freres, of Montreal, have a striking window. It consists of a pyramid built upon four columns about 3 feet 6 inches from the base of the window. On each step different kinds of liquors are arranged, all the different shades being in harmony with one another. Beneath this pyramid a smaller one is formed upon the floor of the window, on which are different kinds of catsups, bottled syrup, sauces and different kinds of flavoring extracts. Canned goods are neatly arranged around the pillars of the pyramid.

The border of the window consists of prunes, currants, raisins, etc., all being put up in small boxes, neatly trimmed for the occasion.

A window of this kind, when care is taken to have the different colored packages and cases in harmony with each other, makes a pretty display.

BOUNTY-FED SUGAR.

EDWARD KYNASTON'S West India Circular for November has the following: "The markets of the United Kingdom, which is made the dumping-ground for all the surplus bounty-fed beet from the Continent, both good sugar and refuse, are severely depressed through this flooding process, and whilst the cane growers have just cause to be indignant at the continuance of this unfair dealing, the British refiners suffer also through the extra drawback allowed on refined sugar exported from the Continent, which, taking one country with another, amounts to about an extra 7s. 6d. per ton over and above what is allowed on the raw product. To the uninitiated amongst the British public, which unfortunately forms the largest section thereof, this may appear a small item, but in the working of a large refinery of, say, 3,000 tons of raw sugar per week, the process is thus handicapped to the extent of nearly £60,000 a year, which money must come out of somebody's pocket. It is quite certain no refiner could long stand such a drain, and hence it is not difficult to understand that the money has to be made up by decreased wages to the working people in the refinery, which is again another and very prominent feature in the evil effects of foreign bounties. The application of this principle could be extended throughout the allied industries dependent on sugar refining to an indefinite extent, but to confine the question within reasonable limits, it may be thus assumed that those who suffer most from this State-aided beet production are the cane growers, the British refiners, and last, but not least, the British workman. All sorts of theories may be advanced to attempt to prove that jam and biscuits and sweets employ as many as or more men than sugar refining. This is not to the point. Get rid of the bounties and let the British refiner make the jam and biscuit sugar and all will go on as usual. There is room enough and to spare for both trades to flourish side by side, and common justice demands that each should be allowed to exist. Raw 88 per cent. beet, first products, polarising 94 to 95 per cent., and without any glucose, is now selling at 8s. 9d., cost, freight and insurance, to the United Kingdom, being subsidized by, say, 1s. 3d. per cwt., which gives an equivalent of 10s. per cwt. to the factory. Foreign granulated, being all pure sugar, or say 100 per cent crystalisable, is selling at 10s. 7½d., cost, freight, and insurance, also to the United Kingdom, on which the bounty is about 1s. 9d. per cwt. What cane-sugar country with a gold standard can be expected to compete with such prices? The bounty is alone responsible for this starvation position; and whilst the Continent gains nothing, we in the West Indies and elsewhere are within measurable distance of being extinguished. As, however, there are significant indications that the British Government does not intend to allow its West India colonies to be economically expunged from the face of the earth—which would be a lasting disgrace to this country were it to take place—those who are so deeply interested in this question can afford to wait yet a few months longer, when it will be finally known what is to be their fate; and from all one can see, the result is likely to be favorable at last, after many years of waiting. It cannot be possible that in these so-called colonial days we are to be sacrificed to the absurdity of England's 'fixed policy.'"

A MARTYR TO MELONS.

The melon crop was short this year, and a southwest Georgia farmer who had practically "cornered" it in his neighborhood had suffered seriously from the depredations of some of the hungry colored brethren. So he gave out that he had poisoned his melons, and after the news went forth he ceased to miss them.

Night after night an old negro who lived near the finest melon patch had gazed at their green sides with hungry eyes, but the thought of the poison kept him hungry still.

One moonlight night, however, his appetite got the best of him. He looked in the direction of the melons long and earnestly; then shouldering a sack, he started off.

"In de name of goodness, Rufus, whar you gwine?" asked his wife.

The old man turned, pointed to the melon patch and said, slowly and solemnly:

"I'm a-gwine whar dem melons is!"

"But—dey's p'isoned!"

"I know dey is! But I'm gwine ter take my death. Pray fer me!"—Atlanta Consituation.

STEAMING WINDOWS.

Steaming windows result from the condensation of moisture in warm air upon cold glass. Considered in the abstract, says a London, England, paper, it is clear that there are several ways of preventing the phenomenon in question. One is to keep the air in the windows cool, another is to make the glass warm. Practical men, however, see difficulties in both cases, especially in the latter. No feasible method of warming and keeping warm panes of glass without at the same time making even warmer the circumambient air has yet been devised. Moreover, it is obvious that to warm the outside of windows it would be necessary to warm the street—a somewhat large order. Accordingly, we have to fall back upon the plan of keeping the atmosphere inside the windows as cool as possible. This can only be done by abundant ventilation, sufficient to keep the air practically as cool as the inside of the glass. Of course, the use of lights which, like electric lamps, give out but little heat, simplifies the procedure. It is desirable to light up windows early, beginning with the lights low, so that the air may be gradually heated. It is said that the application of glycerine to the glass has a good effect, and we see no reason why this should not be the case. But the main question must always be one of ventilation. You can no more make hot damp air abstain from condensing on a cold surface than you can make water run up hill.

TO BALK THE INSOLVENCY BILL.

IT is said that a good deal of quiet missionary work is being done among members of Parliament by those who are opposed to a Dominion insolvency law, and that as a result several members on both sides of the House have promised to take a negative position. It is, in fact, said that a sufficient number of anti-insolvency members has been secured to ensure the defeat of the proposed bill when it is brought up.

While it is to be regretted that any preconcerted action is being taken to deprive the country of that which it so obviously needs, yet those who are opposed to an insolvency law on legitimate grounds are perfectly right in doing all they can to secure the defeat of the measure. But while this is so, it is none the less obvious that the champions of the bill should be on the qui vive as well.

If there is to be an insolvency law there is no time for those who favor it to slumber and sleep. There must be a more vigorous awakening to action than there is at the moment apparent if the desideratum is to be secured.

There is no question about the necessity of such a law. People may prate about a better credit system being the remedy. A better credit system would undoubtedly do a great deal, but we have not got it, and the ideal is a great way off.

To use the better-credit-system argument against an insolvency law is like declaring there ought to be no law punishing murder, but that all evil disposed persons should be Christianized.

But we are not yet in the millennium either in business or religion. Until we are there is need both for an insolvency law and work for the preacher.

The strongest influence against the last insolvency bill when it was before Parliament was that of the bankers. And their particular opposition was not due to any inherent disbelief in the principles of an insolvency law. It was due to an inherent belief that a banker should have double the security of any other class of creditor. This the last bill did not purpose doing, hence its collapse.

The necessity of an insolvency law is so obvious that we cannot understand how any man who has given the matter thoughtful attention can conscientiously oppose it.

It is wanted for the debtor class as well as for the creditor class. An honest debtor has certainly no reason to fear it. On the contrary, he has every reason to welcome it, for if perchance he should become an insolvent, a way of escape would be assured him after he had done all he could to meet his indebtedness, for all are agreed that an insolvency law without a discharge clause cannot be. It is only the dishonest debtor that will have reason to fear and tremble.

There is no dearth of reasons why an insolvency law should exist. Every man whose business ramifications extend to more than one province has been made to realize its necessity time and again. Had the provinces suitable laws there would not be the same necessity for action by the House of Commons. But the powers of the several provinces are very limited in this respect, and the little the most of them have done has been woefully short of even what it might have been.

What is wanted is a uniform law: a law which covers the provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific. And the Parliament of Canada is the only body which can supply such a law.

Next to our own interests there are the interests of those in Great Britain who sell us goods. Because of the absence of an insolvency law a great many on the other side of the Atlantic are deterred from pushing business in Canada. In other words, the absence of an insolvency law is giving the Dominion a bad character among the mercantile classes in the Motherland. And people who are cautious in selling to us are not likely to be liberal in buying from us. An insolvency law is therefore necessary in order that the mercantile community in Canada may enjoy in Great Britain something at least approaching that high standing which does the credit of the Dominion among the financial men there.

Then something certainly needs to be done for the honest but unfortunate insolvent. There is no reason why he, through purely unfortunate circumstances over which he had no control, should be under a ban for the remainder of his days.

But while a law is needed for the protection of an honest but unfortunate insolvent against creditors who may not have the necessary quality of mercy to grant him a discharge, yet a law is also wanted which will sufficiently lengthen and strengthen the arm of justice that it may reach after and punish those business men who are obviously dishonest.

There is much in the insolvency law cause to inspire sympathy and co-operation, and it is to be hoped they will not be withheld, but will be employed from now till the battle is won, for an insolvency law must come sooner or later.

NEW DATES IN MONTREAL.

The first receipts of new dates arrived in Montreal last week and have been meeting with a fair sale in a jobbing way. In addition to the shipment already received, there are several lots on the way, which are expected in the course of ten days or so. These are being offered to arrive by the jobbing trade at 5¼ to 5½c.

CANNED TOMATO SITUATION.

SOMETHING approaching excitement is apparent in Toronto in regard to tomatoes.

As will be noticed in another column, the canners met in the "Queen City" the latter part of last week, and although the figures there adduced showed the pack to be somewhat in excess of that of last year, according to the statement of an officer of the organization, there has been an increase rather than a decrease in the bullish character of the market. Some of the packers did not put up nearly as many tomatoes as last year, but there were a few in certain localities which were able to so increase their output as to bring the total pack of the country somewhat in excess of that of last year.

There are two or three influences which are tending to keep the market up.

In the first place, while the pack was of fairly good proportions there are perhaps only three or four packers who have any on hand, and these are not at all inclined to dispose of them except at good prices, and these good prices mean from 90 to 95c. per dozen. We hear of one transaction this week, but the figure was not revealed.

The quantity held in packers' hands is placed at 8,000 cases by members of the packers' association.

Wholesalers in Toronto do not appear to have been liberal buyers. At any rate their stocks are anything but heavy just now, while it is known that most of them are buyers. Wholesalers in Western Ontario cities appear to have been the freest buyers, while large quantities have been placed by the packers on Northwest and British Columbia account. Within the last few days several enquiries have been received from British Columbia. Large quantities of tomatoes as well as other descriptions of canned goods will undoubtedly be wanted for the Klondyke. Enquiries have also been received in Toronto from the east.

The shortage of the tomato pack in the United States naturally helps to strengthen the situation in Canada. The Trade, of Baltimore, states that "tomatoes still maintain the leading tone among all fruits and vegetables that fill the list. It is apparent that tomatoes are watched zealously by both buyers and sellers, and that there is still an anticipation among all dealers that there are further profits to be had in them." It is said that some of the packers in the United States are oversold on British account and that they have made some purchases in Canada to fill orders. One packer in Canada is reputed to have disposed of three thousand cases in this way. Some corn has also been exported.

As a result of the stronger feeling some of the wholesalers have this week instructed their travelers not to accept less than 95c. per dozen for tomatoes, while some brands are held as high as one dollar. Up to the time of writing, however, 90 to 95c. per dozen are the ruling wholesale figures.

The present condition of the market for canned tomatoes teaches a lesson as to the fallacy of selling futures. Most of the packers were in the market booking orders long before the tomatoes were on the vine, much more in the can. And in their haste to get business they booked a large number of orders at 65c. per dozen, while 60c. was no uncommon figure. The bulk of the pack seems to have been sold at 65c., or nearly 40 per cent. below the market price of to-day. It does not follow that they would have got that 40 per cent. more had they delayed looking for business later, but they would have got a good portion of it.

Wholesalers are now talking of "dollar-ten" and "dollar-twenty" tomatoes before next season's pack comes in, and packers talk quite freely of "dollar tomatoes." It is possible that such may be so, but it must be remembered that stocks in retailers' hands are larger than usual. A gentleman who has recently returned from a business tour of Manitoba, the Territories and British Columbia informs THE CANADIAN GROCER that retailers through that part of the country which he traversed appeared to be well equipped with canned tomatoes.

To sum up: While it is evident the market for canned tomatoes is in a stronger position than it has been for years, yet it will be well for the trade to be careful in regard to handling goods at fancy prices.

Two departmental stores were burned in the United States last month. Is this the fire of retribution?

THE SUGAR AGREEMENT.

NEGOTIATIONS regarding a uniform jobbing scale of prices on refined sugar that have been in progress ever since the end of October promise to be a success.

The outline of the new proposition was given at the time of the conference, and it is understood that members of the trade at all leading Ontario centres and at Montreal have agreed to them. Representatives of the trade in Quebec City, however, have not yet come into the fold, but strong hopes are expressed that they will yet be induced to do so.

Their objection appears to be that when such an arrangement was in force previously it led to a lot of jobbing in the staple by parties who were not regular wholesale jobbers, so that an agreement practically became a dead letter, and business was lost. It is hoped, however, that under the present circumstances they will see their way clear to unite with the members of the wholesale trade elsewhere in a sincere effort to do away with the pernicious practice of cutting that has been in vogue in connection with this staple.

The jobbers, one and all, protest that they do not intend to use the proposed agreement to wring out any extortionate profits. In fact, as they very properly point out, such action would have the natural result of inflating prices to such an extent that margin of profit would be too tempting to be resisted by people who were anxious for an order, and did not care how they secured it. Their idea is to fix the margin so low that it will not tempt traders to cut prices.

It is asserted that even if it is found impossible to persuade the Quebec City houses to come into the agreement, an effort will be made to put the proposed arrangement in force in such territory as they do not reach. At present these houses confine their attention chiefly to the district in Quebec province east of Sorel on both the north and south shores of the St. Lawrence. It is a question with some whether they would do though, were there an agreement which permitted them to undersell jobbers in other cities in their own territory. This fear may in the end, provided the Quebec firms do not fall into line, prevent the introduction of the scale in the province of Quebec, whether it has the same effect elsewhere or not.

THE ADULTERATED MOLASSES.

THE question of adulteration in New Orleans molasses has attracted some attention as a result of articles which appeared in The N.Y. Journal of Commerce in regard to the matter.

Owing to the conditions ruling, however, in Quebec province, the fact has caused much thought to traders in molasses at Montreal. The reason is simple. Very little, if any, molasses; except Barbadoes stock, is consumed in the eastern province. The French Canadians are the chief customers for molasses; they have acquired a taste for Barbadoes by years and years of use. As they are inherently a very conservative race, they don't want anything else. This fact has been frequently demonstrated when other molasses than Barbadoes, especially Porto Rico, that was both better and cheaper than the former, met a poor demand.

The stocks in the east consist almost solely of Barbadoes and Porto Rico, and the goods in each case are pure. It is admitted, however, that stocks are unusually light with the prospect of high prices. Whether this latter circumstance will lead to the importation of cheap and inferior New Orleans molasses the future will decide. The majority, however, consider it unlikely owing to the reason above given.

DUTY ON OATS AND OATMEAL.

A DEPUTATION of oatmeal millers waited upon the Council of the Winnipeg Board of Trade with a view to enlisting the board's co-operation in an effort to induce the Government to revise the duties on oats and oatmeal.

The present duty on oats is 10c. per bushel, and on oatmeal 20 per cent. The millers figure that on one barrel of oatmeal imported from the United States the duty is 44c., while the duty on a sufficient quantity of oats to produce a barrel of oatmeal is $1.10. In other words, the duty is 66c. lower on the finished than on the raw article.

It does, of course, seem unfair that the raw material should have a relatively higher duty upon it than the finished product, and this is certainly the case in this particular instance. The matter is at least worth being considered by the Government. At the same time, however, it does not appear that any great injustice is being done to the oatmeal millers, notwithstanding the obviously unequal character of the duties.

According to the Trade and Navigation Returns, the quantity of oatmeal imported into Canada is small, last year it only being $10,263 worth, of which $1,629 worth was from Great Britain, and $8,634 worth from the United States. Of oats we imported $123,143 worth from the United States, and $203 worth from Great Britain.

UNPARDONABLE APATHY.

IT is surprising the apathy which obtains among retail grocers in regard to associations. Where there should be hundreds on the membership roll there are often only scores, and where there should be scores attending meetings there are not dozens.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Toronto is an organization which does a great deal for the trade of the "Queen City," and a great deal more than it is given credit for, and yet all the work is done by a few men.

From a statement which the secretary has prepared it is learned that the association's membership is practically where it was a year ago. This ought not to be, for the organization has had a most energetic and capable staff of officers during the year.

Toronto is estimated to have about eight hundred retail grocers. Now, at least one-fourth of that number should belong to the association, but it does not, while at the regular meetings there is seldom an attendance of two dozen members.

The action of the association may not be always wise. Where is there the organization that is perfect? But it is not wise for those who find fault with the acts of the Retail Grocers' Association in Toronto or anywhere else to remain away from the meetings or withhold their membership because they cannot see eye to eye with the organization in everything it does.

Where there is co-operation there is both strength and better results. It is to be hoped that during the New Year the grocers of Toronto will co-operate more fully with their association. And what applies to the grocers of Toronto applies with equal force to grocers elsewhere.

A STRONG SUGAR MARKET.

SUGAR has developed further strength during the week, and two or three circumstances have contributed to this.

Probably the most important bullish factor is the reduction of Licht's estimate of the beet sugar crop in Russia by 50,000 tons, which makes a reduction so far in his estimates of the crop of 90,000 tons in all, while it is said he is expected to make a further deduction of 100,000 tons from his original figure.

According to the last report, there were in the four ports in the United States only 324,639 tons of raw sugar, against 664,999 tons on June 24th last, a decrease of over 51 per cent.

While the European beet sugar estimates have decreased, it is worth noting that the calculable consumption in Europe and North America and some other parts of the world has increased.

What is by no means a bearish factor is the announcement that the Governments of France, Germany, Belgium and Austria have arranged a conference to consider the abolition of the bounty on sugar now given by these countries, and that there is every possibility of the objects of the conference being attained.

Beet sugars have during the week exhibited a hardening tendency, and 88 per cent. sugar has advanced in London to a point about one shilling per cwt. above the lowest point in the present campaign. In New York centrifugal sugars have appreciated 1-16c. per lb. since our last issue. The only change in Canada is a further advance of 1-16c. per lb. in the price of all grades of sugar by the Acadia refinery. Up to the time of writing the other refineries had made no change since that of last week.

MINING OUTFITS.

As announced elsewhere, S. H. Ewing & Sons, of Montreal, are going extensively into the business of outfitting and supplying expeditions to the Klondyke and other mining regions. They have already supplied several parties of Americans bound for the Yukon, and their success with these has led them to devote particular attention to this line.

ADULTERATION OF MOLASSES.

IN the treatment of molasses, the use of substitutes and other ingredients has grown to such an extent, according to a complaint from New York, that it is claimed a comparatively insignificant percentage of the total product is now being placed on the market in a pure condition.

The chief cause assigned for this large increase of adulteration is the adoption of the centrifugal process of refining sugar, which extracts a much greater percentage of sugar from the cane than the old method, and thus leaves a smaller molasses product. The decreasing cost of glucose, the principal adulterant, further increased the margin of profit on the mixed article. Then, a shortage of supplies of the pure article a few years ago created a good opportunity to build up the trade in the adulterated goods.

Glucose in itself is harmless, and there would be no reason against the sale of molasses mixed with it if the mixture were branded as such. It is stated that adulteration is carried on both in New Orleans, the shipping point of the bulk of molasses, in the great wholesale centres of the north, and even at the plantations, so one importing direct cannot be sure of the pure article. In New Orleans, some 350,000 barrels of molasses are shipped annually, and into this, it is claimed, is put nearly 100,000 barrels of glucose, a percentage of over 30 per cent. Then, when it reaches the wholesale centres in New York about 30 per cent. more glucose is added, in many instances.

Powerful chemicals are also used for the purpose of bleaching the mixture, with such success that they have the necessary blend and bleach to give them the style and character of pure, fancy, open-kettle, new crop New Orleans molasses.

The price of pure molasses at New Orleans ranges from 23 to 30c. per gallon on the levee there. Allowing for shipping, cooperage, insurance, etc., molasses costing 28c. would cost 32c. at New York, yet there is offered on the New York market goods similar in color at from 20 to 27c., and competition is so keen that retailers who would pay the price for the pure article are unable to compete with those selling the adulterated, cheaper goods.

This is undoubtedly having a bad effect on the molasses trade, as the consumer who cannot tell the difference between the pure and the adulterated molasses soon becomes suspicious of all molasses and eventually discontinues their use.

LECTURES TO CLERKS.

The Montreal Retail Grocery Clerks' Association held their second lecture in St. Joseph's Hall, Dec. 12. It was given by Mr. S. Cote, editor of The Moniteur du Commerce, who took for his subject "The Grocery Trade." The first point he touched on was that a clerk should not let his legs and arms do all the work, but that he should use his brains, and miss no opportunity which would help to improve his mind. He should make use of his brains not only for things that he cared about, but for his employer's interest, which would most certainly end in his own welfare. No small thing should escape his observation. He should seize every chance he had of finding out the market value of the different articles handled, not only the home market, but all others where such goods can be had. They ought to learn what these goods are composed of. For instance, take coffee: one selling it should know all the different grades and the ingredients which are used as well; the condition in which it is brought into Canada and why the transformations have taken place from the coffee plant to the boxes on the store shelves. Mr. Laporte, of Laporte, Martin & Co., Mr. D. Parizeau and Mr. J. Perreault were among the number present. The grocery clerks are taking a great interest in Mr. Cote's lectures, about 70 of them being present.

FITTING OUT FOR THE KLONDYKE.

Several parties for the Klondyke have been fitting out in Toronto during the past week or ten days. One party, consisting of seven citizens of the United States, placed an order for the following groceries: Six hundred pounds of tobacco, 21 barrels of flour, 1,200 pounds of oatmeal, 600 pounds of sugar, 250 pounds of baking powder, 400 pounds of roasted coffee, 750 pounds of white beans, 250 pounds of raisins, 250 pounds of prunes, 25 cases of condensed milk, 50 cases of corn and tomatoes, 15 cases of corn starch, 300 pounds of rice, 200 pounds of salt, besides sundry other articles.

The supplies were for three years, and each member of the party had put $1,000 into a fund to provide for the necessary outfit of groceries, hardware, clothing, etc.

The party go by the Edmonton route, and the leader, who has been in the Klondyke country before, stated that this, to his mind, was the preferable route.

A CHRISTMAS WINDOW.

By R. O. Fielding, Hamilton.

IT is somewhat difficult to describe a window display without the aid of illustrations. I give a brief outline of two Christmas window decorations that I used some three and four years ago.

In the centre of the window, about four feet from the glass, construct the framework of a horseshoe some six feet high and otherwise proportionate. Cover this with holly, evergreens, etc., and where the nails should be place a small electric light for each nail. Cover floor with white cotton wool frosted over. In the centre of the horseshoe place a large figure of Santa Claus drawing a sledge, which has just overturned at the corner of the shoe, throwing oranges, nuts, candies, small dolls and toys promiscuously over the snow. At each side of the shoe, and placed a little forward of it, put a Christmas tree on which are hung bags of candies, oranges, nuts, toys, etc. Cover framework of window with holly, evergreens, etc. Make the background of green and yellow cheese cloth, draped in stars, the stars being green, and the centre of each star yellow and in the centre of that again place a red electric light. Put here and there three or four suitable mottos tastefully gotten up. This was one of the most attractive windows I ever put in.

Another Christmas window: Construct a large horn of plenty, some fifteen feet long, from hoops and slats, cover over with paper, over which put cotton wool by means of mucilage. Then bind spirally with strips of green tissue paper two inches wide. The point of the horn fasten to the wall as far from the glass as possible and about six feet from the floor of window. Let mouth of horn come near centre of window, lying on the floor, and about three feet from the glass. Cover the floor with dried moss frosted over. Out of the mouth of the horn let candy, nuts, oranges, small dolls and toys flow in delightful confusion on to the moss. A little distance from mouth of horn place a figure of Santa Claus pointing his hand to it. Cover framework of window with holly, evergreens, etc., among which place electric lights. Make background of green cheese cloth draped in neat folds from top to bottom; this cover with wreaths and crosses of holly, with trailing vines, imitation lilies and roses here and there; also put two or three tasteful mottos. On one side of horn place a Christmas tree with bags of nuts, candies, etc., on it.

These windows were got up at very little expense and proved drawing cards. All the eatables, dolls, etc., displayed in them were distributed on Christmas Day to poor families whose names we got from customers.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 16, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THERE is a great deal of merchandise going out, but the influence of the unfavorable weather has appreciably made its impression upon trade during the past week. With an improvement in the weather is confidently expected an improvement in business. The feeling in regard to canned tomatoes is decidedly strong, and the same may be said with regard to sugar. The Acadia sugar refinery advanced its quotations another sixteenth of a cent on Monday, making a gain of one-eighth within a week. Up to the time of writing the other refineries had not followed. Currants have again advanced in the primary market. The demand for all kinds of foreign dried fruits is good. Coffees are in good demand, and both Rios and Santos are higher in the outside markets. The tea trade is still on the whole quiet, although some business is being done in spot teas and in fine flavory Ceylons. Payments are fair.

CANNED GOODS.

The feeling in tomatoes is stronger, and while most houses are quoting 90 to 95c. at least one firm has instructed its travelers to accept nothing less than 95c. A good many enquiries are being heard, but not much business is transpiring. Peas and corn are steady. Pumpkins and beans are about the cheapest articles in the canned vegetables and fruit line, the former selling at 70c. up and the latter at 60 to 65c. up. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corn, 70 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 60 to 95c.; peaches, $2 to $2.60 for 3's, $1.40 to $1.75 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.40 to $1 70, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2.25 to $2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1 25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1; canned mackerel, $1.20 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.70 for tall tins; ½-lb. flats, $1.65 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

Wholesalers are still experiencing a good demand for the better grades of Rio coffee at from 9 to 10c. per lb. The market is firmer, both Rios and Santos being about ½c. per lb. higher in the primary markets than ten days ago. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8 to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; Santos, 12 to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 13 to 17c.; Jamaica, 16 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

The refiners are not doing much, but the wholesalers have been experiencing a better demand during the past week or ten days. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

A rather better demand is being experienced for molasses. We quote as follows: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar is light, but there is a strong feeling in regard to prices. In addition to the advance of 1-16c. per lb. made last week the Acadia refinery on Monday last marked prices up another 1-16c., although the other refineries have not so far followed suit. The outside markets continue to rule firm. Licht has reduced his estimate of the Russian beet sugar crop by 50,000 tons. We quote, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Extra granulated, 4 7-16c. for less than carload lots, and 4⅜c. for carload lots; yellows, 3 11-16 to 3 13-16c. per lb.; Canadian German granulated, 4 1-16c. per lb.; Austrian granulated, 4 1-16c. in bags for less than carload lots.

NUTS.

According to advices received in Toronto this week Tarragona almonds will cost nearly 1c. per lb. more than they did per last shipment. The demand for nuts is good. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 23 to 25c.; Tarragona almonds, 9 to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 8 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 9½c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, SAGO.

Business is much about the same as a week ago. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¾c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to 4½c.

SPICES.

There is not much being done, but prices are being fairly well maintained, according to advices from the primary markets. We quote as follows: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

A little more business is being done, but the tea trade is still, on the whole, dull. There have been some sales of spot teas of Ceylon growth at from 13½ to 16½c. Indian teas on spot at 13½ to 14½c. are wanted, and there have been a few transactions. Fine, flavory Ceylon teas at about 1s., shown by agents of London, England, firms, have been readily picked up, but as these teas are scarce in the British capital it has not been possible to fill orders in some instances. Wholesalers report a fair demand for this time of the year from retailers for Indian and Ceylon teas, but Japans are even quieter than they usually are at this season of the year. Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—Another advance of about 1s. per cwt. is cabled in fine Filiatra currants. The demand for currants continues brisk. We quote: Provincials, 5½ to 5¾c.; Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6½c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The demand is fair. Owing to the high price of currants and the scarcity of Malaga raisins, Valencia raisins at present prices are looked upon as good property. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5½c.; selected, 6 to 6½c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

MALAGA RAISINS — Stocks are becoming reduced, and it is thought there will not be enough to supply the demand. We quote: London layers, $1.50 to $1.70; black baskets, $2 to $2.20; blue baskets, $2.30 to $2.50; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20 to $2.40; dessert clusters, $3.50 to $3.75.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS—The demand for 3 and 4-crown is being well maintained. We quote: 3-crown, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb; 4-crown, 8¼ to 8½c. per lb.; 1-lb. cartoons, 20c.; 2¼-lb. cartoons, 35c.

DATES—Are in good demand. We quote Hallowee at 6¼ to 6½c. per lb. and Sairs at 5½c. per lb.

FIGS — There is the usual holiday trade being done. We quote as follows: 4-crown,

GREEN FRUITS.

There is a good trade being done generally. Oranges are moving well, Valencias especially. The low price of lemons has created a good demand for them. Grapes and cranberries are also moving briskly. The demand for apples is steady and fair. Prices are firm and unchanged. We quote: Almeria grapes, $5 to $8 per keg; lemons, Messina, $3.25 to $4 a box; cocoanuts, $4.50 a sack and 60c. per doz.; oranges, Valencia, $5 to $6.25 per case; California navels, $4 to $4.50 per crate; Jamaica oranges, $7.50 per bbl., and $4 per box; Mexican oranges, $3.50 to $4 a box; bananas, $1.50 to $1.75; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl., and $2.75 to $3 per box; Canadian cranberries, $6.75 to $7.50 per bbl., and $2.50 per box; Nova Scotia cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; Canadian apples, $2 to $3.50 per barrel and 40 to 50c. per basket; Canadian onions, red or yellow, in 80-lb. bags, 70 to 80c.; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; celery, 25 to 50c. a dozen; winter pears, $3.50 to $4 per bbl. and 30 to 50c. per basket.

POULTRY — The stocks are cleared up, and now the market is in a healthier condition. There is an enquiry for a much better class of turkeys than has been offered the last few weeks, for which as high as 9c. may be had. Other fowl of a superior class are also sought. PROVISIONS.

The open and damp weather has quieted trade considerably this week. Dry salted meats are in good demand. Light dressed hogs are 15c. higher this week. Clear shoulder mess barrel pork has risen 50c. per bbl. We quote:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 7½c. for carload lots, and 8c. per lb. for ton lots and cases.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 11 to 11½c.; rolls, 9c.; hams, large, 9½c.; medium, 10c.; small, 10½c.; shoulder hams, 8½ to 9c.; backs, 10 to 11c.; all meats out of pickle, 1c. less than above.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $14 to $14.50; Canadian short-cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $14.

DRESSED HOGS—We quote: $5.40 to $5.50 for heavy, and $5.65 to $5.75 for light hogs.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is a good demand for choice dairy in all lines. Creamery is still plentiful. We quote: Dairy, best, large rolls, 14 to 15½c.; pound prints, 15 to 16c.; tubs, best grade, 15 to 16c.; second grade, 13 to 14c.; low grade, 11 to 12c.; creamery, early make, tubs, 17 to 18c.; late make, tubs, 18 to 19c.; prints, 20c.

CHEESE—There is nothing doing, with local quotations remaining at 8½ to 9c., according to make.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

The open weather has kept the oyster trade dull. Fish are moving freely. Fresh trout, haddock and steak cod have fallen from ½ to 1c. per lb. Manitoba frozen white fish are now on market. Split herring in half-bbls have fallen 25c. We quote as follows: Oysters, $1.25 per gal.; fresh trout, 7 to 7½c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 5c. per lb.; fresh steak cod, 6 to 6½c. per lb.; pickerel, 6c. per lb.; pike, 4c. per lb.; perch, 3c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. per lb.; haddies, 6c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.75 to $6 per bbl. and $3.25 per half-bbl.; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.50 per half-bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads off), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, 75c. to $1; Manitoba frozen whitefish, 7½c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The wheat market is easier, with a decline of from 1 to 2c. per bush. since last week. Peas and oats have advanced ½ to 1c. per bush. We quote the street market as follows: Winter wheat, 81 to 82c.; barley, 27 to 34c.; peas, 45c.; oats, 25c., Toronto freights. No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $1.02, Toronto freights.

FLOUR—The market has eased off again, with an all round decline of 10c. We quote: Manitoba patents, $5.40; Manitoba strong bakers', $5; Ontario patents, $4.50 to $4.70; straight roller, $4.10 to $4.15, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Market continues active, with prices firm. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.30 in bags and $3.40 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.70 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.

SALT.

The lack of cars is again handicapping shippers. Otherwise market is in good condition. We quote: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B.. barrels, 75c.; sacks, 50c.

SEEDS.

There is a brisk demand for alsike and clover in fancy to choice grades for export. Foreign purchasers seem to be willing to take none but the higher grades, and, as there is no local demand there is a large range in price, with dealers not anxious to buy the poor grades at the lowest rates. Alsike is quoted at $2 to $5; red clover at $2.75

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has presented a considerable degree of activity during the present week in several lines, especially from first to second hands, but the actual jobbing movement, notably in seasonable goods, such as fruit, nuts, etc., is not as satisfactory as some people wish. Sugar is firm abroad and the advance at the refineries here has led to freer purchasing by jobbers. Light stocks of molasses cause continued firmness in prices, and coffee has improved its position to a considerable extent in the matter of values. Demand for tea also has been fairly active, while jobbers here have been large purchasers of staple lines of canned vegetables at full prices.

SUGAR.

The advance in sugar is fully maintained, and prices are held strong as a result of the marked strength displayed by the raw article. Cables this week from London stated that there had been a general advance in prices. Beet was especially strong owing to reduced crop estimates, and December advanced to 9s. 3¾d. and January, 9s. 4½d. Cane was firm at an advance with a tendency to improve more and Java was quoted 10s. 10½d., and fair refining, 9s. 6d. This has led to pronounced strength in the raw market at New York and prices have an upward tendency, and the market for refined has followed suit. The result of all this strength is that buyers here are taking hold more freely in this market and refiners have been doing more trade at the advance. In a jobbing way trade is of an ordinary character, and despite the advanced cost from first hands it is asserted that some jobbers have been accepting orders at cost or even less.

Teas, Coffees, Spices, Fruits, Canned Goods, etc.

S. H. Ewing & Sons Wholesale General Commission Merchants, 27 St. Sacrament Street, Montreal.

We quote: Granulated, 4 3-16 to 4¼c., as to quantity; German do., 3 15-16c.; low-grade yellows, 3 7-16c., and bright, 3¼c.

SYRUPS.

Trade in syrups is only moderate and prices are unchanged at 2 to 2½c. for Canadian in half-barrels, as to grade and quality.

MOLASSES.

With light supplies prices of Barbadoes molasses are firmly held. Demand is good in a jobbing way and it is predicted that there will not be enough to last out until the spring. Porto Rico stock in first hands also is well reduced and nothing can now be had under 26c. first cost, net cash, in round lots. In a jobbing way, we quote Barbadoes, 26c. in puncheons, 27½c. in tierces, and 28½c. in barrels, with Porto Rico, 27 to 28c.

RICE.

There is a fair jobbing demand for rice. We quote as follows: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

Business is fair with no change in the conditions governing the market. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market exhibits a rather better feeling abroad, and the fact has led to a recovery in values here from the extremely low level which ruled previously. Sales of Rio have been made at 9 to 13½c., and Maracaibo, 13 to 15½c.

TEAS.

The firm feeling in teas continues. This is especially the case in Japans, and the movement from first hands that we noted last week has been repeated during the present one, several round lots of Japans selling at 16 to 17c., while China blacks have been turned over at 17c. and Pingsueys at 10½c. We quote: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 10 to 17c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair trade passing in canned vegetables from first to second hands, the most notable fact in this connection being the sharp advance realized on this market for round lots of tomatoes, which have sold in the west to parties here at a price equal to 95c. laid down, the transactions involving 2,500 cases. Corn also has changed hands at the equivalent of 80c. to $1; peas at 90c. to $1; 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1; salmon, $1.10 to $1.20, and lobsters at $2.50 to $2.75 for cases of 4 doz. In a word, the canned goods market has been an active one, and it seems evident from the way they have been operating that some jobbers were in want of supplies, as they readily paid the prices asked. We quote: Tomatoes, 95c. to $1; corn, 80c. to $1; peas, 90c. to $1; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2 to $2.25; 3-lb. do., 90c. to $1; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 to $1.45; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 to $1.45; "Lion," $1.25 to $1.40; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been little change in Valencia raisins and demand is still rather backward, considering the approach of the holidays. Prices all round are steady to firm, as follows: Off-stalk, 4½c.; fine do., 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and 4-crown layers, 6 to 6¼c.

California raisins are about steady, and advices from the Coast report little change, both 3 and 4-crown being held very firmly at primary points. On spot we quote: 2-crown, 6¼ to 6¾c.; 3-crown, 7¼ to 7¾c.; and 4-crown, 8¾ to 9c.

Loose Spanish muscatel raisins are offering here at 6 to 7c., according to grade, while Sultanas are quoted at 9½c. for standard brands.

The currant market is very firm abroad and advices from Greece state that there is little prospect of any decline for the rest of the season, there being scarcely 30,000 tons left for export. Spot prices, however, show little change. We quote: Fine Vostizzas, half-cases, 6½c.; Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; choice Filiatra, do., 6c.; fine do., half-cases, 5⅞c.; Filiatra, half-cases, 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. fine Provincials, half-cases, 5½c.; do., cases, 5⅜c.; do., bbls., 5c.

There is a steady demand for prunes of all sorts. We quote as follows: Austrian, 6¼ to 7c.; French, 4¼ to 4½c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

There is a quiet trade in figs, and prices are steady at the following range: Eleme, 10 lbs., 10 to 11c.; case lots, 9c.; 12-oz. boxes, 7½c.; 14-oz. boxes, 9c.; 25 bag lots, 3¼c., and bags, 3½ to 4c.

The first arrivals of new dates came to hand this week, and there are several other shipments which are expected here in the course of 10 days. Values range from 5¼ to 6c., as to grade, both from stock and on lots to arrive.

NUTS.

There is a quiet trade in nuts, and values generally are steady. Pure Mayette Grenoble walnuts are very scarce and firm, and Tarragona almonds are also difficult to

FISH.

There has been a fair movement in all kinds of fish, although the Advent trade has not been up to that of former years. With the exception of fresh frozen herrings stocks of all kinds are ample. In pickled fish values run about as follows :—No. 1 N.S. herrings, 4¼ to 4½c.; Cape Breton, $4.75 to $5; half barrels, $2.75; Nova Scotia, half barrels, $2.25; B.C. salmon, $11 to $11.50; No. 1 white fish, 4½c., half barrels; No. 1 trout, 4 to 4¼c., half barrels; No. 1 green cod, $3.75 to $4; No. 2, $2.40; No. 1 large cod, $4.25 to $4.50; draft cod, $5.

Fresh fish have moved quite actively during the week, especially haddies at 6c. and Yarmouth and bay bloaters at 90c. to $1, and herrings 10 to 11c.

There is a small trade in dried cod at 3¾c. dressed, or skinless at 4¼ to 4½c.; pure boneless at 4½ to 5½c., and boneless at 3c.

Fresh haddock and cod are selling at 3½ to 4c., steak cod, 4c.; smelts, 4 to 6c.; white fish and trout, 7c.; salmon, 10 to 11c.; and Manitoba pike to arrive at 3½c. Fresh herrings are very scarce at $1.75 to $1.85 per 100.

Shell oysters are rather high and this curtails the demand, business being small at $7 for hand picked.

DRIED APPLES.

The dried apple market is steady and unchanged at 5½ to 7c., and 10c. for evaporated.

APPLES.

The apple market is quiet, but steady, at unchanged prices, viz.: $3 to $4.50 for No. 1 and $2 to $2.50 for No. 2.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been an active trade in green fruit during the week. Oranges are the most active line, Jamaicas selling firm, while several carloads of Californias sold at $4 to $4.50 per box; Valencia oranges also met with a good demand. Lemons are quoted steady also, and cranberries are in active request. We quote: Lemons, $3 to $3.25 per box; Jamaica oranges easier at $6.50 per bbl.; California, $4 to $4.50 per box; Valencia, $4.75 to $5 per case; Almeria

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market has advanced, and prices are fully maintained. The demand is good, new laid selling at 22c., choice candled, 18 to 19c.; Montreal limed, 14 to 15c., and western limed, 12½ to 13c. per dozen.

BEANS—There was no change in beans, trade being slow at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

GAME—The receipts of partridge continue small, for which there is an active enquiry, and prices rule firm at 80c. for firsts and 45 to 50c. for seconds per brace.

POULTRY — A fair enquiry was experienced for poultry to-day owing to the more favorable weather, but notwithstanding the advance in prices realized at Perth Fair on Saturday values here show no material change as yet, but higher figures are anticipated in the near future. Turkeys sold at 7½ to 8½c.; chickens, 6½ to 7½c.; ducks, 8 to 8½c.; geese, 5 to 6c. per lb.

HONEY—The market for honey is quiet and prices unchanged. We quote: White clover, 12½c.; dark clover comb 10 to 10½c., and dark 7 to 8c.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the provision market, except that the feeling is rather easier owing to the increased receipts of dressed hogs, but no actual change has yet taken place. The demand is quiet and trade of a jobbing character. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

The receipts of dressed hogs are increasing, for which the demand is limited owing to the unfavorable weather; consequently trade is quiet and prices about steady at $5.50 to $5.75 for heavy weight and at $6 to $6.25 for light, per 100 lbs.

SALT.

Continues steady. Coarse Liverpool, 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

The demand for flour from local and country buyers continues fair for small lots, and the market is moderately active with no change in prices to note. We quote as follows: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.40 to $4.45; bags, $2.15 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

The demand for meal is limited and market rules quiet, but prices are fully sustained. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.50 per barrel, and $1.70 per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

There is no change in feed. Basiness is moderately active under a fair demand. We quote: Ontario bran, $10.50; shorts, $11.50 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, $11.50, and shorts, $13.50 per ton.

GRAIN.

The unsettled feeling and the lower prices in the American grain markets has checked the demand for the present from foreign buyers and local shippers for Canadian grain, and the market was quiet. We quote: Ontario red winter wheat, 90c.; white, 89c.; peas, 57c.; oats, 27c.; rye, 51½ to 52c.; buckwheat, 35½ to 36c., and feed barley, 36 to 40c. in store.

BALED HAY.

There was rather more enquiry for hay this week and a somewhat better feeling prevailed in the market, but prices show no change, No. 1 selling at $10.50, and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese ruled quiet to-day and there is no indication of any immediate change. Enquiry started at the close of last week continues, but the prices on which it is based do not permit of any general buying, but only dealing in bargains which can be secured in the vicinity of 8⅜ to 8½c. It is needless to reassert that few sellers are willing to accept these figures for strictly finest fall makes for the very good reason that it would take a good deal more money to let them out of stocks in hand at a profit. The conditions, therefore, are the same, viz., buyers and sellers apart. The cable is unchanged.

Butter continues to move along in a quiet, steady way. Supplies of really first-class, late made creamery are scarce, and for anything offering full prices are realized. In fact, exporters have, it is understood, paid from 18½ to 19c., which is more than they were willing to concede during the earlier portion of last week. In a domestic jobbing way enquiry is good also. Cable advices from Liverpool quote finest, 92s. and good, 60s.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Pure Mayette Grenoble walnuts are very scarce on this market, and prices are firmly held from 9¼c. up.

Advices on currants are very strong from primary points, but the fact has not led to any advance in the range of spot prices here as yet.

The first arrivals of new dates were received here this week and have been selling at a range of 5¼ to 6c.

There have been some large purchases of tomatoes by jobbers in this market on the basis of 95c. per dozen, laid down here.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 13, 1897.

THE trade is now largely in the hands of the retail dealers, with whom Christmas trade opened rather earlier this season than usual. Prospects are for a better Christmas business than last year. The mild weather of the past week has somewhat interfered with business and much depends on the weather during the coming week. In wholesale trade, except some city business, it is rather quiet. Markets keep firm. Sugar has shown an advance and is tending upward. Lard holds its price better than was expected. In flour the feeling is firmer and sales are being more freely made. Winter export business is active. The C.P.R. and Beaver Line have had to refuse large quantities of freight that have been offered through lack of steamers. A second elevator is very much needed here.

OIL—The advance in American burning oil spoken of last week holds. It is largely local, applying to the city and nearby points, where prices during the summer have ruled below those through the province. Prices are firmly held. Winter freight rates and insurance tend to strengthen them. The big end of the winter's business was done, however, before the first of the month. No advance as yet has been made in Canadian oil. Market is, however, very firm. We quote: Best American burning oil, 18¼ to 19c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian, prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—Market continues to be well supplied, particularly in Liverpool coarse. One lot is to hand by steamer this week, and two or three more on the way. There is fair demand. Eastport is our best customer. There is not so much doing in the Liverpool factory-filled, Canadian salt being largely used. We quote: Coarse, 40 to 45c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—This is rather a quiet line, although in vegetables a good, steady business at full prices is doing. In canned salmon the low prices ruling at the close of the canning season caused somewhat larger stocks to be bought than would otherwise have been the case. While prices rule rather lower stocks are not over large. In haddies the season has been a fair one. There is not, however, the increase in demand west that was hoped for. In meats demand is dull. Fruits, particularly peaches, are low. Apples are scarce and high. Pineapple tending higher. We quote as follows: Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 75 to 90c.; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.70; 1-lb. tins, $1.40 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.50; 2's, $1.40 to $1.50; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.50 to $2.75; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.05 to $1.15; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz,; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT—The Christmas demand keeps business active. Apples have a better sale; right stock is held firm. There is enough here for all demands at present prices. Oranges are plentiful. Valencias continue to arrive freely. The first full car of Californias are to hand. In Floridas a few are here for Christmas trade. In cheap oranges Dominicas can still be had. New lemons are being freely received, and there is fair trade. Very few bananas are moving. Sweet potatoes have light sale. In cranberries Cape Cod are rather higher, and native berries likely to advance. We quote: Messina lemons, $4 to $5; Dominica oranges, $5 to $6 per bbl.; Valencia oranges, $4.50 to $5; Florida, $5 to $5.25; California seedlings, $3.50; navals, $4 to $4.50; apples, $2 to $3.75; bananas, $2 to $2.25; Malaga grapes, $5 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5 to $6 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 to $9 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $4.25 to $4.50 per bbl.; shaddock, $3 per bbl.; grape fruit, $3 per bbl.; sour limes, $1.75 per box; sweet limes, $2.50 per box.

DRIED FRUIT — Raisins continue to arrive. Currants are getting scarce. The trade has been large and mostly in cleaned. In citron, stocks were short and some American was imported which is giving satisfaction. In evaporated apples, some new are here, but prices are high and there is no particular demand. Dried are quiet. California prunes have large sale and prices are low, but prospects are for firmer figures later. In seeded raisins a good business is doing. Some little trouble is met in the different qualities, and different prices rule, but when brands become known this will not be. Fard. dates continue to hold the market for new fruit. Sale of figs is still large. Onions show no change. There have been some very large importations of nuts this fall. Prices are low and sales large. We quote as follows: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.50 to $1.65; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 4½ to 10c.; dates, 5 to 7½c.; Fard. dates, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 4½ to 5c.; evaporated apples, 9½ to 10c.; onions, $2 to $2.15 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7½ to 9c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11 to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 11c.; orange peel, 12c.

SUGAR—Market shows strength, and during the week two advances of 1-16c. each have taken place. The first foreign granulated to come here this season arrived this week. It is preferred to the local second grade because grain is finer. In powdered sugar the sale has been active. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4½c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—There is nothing new. Stocks are quite light and better prices are expected, but market keeps easy. There is some demand for small packages. And some shipments of New Orleans continue to arrive. It is difficult to get it at a right price to sell in this market. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, barrels, 28 to 30c.; Antigua, 22 to 23c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, extra, 33 to 34c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—In butter there is raher better demand, but arrivals are quite large, so that prices keep low. Best stock has good sale. Cheese is dull and stocks ample. In eggs there is rather firmer feeling and rather higher prices have ruled, the result of holiday demand. We quote: Dairy butter, 16 to 18c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9½ to 10c.; eggs, 17½ to 18c.

FISH—Dry cod is firm with but fair stocks. Pollock is still scarce. In pickled fish there is rather less sale, but prices are held firm, receipts being small. Smoked herring are the dull feature of the market. Quite a few are to hand this week. In alewives there is more inquiry and holders will likely sell as soon as there is fair market price. In frozen herring a few have arrived but there has been no weather for frozen fish trade. In haddies the movement west is large. Boneless fish, a fair trade with price according to quality. We quote: Large cod, $3.40 to $3.50; medium, $3.20 to $3.25; pollock, $1.80 to $2; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 6½ to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.45 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 50 to 60c.; kippered herring, $1; haddies, 4½c.

PROVISIONS — There is light sale for barreled goods such as pork and beef. In the former prices are easy. Smoked meat business is done direct by local curers to retailer. Round hogs are brought from Prince Edward Island and Ontario for local curers. In lard prices are firmly held. There is a fair stock here. We quote as follows: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — In flour a good trade is reported. The advance in wheat, while it makes a firm market does not affect price much. In feed a better business is doing at rather easier prices. Oats are also rather lower. Oatmeal, however, continues firm with quite full stocks here. Cornmeal is still low, and a large business is being done. Beans seem rather firmer. Hay, dull and low. Barley, firm and rather higher. Split peas are scarce and high. We quote: Manitoba flour, $5.70 to $5.75; best Ontario, $5.00 to $5.10; medium, $4.75 to $4.80; oatmeal, $3.70 to $3.75; cornmeal, $1.95 to $2; middlings, car lots, in bulk, $16 to $17.50; bran, do, $14.50 to $15.00; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime, 90 to 95c.; oats, 34 to 37c.; hay, $11.50 to $12.50; barley, $3.10 to $3.15; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.45 to $3.50; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

W. W. Estey, grocer, of Fredericton, has sold out to Burtt & Coburn.

A. L. Goodwin received this week the first full car of California oranges to come to this market.

E. A. Gidney is building a large factory for canning haddies and lobsters at Digby Neck, Nova Scotia.

J. Hunter White has been appointed agent of the Montreal Milling Co. They offer a Manitoba flour, Hungarian patent.

A western visitor was seen at the C.P.R. elevator this week. It was a beautiful grey raccoon, thought to have come in a car of grain.

The catch of Shelburne herring this season was between 30,000 and 40,000 barrels, and prices obtained were higher, being $3 to $3.25 per bbl.

At the North Shore the shipping of smelt by the carload has commenced. Bass fishing is active. Eels are plentiful but prices are low.

It has been thought for some time that the pulp wood industry could be carried on successfully in our province. The matter is to be tested by some of our mills this winter.

A reception and lunch, which was a great success, was given on the Beaver Line steamer Gallia to a large number of the business men of St. John the day before she left port.

Fred W. Hugginson, for some years traveling for the tea house of J. Harvey Brown, of St. John and Halifax, is now on the road, in these lower provinces, for Rowlay & Davis, London, Eng.

Merritt Bros. & Co. received a small shipment of foreign granulated sugar this week. The sugar which is being manufactured by the Acadia refiners to compete with the foreign sugar is rather coarse.

It is said the Boston Fish Bureau is moving to have less duty on Canadian fish. It would be a great thing for these lower provinces if this could be done. It is hoped that there will be some result to the movement.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 13, 1897.

ONLY twelve days to Christmas and the weather mild as spring. In fact, dealers in some lines of perishable products are sighing for more frost, but the ordinary citizen passes the coal office with a contented smile and has no desire to see the thermometer go any lower. Already large numbers of Manitobans have taken advantage of the Christmas excursion rates and have left for holiday trips both east and south. Times are good, and Manitoba farmers will, in very many cases, spend Christmas under the old home roof tree in consequence. The exodus does not appear to have affected trade here, however, as it is unusually good in nearly all lines. It is with regret that we report this week the failure of one of the oldest and most respected wholesale grocery firms in the city. One of the members of the firm said some time ago to your correspondent that competition was so keen they found it difficult to make any profit, and this is doubtless the cause of the assignment. The exact amount of the liabilities is at present not generally known.

The new regulations in regard to tea appeared in the Ottawa despatches of Thursday, and on Friday one of the houses here that handles tea extensively advertised, "Pure tea, every packet is certified to that effect by Her Majesty's Customs in England."

The Board of Trade, as previously intimated, have memorialized the Government at Ottawa with regard to the reduction of the duty on oats, so that there be some equality between the raw material and the manufactured product.

As navigation has just closed there is no wheat market this week, as everything is at a standstill, but by next week there will, no doubt, be something of interest in regard to business being done on the reduced freight rates east from Fort William.

Our Industrial Exhibition Board have just held their annual meeting and the returns from the last Exhibition are most gratifying. The happy thought of the manager to have this year an American day, met with a more speedy reward than is often the fate of good deeds. Nearly 4,000 Americans attended the Exhibition, some actually bought farms in the province before they left, and many have since returned and taken up land and they will in all probability be followed by others. It was our pure bred stock that seemed to catch them particularly.

a deal to take over the last September and October butter of all the Government creameries in the Northwest Territories, which amounts to over 70,000 lbs. The price paid is not made public, but is understood to be very satisfactory to the Government. The quality of the butter is very fine. Prices have changed but little since last writing.

GREEN FRUIT—A good line of heated cars is being prepared to run out on all through and branch lines to provide the province and territories with green fruit for Christmas. The market here is now well supplied with all the usual lines. Apples, Canadian, $4.75 per barrel, Southern, $4.25 ; oranges—Mexican and Navels are in, and while both are good the Mexicans are probably a little the best, being heavy, very sweet and juicy. Prices—Mexican, $5 per case ; California Navels, $5 ; lemons, California, 300's, $5. Winnipeg has seldom been supplied with such good lemons. Pears, fancy Washington, per box, $2.25 ; grapes, fancy Malagas in kegs, medium weights, $8 ; heavy weights, $8.50 ; bananas $3.50 per bunch, and the supply rather short ; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 per barrel of 90 pounds, with a tendency to a shortage in the market ; sweet potatoes, $5.50 per barrel.

NUTS—Market is now well supplied, the consignment of new Grenoble walnuts being equal to demand; price, 13 to 13½c.; filberts, 12c.; hickory, 10c. Peanuts scarce, selling at 12c. Almonds, Valencia, scarce, with prices slightly higher, being now quoted at 15c. Kentish cobs and Italian chestnuts are now in. These nuts only appear here for the Christmas trade, as they are too expensive for general sale.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—Raisins, market firm and price unchanged ; currants, ditto. Quite a large trade has been done in cleaned currants and seeded raisins done up in packages ; in fact, this line has increased fully 100 per cent. over last year, showing that the housewife is willing to pay a few cents more for an article that reaches her in an attractive shape and ready for use ; figs, fancy new, in boxes of 10 lbs., $1.40. There has been a dearth of cooking figs, but a car arrived on Saturday, shipped direct from Malaga. It will be sufficient to fill back orders.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—This market is very firm. Evaporated apples, 11½c.; apricots, 11c. per lb. Dried apples are very scarce, but it is thought that towards spring, when Ontario farms have had time to dry small lots, more will be offering. The sale of apricots has undoubtedly been increased by the high price of apples.

CANNED GOODS—Nothing new. Tomatoes still going up, and though it is now hardly likely that they will reach $2.50 by the New Year, they will touch that point before March, as just now the demand for these goods is quiet to what it will be two months hence, when supplies of fresh vegetables are exhausted.

COFFEE—Rios have been offering very freely and the market is much lower, but, as the jobbers had nearly all sufficient stocks on hand to supply their customers, very few, if any. sales have been effected.

CHEESE—Market is firm and prices unchanged. Ontarios are still offering freely, but seem to find no purchasers. The price and the possibilities of frost in transit seem to preclude trade, and no purchases of Ontarios are reported.

EGGS—Receipts are light. Dealers are paying 18c. and selling at 20c.

BUTTER—Dairy, 14 to 15c. for round lots of choice. Supply has not continued to increase as anticipated, and genuine fresh made is scarce.

CEREALS—Oatmeal, which is now almost all American, is $1.80 per sack. New buckwheat is to hand and is in good demand at $1.50 per 50-lb. pocket.

CURED MEATS—This market is slightly easier with lower tendency. Hogs are now coming in more plentifully, and packers are all busy. Prices range about as follows ; Hams, medium, 10½ to 11½c.; breakfast bellies (which may now be said to be in fair supply), 12 to 12½c.; backs, 10 to 11c. Shoulders are scarce and hard to obtain. They are worth from 8½ to 9c.; long clear, 7 to 7½c.; lard, pure, $1.80 ; compound, $1.60.

FISH—Owing to the stormy weather east neither finnan haddies nor bloaters are reaching this market in the quantities anticipated. Prices are : Haddies, 7½ to 8c.; bloaters, 100's, $1.20 ; ditto, 60's, $1.50.

CANADA'S EXPORT TRADE IN HOGS

THE following is a United States view of the export trade of the Dominion in hogs, being taken from The National Provisioner, of New York and Chicago :

"Canada's export trade in hogs has risen in 25 years from a mere nothing, and in the more recent years of this period the increase has been by leaps and bounds. The increase is continuous, and, although Ontario farmers have gone into hog raising wholesale, the demand from Great Britain for Canadian raised hogs has outstripped the increase in the number raised, which does not nearly keep pace with the demand. This trade in the British market is unlimited, and it has been found highly profitable. The average price paid by packers for a 165-lb. hog, which is the average live weight, is between $8 and $9. These hogs are about eight months old. A farmer raising 125 hogs, which is not a large individual number, and receiving $1,000 for them, considers the business very attractive. The British demand is for grain-fed hogs ; the product of the corn-fed hogs is not wanted, except at lower prices.

"The total export of ham and bacon to Great Britain from Canada last year was 53,000,000 pounds, valued at $4,500,000. The hogs for export are nearly all raised at present in Ontario and Quebec."

THE CANNED GOODS PACK.

A MEETING of the Canadian Packers' Association was held in the Walker House, Toronto, on the 9th and 10th inst. The object of the meeting was to receive reports regarding the pack of vegetables and fruits. The attendance was small, there being present : President W. A. Ferguson, of Delhi ; D. McAuley, of Trenton ; A. C. Muller, Picton ; H. I. Matthews, Lakeport ; H. P. Innes, Simcoe ; W. Boulter, Picton ; W. M. Miller, Port Hope, and Mr. Dolan, St. Catharines.

The tomato pack, contrary to expectations, was found to be larger than expected, being somewhat in excess of that of last year, in spite of the light output of a number of the factories. All but three or four of the factories reported being cleaned out, while the total quantity remaining in packers' hands is estimated at 8,000 cases.

Peas were estimated to be about the same as last year, while the corn pack was a good average. Very few peas, like tomatoes, are in packers' hands. Some corn is reported to have been exported.

The bean pack was reported to be light. Some of the factories are said to have none left, while there is a good enquiry for them.

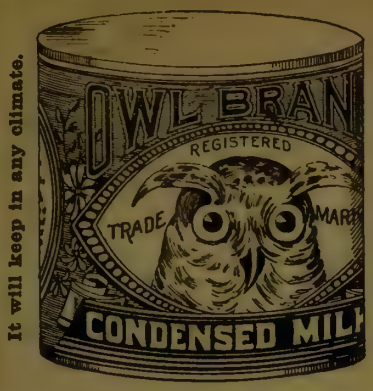
The pumpkin pack was light owing to the fact that the crop was small in some sections, while the fact that a large quantity was carried over from last year tended to curtail the output.

The pack of peaches was somewhat in excess of the ordinary pack, but it was stated that the quantity put up was not as large as anticipated in view of the large crop, other goods having to receive attention at the same time as the peaches were coming in.

The strawberry pack was of ordinary dimensions. The raspberry pack was placed at only about four hundred cases. It was stated that the pack of both strawberries and raspberries was largely in the hands of the wholesale trade.

The pack of apples, as might be expected, was irregular, the output of some factories being large, while some had practically none at all. The greater proportion of the pack is reported to have been sold on export account. One packer reported that he had sold all his output of gallon apples for export at the rate of $2 f.o.b. factory.

The pack of pears, like that of apples, was irregular.



It's a great success.

Grocers from all parts of the country report that it is a quick seller. Order a case at once. Every customer you sell a can to will thank you after using it.

THE INSPECTION OF TEA.

THE strict enforcement of the analytical test on all tea entered into Canada for consumption has caused a lot of dissatisfaction among members of the tea trade in Montreal.

This dissatisfaction is not due to the fact that the trade are opposed to a strict inspection, with the idea of improving the average of tea marketed in Canada. On the contrary, they have all along, as a body, been strongly in favor of keeping out the rubbish. It is natural that they should, for besides the benefit that this would be to the consumer, there is more profit to the dealer on the better grades than on a lot of the cheap tea that has been imported.

Their opposition to the analytical test is due to the fact that it is impractical. This was made perfectly clear to a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER who called on several members of the trade in Montreal this week.

Mr. S. H. Ewing, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, said that the analytical test had been proved to be utterly impractical in New York, where it had already been tried. The chief objection to it was that the lower grades of tea give much better tests than the higher grades. It was the easiest thing in the world to prove this, by taking the finest Oolong one could get, with a poor one, or a fine Congou with a poor one. "I know personally," said Mr. Ewing, "of cases where Oolongs were tested with the above result," It was conceded in New York—where the analytical test had been abandoned—that this applied to all classes of poor tea. The best way to prove it was to make an analytical test of the different lines and the fact would be obvious.

The cheaper teas with the larger percentage of dust gave off a stronger liquor than the finer grades, the liquor from which was more delicate in tint, as in flavor. Analysis in this respect, therefore, was apt to be misleading.

The practical way, if the Government desired to improve the standard of tea, was to have one drawn up, as was the case in the United States, and admit no tea that did not come up to it.

The experts of the Customs Department, if they were qualified, could easily determine whether a certain importation came up to the standard in cup, quality of leaf and percentage of dust.

Then, again, the application of an analytical test, if it was to be thorough, was a very lengthy operation.

He understood that it took a couple of days to dispose of one sample, and in one case of his own, where there were only four samples to dispose of, it was six weeks before the goods were released. If there was this delay in the case of four different grades, what would there be in the case of an invoice of 40 or 50 different samples? which was not unusual. It a word, the analytical test could not be applied uniformly at all, and this was another weak point.

Mr. J. Alex. Gordon and Messrs. Rose & Laflamme were also called on, and coincided with the above in every particular.

LONDON RETAIL GROCERS.

THE retail grocers held their annual regular meeting last Monday evening with a good attendance. Mr. R. A. Jones, the newly elected president, opened the meeting with an appropriate address, requesting the members to assist the officers they had elected, for without co-operation the association could not be successful. The association has done good work, and there is still, and ever will be, room for improvement and progress. The market place had been improved and needs further improving. The asssociation deadbeat list had been a great benefit to the members of the association and it would be well to give this more attention. It had not been revised as often as it should, although the secretary had repeatedly asked for any new names the members may have discovered, but the members had not responded as they should. The officers could not, of themselves, make a success of the association, and he urged the members, one and all, to assist the officers elected and there would be no question of the organization being a benefit.

Messrs. W. H. Ferguson and T. A. Rowat, delegates to the Toronto Pure Food Exhibit, addressed the meeting, giving a detailed account of how the exhibition was conducted, and pointed out where they thought improvements could be made if the association decide to get up a similar affair. They reported being very cordially received by the management of the Toronto Pure Food Show, the exhibitors and the grocers. The exhibitors were favorable to holding a pure food show or demonstration in London and they felt satisfied it would be a success, providing the members all joined hands with a determination to make a success of it.

The committee were requested to ascertain the probable expense necessary and such other information possible connected with conducting such a demonstration and report at next meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the deputation for the information received, and coupled with this a motion that they and the president be a committee to go on with the work.

The question was asked: What is the feeling of the members with respect to keeping Monday for Christmas instead of Saturday? A short discussion decided this question, no one being in favor of any attempt being made to change the day.

The question of needed improvement on the market was discussed, as were several other questions connected with the trade, and the president requested the members to report any names for the delinquent list.

A social chat on trade topics followed, after which the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock, to meet again on January 11, 1898.

E. SUTTON,
Secretary.

RE-BRANDING CHEESE.

The Montreal Butter and Cheese Association have again had the question of fraudulent branding of cheese called to their attention. The last time, as pointed out in THE CANADIAN GROCER, it was the Bristol Provision Trade Association that had complaints to make. This time it is the Provision Trade Association, of London, England. The Montreal body have just received a strong letter from London protesting strongly against the misrepresentation of this sort.

Last summer the paper characterized the action of the Montreal association as weak, and they do not seem to have acquired any backbone since. They explain that the parties who have been rebranding cheese are not members of the association, and that it as a body can therefore take no effective action in the matter.

THE STORE LOAFER'S MUSINGS.

I b'lieve it's a square deal for a grocer who has a large family to charge more for his goods than a man wot ain't got eny family.

Press despatches report Rio and Maricaibo coffee 1½c. dearer in New York on Wednesday. Other varieties are also firmer.

Front street, Toronto, was somewhat blocked on Thursday afternoon last with five large Grand Trunk loads of "Salada" Ceylon tea being shipped out. This was enough to fill a car and a half with tea. Perhaps it was the largest quantity of tea ever shipped out of Toronto by any wholesale dealer.

ONTARIO VS. QUEBEC CHEESE.

THE recent judgment given at Nicolet on the respective merits of Ontario and Quebec cheese has aroused considerable interest in "cheese circles" and amongst the public generally.

At the competition one Quebec factory was awarded higher points than Ontario. But it appears that only one Ontario cheese was exposed for exhibition. The competition aroused little general interest, it is said. They seldom amount to much, so it is claimed, as very few of the cheese exhibited are really of the finest make.

Asked for an opinion on the respective merits of Quebec and Ontario cheese, a large exporter said that the sweet or fruity flavor which the Quebec article has is regarded as a strong factor against it. Besides, the style and make-up is very much behind that of Ontario. He held that Quebec will always be behind Ontario in style and finish so long as the present hoops are used in this province. Makers here should adopt a better and taller hoop and make a more handsome looking cheese. The Quebec article is rather carelessly put together, and the cases used are not of the best, according to this authority.

Another exporter when asked his opinion on the subject said that he considered Quebec cheese to be quite as good as Ontario. He thought the make-up, the style and finish, very secondary considerations. "The meat is the thing, said he, and Quebec meat is as good as Ontario every time."

This gentleman propounded a number of knotty questions, the answers to which he said would be very interesting.

First, he would like to know how many Quebec cheese are shipped as Ontario make.

Secondly, how do shippers come to pay a certain price on the wharf and the next day sell the same goods to another shipper for a fraction less, and yet make money?—Star.

BUSINESS IN BOWMANVILLE.

Mr. A. Tait, of Cawker & Tait, Bowmanville, was in Toronto last week. Mr. Tait was in good spirits over the trade outlook, and particularly in regard to the prospects in his town.

"When the furniture factory was burned down things looked blue, but now the piano and organ factory is busy, and the bicycle rim concern is working overtime to keep up with the orders. The same may be said with regard to the new rubber factory. This rubber factory was bonused by the town to the extent of $6,000, and it began operations about two months ago. It employs thirty hands. The year opened up in anything but a promising way. January was particularly bad, but since then there has been a gradual improvement, and the year's trade is much more satisfactory than that of last year."

OTTAWA'S LUMBER CUT.

REPORTS received from the various lumber manufacturers of the Ottawa Valley go to show that the season just closed was a very fair one with them in comparison with the last few years.

Although there was a good deal of unsettled feeling owing to the American tariff, which caused a dulness in trade that was even accentuated by a poor demand for Canadian lumber from the West Indies and South America, yet this was fully compensated for by a good, strong, active market, and good prices obtained for Canadian lumber and timber in the British Isles, so that today there is probably a much less amount in value of lumber remaining in this district unsold than there has been for several years past.

As to the future prospects, it is learned that they are brighter than for some years at this period. The demand in Great Britain still continues good, and already Buell, Hurdman & Co. have sold their cut for next year at prices reported to be fully equal to those of last season. This one sale, it is said, will fix, to a very large extent, the prices of all the deals and better grades of lumber for the British market in this district.

It is understood that several British market purchasers have closed for their usual lots, and it is safe to say that all the deals which may be cut in the Ottawa Valley next season are practically closed for by the same parties as bought them this year.

An estimate of the cut in the valley during the season puts it at about 728,000,000 feet, which is somewhat more than last year, the increase being due to heavier cuts by the St. Anthony Lumber Co. and several other manufacturers. The estimated cuts are as follows :

	Feet.
J. R. Booth	130,000,000
McLachlan Bros., Arnprior	70,000,000
St. Anthony Co., Whitney	70,000,000

TURNER, MACKEAND & CO. FAIL.

The firm of Turner, Mackeand & Co., wholesale grocers, have made an assignment to David R. Michaud, the book-keeper of the firm. The firm is the second oldest wholesale grocery business in the city, being established early in the seventies. It was originally a branch of James Turner & Co., of Hamilton, and was under the management of James Turner, jr. He afterwards split off from the older firm and the late Major Mackeand was taken into partnership. Major Mackeand has been dead some years, and the business has been under the management of Mr. Naismith. The amounts of liabilities and assets are not announced.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN ENGLAND.

In an article on butter The Grocers' Journal, of London, England, has this to say regarding the Canadian-made article : "Canada is walking quietly into a respectable place in our import list. The efforts of the Dominion Government have not been in vain, and the quality of arrivals since the new arrangements with the steamship companies has been such that the trade here have taken very kindly to it, as proved by the creameries fetching Australian prices to a little above. It was said a week or two back that the Canadian season was over, but there is no sign of that as yet, and even when navigation closes on the St. Lawrence it is not unlikely that shipments may come through, via the States, as more attention is now being paid to winter dairying in Canada and the milk will be all diverted from cheese production."

RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

TORONTO.

THE Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their annual meeting on Monday evening this week in St. George's Hall, Elm street, J. S. Bond, the president, occupying the chair.

A. White desired that the feeling of the association should be taken to find out the members' opinion in regard to closing at 7 o'clock instead of the present late hours. When the voice of the meeting was taken it was found to be unanimous in favor of early closing.

D. W. Clark moved, seconded by W. J. Sykes, "That the secretary shall write to the City Council stating that this association, realizing the fact that Toronto's trade has moved into other channels than toward the St. Lawrence Market, is of the decided opinion that no more money should be spent in enlarging or extending this market." Their resolution was carried unanimously.

A discussion ensued regarding the giving of Christmas presents, when the opinion of those present was evidenced to be largely opposed to the practice, and it was decided not to give any this year.

Officers were then elected for 1898 as follows :

President—W. H. Marmion.
Vice-President—F. W. Johnston.
Treasurer—W. J. Sykes.
Secretary—Ed. Hawes.
Executive Committee—J. Kelly, A. G. Booth, . W. Clark and D. Bell.
Trustees—A. White, J. S. Bond and F. S. Roberts.
Auditors—J. S. Scoales and J. Van Loon.
Inside Guard—R. W. Davies.

D. W. Clark gave notice of a motion to change a clause in the constitution of the association, which reads : "There shall be no honorary members of the association." Mr. Clark desired to strike out the words "shall be no" and put in their place the word "may."

It was decided to assist the Retail Merchants' Association in their endeavor to have the tax on merchants levied on their turnover, and that the Retail Grocers' Association should pledge its influence to have such an assessment system introduced. The meeting then adjourned.

MONTREAL.

A special meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held at the Monument National Hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 9, President Scanlan in the chair, for the purpose of discussing various questions at present agitating the members of the trade.

The chairman briefly detailed the matters to be discussed, which included the amending of the Pharmacy Act of the province of Quebec; the separation of the sale of liquors from groceries; the attachment of the salaries of civil servants for debt; the present system of weights and measures inspection; the appointment of a fruit inspector; and lastly, the raising of sufficient funds to enable the association to work on these matters in the interest of the trade generally.

THE OBNOXIOUS PHARMACY ACT.

The meeting endorsed the action of the association in endeavoring to get the Pharmacy Act amended and they were thanked for what they had done.

The officers were urged to continue their efforts so as to make sure of the repeal of the obnoxious clauses in the Act as it now stands, which render a grocer liable to be proceeded against for selling "patent medicines, alum, sal soda, senna leaves, borax and other articles." A bill was read, which the druggists are sending to Quebec. Its principal provision is that the law shall remain as it is at the present time, with the exception that when there is no drug store a grocer may sell the above articles by getting a special license from the proper authorities. It was decided to strongly oppose the bill introduced in the Quebec Legislature by Mr. W. A. Weir, M.P.P., for Argenteuil, to separate the sale of liquors from groceries. The passing of such an Act would not, it is contended, help the cause of temperance in the least, while it would seriously damage the grocery trade.

GROCERS AND LIQUORS.

Some time ago the grocers brought up a motion to try to have the law amended to enable them to sell liquors in smaller quantities. Mr. Fraser stated that he then opposed it, and told them it would bring the Licensed Victuallers down on them, which it did, for at their very next meeting the Licensed Victuallers took steps to put an end to it.

Mr. S. D. Vallieres thought it was in the interest of all grocers to oppose the Weir bill, although he did not think it would pass, but if the association took no action regarding it it might, like the Pharmacy Act, and it would then be too late to do anything.

Mr. S. Demers condemned the proposed separation, and stated that if the liquor business was to be separated from the grocery, and the pharmacists were to have their own way, there would be very little left for the grocers.

CIVIL SERVANTS' DEBTS.

The association was also endorsed in the action it is taking in connection with other grocers' associations in the Dominion in petitioning the Dominion Government for the seizure of the wages of civil service employes for just debts.

The inspection of weights and measures as at present is unfair and useless. Mr. John Robertson stated that when weights and measures were stamped it was good for two years, and if the merchant wished to be dishonest he could change them any time he liked, but they could not be inspected for two years. In his opinion the law should be so amended that a merchant's weights and measures could be inspected at any time, and, if found wrong, fined, and the Government pay the inspection fees.

On the question of the appointment of a fruit inspector, there was considerable discussion. Mr. J. P. Dixon could not see why Montreal should not have a fruit inspector as well as other large cities. He said that in cities where they had fruit inspectors, if the fruit was not up to the standard it was confiscated. It was plainly shown that an inspector was necessary both in the interest of the grocers and the public.

At the close of the meeting a number of grocers present who were not members of the association announced their intention of becoming so and made application for admission.

THE U.S. SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY.

RARELY, if ever, in the history of the United States has there been such a certain practical opening for an entirely new and immense industry as is now presented in the production of 2,000,000 tons sugar in this country for our home consumption, which consumption is also bound to rise to 4,000,000 tons within the next 15 to 20 years. This is an opportunity for the investment of capital for profit that has no equal in this or any other country. We are quite surprised ourselves to receive returns of some of the factories now in operation in California, New Mexico, Utah and Nebraska, showing their earnings. We would scarcely be believed if we stated them here. It is quite within bounds to say that a beet sugar factory of modern inventions, under good management and with a steady, constant supply of beet roots secured, will return the cost of its stock in dividends within five years, and this statement is based on prevailing and prospective conditions of tariff protection and adequate compensation to the agricultural part of the industry.

The favorite sugar factory for the United States is being shown to be the 350 tons daily capacity with a building sufficiently large to double this capacity when experience requires it. Somebody will build 500 such sugar factories in the next few years. —Sugar Trade Journal.

ST. JOHN BOARD OF TRADE.

ON Monday of last week the St. John Board of Trade held their annual meeting, President Fisher in the chair, and a large number of St. John's leading business men present.

In the secretary's report of the business attended to by the Council during the month it was stated that the president had, at the request of the Council, spoken before the boards of trade in Toronto, Hamilton and London in the interests of the port of St. John, and had been heartily and encouragingly received. A circular had been sent to the various agricultural societies of New Brunswick to find out if there was a possibility of an increase in the production of pigs, in view of the proposed establishment of a pork-packing business in St. John, and a large number of favorable replies had been received. Arrangements had been made to obtain full statistical information of the winter port business, inward and outward. The Council had also under consideration matters relating to estates of insolvent debtors, investigations into causes of fires, pamphlet on harbor and port of St. John, proposed railway from Granville to Middleton, Canadian route to the Yukon, tonnage charge on vessels anchored in the stream, and inspection of grain, all of which are receiving attention.

The annual report of the council noted a gratifying increase in the board membership. Fitting tributes were paid to the memory of Robert Cruikshank and Ira Cornwall. The proposed insolvency legislation, the lifeboat service, the assessment law, the commercial travelers' tax, the efforts to better advertise the port, President Fisher's visit to England and the Upper provinces, the maritime board meeting, the question of opening the port of Belfast to the cattle trade, the load line question, the steamship subsidies, tourist matters and others that had occupied attention during the past year were also briefly touched upon.

The St. John Board of Underwriters had expressed their willingness to accept the same rates from British ports to St. John as to Portland or Boston. The Government are expected to deepen the channel at the entrance of the harbor as soon as the survey has been made. The council had been assured that ample terminal facilities will be established at St. John.

The financial statement showed a balance to the credit of the board of nearly $1,000.

President Fisher, in his annual address, spoke of his recent visit to the west. In Toronto seventy-five board of trade and other representative business men had very warmly and heartily responded to his appeal for their interest in the development of St. John as a winter port. He desired to impress on the board and the mayor of St. John the necessity of getting out a pamphlet on St. John and its advantages, as proposed previously. The board, though not able to bear the cost, should do all they could towards it, and the council should make a grant sufficient to cover all expenses. The question of a uniform insolvency law for the whole Dominion, and the establishment in London, Eng., of a commercial bureau for Canada were attracting much attention in the west. He was glad Premier Emerson and the Provincial Legislature proposed to give some attention to immigration. One pulp factory would commence operations in the spring, and possibly another in the near future.

Officers were elected as follows : President, D. J. McLaughlin ; vice-president, W. M. Jarvis ; members of the council, W. S. Fisher, W. F. Hatheway, W. H. Thorne, John Sealy, S. Schofield, W. C. Pitfield, Thos. McAvity, J. A. Likely, H. A. Drury and Geo. Robertson, these to elect six others at their first meeting. Last year's board of arbitration was re-appointed, with the substitution of H. A. Drury in place of the late Robt. Cruikshank.

On motion of Mr. McLaughlin, seconded by W. M. Jarvis, the thanks of the board were tendered to W. S. Fisher for his valuable work for St. John on his recent western trip, and Mr. Fisher acknowledged the vote in fitting terms.

THE CHRISTMAS LETTER.

By Mrs. F. M. Howard.

SHE was such a little bit of an old lady—it seemed as if the wind would blow her away if it could get one fair sweep at her! She stood in the door of the wood-house, her stray white locks partially covered with her long gingham apron, the end of which she had thrown over her head. There she was beckoning mysteriously to someone around the corner of the wood-shed.

"What is it, grandma?" A boy with a chubby, good-natured face had responded to her call, and stood beside her, his hands in his pockets, his cap and tippet drawn closely, for it was a sharp November morning.

"Ann 'Liza wants you to go over to town, don't she?"

"Yes'm."

"Well, see here, sonny, don't you say anything to anybody, but you put this letter in the post office for grandma, and I'll give you something some time."

"All right." The boy smiled inwardly, for he knew how unsubstantial grandma's poor little promise was, since she had nothing in the wide world to give.

A crumpled letter came forth from the old lady's capacious pocket. "Better tuck it right up under your jacket, sonny, or she'll see it," she said anxiously.

"No she won't, gran'ma, for I'm going straight off this minute. Anyhow, I guess you can write a letter if you want to."

"I earned the stamp for it myself, stringing apples for Mis' Simmons when I was over there," quavered the old lady, pitifully. "She gave me the paper and invelope, too. Now run along, sonny. Don't you lose it, and don't tell anybody." The old lady stepped back into the house.

"You must be hankering after the rheumatism, standing out there with nothing on you," remarked Ann Eliza tartly. "Seems to me if I had to grunt around and pester somebody to rub me half the winter, I'd be a little careful."

"I was careless, that's so, Ann 'Liza," answered the old lady, meekly. "Shall I darn those socks of 'Lijah's?"

"No, I'd rather you'd sew on those carpet-rags to-day. I want you to be careful, though, and not get any litter on my clean floor."

The voice of willing workers was as sweet music in the ears of stirring, ambitious Ann Eliza, and her tone was quite mollified as she brought out the big market basket filled with cut rags.

"You'd better finish up that red ball first, and then begin on the hit-or-miss," she said, her harsh voice as nearly pleasant as could be expected from one so accustomed to saying sharp, unpleasant things, in loud, unpleasant tones. As a girl she had believed in speaking her mind, no matter whom she hit or hurt, and marriage had only matured the disposition, as husband, children, and of late years the unwelcome mother-in-law, had come into her sphere.

The Barkers were living on a farm near a small prairie village. It was a lonely situation, and old Mrs. Barker pined sadly for companionship when the sharp winter months came on. She was then confined to the narrow limits of the house, and the wider range of Ann Eliza's temper.

All day long the patient old fingers were busy over the rags, sewing and winding, until two large balls were added to an already bulging sackful. The time had passed more quickly than usual, for her heart had been full of her secret.

She had nodded pleasantly to herself as she thought of the letter which Johnny had contrived to let her know was safe on its way, and day dreams of its possible results flitted through her mind from time to time as she worked. It was such a simple matter after all that even Ann Eliza need not have objected.

The old lady had sent a tiny advertisement to the "gratis" column of the weekly paper, the one publication which Ann Eliza allowed herself. With what impatience the old mother watched for the next issue!

If she had known more of the work of preparing a newspaper, she would have had strong doubts of her letter reaching the office in time to be published that week; but her faith was greater than her knowledge. The faith was warranted, too, for it was such a pathetic little plea that the editor had strained several points of precedence to give it place.

The paper came at last. Ann Eliza never read advertisements, but it seemed to the anxious old lady that she read everything else on this particular day.

"Everything is Christmas, Christmas, till it makes a body tired," said Ann Eliza, crossly, as she gave the paper a fling toward Mrs. Barker's armchair. "Goodness knows there won't be much Christmas in this house. It's all foolishness, anyhow."

"No, it's not!" muttered Mrs. Barker, under her breath. Ann Eliza and she had already had one tilt of words that morning, and she did not care to rouse up again her oppressor's weapon of words. Silently she seized the paper and turned to the column of "Requests and Answers."

Yes, there it was! The editor had revised her crude wording, and she read it over and over with increasing satisfaction. It ran: "Will someone write a Christmas letter to a shut-in who does not expect any other Christmas."

"Well, I be shut in," said Mrs. Barker to herself, nodding her head. "What with my rheumatism, and Ann 'Liza's scolding,

I feel like a fly in a bottle, come winter. I suppose those shut-ins are mostly down sick in bed. If I was, maybe Ann 'Liza would be kinder to me, but I kind of hope I sha'nt be. My heart flops around so of nights, I think sometimes I'll die sudden."

"I believe your mother is getting silly," remarked Ann Eliza to her husband, later in the day. "She's done nothing but croon over that paper, and nod her head and mutter to herself all this blessed day. I'll give you fair warning right here, I'm not going to be pestered with any half-witted old woman. When it comes to that, she's got to go to some place provided for such folks."

Elijah Barker shrank as if a blow had struck him. He was a mild man, who had been very fond of his mother in a quiet way, in those days before Ann Eliza had brought him under the weight of her disciplinary thumb.

Ann Eliza did not believe in sentiment, and the old lady had never dared to kiss and fondle the children as her heart prompted her to do. As for Elijah, he had not kissed his mother in years, but he looked over at her wistfully and noticed anew with a pang how white her hair was, how thin and worn her weary old face.

He even dared to rebel in his heart against Ann Eliza's announcement. His old mother should never go to one of those public asylums, not if it cost him the farm to maintain her elsewhere. As Christmas day approached, Mrs. Barker watched the incoming mail nervously. There was no cheerful hum of Christmas preparation going on in the dreary farmhouse. Not even an extra dinner was under way, and Ann Eliza sharply reprimanded the children when they told of the good times their mates were expecting.

"Stuff and nonsense, coddling up children to expect a fuss made over Christmas every year!" she said, grimly, when they had gone out to fill chip-baskets instead of playing.

No letter had come when Christmas morning dawned, and Mrs. Barker beckoned Johnny aside.

"You'll go to the post office and see if there ain't a letter for gran'ma, won't you, sonny?" she said, anxiously. "Clip right out the back way, and you'll get back before any one misses you."

Johnny was almost as much excited as the old lady herself when he came running in a half hour later, with a letter—a dainty, pretty letter, with a gilt monogram on the seal, and directed in a girlish hand.

"Open it quick, gran'ma, and let's see who it's from!" Johnny exclaimed, breathlessly, as her trembling hands fumbled helplessly at the envelope. It had been so long, so very long, since she had received a letter!

"Say, here's my knife! We'll cut it open, gran'ma."

"Bless her! Bless her dear, sweet heart!" exclaimed the old woman, as she studied the letter. "I hope she'll live to be a hundred—no, I don't, either. I hope she'll always be young and happy, as she is now," and she fairly sobbed as she read the last lines, and passed it over to Ann Eliza, whose face was a picture of curiosity.

Johnny, considering himself a partner in the business, had leaned over her shoulder and read faster than she.

"Say, that's a daisy letter, isn't it gran'ma?" But grandma was sobbing in a corner of her apron, and could not reply.

The letter was from a young girl, whose tender heart had been touched by the plea of the little advertisement, and who, dropping her Christmas plans for a day, had written a bright, girlish letter to the lonely shut-in who would have no other Christmas.

She told of her own home, where Santa Claus had always been a welcome guest; of a dear old grandma whom they had loved and cherished so tenderly, but who would spend this Christmas in a brighter home than theirs. It was so full of loving cheer, of sweet, girlish sympathy, that even Ann Eliza's hard eyes grew softer as she read, and she laid the letter back in the old lady's lap without a word.

All day long Mrs. Barker read and reread her precious letter, until she almost knew it by heart, and a little of its cheer seemed to pervade the whole house.

Ann Eliza refrained from scolding, even when she heard the history of the advertisement; and she actually unsealed a can of peaches, and made warm biscuit for dinner—a remarkable concession, for her, to the spirit of Christmas festivity.

Far away in a distant city, Mary Truman, a serious, sweet look upon her lovely face, and with tears in her blue eyes, sat reading a letter. It was four weeks after she had written to the shut-in. Mary had often wondered if her letter had reached it destination.

The postman had brought her this letter, directed in a cramped, unbusinesslike hand, and as soon as she could command her voice, she read it aloud to her mother:

MISS MARY TRUMAN:

Dear Miss,—I want to thank you for the Christmas letter you wrote my poor old mother. She got it Christmas morning, and it made her so happy—you can't know how happy, being young and able as you are. Mother hasn't had very much in this life to make her happy—I say it with bitter pain this morning, for she's gone from us now, Miss Mary, where she'll never have to beg for a little love and attention from others.

We found her one morning just after New Year's, and she had your letter tucked under her pillow and one hand lying on it, so you can see what store she set by it.

The doctor says she had heart disease. She laid out to write to you, and had a letter begun, which I send. May it be a blessing to you all your life—this act of kindness you have done a stranger.

Again I thank you, and remain your truly obedient servant,

ELIJAH BARKER.

"O, mamma, I am so glad, so glad I wrote it!" the girl cried, as she wiped her eyes. "I cannot read this other to you; it is too pitiful, too sacred."

She laid down the little crumpled letter which old Mrs. Barker had begun, and Mrs. Truman's tears fell also on the words penned by the feeble, trembling hand, now forever at rest.

"It pays, dear, pays richly, every act of kindness we can do, and especially for the aged and infirm," she said, as she smoothed Mary's hair with her gentle hand. "We may not always receive our reward so promptly as you have in this case, but He knows."

Out in the lonely farmhouse Ann Eliza stood looking out of the window toward the cemetery over on the hill. The softly falling snow was hiding the harsh outline of a new-made grave there. A look of regret stole over the hard face.

"I wish I'd been kinder to her," she said to herself. "After all, kindness doesn't cost anything, and it does help along."—The Youth's Companion.

LAKE OF THE WOODS STURGEON.

One of the most valuable of the Canadian fisheries, remarks an exchange, was the sturgeon catch in the Lake of the Woods. It will be learned with regret that this splendid fish is almost exterminated in the lake as a result of the ravages of the last few seasons. It is reported that three or four carloads of offal and eggs often pass over the C.P.R. from Rat Portage in one week. Five or six years ago the eggs were worth $10 to $15 a keg; the demand has now increased the price to $50 a keg. The decline of this fishery can be traced direct to American depredations. A small corner of the Lake of the Woods—the northwest corner—is in American territory, and while the Canadian fisheries authorities allowed but forty nets altogether in the lake itself, the Americans had not less than two or three hundred, and were catching a much larger supply of sturgeon than their Canadian competitors. When our Government saw that their efforts were futile to cope with the depredations of the American fishermen, our own lessees were given a free hand to act in the same way as the Americans. It seemed to be no more than fair to our own people, but the result cannot be regarded in any other light than as a huge loss.

TEA SLANG.

Tea is called scandal broth, chatter broth, prattle broth, cat-lap, slip slops, split pea, and slop, as in the sentence, "How the blowens lush the slops, how wenches drink the tea."

Queer cat-lap.—Bad tea.

Dish of lap.—Dish of tea.

To lap Congou.—To drink tea.

To Bitch.—Among the students of Cambridge University a common name for tea.

Twist.—A mixture of half tea and half coffee, like wine and brandy, beer and eggs.

Smouch.—Dried leaves of the ash tree used by smugglers for adulterating the black or Bohea tea.

Box Harry.—Tea and dinner at one meal.

Newman's Tea Garden.—Newgate prison London, Eng.

Tea Boardy. — A studio term. An epithet applied to an inferior picture, which reminds one of the old-fashioned lacquered tea-trays with landscapes upon them.

Tea-chop.—A nautical term. Small craft used to bring a cargo of tea alongside the ocean-going vessel.

Tea-wagon.—A nautical term. A name given to the old East India Company's ships on account of their cargo.

Tea-fight.—A society term. An evening party.

Tea-kettle.—A popular term. Tea-kettle grooms or coachmen are those who do general work. Tea-kettle purgers are scullery maids. "A decent allowance made to seedy swells, tea-kettle grooms, head robbers and flunkeys out of collar," from an old tailor's advertisement.

Tea-pot.—An American term. A mispronunciation of depot, i.e., a railway station. "Then outspoke a man un-noted hitherto 'I heard the fellow say just now to the conductor, ere we reach the second tea-pot, that he reckoned he must hook it, this here time a little sooner if he hoped to get his portion.'"

Tea-pot.—A cricketer's term. A tea-pot stroke, hit high up in the air, giving an easy catch, the results of spooning.

Tea-pot.—A prison term. Smashing the tea-pot, losing the privilege of tea from bad behavior, and returning to the third-class. Having one's tea-pot mended, being restored to the higher class and its privileges, also called "getting it down the spout."

Tea-pot sneaking. — A thieves' term. Stealing plate, tea-pots, etc. "Tea-pot sneaking your mark."—Sporting Times.

Tea-pot soak.—A thieves' term. One who steals plate, tea-pots, etc.

"Tea-pot soaks will have the twitters Garotters oft will suffer pain."
From Almanack.

Tea-spoon.—A sporting term. £5,000.

Mother Gibbons' tea.—A French term. A senseless jumble of things and words; incoherent speech; improbable piece. Slang of the green-room.

Tea-puffers.—A trade term. A name given to a class of dealers who seek, by underselling, giving presents and various other methods, to capture the tea trade now legitimately belonging to the grocer.

A MATTER OF RAISINS.

"There was a statement in one of the Toronto evening papers a few days ago that was decidedly misleading," remarked a man in the trade. "It was to the effect that California raisins were being preferred by consumers to those of Mediterranean growth. This is perfectly absurd. There are a great many California raisins coming here, but that is because they are cheap. It is not because in quality they are preferable. Now, here is a sample of Malaga raisins. There is nothing produced in California to touch that. Just feel the beautiful velvety texture. You know how thick and course the skin of similar California fruit is. There is no comparison. The California fruit is produced by irrigation, and irrigation, while it produces large fruit, does so at the expense of quality."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20, 1897.

WINNIPEG, and in fact the entire Northwest, has experienced a great change in temperature since last writing. Reports from many points in the province and territories report the storm to have been heavy, the wind blowing from 26 to 30 miles an hour and the thermometer ranging from 20 to 30 below zero. Owing to this storm deliveries of wheat have been almost nil during the week, but it is confidently expected that the next few days will see quite an increase, as this is always the case Christmas week. Prices for this staple remain about the same throughout the country, that is, 75c. on a 18c. rate of freight. Millers are very anxious for wheat. Local millers are carrying very small stocks; in fact, so much so that they are already bringing in wheat from other points. No wheat will be carried in elevators this year, as no carrying charges are obtainable, as, owing to the present somewhat peculiar state of the market, December wheat is worth more than May wheat.

Business continues good, both wholesale and retail, and one of the indications of it is the increased care and expense in window decoration for the Christmas trade. No strikingly new designs have as yet appeared, but choice goods are well displayed and are finding plenty of buyers.

Almost the only change in price reported is a further advance of 1-16 of a cent on sugar. With regard to the item in your issue of the 17th inst. with regard to stocks of tomatoes carried by Manitoba and Northwest retailers, it is quite correct to say they have large stocks, but their stocks are no larger than usual at this time of the year. It must be remembered that the real season for canned vegetables does not begin here until the housewives have exhausted their stock of fresh vegetables, which is usually the end of January or the beginning of February. So that if tomatoes are $2.35 per case now, the chances are all in favor of their being $2.50, if not higher, before the spring opens. In addition to this the demand for the Crow's Nest Pass, the western Ontario mining camps, and the Klondyke, all point to tomatoes being a very safe thing so far as this market is concerned.

The W. J. Boyd Candy Co. is one of the new additions to Winnipeg's industries, and your correspondent has been waiting to say something about them until having an opportunity of examining their premises. They, however, opened late and have been so rushed with Christmas trade that it was no kindness to insist upon looking over their new and well appointed quarters. After the New Year there will no doubt be a slackening, and then there will be time to see what they are doing. From the large demand for their goods, they must be of a satisfactory quality.

The butter deal of the Parson Produce Co. and the Dominion Government turned out a larger affair than reported last week, the amount being 100,000 lbs. instead of 70,000 as previously reported. This is important, as showing the amount of butter that can be made here late in the fall, as all this butter was made during the last week in September and the month of October.

There is a slaughter going on in poultry this week. Jobbers seem to think that imports have been too large for Christmas trade, and are offering Smith's Falls turkeys at 11c.

Butter, eggs, cheese and cured meats remain without change for the week, and the same is true of staple lines of groceries.

BUTTER—14 to 15c. for choice dairy in round lots. The recent storm has been a still further check on the supply.

EGGS—Supply not increased for Christmas trade as anticipated. Dealers are buying at 18c. and selling at 20c.

CURED MEATS — Packing houses are running night and day. Hams, medium, 10½ to 11½c.; breakfast bellies, 12 to 12½c.; backs, 10 to 11c. Shoulders are scarce and seem likely to remain so; price, 8½ to 9c.; long clear, 7 to 7½c.; lard, pure, $1.80; compound, $1.60.

FISH—Finnan haddies, 7½ to 8c.; hake, 25-lb. B. & S., 4½c.; herring, Labrador, barrels, $7.25; half-barrels, $3.75.

GREEN FRUIT—Apples, Canadian, $4.75 per bbl.; Southern, $4.25. Oranges—Mexican, $5 per case; California navels, $5; lemons, California, 300's, $5; pears, fancy Washington, per box, $2.25; grapes, fancy Malagas in kegs, medium weights, $8; heavy weights, $8.50; bananas, $3 50 per bunch; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 per bbl. of 90 lbs.; sweet potatoes, $5.50 per bbl.

NUTS—Grenoble walnuts, 13 to 13½c.; filberts, 12c.; hickory, 10c.; peanuts, 12c.; almonds, Valencia, 15c.

EVAPORATED FRUITS — Evaporated apples, 11½c.; apricots, 11c. per lb.

DOMINION TRAVELERS' OFFICERS.

Hon. J. D. Rolland is again president of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association, having received 914 votes to Mr. Max Murdoch, his opponent, 798, thus giving him a majority of 116.

For the treasurership Mr. Fred. Birks, who has filled the office for many years, was defeated by Mr. Thomas L. Paton by 962 votes to 709, or a majority of 253.

This was the result of the voting announced at the annual meeting of the association on Saturday night. The total number of ballots cast was 1,744, and of these 34 were rejected for the following causes: Not signed, 20; names not on list, 3; not marked, 5; voted twice, 6.

The other officers were elected by acclamation at the quarterly meeting held some time ago.

The trade price is arranged so as to allow a good profit to the retailer and at the same time permit him to offer "Vimbos" at a reasonable figure.

how near was Christmas that they were one or two weeks later than usual with their baking. There has not been as much poultry bought as there would undoubtedly have been had the weather been colder. Yet, taking everything into consideration, there has been a greater volume of business done in Toronto this season than in the preceding years. And the business that has been done has been largely in the better class of goods. Retailers say the demand for the best qualities of raisins, currants and prunes has been especially noticeable. In this connection I have been impressed with the fact that a dealer has much power to influence his customers to use the class or quality of goods he desires them to purchase. While the open weather has decreased the merly. The demand for the higher class of confectionery, such as bon-bons, etc., has so exceeded expectations that some of the retailers who make a specialty of these goods are nearly sold out, though they had their usual supply when the season opened. Shelled nuts, especially almonds and walnuts, have, within the last week or so, been in brisk demand. A big business in unshelled walnuts is expected during the two days preceding Christmas.

WHEAT EXPORTS AND FREIGHT RATES.

IN deciding to send one thousand samples of Canadian wheat to Great Britain for distribution among the millers there the Minister of Agriculture has done a wise thing.

Probably no country in the world produces better wheat than the Dominion of Canada, and yet the quantity we export to Great Britain is lamentably below what we might send, even taking into account the fact that the quantity of wheat we produce is far short of our capabilities.

Great Britain's imports of wheat last year from all countries aggregated 130,718,709 bushels, valued at $105,503,026, and this was about 22,000,000 bushels less in quantity and about $4,000,000 less in value than the preceding year.

All that Canada last year contributed to Great Britain's wheat supply was valued at $7,891,874 worth, or less than 7 per cent. of the total imported by the latter country.

One reason why Canada has not been a larger exporter of wheat to the British market has undoubtedly been high freight rates. Lower freight rates and increased exports of grain to Great Britain are practically one and the same question. The creation of the one will produce the other.

Canada's inland system of waterways only needs a few touches to be made the finest in the world. Perhaps it would be more correct to say they already are the finest in the world, taking distance, etc , into account, but require a few improvements to give them hat utility which they should have. We have reference to the securing of a greater and more uniform depth in the St. Lawrence canal system.

A vessel drawing nine feet of water can, if need be, leave the north shore of Lake Superior and sail, by way of lake, canal and river, to Father Point at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, a distance of over sixteen hundred miles. Except for four or five impediments a vessel drawing fourteen feet could make the same trip, and what is wanted is the removal of these impediments, or rather the facilitating of their removal, for the work is already being prosecuted.

With a uniform depth of fourteen feet the canals would naturally not only admit of larger vessels entering the canals, but, what is more important, would largely obviate the transhipment of the grain from the vessels to barges, which costs about half a cent per bushel.

Another thing in order to the attainment of lower freight rates, and with it the possession of greater facilities for competing with Russia, India and Argentine for the British wheat market, is a railway commission.

Canada has in many respects an admirable railway system, but as far as railway control is concerned she is woefully behind the age. As it is, the railways run everything to suit themselves, and, what is more to be deplored, they have so far been able to influence members of Parliament so as to prevent legislation which would give the whip handle to the people and not to the railways, as is now the case.

Pending lower freight rates, our duty is to make the best of the facilities we now have, and they are by no means insignificant, and vigorously push our trade with Great Britain, not only in wheat, but in every other commodity or article which it is possible for us to sell her.

The faster a man runs to get rich the sooner will Death overtake him.

CHRISTMAS GREETING.

A Merry Christmas.

Seasonable weather and good trade are factors which largely determine the measure of merriment which a merchant shall enjoy during the Christmas holiday ; but they are not the only factors. Indeed, they ought not to be the chief ones.

It is said that a man gets that measure of happiness out of religion which he puts into it. Whether that be true or not, it is certain a man gets out of the Christmas or any other festive season just as much as he puts into it. If he is sordid and selfish he is not only incompatible with the season, but with humanity as well, and his cup is filled with misery and not merriment.

The giving of Christmas presents to every Tom, Dick and Harry who enters the store is to be deprecated. It is not only a losing game, but it is an abuse of a principle which is in itself good. We have the authority of Holy Writ that "it is more blessed to give than to receive ;" but doling out presents as storekeepers have been in the habit of doing in the past is born of the spirit of competition or custom and not of the spirit of good will. Jones gives because Smith does.

While, however, an indiscriminate giving of presents is to be deprecated, no one can object to the storekeeper giving presents when by so doing he is alleviating somebody's necessities and opening up an avenue whereby a ray of sunshine may creep into the home which might otherwise be cheerless on the one day in the year above all others when joy and gladness should be paramount.

Merchants should make their stores as bright and attractive as possible during the Christmas holiday season ; but, by helping to brighten homes which through poverty are dark and dreary, their own holiday will be brighter, "for it is more blessed to give than to receive."

And again we say to our readers, A Merry Christmas.

WINDSOR, N.S., BEING REBUILT.

The town of Windsor, N.S., a large part of the business portion of which was burnt out some time ago, is being rapidly rebuilt, Many fine buildings are being erected, and plans are being prepared for structures, the cost of which will total nearly one million dollars.

BANKRUPTCY LEGISLATION.

FOR twenty years, or two years longer than Canada, the United States has been without a national bankruptcy law. It is not, however, because efforts have not been made to secure one. Time and again efforts have been made. And another is now being made, a bill having been introduced in the House of Representatives at Washington last week.

It is only our pupose to touch upon a few of the most prominent features of the bill.

Provision is made for involuntary as well as voluntary assignments. A person who owes one thousand dollars is made subject to the provisions of the Act after he has had an impartial trial. A national bank, a farmer or a wage-earner are not subject to the Act.

A bankrupt is defined, among other things, as a person who has concealed himself and not having returned forty-eight hours before the filing of a petition in bankruptcy ; one who has transferred his property with a view to defeating his creditors ; one who has secreted any of his property ; one who has suffered an execution for $500 or over.

An insolvent may, after the expiration of two months, and within the next four months subsequent to being adjudged a bankrupt, file an application for a discharge, and the judge, after hearing all the parties interested, shall grant the discharge provided no dishonest acts have been proven against him. It is also provided that " the confirmation of a composition shall discharge the bankrupt from his debts other than those agreed to be paid by the terms of the composition and those not affected by the discharge."

A person shall be deemed to have given a preference if, being insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency or bankruptcy, he has procured or suffered a judgment to be entered against himself in favor of any person, or made a transfer of any of his property with intent to defeat the operation of the Act, or to enable any of his creditors to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than any other of such creditors of the same class.

If a bankrupt shall have given a preference within four months before the filing of a petition, or after the filing of the petition and before the adjudication, and the person receiving it or to be benefited thereby, or his agent acting therein, shall have had reasonable cause to believe that it was intended thereby to give a preference, it shall be voidable by the trustee, and he may recover the property or its value from such person.

Proved fraud is properly made punishable by imprisonment without the option of a fine.

The bill strikes one as being fairly liberal on the whole, but as to whether it will become law is another thing. The passage of the measure would no doubt help the movement in Canada for a national insolvency law.

There is no room on this earth for people who "want the earth."

CHRISTMAS POULTRY SEASON.

THE exportation of poultry to Great Britain has this year reached such proportions that it is now an important factor in the marketing of this class of produce.

Though no figures are obtainable, it is generally conceded that a much greater number of turkeys has been exported this year than last. It is also affecting the market in that often the choicest birds are exported, and the remainder kept for the local sale. This has been more noticeable this season than formerly, as the general quality of turkeys offered for sale on the home market this year has been below that of preceding years.

During the Thanksgiving season the supply was much greater than the demand, and the weather being mild, those shipping at that time realized a comparatively poor figure, and sometimes sold at a loss. During the last couple of weeks little poultry of any kind has been coming in, and the market has not only been cleaned up, but there is a scramble for what comes in.

The price of turkeys advanced by Tuesday this week to 3c. per lb. above last week's quotations ; geese were 1 to 1½c. per lb. higher. Ducks and chickens also advanced.

It is generally considered that there will be a better supply toward the end of the week, and prices may weaken slightly. Whether they weaken or not, this week will give shippers an opportunity to even up for any losses experienced previously.

COUNTERVAILING SUGAR DUTIES.

AGITATION in Great Britain over the sugar bounty question appears to be gathering strength rather than losing it.

Chambers of commerce and even workingmen's institutions have been holding meetings and passing strong resolutions calling upon the Imperial Government to establish countervailing duties as a means of offsetting the export bounties given by Germany, France, Austria and Belgium. These bounties run all the way from £2 to £5 per ton.

While the report of the Royal Commission showing the deplorable condition of the sugar industry in the British West Indies, owing to the competition of the bounty-fed sugar, initiated the agitation, the consideration of the effect of these bounties on the sugar industry of the United Kingdom seems to have assumed the most important place in the discussion.

All the Government has so far done in reply to the various memorials which have been presented to it is that the matter is receiving careful attention.

Opinion leans to the belief that whatsoever relief the Government proposes to accord it will not be in the shape of countervailing duties. It is not expected that strong opposition to the innovation will be found in Lord Salisbury, but it by no means follows that he will be found a supporter. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, was some years ago unequivocally opposed to countervailing duties, but as he was the father of the Royal Commission, the advocates of these duties as a remedy for the present condition of affairs are hoping he has become converted to their way of thinking.

While, however, practically nothing is known of the views of the Government upon the question, a little more light has been gleaned as to the views of the members of the House of Commons.

There is in the United Kingdom an organization known as the Workmen's National Association for the Abolition of Foreign Sugar Bounties. This organization has been polling members of Parliament on the question. At a meeting of the workmen, held in London the other day one hundred and twenty letters were read from those who had responded, and out of that number all but twelve favored countervailing duties. Of course, it by no means follows that the advocates of countervailing duties have a majority in the House of Commons, where there are about 670 members, but to already have nearly 18 per cent. of the House of Commons recorded as favoring countervailing duties must be encouraging to those who are championing the cause.

Mr. Gladstone, as a member of the sugar convention of 1866, was committed to the principle of countervailing duties; and a few years ago that statesman in an address to workingmen stated that he could not look with favor on any article that was artificially cheapened by the aid of foreign bounties. He is also credited with saying that no industry could possibly servive if attacked by the rich exchequers of foreign countries. All this, it is almost needless to say, is now being quoted.

Those who are agitating for countervailing duties assert they are not asking for protection. They declare their object is only to have the sugar trade restored to a free trade basis. Those, however, who have read Fawcett will remember that this will scarcely coincide with his doctrine that while bounty-fed goods injure the country which gives the bounty, yet they are always a blessing to the country into which they are imported.

As a writer in a British paper recently remarked, "facts have a ruthless habit of knocking theories about." And the facts are that, owing to the bounty system in Europe, the West India sugar industry has been paralyzed and the sugar refining industry of the United Kingdom badly crippled. On the Thames to-day there is only one refinery in operation, and in Greenock less than half are now being worked.

The commercial value of politeness, like the quality of goodness, cannot be computed.

A GOOD TIME TO PAY UP.

UNLIQUIDATED liabilities are not always the result of inability to liquidate the same. It is quite often the cause of inattention or procrastination.

At the end of each year people are in the habit of laying aside, or at least assaying to do so, all weights that retarded their progress during the preceding months. In other words, they inwardly or outwardly make promises which will tend to better their condition morally or financially, and perhaps both.

With the end of the year but a week away, every merchant should, as far as in him lies, endeavor to wipe out his liabilities.

The holiday season is usually a time when a great deal of money is in circulation, and consequently this alone makes it opportune for the payment of accounts. Then, the fact that times are so much better than they have been for years should greatly assist in the premises.

But better as the trade conditions are compared with the last three or four years, the year that is near at hand is almost certain to be much better. This should give confidence; and the desire to start the New Year unencumbered should be the concomitant of this confidence.

It would be well to try to wipe out accounts that may be even scarcely due, particularly if a little extra discount can be secured. And we know of some firms which would be only too glad to increase the discount under such conditions.

Besides the benefit which both creditor and debtor would receive from a general settling up between this and the end of the year, there would be the further effect of stimulating the confidence in the future which already to a marked extent exists.

CANNED GOODS IN MONTREAL.

There have been some extensive transactions in tomatoes in Montreal between first and second hands, and, as a result of them, jobbers here have advanced their quotations fully 30c. per case, and may ask even more in the near future.

Round lots of 1,000 cases have changed hands at $1 recently, and now it is doubtful if buyers could repeat purchases at the same figure. In fact, jobbers here have made a handsome profit, it is claimed, by turning over lots that they had secured to other jobbers who were urgently in need of stock.

Two other staple lines of canned goods that have advanced sharply in the Montreal market are gallon and 3-pound apples, which, as will be seen by our Montreal market reports, are appreciably higher than they were. Peas and corn also display a firmer tendency, and altogether the canned goods market is strong for several staples.

WILL BACK UP THE RETAILERS.

The Montreal Wholesale Grocers' Guild, at a meeting held on Tuesday, decided to join hands with the retail association in an effort to secure from the Quebec Legislature an amendment to the laws permitting of the sale of staple patent medicines by the grocery trade.

This is in accordance with the wishes of the retail association already outlined in these columns.

The president, H. Laporte, L. E. Geoffrion, of L. Chaput & Fils, and H. H. F. Hughes, were named as a committee to go to Quebec with the retailers this week in regard to the matter.

Beer rhymes with cheer, but the man who takes most beer at Christmas is not likely to have the most cheer.

ADVANCE IN CORN.

Corn has become, like tomatoes, affected by the bullish influence. It will be remembered that in our last issue it was stated, on the authority of the Canadian Packers' Association, that the pack of corn was a good average one. But, notwithstanding this, prices are being held from 5 to 10c. per dozen higher than they were a week ago.

It is the opinion that the advance is warranted by the general condition of the canned goods market.

Since the advance there has been more enquiry for corn, and this has helped to strengthen the position.

Bids of 65c. for round lots are understood to have been turned down by canners, but there have been sales at 67½c. per dozen. While up to the time of writing the wholesalers have not made a general advance in corn, 70c. still being the ruling figure, yet higher prices are almost certain to be ruling before our next issue appears.

HARBOR OF ST. JOHN, N.B.

THE measure of a community's prosperity is dependent chiefly upon the enterprise and energy of the people within it and not upon the assistance of either the Federal or Provincial Governments. The Government may assist, but the great active force must be the community itself.

The accompanying illustration is a bird's eye view of St. John, N.B., and its harbor, a place which is an example of what a city can do for itself.

As a harbor, and particularly as a winter port, St. John was evidently so intended by nature, but there were certain deficiencies which handicapped it in the competition with United States ports for the winter trade of the Atlantic. A few years ago the Board of Trade of the city, realizing what these deficiencies were, inaugurated an agitation for their removal, and the result is the facilities which the port now possesses.

When in Toronto the other day Mr. W. S. Fisher, of St. John, in referring to the efforts which had been made to improve the harbor, said : "The tax-payers of St. John have paid out of their own pockets $750,000 in order to provide facilities for carrying on the winter port business, feeling satisfied that the demand would come when our geographical position would show that trade had to come our way."

As a result of the expenditure of this $750,000 the harbor of St. John now affords berths for five of the largest ocean going steamships afloat if they choose to all enter the port at once, while in addition to this each can have a distinct and separate warehouse, each of which is capable of holding a whole cargo or more. The facilities for loading and unloading are all modern. The railway tracks are closely connected with the wharves, running close alongside the rear of the warehouses, while the wharves are connected with the large elevator which is shown in the accompanying illustration. A deputation representing some of the Atlantic steamship lines were in St. John a few weeks ago and they expressed themselves pleased and delighted with the warehouses and the general arrangements which had been made to accommodate steamships engaged in the winter carrying trade. The warehouses referred to have a frontage of 350 feet with a depth of 70 feet.

"A good many misstatements have been made in connecting St. John with fogs," remarked Mr. Fisher. "Now, while as a matter of fact we have during the summer a great deal of fog ; in the winter, on the other hand, we have practically no fog. In proof of this, we have statistics extending over several years. They show the average duration of fog during the winter has been only fifteen or sixteen hours per month. You will readily see it cuts no figure at all. In the summer a great deal of business is done at our port, but, of course, it is as a winter port that it chiefly ranks."

The shipments of freight from St. John last winter were 77,435 tons of produce, etc., 1,500,000 bushels of grain and 12,537 head of live stock. This freight was distributed as follows : To London, 24,000 tons; to Liverpool, 26,000 tons; to Glasgow, 18,000 tons ; to Belfast and Dublin, 6,500 ; to Aberdeen, 2,900. In 1895 63 sailing vessels and 55 steamers carried 129,000,000 feet of lumber to the Old Country ; in 1896 52 sail and 95 steam craft carried 168,000,- 000 feet; and in the ten months of 1897, 52 sail and 180 steam craft carried 226,000,000 feet of lumber.

"This year's winter service is going to be much ahead of that of last year," remarked Mr. Fisher, in referring to the above figures, "We expect this largely because of the improved facilities of the port. We feel, however, that it takes time to establish trade. Trade runs in a rut, you know. Our desire now is to draw the attention of the importer to our port and urge upon him the policy of having his goods sent by an all-Canadian route, particularly when the railway and the steamship companies have between them made a guarantee that goods, either imported or exported, shall be brought in or carried out of the port of St. John at as low a rate of freight or lower than by any other Atlantic port. That being so, why should not patriotic Canadians arise and demand that their goods will be shipped by an all Canadian route? It is not a question between Halifax and St. John; it is between St. John and United States ports."

The list of steamships which will run in and out of St. John during the winter months was published in a recent issue of this journal.

The formation of a board of trade in Nanaimo, B.C., is being agitated.

THE U.S. APPLE CROP SHORT.

Estimates of the apple crop of the United States indicate 37,436,000 barrels, compared with 69,879,000 in 1896, 60,543,000 in 1895, 57,629,000 in 1894 and 57,242,000 in 1889 The American Agriculturist says on this subject: "Not in years has there been such a uniformity of shortage and indifference in quality in the long recognized commercial apple belt of the Middle and Eastern States. This is true of such standbys as Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, much of Ohio, practically all of New England, the shortage extending across the line into the Canadian provinces. Occasional counties here and there show brilliant exceptions in the way of really good crops and good quality. In the central west and southwestern states, an excellent promise early in the year gave way in August and September, through extensive and excessive heat and drought, to serious loss, but still leaving a quantity of apples for market liberal in the aggregate. An important part of this western crop, however, is rather poor to common in quality. Summer and autumn fruit in the southern states has long since passed out of sight, although quite recently Virginia has been marketing some choice table varieties at high prices in the northern cities. Thus the apple crop is greatly dificient in the east, irregular in the middle west, fair to good in the west"

TOO FAR TO WALK.

Mr. John Falconer carries on a general store at Falconer's Falls, Ont. A farmer's wife, living about six miles away from the village, one day recently bought amongst other articles a box of matches. When she got home she found the matches would not light. They were either damp or lacked sulphur. The first time she went into the village she took the matches along.

"What's the matter with the matches, Mrs. Potter?"

"Oh, I don't know. They don't seem to light, that's all I know."

John opened the box and struck one match after another on the usual place, namely, the hind leg of his pants. They lighted all right. "There don't seem to be anything the matter with them that I can see, Mrs. Potter," he said.

"Perhaps not; but do you think, John Falconer, I've got nothing else to do but walk in here to strike a match on the seat of your pants every time I want a light. If you do you are very much mistaken. Give me another box right away."

TOM SWALWELL.

DOMINION TRAVELERS' FINANCES.

THERE was some interesting criticism of the finances of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association at the annual meeting last Saturday. Mr. S. Woods was the critic, and he seemed to be thoroughly au fait with his subject.

Two letters read by Secretary Wadsworth were the primary cause. The first of these stated that the association was promising far more than it would be able to carry out, and before long the death claims and other payments and expenses would exceed the revenue, and the present capital and surplus funds would begin to diminish. This result was inevitable in a very few years, unless some changes were made in the meantime. It was a very difficult matter to place upon a sound basis an insurance scheme that had been worked upon an unsound basis for years; but no doubt the committee would be able to do something to strengthen the association, always keeping in view the other objects and purposes of the institution.

The second letter stated that the easiest way was to let the old claims work themselves out, and then start afresh on a firm basis. The death rate had been low, but that could not continue, unless there was a falling off of a large proportion of the older members and an accession of younger men.

PROOF OF HEAVY LIABILITIES.

Mr. Woods, in order to emphasize his contention that the association had heavy liabilities (over $2,000,000 issued in policies and agreements to pay death claims), said that last year there were 28 deaths. The amount paid in by these 28 members was $3,820; the amount paid out by the association was $25,761. There was, he said, no other organization in the world where a man could put in a dollar and take out nearly nine. It would take $396,233 to reinsure the lives of the members for the amount they now received, and therefore the association was short a great deal. In 1894 they paid in death claims $7,600; in 1895, $11,950; in 1896, $20,500, and in 1897, $26,000. It would only be one or two years at that rate before they infringed upon the so-called surplus. He held that it was one of the most sacred trusts of humanity to pay to the widow and orphan that which it had been promised they should receive. It was a very serious thing that there was no medical examination. It was time that some action was taken. The accident indemnity in 1896, he said, was $3,596. Had the same happened this year there would have been the magnificent surplus of $600 to carry to the good; and had the accident indemnity increased as the mortuary had, there would probably have been a deficit. He asked the members, if they were shareholders in a joint-stock company, if they would be satisfied with a statement that always showed the net surplus and never the liabilities of the concern. From what he had learned, he was convinced that the association was offering more than it could well afford to give; and he did not think it was wise, or honorable or business-like for any association that promised insurance to juggle in any way with the interests of the widow and orphan. If that was the case, it was time that they begun a policy of retrenchment; and they should begin where common-sense dictated. He believed that there were very few life insurance corporations that took members in and allowed them any insurance indemnity, unless they passed a medical examination. He considered that the time had come when they should not allow any new member to reap the benefits of the association, unless he passed a satisfactory medical examination.

QUESTION OF HIGHER FEES.

If necessary, higher fees should be charged. If a man could not pass the examination, let him put up $10 a year, and take what the association offered in the way of insurance for that sum. Criticising some of the items of expenditure, he thought if they were drifting astern financially, that $1,063 for rent and taxes for the office was too much. He also thought that $100 was too much for auditing a report that continually showed the net surplus, but never a liability, though every member of the association knew that it had very heavy liabilities. If they were on unsafe ground, it was time they remedied their position; so that a body of intelligent men, such as the commercial travelers were, should be able to face the world and say: "We are not playing at any game of life insurance we do not understand; but we are carrying on a business in which we know exactly where we are from year to year. In 1895 they had a surplus of $7,064; in 1896, $8,497; and in 1897, with an increased membership, they had only a surplus of $4,196, which was $2,868 less than in 1895, and $4,301 less than in 1896, and that it must be borne in mind, was, after having abolished the accident insurance and weekly indemnity.

On his motion an advisory committee was appointed to confer with the directors as to the revision of the rates to be charged for mortuary benefits, with power to call for any necessary information, provided the directors approved of it; the committee to be composed of Messrs. D. Watson, Morin, Galbraith, Dr. Ault, Beech, George Sumner, Piche, S. Woods, and Wilkins.

A COLUMN OF CHRISTMAS POETRY.

THE CHRISTMAS HOLLY.

The holly! the holly! oh twine it with bay—
Come, give the holly a song,
For it helps to drive stern Winter away,
With his garments so sombre and long.
It peeps through the trees with its berries of red,
And its leaves of burnished green,
When the flowers and fruits have long been dead,
And not even the daisy is seen.

Then sing to the holly, the Christmas holly,
That hangs over peasant and king:
While we laugh and carouse 'neath the glittering boughs,
To the Christmas holly we'll sing.

The gale may whistle, and frost may come,
To fetter the gurgling rill;
The woods may be bare, and the warblers dumb—
But the holly is beautiful still.
In the revel and light of princely halls
The bright holly branch is found;
And its shadow falls on the lowliest walls,
While the brimming horn goes round.

Then drink to the holly, etc.

The ivy lives long, but its home must be
Where graves and ruins are spread;
There's beauty about the cypress tree,
But it flourishes near the dead:
The laurel the warrior's brow may wreath,
But it tells of tears and blood.
I sing of the holly, and who can breathe
Aught of that that is not good?

Then sing to the holly, etc.

—Eliza Cook.

EMPTY STOCKINGS.

Oh, mothers in homes that are happy
Where Christmas comes laden with cheer,
Where the children are dreaming already
Of the merriest day in the year.

As you gather your darlings around you
And tell them the "story of old,"
Remember the homes that are dreary!
Remember the hearts that are cold!

And thanking the love that has dowered you
With all that is dearest and best,
Give freely, that from your abundance
Some bare little life may be blessed!

Oh, go where the stockings hang empty,
Where Christmas is naught but a name,
And give—for the love of the Christ-child!
'Twas to seek such as these that He came.

—Ellen Manly in Christmas Ladies' Home Journal.

JEST 'FORE CHRISTMAS.

For Christmas, with its lots and lots of candies, cakes and toys,
Was made, they say, for proper kids, an' not for naughty boys;
So wash your face an' brush your hair, and mind your p's and q's.
And don't bust out your pantaloons, and don't wear out your shoes;
Say "Yessum" to the ladies, an' "Yessur" to the men,
An' when they's company, don't pass your plate for pie again;
But thinkin' of the things yer'd like to see upon that tree,
Jest 'fore Christmas be as good as yer kin be!

—Eugene Field.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 23, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE bulk of the Christmas trade has been done, but still the wholesale houses have been kept pretty busy during the past week on sorting-up orders. Locally, perhaps the most interesting feature is the interest that is being taken in canned vegetables, there still being a great many enquiries. Perhaps the newest thing in the way of canned goods is the prominent place which has been taken by corn within the last few days, as a result of which prices are quoted from 5 to 10c. per dozen higher by the packers. Shortly after we went to press last week another advance took place in all refined sugars of domestic manufacture. There is not much business being done, however, and one refinery is out of the market for the time being. There is still a good demand for currants, raisins and other seasonable lines of fruits, etc. The spice market is steady, with black pepper a little firmer in the primary market. Coffee is receiving fair attention, but teas are just about as much neglected as they were before. The Christmas trade is, on the whole, a satisfactory one, being far better than it was a year ago, while the outlook for next spring's trade is excellent.

CANNED GOODS.

The feeling in regard to canned vegetables is, if anything, stronger than it was a week ago. There seems to be a more general desire on the part of the wholesalers to get a dollar a dozen for tomatoes, but the majority of them are still quoting 90 to 95c. A good deal more interest has been taken this week in canned corn, which has advanced from 5 to 10c. per dozen from first hands, and there does not appear to be anything in the hands of wholesalers under 70c.; that is, at any rate, first-class goods. There have been some transactions between canners and wholesalers at rather under 70c., and although wholesalers are trying to buy at as low as 65c. we understand their bids have been turned down. There have been some transactions in canned tomatoes within the last two or three days, but the figures have been unobtainable. Taking it all round, the price of canned vegetables is stronger than it was a week ago, although we, as yet, have made no material change in our quotations. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corn, 70 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 60 to 95c.; peaches, $2 to $2.60 for 3's, $1.40 to $1.75 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.40 to $1 70, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2.25 to $2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1; canned mackerel, $1.20 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.70 for tall tins; ½-lb. flats, $1.65 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

The strength in the coffee market noted last week has increased rather than decreased, and a cable received in Toronto this week from Brazil stated that prices there were firm and advancing. Wholesalers report a brisk demand for Rio coffees, but agents of shipping houses state there have not been many transactions from first hands. It might be noted that local wholesale houses are just now showing good values in Brazilian coffees. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8 to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; Santos, 12 to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 13 to 17c.; Jamaica, 16 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

This market remains in much the same condition as a week ago, the demand being just moderate, while prices are without change. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

In this line, as in syrups, the demand is only moderate. We quote as follows: New

SUGAR.

The market has not shown any weakness since a week ago. On the contrary, both at home and abroad there is a stronger feeling. Shortly after we went to press last week the Canadian refiners marked up their prices another 1-16c. per lb. In New York and in London the markets have also advanced. Stocks in both the United Kingdom and the United States are fully 50 per cent. lower than they were a year ago at this time, while Licht, the statistician, now estimates the beet crop at 4,800,000 tons, compared with 4,917,000 tons last year. We quote, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Granulated (Redpath, St. Lawrence, Acadia), 4½c.; ditto, Dutch, in bags, 4¼c.; ditto, German of Canadian make, in bbls., 4⅛c.; ditto, imported, in bags, 4⅛c.; yellows, 3¾c. upwards.

NUTS.

Nothing new has developed during the week, the demand still being brisk, although the bulk of the trade is of course over for the season. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 23 to 25c.; Tarragona almonds, 9 to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 8 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 9½c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

RICE, TAPIOCA, SAGO.

Business in this line is moderate only. We quote: Standard "B," broken lots, 3⅞c.; 1 to 5 sacks, 3¾c., and 5 sacks and over, 3⅝c. per lb.; Japan, 5c.; Patna, 4¾ to 5¾c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 4½c.; sago, 3½ to 4½c.

SPICES.

The market generally is steady, with black pepper a little firmer in the primary markets. Prices here are without change. We quote as follows: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The market is still without much interest. In fact, if anything, there is less doing than a week ago, the wholesalers' attention being taken up with other lines, while they naturally want to keep their stocks as low as possible in view of the near approach of stock-taking. Spot teas are still receiving most of the attention. For this time of the year there has been a fair trade doing in China greens, but scarcely anything in China blacks. China green teas of lower and medium grades are still scarce, but the finer grades, which are, of course, not wanted much on this market, are comparatively plentiful. Some people hold that the opening of the New Year will see Indian and Ceylon teas probably 1c. per lb. higher than they are at present. Others, however, maintain that the market will be easier rather than firmer. Mail advices from London under date of December 10 state that the auctions were in excess of either of the two previous weeks, and comprised 49,954 packages of Indian tea against 37,444 the previous week, and 34,428 the week before that again, while prices were rather irregular, medium broken Pekoes showing a decline of 1c. per lb. There was also some irregularity in prices on Ceylon teas, and this was likewise caused by increased offerings. The number of Ruling prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The currant market has further advanced, although, as far as learned, no cables have been received by Toronto houses during the week; yet from a New York source it was learned that the advance was 1s. 6d. per cwt. Locally there is nothing new to note, the demand still being brisk. We quote as follows: Provincials, 5½ to 5¾c.; Filiatras, 6c. in bbls; 6⅛c. in half-bbls and 6¼c. in cases. Patras, 6½c. in bbls.; 6¾c. in half-bbls. and 6¾ to 7c. in cases. Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. in cases.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The English market is advised a little firmer, and locally there is a fair demand at unchanged prices. We quote: New goods—Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5½c.; selected, 6 to 6½c.; layers, 6½ to 7c.

MALAGA RAISINS—This market is being well cleaned out of Malaga raisins. Some of the largest houses have nothing but the lower grades left and have been compelled to draw upon their confreres for goods with which to fill orders. We quote as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.70; black baskets, $2 to $2.20; blue baskets, $2.30 to $2.50; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20 to $2.40; dessert clusters, $3.50 to $3.75.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS—The demand is being well maintained at unchanged prices. We quote: 3-crown, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.; 4-crown, 8¼ to 8½c. per lb.; 1-lb. cartoons, 20c.; 2¼-lb. cartoons, 35c.

DATES—Some of the houses have received their second shipment of dates and are now quoting lower prices as a consequence. Hallowees are quoted at 5¾c., and Kadrowees at 5½c. The demand is fairly good.

FIGS—Business in this line continues good, although the wants at the moment are only of a sorting-up nature. We quote: 4-crown, 10 to 11c.; 5-crown, 11 to 13c.; 7-crown, 13 to 14c.; 9-crown, 15 to 16c.; natural figs, in bags, 4½ to 5c.; mats, 3½ to 4c. per lb.

PRUNES—The ss. Styria, with Turkish prunes on board, has not yet arrived. The demand for prunes is still confined to the California article, which is meeting with a good sale. We quote as follows: 40 to 50's, 10 to 10½c.; 50 to 60's, 8 to 8½c.; 60 to

GREEN FRUITS.

The Christmas trade has been entirely satisfactory, all lines finding a good demand. Oranges have been moving especially well, Valencias having been sold right out. Tangarine, Mexican, Jamaica and California navel oranges were received on the market early this week. Lemons have moved briskly. Cranberries moved quietly last week, but are in brisk demand now. Winter pears, apples and onions have their regular steady sale. We quote: Almeria grapes, $5 to $8 per keg; lemons, Messina, $2.75 to $3.25 a box; cocoanuts, $4.50 a sack and 60c. per doz.; oranges, Valencia, $5.50 to $7.50 per case; California navels, $4 to $4.50 per crate; Jamaica oranges, $7.50 per bbl., and $4 per box; Mexican oranges, $3.50 to $4 a box; bananas, $1.50 to $1.75; Cape Cod cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl., and $2.75 to $3 per box; Canadian cranberries, $6.75 to $7.50 per bbl., and $2.50 per box; Nova Scotia cranberries, $8 to $8.50 per bbl.; Canadian apples, $2.50 to $3.50 per barrel and 40 to 50c. per basket; Canadian onions, red or yellow, in 80-lb. bags, 70c.; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; celery, 25 to 50c. a dozen; winter pears, $3.50 to $4 per bbl. and 30 to 50c. per basket.

PROVISIONS.

Trade is quiet and will likely continue so until after the holiday season. The price of dressed hogs has advanced 10 to 25c. Lard has advanced ¼c. per lb.

higher. We quote the street market as follows: Winter wheat, 85 to 86c.; barley, 30 to 34½c.; peas, 45c.; oats, 26 to 27c., Toronto freights. No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $1.02, Toronto freights.

SEEDS.

There is an unusual range in the quality this fall. For the lower and medium grades there is little demand, but for the choice grades there is a good demand for export. We quote alsike at from $2 to $5; red clover at from $2.50 to $4; timothy, $1 to $1.40 for machine-threshed, and for bright, flail-threshed $1.50 to $1.75.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THE week has furnished several interesting features, the most notable being the strength displayed by sugar and molasses. Both these staples have scored sharp gains, and values point still higher. In fact, on the last named holders hardly seem to know what to ask. Excitement is also conspicuous in tomatoes, and jobbers are asking 30c. higher prices than they were. Gallon and 3-lb. apples are also very firm. Retailers, however, do not appear to have woke up to the fact, as enquiry from them for these goods is not conspicuous. There is a seasonable trade in dried fruit, nuts and green fruit for holiday wants.

SUGAR.

The strength in the sugar market is fully maintained, and prices at the refineries today are held at 4¼c. for granulated and 3½ to 3⅞c. for yellows, and this strength has led to more enquiry from jobbers, especially as the markets outside point still higher. Beet sugar in London has advanced from 9s. 3d. for December and 9s. 3¾d. for January last week to 9s. 4½d. and 9s. 5¼d. respectively this week, a gain of 1½d., while cane has stiffened from 11s. for Java to 11s. 1½d., also an advance of 1½d., and at this writing the market is strong at the advance. In New York the same strength has been displayed on raw, and refined has followed suit. It is quite natural, therefore, that jobbing prices should be held much firmer, and they are, though the strength does not appear to have increased the demand from retailers to any appreciable extent as yet. We quote in a jobbing way: Granulated, 4⅜c., and yellows, 3½ to 4c.

SYRUPS.

There is a quiet, steady enquiry for syrup and prices are unchanged at 2 to 2½c. for Canadian in half-barrels, as to grade.

MOLASSES.

The strength in this market has been really remarkable, and, as predicted by THE GROCER early this fall, a genuine shortage of Barbadoes molasses has been developed. As a result, it is almost impossible to quote a price this week, for those who have any in stock are undecided what to ask. The most recent sales have been on the basis of 28 to 29c., but it is doubtful if a buyer could repeat purchases at these prices to-day; in fact, we know that bids of 28c. have been refused, the holders stipulating for 30c.

RICE.

There has been a steady trade in rice, and prices are unchanged. We quote: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

There is a satisfactory trade in spices, the demand from retailers this week being quite brisk in a small way. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The coffee market has ruled much stronger in New York lately, but the fact has not had much effect on spot prices. Offers of straight invoice lots of Santos have been made at 10½ to 11c.; Rio, at 9½ to 10c., and Maracaibo, 11½ to 12c.

TEAS.

The tea market is still very firm, especially for Japans, and there has been a fair business from first to second hands at a range of 13 to 16½c., while Pingsueys have sold at 10 to 11c., China blacks at 12 to 17½c. and Ceylons at 14c. We quote: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 10 to 17c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market has been an active and interesting one here in respect to two or three staples. The notable points of strength are tomatoes and both gallon and 3-pound apples, which have scored sharp advances on previous prices. Round lots of tomatoes have sold at $1 for 1,000 package lots, while it is doubtful if any more could be obtained at the same price. Gallon apples are held strong, bids of $2.25 being refused for round lots of them. Peas and corn are also held firmer. As a result of these advances prices for jobbing parcels are materially advanced this week, and we quote as follows: Tomatoes, $1.15 to $1.25; corn, 90c. to $1; peas, $1.10 to $1.15; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30; apples, gallons, $2.25 to $2.75; 3-lb.do., $1.10; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25; "Clover Leaf," $1.25; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins; canned mackerel, $1.25; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30; lobsters, $11 per case; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25 to $4.50.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been a steady demand from retailers this week for Valencia raisins and prices are firm all round. Jobbers seem to be well supplied for the Christmas trade. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½c.; fine do., 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and 4-crown layers, 6 to 6¾c.

California raisins are steady for the finer descriptions but somewhat large receipts of inferior stock have had an unsettling effect on the demand. However, we still quote 2-crown, 6¼ to 6¾c.; 3-crown, 7¼ to 7¾c.; and 4-crown, 8¾ to 9c.

Loose Spanish muscatel raisins are selling steady at 6 to 7c., and Sultanas are unchanged at 9½c. for standard brands.

Currants continue firm with a fair enquiry. We quote: Fine Vostizzas, half-cases, 6½c.; Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; choice Filiatra, do., 6c.; fine do., half-cases, 5⅞c.; Filiatra, half-cases, 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. fine Provincials, half-cases, 5½c.; do., cases, 5⅜c.; do., bbls., 5c.

There is a fair enquiry for prunes. Fine California prunes are scarce and firm, and the same applies to the larger sizes of French and Austrian. We quote as follows: Austrian, 6¼ to 7c.; French, 4¼ to 4½c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Figs are steady under a fair demand. We quote: Eleme, 10 lbs., 10 to 11c.; case lots, 9c.; 12-oz. boxes, 7½c.; 14-oz. boxes, 9c.; 25 bag lots, 3¼c., and bags, 3½ to 4c.

There has been a good enquiry for dates, and several shipments have been turned over since last report at full figures. Prices are firmer at 5½ to 6c.

NUTS.

Tarragona almonds are scarce and firmly held on this market and jobbers have been active buyers this week, prices ruling firmer at 9½ to 10c. We quote: Grenoble wal-

GREEN FRUIT.

The delay in the arrival of the steamer Labrador, which has a large shipment of Valencia oranges on board, is the chief feature of the green fruit market. If these fruit do not arrive in time it means a scarcity, both east and west, for the Christmas trade. Prices are steady. We quote : Lemons, $3 to $3.50; Jamaica oranges, $6 to $6.50; California, $3.50 to $4; Valencia, $4.50 to $5; Almeria grapes. $5 to $6.50; Cape Cod cranberries firmer, at $7.50 to $8.50, and Nova Scotia, $7.50 to $8.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is no new feature in the egg market. The tone of the market continues firm, and under a good demand trade is active. We quote : New laid, 22c.; choice candled, 18 to 19c.; Montreal limed, 14 to 15c., and western limed, 12½ to 13c. per dozen.

GAME—The demand for partridge was good, and prices were steady at 70 to 80c. for firsts and at 40 to 50c. for seconds, per brace.

POULTRY—Receipts of poultry have been more liberal. There was a decided improvement in the demand, and an active trade was done, dealers having commenced to lay in their Christmas supplies. The tone of the market was firmer, especially for turkeys, and prices show an advance of ½ to 1c. per lb. Really choice stock was somewhat scarce, but dealers have been advised of large shipments. Turkeys sold at 8½ to 9c.; chickens, 5½ to 7c.; ducks, 8 to 8½c., and geese, 4 to 6c. per lb.

HONEY—There was no improvement in honey, business being quiet at steady prices. We quote as follows: White clover, 12½c.; dark clover comb, 10 to 10½c., and dark 7 to 8c.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes is fair, and the market is moderately active and firm at 55c. to 60c. per bag in car lots.

PROVISIONS.

There was no important change in the local provision market. The demand is limited at present, and trade rules quiet with no change in prices to note. We quote: Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

The more seasonable weather has tended to a somewhat firmer feeling in the dressed hog market, but no actual change in values has yet taken place. The demand to-day was better, and a fairly active trade was done. We quote: Heavy-weights, $5.75,; and light, $6 to $6.25 per 100 lbs. in a jobbing way.

SALT.

Rules quiet and steady. Coarse Liverpool, 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

The feature of the flour market this week was the demand from South America for Manitoba brands, and a sale of three carloads was made for shipment via St. John, N.B. Locally trade continues fairly active, there being a good demand from all points for small lots, and prices show no change. We quote: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.40 to $4.45; bags, $2.15 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

There was no change in meal, the demand being only for small lots, and trade is quiet. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.45 per barrel, and $1.67½ per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

A fair trade is doing in feed and the tone of the market is steady. We quote: Ontario bran, $10.50; shorts, $11.50 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, $11.50, and shorts, $13.50 per ton.

GRAIN.

There was no important change in the situation of the local grain market to-day. The demand from shippers is fair at all outside points for most lines of grain, and a good business is doing for the season. Locally prices are nominally unchanged, excepting peas, which are lower. We quote: Ontario red winter wheat, 90c.; white, 89c.; peas, 50½c.; oats, 27c.; rye, 51½ to 52c.; buckwheat, 35½ to 36c., and feed barley, 34 to 40c. in store.

BALED HAY.

The tone of the hay market is firm owing to the smaller receipts and the demand being good for this season of the year. Prices are unchanged at $10.50 for No. 1 and at $8 to $8.50 for No. 2 per ton in car lots. Late private mail advices from London, Eng., under date of Dec. 9th, say: During the past month we have had little change, and hardly any new feature or prospect to report. Canadian mixture has been selling at 72s. 6d. ex ship; Dutch meadow at 50s. to 61s. and clover 70s. to 75s.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

There has been more enquiry for cheese lately, and some large quantities have been put through for export, possibly 10,000 boxes, all the way from 8¼ to 8¾c. This is on account of short sales for January delivery, for against them some shippers assert that it is still impossible to elicit orders from the other side at a fair level, their private advices stating that there have been sales recently in London of finest as low as 41s. landed, which means a loss of fully 1c. per lb. to the seller. This is certainly not encouraging news unless there are extenuating circumstances in connection with the sales in question. We quote values nominally 8¼ to 8¾c., as to grade. Cable is unchanged, 42s. 6d.

The butter market rules quiet and steady. Enquiry for choice creamery is of a jobbing character and values are unchanged in this connection at 19¼c. Roll dairy is easy at 15 to 15½c. Cables quote finest, 92s. and good, 60s.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Refiners' prices on sugar are held very firm this week, and point still higher.

Tarragona almonds are very scarce here, and prices are held ½c. higher than last week.

Holders of Barbadoes molasses in this market hardly know what to ask, as stocks are so light.

The fear is expressed that Valencia oranges ex ss. Labrador may not arrive in time for the Christmas trade.

Large transactions in tomatoes at an advance of 30c. are a feature of the week. Jobbers look for very high prices on this staple line of canned goods, and also on gallon and 3-lb apples.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 20, 1897.

WHILE there is a fair Christmas trade, weather is somewhat disappointing, being so mild. Some days during the past week were just like spring—warm and bright. Each winter we seem to have less snow and less continued cold weather. The effect of this on business, particularly in the country, is considerable. Our retail grocery stores, which at any time are a credit to our city, at present look splendid. In wholesale trade, while quite an active business is doing, it is largely light goods. The sharp advance in canned corn is a feature of interest. In California raisins, the market on the Coast is reported weak, 4-crown being well below the price of 3's early in the season. There are, however, no raisins here bought at the low figures. Prunes are also easy on the Coast.

OIL—There is some light business doing in burning oil, but large buyers were all supplied previous to the late advance. Cod oil is rather higher, receipts being light. There is no large demand. In lubricating there is little or no demand for present use, but dealers are beginning to be interested in future business. Canadian burning oil, while firm, has not, as has the American, advanced. We quote: Best American burning oil, 18 to 19c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—Market is well supplied, particularly with Liverpool coarse salt. Prices rule low, as steamers arrive almost weekly, so that about all orders can be shipped from ship's side. Prices rule low with but fair demand, owing to large arrivals late in the season and the light catch of fish. Canadian salt and Liverpool factory-filled are in good supply. While prices are no lower the market is not particularly firm. We quote: Coarse, 45 to 47c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

CANNED GOODS—The feature of the week is the stronger feeling in corn. There is quite a large stock here bought at low figures. Holders are firm and are backward about quoting in round lots. Peas, which are not a large stock here, are also higher. We quote peaches rather lower. There is a good demand. We quote finnan haddies also rather lower. There is but a fair sale. Canned meats are quiet. Lobsters are scarce and high. We quote as follows; Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 90c. to $1; to-

GREEN FRUIT—There are still quite large shipments moving owing to holiday demand. There is a large trade in oranges. The apple trade is smaller than usual owing to the high prices and the difficulty to get good fruit. Prices seem rather easier this week. In oranges prices are quite low. A few Floridas are sold, but they are high. Valencias are the favorites, and are first-class quality. They can be retailed at 20 to 25c. per dozen. There are a good many California oranges here. They are not very popular. West India oranges have slow sale. Lemons move freely at even prices. Malaga grapes are firmly held. Stocks are not extra. Native cranberries are higher. Sweet potatoes are out of the market. We quote: Lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; oranges, Valencia, $4.55 to $5 per box; do., California, $2.25 to $4.50; do., Florida, $5 to $5.25; do., Dominica, $3 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $4; bananas, $2 to $2.25; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5.50 to $6.50per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 to $9 per bbl.; shaddock, $3 per bbl.; grape fruit, $3 per bbl.; sour limes, $1.75 per box; sweet limes, $2.50 per box.

DRIED FRUIT—There has been an active business. Quite a few raisins have arrived during the week. Some Valencias which arrived were damaged by water and are offered cheap. Market in Valencias is somewhat weaker than it would otherwise be owing to quite a quantity arriving late. In California raisins market is easier. Quantity used here this year has not been large. In California prunes there is an active sale, but prices are low and no change of account is expected. Very few evaporated apples are moving, the price hurting the sale. In Malaga layer raisins of different grades a large quantity have been sold this season, prices ruling low. Stocks are pretty well sold up. Currants are firm and, with peels, are light stock. Sultana raisins are small sale in this market. Quite a quantity are now cleaned and sold, some being packed in 1-lb. cartoons. We quote as follows: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.40 to $1.50; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 4½ to 10c.; dates, 5½ to 6c.; dried apples, 4 to 5c.; evaporated apples, 9 to 10c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 9 to 10c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11 to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 12c.; orange peel, 13c.

SUGAR—There is an active sale. Market tends higher, but as yet little change has been made by dealers here. In granulated the second grade has but light sale in this market. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—There is but a fair business. Market, however, is stronger. Some enquiries from outside points have been received and rather higher prices are looked for. New Orleans at a right price would sell, but at present the price is rather high for this market. Business is about confined to Porto Rico and Barbadoes. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, bbls., 28 to 30c.; Antigua, 22 to 23c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.;

DAIRY PRODUCE—There is but a fair business. In butter arrivals are large. Quality is largely poor. Price keeps low. In cheese there is little doing. Stocks are not large and prices are easy. Eggs have steady sale; quite a few limed are being received. We quote: Dairy butter, 16 to 18c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9½ to 10c.; eggs, 17 to 18c.

FISH—Business is quieter, and prices are inclined to settle back a little, but market is still firm, and likely to rule fairly high, owing to light stocks. There should be some business doing in frozen fish, but so far the weather has been too mild. Smoked herring are quiet. Bloaters are higher and quite scarce, while kippered herring are out of the market. Finnan haddies move freely at even prices. In pickled fish, as in dried, there is rather less demand. Prices are likely to remain firm. We quote: Large cod, $3.25 to $3.40; medium, $3.15 to $3.25; pollock, $1.80 to $2; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 6½ to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 to $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.45 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 70 to 80c.; haddies, 4½ to 5c.

PROVISIONS—Business is quiet. In clear pork, particularly, there is small movement. Prices easy. Beef shows a fair business. Smoked meats are in light sale, and prices are rather lower. Lard has had a good sale with prices well maintained, but the feeling is easy. We quote: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — Prices for the week show little change, as far as flour is concerned. The feeling seems a little toward an easier market. There is fair business. Oatmeal is firmer, but little change here. Sales are good. Oats seem a little lower. Hay is dull. Quite a demand is noted for barley. Split peas are held rather higher. Cornmeal is, if anything, lower, with large business. Beans are steady. In feed no large quantity is offering. If there is any change in price it is toward lower figures. We quote: Manitoba flour, $5.70 to $5.75; best Ontario, $5.00 to $5.10; medium, $4.75 to $4.80; oatmeal, $3.70 to $3.75; cornmeal, $1.90 to $2; middlings, $16 to $16.50; bran, $14.50 to $15.00; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime, 90 to 95c.; barley, $3.10 to $3.15; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.25 to $3.50; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

W. B. Ganong is to take charge of the Windsor Hotel, St. Stephen.

Some fine western cattle have been brought here to supply Christmas trade.

The return from one of the Nova Scotia gold mines for a month's time was a brick weighing 597 ounces, valued at $5,900.

Wholesale grocers report large Christmas sales, the week before Christmas with many showing the largest shipments of any one week for the year.

The St. John representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER wishes to extend best Christmas wishes to all, and trusts that the better feeling which extends through all Canada is but a pledge of a more successful year.

Our English friends are still a little mixed in regard to the geography of Canada. A notice in The British Trade Review of Dec. 1st reads: "The Allan line will run fortnightly from the Thames to St John's and New Brunswick."

The pork factory at Charlottetown is opening successfully. It was thought it would not get hogs enough, but so far there has been no lack. The factory had as many as 5,000 on hand at one time. One day last week 750 hogs were killed at the factory.

The West India steamer "Duart Castle" brought a fair cargo this week, among which was the following: 40 packages molasses from Trinidad, 150 bags cocoanuts, 200 bbls. oranges, and 100 boxes ditto. She will have a full outward cargo and besides a large quantity of fish, etc., from here she will take a lot of western goods. These latter have been hitherto going to New York, but the low rates now quoted by the C.P.R. is resulting in a large part of western exports being shipped via St. John.

A prospect of a new move in the lumber export business is noted. There is a demand from France for pulp wood, owing to change in conditions there. The usual supply has been cut off, and, it is thought, the demand can be supplied from here. A trial shipment is to be made.

There was very general regret here when the news of the death of G. H. Clerihew was received. Mr. Clerihew was a general favorite and a most successful saleman, the large business now done here by Nelson, Morris & Co. being largely due to his efforts. THE CANADIAN GROCER joins with his many friends in extending to his family deep sympathy in this the time of their great sorrow.

EIGHTEEN NINETY SEVEN FAVORITE

"Since upwards a Quarter Century, we have used your exquisite Coffee Blends and won't use any other."—Extract.

A Merry Christmas to All

A good advice may be an acceptable Christmas gift, and possibly, in time, a very valuable one.

Have you realized the situation of the apple market ? ....

If you have not, this mention alone should be for you all a revelation ...

You are no doubt aware how short the last crop was as compared with the previous one .....

You know the value of green apples to-day, and their poor quality .....

You know that the total shipments to date from Canada and the United States are 582,536 barrels, compared with 2,095,737 up to the same date last year.

You know that the last cable information from Liverpool was that the English market showed a strong demand and that no Canadian fruit was offered, all previous shipments having been absorbed. The same cablegram stated: "With limited quantities for export, continued good prices are looked for after the New Year."

You know that there can be no substitute for the Traditional Apple Pie.

You know that to see the next apple crop you must live nine or ten months more .....

You know that the people of this country must have apples ....

You know that most foreign countries look to Canada for their apple requirements . . . . .

You know that the tres recherche Canadian apples can be had only in Canada . . . . .

You know that the green apple stock available is already very small and prices are steadily rising in consequence.

You know that the next best thing to green apples are Dried Apples, Evaporated Apples, and last but not least Canned Apples . . . . .

You know that Dried Apples, Evaporated Apples and Canned Apples are now relatively cheap . . . . .

But . . . do you know if they will remain at the actual figures very long ? . . . .

Are the above observations conclusive enough to induce you to buy promptly ? . . . .

Have we sufficiently defined the situation to convince you that buying now any kind of Preserved Apples would be a good purchase ? . . . .

That is our opinion . . . . .

The very few of our Customers and friends who had not the good fortune to purchase their year's supply of Tomatoes, Corn and Peas at the lowest point of the market are those who did not follow our advices.

HUDON, HEBERT & CIE.

QUEBEC BOARD OF TRADE.

At the annual meeting of the Quebec Board of Trade the only business of importance transacted was the adoption of the report, which covered exhaustively the year's work.

Certain mineral oils are found to be in serious competition with Canadian fish oils for many purposes, as is also Newfoundland fish oil. The board favors a maintenance of the duties upon the former, and the imposition of an import tax of 20 per cent. upon the latter.

The question of having a bankruptcy law framed for the Dominion is very favorably looked upon.

The hope is expressed that the Quebec and Parry Sound Railway will be pushed to completion, as the saving of many hundred miles which this route effects will have a good influence on trade to the Atlantic.

The new board building is also noticed, and on the subject of membership it is reported that 60 new members came in last year, making in all 201 at present. A total of from 500 to 600 is looked for in the near future.

At the election of officers Hon. R. R. Dobell was put in nomination by his friends for a third term of the presidency of the board, but was defeated on a division of 43 votes for Mr. Dupre and 23 for the Hon. R. R. Dobell. The other officers were elected as follows: First vice-president, M. Joseph; second do., George Tanguay; secretary, N. Le Vasseur; treasurer, James Brodie. Board of Arbitration, Messrs. F. H. Andrews, jr., F. X. Berlinguet, John Breakey, Wm. Brodie, Geo. T. Davie, Felix Gourdeau, G. Le Moine, Wm. Macpherson, J. E. Martineau, J. C. McLimont, Narcisse Rioux. George E. Tanguay. Council, Messrs. F. H. Andrews, jr., Rodolphe Audette, P. J. Bazin, F. X. Berlinguet, N. Rioux, D. Arcand, Victor Chateauvert, E. B. Garneau, Jos. Gauthier, Arthur Paquet, C. E. Roy, E. G. Scott, Hon. R. R. Dobell.

TRAVELER GOWANLOCK'S RACE.

A few years ago, writes Tom Swalwell in a daily paper, Mr. Robert Gowanlock, who is one of the oldest and most esteemed men on the road to-day, and another grocery man both got telegrams at Meaford from the firms they represented to get to Owen Sound without delay, a customer there wanted a carload of stuff to ship up the lakes. They both agreed to hire a rig and drive over together in the morning and divide the order between them. Next morning Robert had a customer to see in Meaford, which delayed him about twenty minutes. While booking the order he was a good deal surprised to see his opposition friend drive past at a three-minute clip, on his 20-mile journey to the Sound. Mr. Robert was staggered for a moment. "Ah, that's the little game, is it?" He pulled himself together and made for the hotel, rang up the livery and ordered the fastest thing that stood on four legs that was in the barn; right away quick; not a moment to lose. While the rig was being brought round "the old hand" rang up Owen Soune and told his customer he would be with him in a couple of hours and to get the list ready. It was a case of "catch-as-catch-can." The young traveler in front had a covered rig, so could not tell what was going, or, rather, coming, on behind. At the halfway Robert knew he had his man well in hand, but he lay low, and kept behind until within a mile of the town, when he pulled off the gravel and went helter-skelter down a side-road, on the full run. He got into the hotel the back way, registered, and off he went to book his order. When the younger traveler drove up to the hotel a few minutes later and looked at the register he saw that well-known signature, "R. W. Gowanlock, Toronto." It froze his blood. He turned deathly pale, and gasped: "Colonel, who signed Mr. Gowanlock's name here?"

"He signed it himself, sir."

"But that's impossible. I left him in Meaford a little over two hours ago."

"I don't know anything about that. He signed the register and went down street, sir."

Alas, "the old un" had been too quick for the young traveler, whose journey was in vain, for Robert booked the entire order. Then he rang up Toronto, telephoned the order to the firm. That was the quickest thing on record.

TRAVELERS' MUTUAL BENEFIT.

The Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society elected the following officers on Saturday by acclamation: President, Henry Goodman; vice-president, S. R. Wickett; treasurer, Warring Kennedy. Nominated as Toronto trustees, four to be elected: J.A. Ross, H. Lamont, D. A. Rose, J. Knox, J. T. B. Lee, W. F. Smith, Joseph Devaney, G. E. Bradshaw.

TORONTO CITY TRAVELERS.

The City Travelers' Association held its election of officers last Friday evening, at which the following were appointed for the ensuing year:

President—G. B. Curran (acclamation).
1st Vice-President—W. J. Parks (acclamation).
2nd Vice-President—J. W. King.
Chaplain—E. Davis.
Treasurer—James Mortimer (re-elected).
Secretary—Jerry Burns (re-elected).

CLIMBING OVER THE PASS.

THE route over the mountains is championed by Joseph Ladue, the founder of Dawson City, who has been in the gold region for several years and possesses large interests there. He has written a book about the whole question.* He thinks the traveler should go across the continent by railway and then by steamer up the Pacific Coast to Juneau, Alaska, and on to Dawson City by the pass and water ways. On arriving at the port on the Pacific Coast from which the gold-seeker intends to take passage for Juneau he ought to have at least $500 (£100) for the purchase of outfit and supplies. The best time to start is about March 15 on this route. From Juneau the traveler journeys to Dyea by steamboat, a distance of 100 miles. At Dyea the outfit is packed to the foot of Taiya Pass. The length of this to its summit is 15 miles. From the summit to Lake Lindeman is 8 miles. At Lake Lindeman a boat is made from the materials in the outfit and the timber found by the lakeside. The lake is five miles long, and at the foot of it everything has to be portaged to Lake Bennet, less than a mile distant. Says Mr. Ladue: "Lake Bennet is 28 miles long, and while going through this lake the traveler crosses the boundary between British Columbia and the Northwest Territories (all British, of course). After going down Lake Bennet the traveler comes to Cariboo crossing, about four miles long, which takes him to Lake Tagish, twenty miles in length. After leaving Tagish he finds himself in Mud or Marsh Lake, 24 miles long, then into the Lynx River, on which he continues for 27 miles, until he comes to Miles Canyon, five-eighths of a mile long.

"Immediately on leaving Miles Canyon he has three miles of what is called bad river work, which, while not hazardous, is dangerous from the swift current and being very rocky. Great care has to be taken in going down this part of the river. He now finds himself in White Horse Canyon, the rapids of which are three-eighths of a mile in length, and one of the most dangerous places on the trip. A man is here guarded by a sign 'Keep a good look out.' No stranger or novice should try to run the White Horse Rapids alone in a boat. He should let his boat drop down the river guided by a rope, with which he has provided himself in his outfit, and which should be 150 feet long. It would be better if the traveler should portage here, the miners having constructed a portage road on the west side and put down roller-ways in some places, on which they roll their boats over. They have also made some windlasses, with which they haul their boat up the hill till they are at the foot of the canyon. The White Horse Canyon is very rocky and dangerous and the current extremely swift. After leaving the White Horse Canyon he goes down the river to the head of Lake Labarge, a distance of 14 miles. He can sit down and steer with the current, as he is going down the stream all the way. It is for this reason that in returning from the diggings he should take another route, of which he will get full particulars before leaving Dawson; therefore I do not take the time to give a full description of the return trip via the Yukon to St. Michael. He now goes through Lake Labarge—for 31 miles—till he strikes the Lewis River, this taking him down to Hootalinqua. He is now in the Lewis River, which takes him for 25 miles to Big Salmon River, the current all this time taking him down at the rate of five miles an hour. Of course, in the canyons it is very much swifter.

"The Little Salmon River takes him to Five Finger Rapids, a distance of 120 miles. In the Five Finger Rapids the voyage should be made on the right side of the river, going with the current. These rapids are considered safe by careful management, but the novice will have already had sufficient experience in guiding his boat before reaching them. From Five Finger Rapids the traveler goes six miles below, down the Lewis, to the Rink Rapids. On going through the Rink Rapids, he continues on the Lewis River to Fort Selkirk, the trading post of Harper & Ladue, where the Pelly and Lewis, at their junction, form the headwaters of the Yukon. You are now at the head of the Yukon River and the worst part of your trip is over. You now commence to go down the Yukon, and, after a trip of 98 miles, you are in the White River. You keep on the White River for 10 miles, to the Stewart River, and then 25 miles to Fort Ogilvie. You are now only 40 miles from Dawson City."

This rapid trip (on paper) sounds simple enough. But in reality it is a hard and perilous journey. The Taiya Pass, one traveler says, is not a "pass" at all, but a straight climb over the mountains. The incline he puts at an angle of 55 deg., and this, with fifty pounds or so of goods upon the back, is a pretty tough struggle for a strong man. In May the summit was covered with snow, and the trail in some places, besides being a steep descent, sometimes compels the traveler to go through water and slush two or three feet deep.

This is the forest primeval. The murmuring pines and the hemlock
Stand like Druids of eld, with voices sad and prophetic,
Stand like harpers hoar, with beards that rest on their bosoms.

5. It is impossible for a company just entering the business to make as perfect machines at as low prices as "The National." It took The National Cash Register Company fifteen years to attain to its present standard of excellence.

6. Over 130,000 merchants in all parts of the world are using National Cash Registers. They will testify to their superiority.

7. The National Cash Register Company delivers its registers in Canada duty free, so that they can be bought as cheaply in Canada as at the factory at Dayton, Ohio.

WATCH FOR THIS MAN.

A man about five feet six inches tall, slight build, medium dark hair, sandy mustache, apparently 35 or 40 years of age, using various names, is again calling on the grocery trade and falsely representing himself as a salesman of T. Kingsford & Son, Oswego, N.Y., manufacturers of Kingsford's Oswego starch.

He solicits orders at prices much below their regular list and frequently requests merchants to endorse or cash drafts upon the firm for expense money. He exhibits false letters purporting to be written by T. Kingsford & Son, authorizing such drafts, together with spurious business cards, letterheads, order blanks, and other stationery. All persons are warned against giving orders for Oswego starch to this person, or endorsing or cashing drafts drawn by him upon T. Kingsford & Son for any purpose.

PORCELAIN-LINED TINS.

Porcelain-lined tins are one of the newest inventions for packing salmon in on the market. They have been used by a reliable firm for some time. They say that they have no equal for preserving the fish. It is only a matter of time when the public will find this out. They will then appreciate the fact that the possibility of metallic corrosion is obviated by the use of porcelain jars. They then will insist upon having their salmon packed in this and no other way. By this method the fish does not come in contact with the tin at all, and provided only it be fresh when packed, it must necessarily remain so when cooked.

There is no reason why other goods cannot be put up in the same kind of jars.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

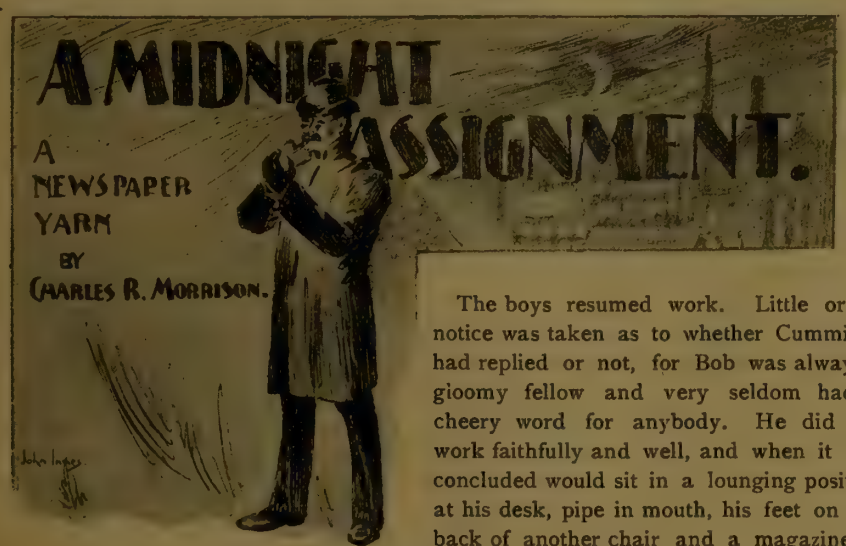
Vol. XI. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, DECEMBER 31, 1897 ($2.00 per Year) No. 53



THE staff of The Daily Boomerang were all in, with the exception of Cummings and Tillotson. Each man, seated at his desk in the glare of the gaslight, was grinding out Christmas copy for the following day's special issue. In the adjoining room was seated the city editor, a pleasant, good-natured fellow, who commanded the respect and admiration of the entire staff. The chimes of the cathedral clock had just sounded the hour of midnight.

It was Christmas Day.

"Many of them, boys," shouted the city editor, "many of them."

This was a signal for general greetings. A newspaper office at any time is dismal, but on the birth of a Christmas Day it would be doubly so without these hearty expressions of good fellowship.

"Hello!" shouted Gilmore, "here's Cummings. A merry Christmas, old man," and the greeting was taken up by the other members.

Cummings paid no attention to this, and without reply seated himself at his desk and began filling his pipe slowly.

The boys resumed work. Little or no notice was taken as to whether Cummings had replied or not, for Bob was always a gloomy fellow and very seldom had a cheery word for anybody. He did his work faithfully and well, and when it was concluded would sit in a lounging position at his desk, pipe in mouth, his feet on the back of another chair and a magazine in his hand. His demeanor at any time was not that which at all drew one to him; on the other hand, it was repellant. But for all this, Bob Cummings was well liked by city editor and reporters.

The ring of the telephone in the outer hall started the office boy to his feet, and also aroused the members of the staff who were not working at some task, for the ring of a telephone in a newspaper office after midnight generally means extra work for someone. Cummings was the only man who did not find something to do.

The city editor entered the reportorial room.

"You're not busy, eh, Cummings?"

"No, sir."

"Well, I have just received word from Tillotson, at police, of a murder in Carghill street. A woman was found dead there a few minutes ago, and as Tillotson has that other case to look after, I think you had better take it up."

"Very well, sir," and Cummings, after refilling his pipe, left the room.

"I say, Cummings," called the chief, "make the best out of that yarn, and rush the copy."

Cummings, if he heard, made no reply, and the office was soon running quietly on as though no murder had ever taken place. A newspaper man hears of a murder with exactly the same feeling as he would a wedding in high life. They are both the same to him.

In about three-quarters of an hour from the time the chief spoke of the Carghill street murder, Cummings returned. Later, the city editor was surprised by an immense bundle of copy being thrown on the desk in front of him, and turning around, beheld Cummings passing out into the reportorial room. Bob seated himself at the desk, and continued puffing away at his pipe. A request from the next room took him back, however, to the city editor's side.

"I don't mind a good yarn, Cummings," the chief said, "but have you not rather drawn upon your imagination this time? Why, this theory as to how the murderer ended that woman's life sounds, to say the least, a little Sherlock Holmes-like. That's all very well in a novel, you know, but Sherlock Holmes will never do in a newspaper. What makes you think this? Now, Bob, listen. You say, 'There is little doubt that the murder was not premeditated, but was the result of a sudden passionate outburst on the part of the assassin.'"

"What is this word?" asked the city editor, pausing and pointing to the erasure of a word for which 'assassin' had been evidently substituted. "It looks like 'husband.'"

He regarded Cummings as he spoke, with an amused smile, and the latter, who was playing with his pipe, snapped the stem suddenly between his fingers.

"I guess it's 'husband' all right," he said, at last.

"You seem to be guessing a good deal to-night," remarked the chief; "too much guess work altogether. Now, look at this: 'There seems to be little doubt that shortly after eleven o'clock last night the murderer entered the room of the woman, with whom he had been previously intimate, that he upbraided her with some wrong-doing, and that during the quarrel which arose he, losing control of his temper, struck her over the head with a heavy walking stick.'"

The city editor paused.

"Now, how many pages does this precious serial of yours take up?" he asked, and, glancing hastily over the copy, extracted several sheets, threw them on the table, and, turning to Cummings, continued:

"Don't you think, Bob, that you are wasting your talents in this office? Why not turn your hand to writing detective stories?"

Before Cummings could reply to this last cutting remark, the outer door of the city editor's room opened, and in walked Garrison and Payne, two of the detectives from the headquarters staff.

"Just the men I wanted to see," continued the city editor, addressing them. "Have you a vacancy over there for a good man, a regular Sherlock Holmes? What do you think of that for a theory?" and he handed over Cummings' copy.

Garrison took it, at the same time scrutinizing its author, who stood by, sullenly, and began to read. There was a long and painful pause for Cummings, during which time Payne and the city editor exchanged quick glances. Garrison's face brightened, then wore an expression of half surprise and seeming satisfaction. He looked to be enjoying it. No one seemed to have any desire to speak further. The situation undoubtedly was becoming embarrassing, for Garrison, as he read, would look at Cummings to pass some apparently uncalled-for remark, and finally ended by saying, as he handed the copy to Payne, "Well, the man who wrote that ought to know."

The city editor glanced sharply at Cummings, then back at Garrison, then at the man holding the copy.

"Perhaps Mr. Cummings could come with us and corroborate this story?" added Payne, meaningly.

"Good God, Bob!" put in the city editor, hastily, rising to his feet and scanning the faces of the three men, "surely you know nothing of this woman?"

It seemed an age before the answer came. Then Cummings said, slowly, as though each word burned agony into his soul, "'Husband' was right, sir; she was my wife."—The Mail and Empire.

MAY NEED SUPPLIES.

MR. WILLIAM STUART, ex-captain of the Capital Lacrosse Club, Ottawa, will probably go to the Klondyke.

Major Hepman, of the 4th Royal Fusiliers, and Capt. Alleyne, of the 12th Lancers, were in Winnipeg the other day on their way to Edmonton, whence they depart in ten days for the Klondyke. The party will consist of fourteen men, including two doctors, besides the packers, drivers, guides, etc. They will have 120 horses, a number of dog teams, etc., and expect to put a number of tons of supplies into Dawson—all food and medical supplies and no liquor. After reaching Dawson they will survey the country east of the Yukon.

Mr. Sloane has returned to Montreal to settle up with his creditors. He has made a large sum of money in the Klondyke and intends returning in the spring. He can be heard of from Mr. Hopper, Board of Trade Buildings.

Capt. Barnard heads a party to the Klondyke via Edmonton in the spring.

Col. Bernier, of Quebec, starts for the North Pole on March 1.

Mr. Y. Monk, a brother of Calvin Monk, Raglan, is on his way home from the Klondyke with $80,000.

Two parties will leave St. Thomas in the spring for the Klondyke, the first headed by Mr. G. H. Kennedy, C.E., D.L.S., in March, the other in May, by Mr. G. L. Sherlock, of the G.T.R.

Mr. Percy Vosburg, dentist, Montreal, leaves for the Klondyke in the spring.

Mr. Hopper, Board of Trade Buildings, Montreal, is getting up a party to go to the Klondyke early in the spring.

Joseph Ladue, the founder of Dawson City, is in Ottawa again. He is there to see the Department of the Interior in regard to the issue of patents for the land which is now held by the Joseph Ladue Mining Co. With him are John B. Riley, ex-United States Consul General here; Hon. Smith M. Weed, of New York, and Thomas N. Conway, of Plattsburg. Mr. Ladue counsels the use of the Dalton trail as the most practicable at this time of year.

Several young men are arranging to start from St. John, N.B., for the Klondyke gold fields in the spring. The Messrs. O'Mara, mining engineers, have been chosen by a company of influential men to venture to the gold fields.

A UNIQUE TEA WINDOW.

One of the unique windows on Main street which is attracting a great deal of attention is that of Mr. D. W. McLean's, the grocer, on the Pacific avenue corner. The representation is that of a family at tea in their home; a tramp is coming up to the door, and the lady of the house is in the act of giving him a repast. The figures are all life size and look natural.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

OLD BRISTOL.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is in receipt of a folio of views of Bristol and Clifton, and we are indebted for it to Purnell, Webb & Co., the manufacturers of Purnell's pure malt, plain and spiced vinegars, whose brewery is situated in Bristol. There are twenty-one views showing the quaint old town and its unique and beautiful environment. The views are not only well selected, but they are exceedingly well executed.

A Few New Year Thoughts

It is right to look our accounts bravely in the face now and then, and settle them bravely.

The man who always agrees with you may be a pleasant companion; but when you want sound advice go to someone else.

Sacrifice money rather than principle. Attend carefully to the details of your business. Injure not another's reputation or business. Yield not to discouragements.

Success always travels in the direction you are going; it cannot be met, but must always be overtaken.

Extend to everyone a kindly salutation.

THE CHAMPION MEAN MAN.

IN THE cloakroom of the House the other day a warm discussion was in progress, says The N.Y. Tribune.

"I bet you a hat," said a member from the south, "that the meanest man in the world lives in my district."

"Taken," said a venerable politician from the west; "go on with your story."

"Well," began the M.C. from the south, "one of my constituents, who is a grocer, it so mean that if you pick up a cracker in his store he expects you to lay down a copper for it. At one time he was anxious to obtain the contract to supply our city almshouses with groceries. I was one of the aldermen, and he needed my vote. He dropped in one evening to see me concerning it, and when he left my son Dan and a college chum of his fell to joking about Z's stinginess.

"'But,' said the chum, 'he can't afford to be mean with you now that he wants your father's influence.'

"'He can't!' answered Dan; 'I'll lay you a pretty wager that if I should take old Z. an order from my mother amounting to $20 and should help myself to a pickle on the way out he would charge for the pickle on the monthly account.'

"'Done,' said the chum, and together they went to the shop, my son Dan carrying with him a large order for groceries, which he read off to Z.

"'Nice pickles, these,' said Dan, as he passed out of the door, 'think I'll take one,' helping himself out of the barrel as he spoke.

"'Help yourself,' called out the grocer cordially, but on the next bill, rendered at the foot of the order for $20 worth of groceries, was the item: 'One pickle to Dan, one cent.'"

"Did you vote for him as contractor," all the members assembled asked in a chorus, but their brother from below Mason and Dixon's line refused to answer this personal question.

"You've lost," said the politician from beyond the Mississippi, "my man is the meanest. I'll tell the story: There is an old brewer in my district who is noted from one end of the state to the other for his stinginess, and while he has made a large fortune by brewing he has never been known to give a glass of beer away. I am rather proud of my persuasive powers, and, feeling sure that I could wheedle a drink out of the old man, made a wager to that effect with one of my political lieutenants.

"We drove together, for I was anxious to have a witness of my triumph, to the old man's place. He was a gardener and a florist in a small way, and for amusement and to get him in good humor I walked with him over his demesne, praising his vegetables, his flowers, his stock, his poultry, his children and his wife. Finally, feeling that the time was ripe for an effort, I said:

"'And I understand, Jacob, that you make a very fine beer, the finest that is made in the state.'

"'Dot is so, dot is so,' acknowledged Jacob.

"'They tell me,' continued I, 'that the Hofbrau in Munich would be glad to exchange its recipe for yours and has offered a prize to anyone who will procure it.'

"'Is dot so? Is dot so?' asked the brewer excitedly. Then to his wife, 'Rosa, bring me von glass of beer.'

The beer was brought, foaming over the sides of an old-fashioned stein. I turned to my companion in triumph, and he showed evidence of great dejection. Jacob looked proudly at the mug, then at me and back at the mug again. Finally, he put it to his lips and drained it to the bottom at one draught. When he had finished he handed the mug to me.

"'Vell,' he said, 'ef you don't pelief I mak gut beer you just smell dot jug.'"

WINDOW DRESSING.

By R. O. Fielding, Hamilton.

WINDOW dressing is now generally recognized as an important factor in the retail store. Men of more than ordinary intelligence are filling the position of window dresser or trimmer.

The "eyes" to a merchant's store is his window, therefore it should be made as attractive and inviting as possible. Too little attention is, as a rule, given by the grocers to this advertising feature of their business. It is true there are no goods so difficult to attractively display as those found in the grocery store; it requires greater natural aptitude, more study and practical experience to be successful in this line, which is all the more reason why this branch of the business should have more life put into it.

The window shows the class of goods for sale, and is the great exponent of value. It is an advertisement of the store and goods. The problem is to so artistically and practically dress the window as to attract and please the passer-by and lead him to purchase or think of purchasing. The window must say "stop and look." Next to an attractive newspaper notice a well-dressed window is the best kind of an advertisement; it makes people talk.

"By my scouts I was advertised."—Shakespeare, Henry vi.

A window that sells the goods is one that comes up before the mind's eye of a would-be purchaser, therefore the display should be such that the impression created is lasting.

". . strive to intercept and guide . .
And in its eye more closely they come back."—Dryden.

An attractive novelty in the window will not only bring people to the store, but will prove a talking advertisement. Some mechanical arrangement, some startling novelty, something out of the conventional style is sure to attract and draw attention to the goods displayed. Let the grocer invest in a few simple means of attraction and beautifying his wares, some Japanese fans, umbrellas, storks, a lot of dried moss, some trailing vines, Brownie figures, flags of all nations and the like, and he will be surprised at the rapidity with which it will elevate the tone of his business.

"Then consider what scope the 'business' of the scene gives to the (grocer's) purpose."—Henry Irving.

Always introduce something in the centre—a striking centre-piece, so to speak—of any display. Never crowd a window. It is a grave mistake to fill a window with a heterogeneous collection of goods. It may be a fine exhibit of first-class goods, but is too confusing a mass to make any impression on the observer. The artistic arrangement of a few goods will prove more attractive than a crowded window. The best results are obtained by taking one article or one class of articles and make a really great display. There must be a definite relation between the lines of goods shown; they must harmonize one with the other—flour, pickles, canned fish do not harmonize; flour, baking powder, package cereals do; and there must not be too many kinds, or the impression will be lost.

Keep the window trimmed up to date, that is, commemorate festivities, celebrations, national holidays, etc., with appropriate displays.

A well-dressed window is made doubly attractive by a well-written and well-made price or show card. A good display card is a "silent salesman." There is more eloquence and beauty in an alluring price or show card than in almost anything else, apart from the goods. Let the wording be crisp and catchy, and do not put too much on each card. People have not the time or inclination to read more than a few words. If the goods are well known and price low, make the price prominent. One legitimate bargain announced by a modest card makes more of an impression than a window full of different lots of goods. Such an array of reduced goods, besides being confusing, is apt to shake the faith of the people in the veracity of the house.

"Next to the pleasure of buying a bargain for one's self, is the pleasure of persuading a friend to buy it."—Lamb's Letters.

A good background is just as essential as the display itself. They are best made from cheesecloth, tastefully draped in colors to harmonize with the display.

The successful window must not only be a good salesman, but an advertising agent as well. People who do not read the advertisement see the windows, and many people who read the advertisement and wish to buy the things advertised walk past the windows of the store before going in, to see the goods displayed.

When trimming your window, put up a blind or curtain, on which put some short, pithy advertisements.

NORTHWEST TRAVELERS.

At the annual meeting of the Northwest Travelers' Association, held in Winnipeg, the president's report showed the past year to have been one of the best in the history of the association.

The membership is now the largest yet, having reached 432, a gain of 63 during the year. The amount of mortuary benefit insurance carried is $62,703.66, and there were no calls on the fund this year. The directors had recommended that steps should be taken to find the financial position of the association, to see how soon the mortuary benefit to each member may be increased.

Representatives of the association had waited on the railway passenger agents, asking them to reduce the scale of charges on excess baggage. No answer had been received, but a reply is promised as soon as the passenger association holds its meeting.

The treasurer's report showed a balance at the end of this year of $18,921.34, an increase over last year of $2,481.

The composition offer of McKenzie & Campbell, general merchants, Kirkfield, who assigned to E. J. Henderson, will be accepted. The offer is 40c. on the dollar at one, three and four months.

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

New Year's Day Trade.

It is interesting to note the difference of opinion in regard to the business expected to be done this week. Some merchants say that the keeping of New Year's Day is dying out, that people, instead of visiting, as formerly, spend their time at skating rinks or at any other amusement which they can find. Others find that their trade for New Year's Day has increased steadily, especially among their Scotch customers, and are expecting a good business this week. The probability is that those who expect a good business for this day, and who prepare for it by keeping a range of suitable goods, will have their expectations realized.

Studying One's own Business.

The season of rush is, in many cases, about over, and the retailer will have time in the next couple of months to make a study of his business methods and the methods of those around him, and by comparison see the advantages or disadvantages of his system of advertising, his method of window, counter and shelf displaying, the strength or weakness of his credit system, his manner of buying. A good, careful study, followed up by a vigorous policy of progressive improvement, will be sure to result in a satisfactory increase of business. The retailers in the smaller cities and large towns especially, will find it good policy to get together once or twice during the coming months and see if, by united action, a better system of credit cannot be introduced into the locality than has been the case in the past. Every retailer must, by this time, fully realize how much more satisfactory is business done on a cash basis than business done on a credit basis. This year will be found in many towns an exceptionally good one for the introduction of the cash system. The farmers have the money, and in a great many towns work is much more plentiful than for some time. Selling for cash is desirable chiefly in that it enables one to buy for cash, which means that goods will be had at the lowest wholesale prices. This latter object should be aimed at, and every means possible should be used to reach it. The merchant who reduced his stock about 20 per cent. in order to have a cash surplus for buying made a good hit. He now has a cash fund ready for all emergencies, and is enabled to take up any snaps which come along—and they come. Some grocers who have felt during the Christmas season that small panes of glass in their windows were not the thing, that plate glass windows were what they needed, will now have an opportunity to prepare estimates and see if they cannot have the desired improvement the coming year. Others have too little counter room, others again too little shelf room. Some have grown so that they now feel their present premises too small. Every man who is progressive will at this season look around to see in what way his business can be improved. Yet, though trade is dull, care should be taken to have everything fresh and clean-looking around the counter and in the shelves, to have the windows attractively arranged, and to be ever on the look-out for more trade.

Canadian Dealers too Often Deceived

It is of vast importance that every dealer should exercise the greatest caution when buying Paste Stove Polish.

The QUICKSHINE has attained such immense popularity that unscrupulous people have gone into stove polish business and are manufacturing polish that pays them tremendous profits. The materials employed in the composition of these imitation packages are so poor and cheap that the woman who buys them can never get the results she desires, and in this manner, to a certain extent, injures the sale of the good article.

When stove polish is required for domestic use ask your dealer or wholesale grocer for QUICKSHINE STOVE POLISH, and accept no substitute in the way of imitation package polishes, or polishes that are two-thirds soap and one-third polishing material.

If your wholesale dealer does not sell QUICKSHINE, send direct to us for same, stating the wholesale dealer you wish us to send it through; or if you prefer it sent direct, we will forward same at once. Price per 3-doz. Case, $2.25.

Balance on hand		$6 19

It will be noticed that there is a handsome balance to be divided among the creditors. But the most striking feature is not the smallness of the balance; it is the largeness of the expenses.

By totalling up the amounts paid to assignee, lawyers, printing, etc., it will be observed that over $177 out of a total disbursement of $291 was expended on these accounts.

In other words, over 60 per cent. of the disbursements was in fees, advertising and printing account; or, taking it another way, it took over 47 per cent. of the receipts to pay the assignee, the lawyers and other incidental expenses.

Could there be wanted a stronger evidence than this of the necessity of a Dominion insolvency law? In our opinion there scarcely could be. To think that in this day and generation such a large proportion of an estate should be swallowed by fees and such a small proportion should be left for the creditors is a disgraceful reflection on the legislators of the country, who have time and again refused to place a law upon the statute books which will enable insolvent estates to be wound up with moderate, and not as it now is, immoderate, cost.

Someone has said "that guns cannot open new markets." But into countries which guns have opened up to civilization an effort is usually made to ram trade home.

IS SOMEONE CORNERING CORN?

Whatever may be the causes which are stimulating the demand for tomatoes, there is unquestionably some speculation at the bottom of the interest which is being taken in corn.

Montreal is the centre of this speculative interest, and some round lots have within the past week or two been shipped there from Toronto. One wholesale house a few days ago sold one thousand cases of corn and peas on this account.

One house is alleged to be trying to corner the market on corn, but it is stated on good authority that it has been offered in all about twenty-five thousand cases more than it purposed buying.

The Ontario Government may or may not have a surplus, but there is no question forsooth as to the surplus of gas possessed by many members of the House.

BEET SUGAR IN CANADA.

IT IS interesting to notice that just when the agitation in Europe for the removal of the bounties on beet sugar is taking such an active turn that the agitation for beet sugar culture is being actively promulgated in Great Britain, in the United States and in Canada. In Great Britain it has been demonstrated that in certain counties beets can be produced which contain a higher percentage of sugar than the average beets produced in Germany, while in the United States the industry has got beyond the experimental stages, factories having been started and successfully operated in various parts of the country.

Canadians are, of course, practically interested in the matter as far as it concerns their own country.

In the years gone by efforts were made to establish sugar beet factories at Coaticook, Farnham, and Berthier, in the province of Quebec. But all resulted disastrously. The machinery of the Farnham factory is now being used for making beet sugar at Rome, N.Y., with satisfactory results, having been transferred there a couple of years ago.

A writer in The Montreal Star, referring some weeks ago to the factory at Rome, stated that many important and economic changes had been introduced in the rearrangement of the machinery. "For instance," he said, "the old charcoal filtration has given place to fumigation by the vapors of sulphur, which produces the same effect at very much less cost. A saving, too, of the labor of between 30 and 40 men has been made by the introduction of water carriage, which not only brings the beets to the elevator, but at the same time thoroughly cleanses them in the transit."

It has been abundantly proved that in the western and southern portions of Quebec beets suitable for sugar can be produced. And now it has been demonstrated, as pointed out in THE CANADIAN GROCER some weeks ago, that at least that portion of Ontario lying along the Georgian Bay is capable of doing the same thing. This is shown by the samples which were last month analyzed by Prof. Shuttleworth at the Agricultural College, Guelph.

Forty-two samples were analyzed. Of these one showed 17 per cent. of sugar, five 16 per cent. and over, seventeen 15 per cent. and over, ten 14 per cent. and over, three 13 per cent. and over, one 12 per cent., three over 10 per cent. and less than 11 per cent. The lowest of the 42 samples was 10.7 per cent. With the three last named samples left out the average of 37 samples was 14.75 per cent.

It is interesting to note, by way of comparison, that in Germany the yield is 13.97 per cent. of sugar, and in France only 11 per cent. The beets grown in the vicinity of Owen Sound are, it will be observed, richer in sugar than those produced in Germany, and far richer than those on French soil. The recent experiment in England showed 14.01 per cent. of sugar.

The seed from which the beets were grown was obtained from Germany by the Owen Sound Sugar Manufacturing Co., Limited, and by it distributed among four hundred farmers. The average yield was 16 tons per acre, while the highest was 33 tons. Taking 16 tons as the average yield per acre, it means that the farmers would receive about $64 per acre, presuming that they would obtain the same price as the farmers in New York State do, namely, $4 per ton. The Owen Sound concern, it may be stated, expects to pay from $4 to $5 per ton. In California the return to the farmer is from $50 to $70 per acre, while as high as $120 has been realized.

The Owen Sound Sugar Manufacturing Co., Limited, which was incorporated a few months ago with a capital of $150,000 in shares of $25 each, expects to have its factory in operation some time in 1898. Nearly $30,000 has been subscribed, and an effort will be made to induce the town of Owen Sound to give a bonus of $20,000, while a deputation recently waited upon the Ontario Government with a request for a bounty of half a cent per pound, or that it guarantee the debentures of the company to the extent of $125,000. The Dominion Government has already a standing offer of one cent per pound bounty, which is, of course, not enjoyed by anyone, there now being no beet sugar factory in Canada. There is, however, every hope that there soon will be one.

It is to be hoped that life insurance will not be the death of the Toronto Board of Trade, which a week or two ago it gravely threatened to be.

DOLLAR TOMATOES.

WHOLESALERS who have been anticipating dollar tomatoes have had their anticipations realized. Wholesalers in Toronto are this week quoting $1 to $1.10 per dozen.

It is some time since tomatoes realized that figure. In fact, one has to go back six years to 1891 to find prices approximating to those now ruling. At the end of that year quotations ranged from $1.05 to $1.10 per dozen, according to quality.

The wholesale quotations ruling at the end of December for each of the following years were: 1896, 65c. per dozen; 1895, 77½c.; 1894, 85c.; 1893, 80c.; 1892, 85c.; 1891, $1.05 to $1.10; 1890, $1.35 to $1.40; 1889, $1.05 to $1.20.

Even higher prices than those recorded were obtained in 1890, for THE CANADIAN GROCER has in mind one wholesale house which paid as high as $1.65 to retailers to fill orders booked early in the season, the pack being so short that supplies could not be obtained from the canners.

At the figures now ruling, wholesalers are getting a handsome profit, particularly on such goods as they may have in stock which were bought when the packers were offering futures at from 60 to 65c. per dozen. Their condition is a great deal different from what it was a year ago at this time, when they were losing as much as 20c. per dozen in some instances.

As an indication of how strong the position is it may be noted that one wholesale house in Toronto this week sold a couple of hundred cases of tomatoes at 95c. per dozen and would not repeat the order for less than $1 per dozen.

In the United States the tendency of the tomato market is also upward. The advance began early last week, and The New York Journal of Commerce, of Friday last, in referring to the situation, said: "Within a day or two prices have advanced 5c. per dozen and according to report orders have piled up so rapidly that holders have become very independent and reject bids only a shade under their prices. Yesterday some sales of Marylands were made at 82½ f.o.b. in Harford county, while to-day it is stated an order for 2,000 cases at 85c. net cash in the country was turned down. Several large buyers are reported to be in the market with bids up to the current prices of the early part of the week on 2,000 to 5,000-case lots, but so far have not been able to get more than half the quantity wanted even at an advance. Stocks of all southern tomatoes in packers' hands are reported to be exceptionally light, owing to the unfavorable conditions prevailing during the growing and packing seasons this year. The New Jersey pack was, it is stated, only about one-third of that of 1896, and at the present time it is doubtful if anything could be obtained below $1 for standard grades, while fancy packs are quoted 5 to 20c. higher, according to brand."

ACTIVITY IN JAPAN TEA.

THERE has been more than the usual activity in Japan teas at Montreal during the past eight days, and as a result of the increased enquiry commission houses have turned over a large quantity of low and medium grade Japans, running from 12 to 16c. as to grade.

The enquiry has come from jobbing houses in Montreal and Ottawa chiefly, but Quebec city purchasers have also been in the market to a considerable extent.

One result of these purchases has been the realization of an advance on low grade Japans. Buyers who had paid 12c. toward the close, and at the beginning of the present week, want to repeat their orders for 300 to 500 package lots, but the sellers refused, asking 13 to 13½c.

It is estimated that from 3,000 to 4,000 packages of Japans have changed hands in Montreal since Saturday last.

SUGAR REFINERS' PRICES UP.

THE Montreal sugar refineries always shut down for about two weeks at the close of the year for cleaning and repairs. They have done so this week, and the fact has given increased strength to the already firm situation of the refined sugar market.

Previously when they shut down they had fair supplies of the refined article on hand. This year they have not, for despite the fact that they have been running to their full quantity, the demand has kept pace with it and their stocks are very light. This circumstance, coupled with the firm position outside, caused them to mark up their price ⅛c. per pound, both on granulated and yellows, on Tuesday morning last.

HIGHER DUTIES ON HOG PRODUCTS

THE pork industry of France has not been a satisfactory one for some years, and the competition of the foreign product is ascribed as the cause. The imports of hogs and hog products into that country during the last three years were valued at 120,000,000 francs. This, taking the franc at its present market value of 19c., would mean $6,315,789. France's exports of hogs and hog products during the same period did not exceed 25,000,000 francs.

It might be noted by way of comparison that Great Britain last year imported $38,225,306 worth of bacon, $15,262,300 worth of hams and $11,037,741 worth of lard. It will thus be seen that Great Britain's imports of lard alone exceeded by nearly $5,000,000 France's imports of hogs and hog products, all told, covering a period of three years.

With a view to stimulating the home hog industry, and as the Premier said, to remedy the decline in prices, the cable announces that one day last week the Chamber of Deputies adopted, by 418 to 97, a bill fixing a duty of 2 francs on hogs, 3 francs on sucking pigs and 50 francs per hundred kilos on hog products and 35 francs per hundred kilos on lard. This means from 38 to 57c. per each hog and sucking pig respectively, $9.50 per about 268 hundred pounds of hog products and $6.65 per 268 pounds of lard.

The producing country most interested in the imposition of these duties is, of course, the United States. The exports of that country to France for the present fiscal year were, in pounds weight: Lard, 20,934,590; bacon, 1,979,586; hams, 316,624; pork, 131,550. Canada scarcely sends enough hog products to France to be interested. According to the Trade and Navigation Returns we last year sent no bacon to France. Of hams we sent 2,341 pounds, valued at $257. We sent no pork to France, but St. Pierre and the French West Indies took $1,953 and $1,966 worth respectively.

While, however, Canada exports to France practically nothing in the shape of hog products, there is no saying what we might accomplish in the future if tariff obstacles are not too great. As everyone knows, our exports of hog products to Great Britain have increased wonderfully during the past four or five years. And naturally we hope some day to reach out after other European markets.

Outside Great Britain, France is the only country in Europe which last year took any hog products from us, and, as we have already pointed out, that was small enough. It was large enough, however, to make us zealous for its enlargement.

LOW STOCK OF CURRANTS.

Stocks of currants in Greece are now only 25,000 tons. The importance of this is evident when it is remembered that at this time last year the supply was about 60,000 tons. And even these 60,000 tons were exhausted before the new crop was upon the market. What, therefore, may be expected with less than half that quantity now in existence?

Quite naturally, therefore, prices in the primary market continue to appreciate, and Filiatras laid down in Toronto to-day would cost about 5⅞c. and fine Filiatras 6c.

Stocks in Canada are light, and the reason is largely due to the fact that when the market receded slightly a few months ago wholesalers thought a further decline was probable. Instead of the decline, however, came an advance, with the result that their stocks are smaller than they like them to be.

As noted in our market report, wholesalers have this week marked their figures up ¼c. per lb.

A township committee in Kearney, N.J., have granted a local man permission to make horse meat into sausage for export. The horses might say neigh, but the committee evidently could not.

B.C. SALMON PACK.

A Vancouver, B.C., correspondent of Mr. S. S. Gordon, of Astoria, Ore., writes as follows: "The official returns from the Fraser River pack have not been published as yet, but as close as I have been able to obtain the figures it is 860,000 cases. Of this amount about 5,000 cases are fall fishing; the balance is all sockeye grade. I have been unable to get the Sound pack as complete, but think it is about 470,000 cases, of which 350,000 is sockeye and balance fall fish of various grades."

A MOLASSES FAMINE.

EARLY this fall THE CANADIAN GROCER predicted that before the arrivals of new crop next spring a positive scarcity of Barbadoes molasses would be developed at Montreal. As time passed the fact became more and more likely, until at present it has been amply verified, for there is an undeniable scarcity of this great staple of the Quebec province trade.

Only one of the wholesale grocery firms in Montreal has anything like a fair stock, and naturally it is not a seller to competitors except at a handsome profit.

Houses whose supplies are light have, unfortunately for themselves, very little reserve stock in first hands to fall back on. There is only one lot of any quantity—about 1,000 puncheons—held in this connection. These goods are controlled by speculators, and they are asking a fancy price for them; more, in fact, than the Jobbing Guild price. When the Montreal market advanced also in previous years, the fact generally brought out offers from holders in the Maritime Provinces. This year it has not done so, for the very good reason that all they have down there they want for their own purposes.

With all these favorable circumstances in view, the feeling is bullish on molasses, and it is confidently predicted that the next alteration in price by the Wholesale Guild will be an advance of a full 2c. per gallon.

THE EXPORTS OF CEYLON TEA TO AMERICA.

Direct exports of tea from Ceylon to the North American continent, Canada and the United States continue to increase.

These exports from January 1st to the end of September were 569,708 pounds. For the same period in 1896 the quantity was 439,216 pounds; in 1895, it was 297,343 pounds, and in 1894 it was 160,721 pounds.

In other words, the direct exports of Ceylon tea to the North American continent have increased 254 per cent. in four years, a most remarkable increase surely.

The total exports of Ceylon tea to all countries during the period in question were 87,213,319 pounds, against 79,495,833 pounds in 1896; 74,670,751 pounds in 1895, and 65,906,385 pounds in 1894. The increase during the four years in this instance was over 34 per cent.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Dec. 30, 1897.

GROCERIES.

THIS is of all times in the year holiday week in the wholesale grocery trade. But notwithstanding this, business is good under the circumstances. There is no large demand for any one line of goods, but a good many letter orders have been coming in from merchants whose stocks need a little replenishing for the New Year's holiday trade. Sugar and canned goods are the two most interesting lines in the trade. On Tuesday last the refineries advanced their prices another eighth of a cent all round, and the outside markets rule firm. Wholesalers' views on tomatoes are higher, and the ruling figure is $1 to $1.10 per dozen. Prices generally rule strong.

CANNED GOODS.

Tomatoes have at last touched the dollar mark, the wholesalers having this week advanced their prices to $1 to $1.10 per dozen. Some houses declare they have nothing under $1.05 to offer. We hear of one transaction in which one wholesale house sold another wholesale house two or three hundred cases of tomatoes at 95c., but the sale could not be repeated at less than $1 per dozen. One thousand cases of canned corn and peas were sold for shipment to Montreal by one wholesale house, and the figures obtained were 70c. for corn and 85c. for peas. Very little business in canned goods is being done with retailers. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; corn, 70 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted select, 90c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.25 to $1.40; beans, 60 to 95c.; peaches, $2 to $2.60 for 3's, $1.40 to $1.75 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.80; strawberries, $1.40 to $1 70, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.40 to $1.70; cherries, $1.75 to $2.25; apples, 3's, 80 to 95c.; gallons, $2.25 to $2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25 in 5-case lots and $1.30 in less quantities; other red salmon, $1.20 upwards, according to quality and brand; cohoes, 95c. to $1; canned mackerel, $1.20 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.40 to $2.70 for tall tins; ½-lb. flats, $1.65 to $1.70; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.35 to $1.40; 2's, $2.35 to $2.50; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $15 to $16; Canadian kippered herrings, $4.50 per case.

COFFEE.

The coffee market rules strong, and business locally is good in Rio coffees. Jobbers quote green in bags: Rio, 8 to 12½c., according to grade; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; Santos, 12 to 18c.; Java, 30 to 33c.; Mocha, 27½ to 30c.; Maracaibo, 13 to 17c.; Jamaica, 16 to 22c.

SYRUPS.

Business is moderate. We quote: Dark, 23 to 25c.; medium, 28 to 35c.; bright, 32 to 42c.; corn syrup, 3 to 3¼c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

There is not much doing. We quote: New Orleans, bbls., 23 to 35c.; ditto. half-bbls., 25 to 37c.; ditto, fancy, 50 to 55c. in bbls. and half-bbls.; Barbadoes, 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 35c.

SUGAR.

Since a week ago the sugar market, both at home and abroad, has developed further strength. In Canada there was an advance on Tuesday last of ⅛c. per lb. on all refined sugars, and although there is very little business being done, the market is firm at the advance. We quote wholesale price, subject to a discount of 1 per cent., 10 days: Granulated (Redpath, St. Lawrence, Acadia), 4⅝c.; ditto, Dutch, in bags, 4⅜c.; ditto, German of Canadian make, in bbls., 4¼c.; ditto, imported, in bags, 4¼c.; yellows, 3⅞c. upwards.

NUTS.

There is a little sorting up being done. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12½ to 14c.; Valencia shelled almonds, 23 to 25c.; Tarragona almonds, 9 to 11c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 8 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12c.; Marbot walnuts, 9½ to 11c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 8 to 9c.; Sicily filberts, 9½c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; Naples filberts, 11c.; pecans, 12 to 12½c.

SPICES.

There has been a further advance in the primary market in black pepper, and spices generally are keeping firm. We quote as follows: Pure Singapore black pepper, ground, 14c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 15c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 12c. per lb.; pure white pepper, ground, 24 to 26c. in kegs, pails and boxes, and 20 to 22c. in 5-lb. cans; ditto, whole, 20 to 22c., according to quality; pure Jamaica ginger, 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 16c.; cassia, 25c. per lb. for ground and 40c. for Saigon.

TEA.

The local tea market is this week devoid of interesting features, there being scarcely anything doing. Gow, Wilson & Co.'s tea letter under date of Dec. 17, states that the market in London for Indian teas was then somewhat taxed by the heavy supply and although there was no marked giving way in prices, quotations for medium kinds were here and there slightly irregular. It was also stated that the season in India was practically closed in all districts. In Ceylon tea the sale passed with good competition, with quotations fully up to those of last week. Ruling wholesale prices on the Toronto market to retailers are: Young Hyson, 18 to 21c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indias and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

Apples--

At the time of writing our article which appeared in this paper last week, our prices on CANNED APPLES were $2.40 for gallons and 90c. for 3 lbs.

They are now, without engagement, $2.60 and $1.00 respectively, and those figures are much below the actual market value. It looks as if our predictions would be accomplished even sooner than we expected.

It is time yet for you to buy, don't lose the opportunity.

Prunes--

Prunes are very sympathetic to Apples and generally move in the same direction.

The tendency of the market is now for higher prices. We are yet selling :

French, Dufour, 25 lbs. - - 4½c.
Bosnian, Ostrich, 55 lbs. - - 6½c.
Californian, Griffin & Skelly Co.
25-lb. boxes, 60 to 70 to the lb. 8c.
50 to 60 to the lb. 8½c.
40 to 50 to the lb. 10½c.

Currants--

Look out for Currants, they are bound to advance materially, and that, before long.

You will see in Currants the repetition of last year's occurrence and possibly worse. Mark our words.

distributed throughout the list, from sugar and molasses down to dried fruit, canned goods and spices. A notable feature of the situation is the general firmness of prices, particularly in sugar, molasses and canned goods, as noted in the appended report. Tea also is active and strong from first to second hands.

SUGAR.

The strength in the sugar market continues, and there has been further advance in prices since last report. Despite this fact, however, and the possibility of still higher prices, the demand from the retail trade has not increased, according to the majority of jobbers. The latter are experiencing a fair demand from that quarter, but not extensive. At the refineries, this week, prices on both yellows and granulated have been marked up, and their stock in hand is much lighter than usual for the season. As a consequence of this advance at the refineries the jobbing range is expected to advance at any moment, for at its present level it is precisely identical with what the refiners are asking. We quote: Granulated, 4⅜c., and yellows, 3⅝ to 4c.

SYRUPS.

This market exhibits no special change, demand being fair and prices steadily held. We quote Canadian in half-barrels 2 to 2½c., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market is quiet as to the volume of business transacted, but this is due to the firm way stocks are held, and not lack of demand. The enquiry is quite brisk, but the stocks here being concentrated in few hands, holders are in no hurry to realize, as they believe that prices are going still higher in the near future. We quote the jobbing range: Puncheons, 28c.; barrels, 30½c., and half-barrels 31½c.; car lots 1c. less.

RICE.

There is a quiet steady trade in rice. We quote: Crystal Japan, $5.00; standard B., $3.50 to $3.75; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $6.75 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 to $4.25; and Java kinds, $4.25 to $4.50.

SPICES.

The market continues steady under a seasonable demand from retailers for most sorts. We quote: Black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 17 to 20c., as to grade; pure Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar (French), 25 to 27c.; allspice, 12 to 14c.; and nutmegs, 50 to 90c.

COFFEE.

The strength in coffee outside has been maintained, but business on spot has been rather quiet and values remain as last quoted: Santos, 10½ to 11c.; Rio, 9½ to 10c., and Maracaibo, 11½ to 12c.

TEAS.

There has been quite a large business in teas from first to second hands, especially in Japans, but in a distributive way trade is light, as retailers appear to be well supplied. Jobbers, however, have been extensive buyers of Japans, and have paid all the way from 1 to 1½c. more than sellers were asking a week ago. The inference is that they are in want of stock. We quote: Young Hysons, 18c. for low grades, 24 to 28c. for mediums and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 10 to 17c. for mediums and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 21c. for mediums and 28c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 17 to 20c. for mediums and 35 to 65c. for higher grades.

CANNED GOODS.

The strength displayed lately by several leading staples in this line, particularly tomatoes and gallon and 3-lb. apples, is maintained and promises to continue until next season, as stocks are admitted to be very light, while the demand, especially from the Northwest, is much better than usual at this time of the year. We quote : Tomatoes, $1.10 to $1.25 ; corn, 90c. to $1 ; peas, $1.10 to $1.15 ; peaches, $1.75 to $1.90 for 2's; raspberries, $1.50 to $1.90 ; strawberries, $1.75 to $2, according to brand and quality; cherries, $2.30 ; apples, gallons, $2.60 to $2.75; 3-lb.do., $1 to $1.10; pumpkins, 75 to 85c.; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.25; "Clover Leaf," $1.25 ; Lowe Inlet, $1.20, in tall tins ; canned mackerel, $1.25 ; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.20 to $1.25; 2's, $2.15 to $2.30 ; lobsters, $11 per case ; French sardines, $10.25 to $11 for extra brands ; ordinary brands, $8 to $9; Canadian brands, $4.25 to $4.50.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been a good enquiry for Valencia raisins from retailers, and prices are steadily held. We quote : Off-stalk, 4½c.; fine do., 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and 4-crown layers, 6 to 6¾c.

California raisins continue steady, on the whole, and demand is quite brisk at the following : 2-crown, 6¼ to 6¾c.; 3-crown, 7¼ to 7¾c.; and 4-crown, 8¾ to 9c.

Loose Spanish muscatels are unchanged, with a good holiday enquiry at 6 to 7c., and Sultanas 9 to 9½c.

Currants are very strong and there are few cases to be had, most of the stock here consisting of half-cases. We quote : Fine Vostizzas, half-cases, 6½c.; Patras, half-cases, 6¼c.; choice Filiatra, do., 6c.; fine do., half-cases, 5⅞c.; Filiatra, half-cases, 5¾c.; do. half-bbls., 5½c.; do., bbls., 5⅜c. fine Provincials, half-cases, 5½c.; do., cases, 5⅜c.; do., bbls., 5c.

Prunes meet a good, steady enquiry at the following range : Austrian, 6¼ to 7c.; French, 4¼ to 4½c., and Californias, 40 to 50s., 9¾ to 10c.; 50 to 60s., 8¾ to 9c.; 60 to 70s., 8¼ to 8½c., and 70 to 80s., 7½ to 7¾c.

Figs meet a steady enquiry. We quote : Eleme, 10 lbs., 10 to 11c.; case lots, 9c.; 12-oz. boxes, 7½c.; 14-oz. boxes, 9c.; 25 bag lots, 3¼c., and bags, 3½ to 4c.

There has been a good demand for dates, and prices have a firm tendency, though quotably unchanged at 5½ to 6c.

NUTS.

A good seasonable demand has been maintained for all sorts of nuts, but especially for almonds and walnuts. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 9½ to 10½c.; Marbots, 9 to 9½c.; Tarragona almonds, 9½ to 10c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 22c., and shelled walnuts, 17 to 18c.

FISH.

There has been no change in pickled fish. We quote as follows :—No. 1 N.S. herrings, 4¼ to 4½c.; Cape Breton, $4.75 to $5 ; half barrels, $2.75 ; Nova Scotia, half barrels, $2.25 ; B.C. salmon, $11 to $11.50 ; No. 1 white fish, 4½c., half barrels ; No. 1 trout, 4 to 4¼c., half barrels ; No. 1 green cod, $3.75 to $4 ; No. 2, $2.40 ; No. 1 large cod, $4.25 to $4.50 ; draft cod, $5.

Dried cod continue steady at 3¾c.; dressed or skinless, 4¼ to 4½c.; pure boneless, 4½ to 5½c., and boneless, 3c.

Fresh haddock and cod are meeting a good enquiry at 3½ to 4c., steak cod, 4c.; smelts, 4 to 6c.; white fish and trout, 7c.; salmon, 10 to 11c.; Manitoba pike, 3½c., and fresh herrings, $1.80 to $1.85 per 100.

DRIED APPLES.

There are no dried apples now obtainable under 6½c, and we quote 6½ to 7c., while evaporated are firm at 10c.

APPLES.

Quiet and firm, at $3 to $4.50 for No. 1, and $2 to $2.50 for No. 2.

GREEN FRUIT.

The Valencia oranges ex Labrador barely got here in time for the Christmas demand, but their receipt has not caused any change in values. Lemons are rather easier. We quote as follows : Lemons, $3 to $3.50; Jamaica oranges, $6 to $6.50 ; California, $3.50 to $4 ; Valencia, $4.50 to $5 ; Almeria grapes, $5 to $6.50 ; Cape Cod cranberries firmer, at $7.50 to $8.50, and Nova Scotia, $7.50 to $8.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

POULTRY—The feature of the poultry markets was the easier feeling which prevailed for turkeys, owing to the liberal receipts, and prices declined ½c. per lb. The demand for all lines was limited, and trade on the whole ruled quiet, but an improvement is anticipated later on. Turkeys sold at 9 to 9½c.; chickens, 6 to 7c.; ducks, 8 to 8½c., and geese, 5 to 7c. per lb.

EGGS—The demand for eggs was fair, and the market is moderately active, with no change in prices to note. We quote : New laid, 22c.; choice candled, 18 to 19c.; Montreal limed, 14 to 15c., and western limed, 12½ to 13c. per dozen.

BEANS—There was no change in beans, sales being chiefly in small lots to fill actual wants at 80 to 90c. for primes, and at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

GAME—There continues to be a steady demand for partridge, and prices rule steady at 70 to 80c. for firsts and at 40 to 50c. for seconds, per brace.

HONEY—The demand for honey is slow, and the market rules quiet. We quote as follows : White clover, 12½c.; dark clover comb, 10 to 10½c., and dark 7 to 8c.

PROVISIONS.

There was no material change in the situation of the provision market. The demand for small lots of pork is fair to fill actual wants, but smoked meats are slow of sale. We quote : Canadian pork, $15 to $16 per barrel ; pure Canadian lard in pails, at 7 to 7½c., and compound refined at 5 to 5¼c. per lb.; hams, 11 to 13c.; bacon, 10 to 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS.

There was a strong feeling in the market for dressed hogs, and prices advanced 25c. per 100 lbs. This is due chiefly to the fact that receipts continue small, for which there is a good demand, and sales to-day in a jobbing way were made at $6.50 to $6.75 for light, and at $6.25 for heavy per 100 lbs. Some sales of car lots off in color have been made at $5.85 per 100 lbs.

SALT.

Unchanged. Coarse Liverpool, 35 to 40c. per bag of 150 lbs., and Trepani, $1.10 per bag of 215 lbs.

FLOUR AND MEAL.

The flour market was without new feature of note. The demand from local buyers for small lots was fair, but trade on the whole was quiet and prices rule steady. We quote: Winter wheat, patents, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.40 to $4.45; bags, $2.15 to $2.20; best Manitoba strong bakers', $4.90 to $5; second do., $4.50 to $4.60, and low grades, $2.70; Hungarian patents, $5.40.

Business in meal was slow and the market continues quiet. We quote: Rolled oats, $3.45 per barrel, and $1.67½ per bag; standard meal, $3.25 per barrel, and $1.57½ per bag.

There is no change in the situation of the feed market. The demand is fair and prices rule steady. We quote: Ontario bran, $10.50; shorts, $11.50 per ton, bulk; Manitoba bran, bags included, $11.50, and shorts, $13.50 per ton.

GRAIN.

Owing to the light receipts of oats and peas at country points and the small offerings on spot the tone of the market was stronger and prices for the former advanced ¼ to ½c., and for the latter ½c. per bushel. The demand was fair and sales of car lots of oats were made at 27 to 27¼c., and peas at 51 to 51½c. Sales of feed barley were made at 33c. There is a fair inquiry for malting barley and some sales have been made at 45 to 50c. We quote as follows: Ontario red winter wheat, 90c.; white, 89c.; peas, 51 to 51½c.; oats, 27 to 27¼c.; rye, 51½ to 52c.; buckwheat, 35½ to 36c., and feed barley, 33 to 35c. in store.

BALED HAY.

A fair trade is reported in hay, and as supplies are not large, prices rule firm. We quote: No. 1 at $10.50 and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market is very steady, and though business is quiet at present, the large purchases made of late to fill short sales for January delivery have stiffened holders' views materially, and they are firm at 8¾c. for finest fall made grades.

Butter was steady under a fair jobbing demand at 19 to 19¼c. for choice creamery, which continues scarce, most of the current receipts not being particularly desirable. Exporters are doing little or noth-

MONTREAL NOTES.

Light receipts and an active demand has led to an advance in dressed hogs.

Dried apples are held 1c. firmer here on the inside price by jobbers, at 6½c.

The refiners have marked up both granulated and yellow sugars an additional ⅛c. per pound.

There is a firm feeling in currants, and the only packages that are really in sufficient supply are half-cases.

Sanguine holders of molasses in this market predict that the next change in the staple will be an advance of 2c. per gallon.

Jobbers have been active purchasers of medium and low grade Japan teas, and have paid an advance of 1 to 1½c. in several cases.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 27, 1897.

CHRISTMAS has come and gone. In St. John the Christmas was indeed a green one; in fact there has been no snow at all as yet. The weather was quite cold, but the lack of snow affected business very much. There was very little snow through the province, which will result in the carrying over of much Christmas stock. In wholesale lines business has been quiet and will be for some little time to come. In markets there is no change of importance. Travelers are all at home, and will be till after the New Year.

OIL—This is a quiet season, though fair quantities of burning oil are moving. Canadian has more advantage than usual over American as the price was not advanced when that of the latter was. After the first of the year dealers will begin to give particular attention to lubricating oil. Cod oil is scarce and holds its price. Cod liver oil is higher. During the past season it ruled low. We quote: Best American burning oil, 18 to 19c.; Canadian water white, 16 to 17c.; Canadian prime, 14 to 15c.; cod oil, 22 to 24c.

SALT—Fair supplies of Liverpool coarse continue to arrive. Market is easy with but fair demand. In Canadian salt there is a fair sale. It is said market tends easy, but there is no change in price as yet. In this climate it is very difficult to keep even table salt from becoming hard. Some imported here has a little cornstarch in it which, while not detracting from the salt, keeps it from caking. We quote: Coarse, 45 to 47c.; Liverpool factory-filled, 85 to $1; Canadian fine, 90c. to $1 per bag; 5-lb. bags in bbls., $3 to $3.25; 10-lb. bags, in bbls., $2.85 to $3; butter and cheese salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartoons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; rock salt, $5 to $6 per ton.

Balfour & Co. - Hamilton

ARE BUYERS OF

DRIED APPLES

WRITE THEM.

CANNED GOODS—There is a good general business. The holiday season brought quite a demand for fruits. The low price of Canadian peaches affects the demand for American. The Canadian peach is much better quality than the grade of American peaches brought here. There is no demand in this market for California canned goods, the quality of the cheaper goods being no better than our own, and the better goods are too high. All vegetables are tending higher. Our market is well supplied, and profits are most satisfactory. We quote; Corn, 70 to 75c.; peas, 85c. to $1; tomatoes, $1 to $1.10; gallon apples, $2.20 to $2.25; corned beef, Canadian, $2.35 to $2.40; American, 2-lb. tins, $2.50 to $2.60; 1-lb. tins, $1.35 to $1.50; oysters, 2's, $2.10 to $2.20; 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; peaches, 3's, Canadian, $2.40 to $2.60; 2's, $1.50 to $1.65; American, 3's, $2 to $2.25; pineapple, $2.25 to $2.50; fruits in glass, $4 to $4.25; salmon, $1.15 to $1.20; ditto, flats, $1.25 to $1.30; lobsters, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, $1.00 to $1.10; clams, $4.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.50 to $2.75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1 per doz.; kippered herring, $1.10 per doz.

GREEN FRUIT—Business is quiet, and will be for some time. The Christmas trade was a good one. Valencia oranges were scarce; in fact, the wholesale trade had none to offer at all for a day or two before Christmas. They were, however, low at retail, selling for about 20c. per dozen. In other grades the market was well supplied. Apple trade is quiet. High prices have affected sales. Stocks held are small. Lemons have a steady demand at even prices. Cranberries are high, There is but light sale. Those chiefly sold are native grown. We quote as follows: Lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; oranges, Valencia, $4.55 to $5 per box; do., California, $2.25 to $4.50; do., Florida, $5 to $5.25; do., Dominica, $3 per bbl.; apples, $2 to $4; bananas, $2 to $2.25; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7; native bog cranberries, $5.50 to $6.50 per bbl.; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 to $9 per bbl.; shaddock, $3 per bbl.; grape fruit, $3 per bbl.; sour limes, $1.75 per box; sweet limes, $2.50 per box.

DRIED FRUIT—Business, like that in green fruit, is quiet. Retailers bought quite largely for the Christmas trade, and so are supplied for some little time. In California raisins the market is just the oppssite of that of last year. Then there was a continued advance till after the New Year, while this season there has been a continued decline. Some Turkish dates arrived in time for the Christmas trade. There is a fair demand for package dates. Package raisins will be lower after the New Year. Evaporated and dried apples are quiet with prices high. Currants are light stock. In peanuts prices are quoted rather lower. We quote as follows: Valencias, 5½ to 6c.; California L. M., 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; London layers, $1.40 to $1.50; Imp. cabinets, $1.75 to $1.80; black baskets, $2.25 to $2.30; Dehesa layers, $2.50 to $2.75; currants, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; bbls., 5¼ to 5½c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7¾ to 8c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½ to 7c.; prunes, boxes, 4½ to 10c.; dates, 5½ to 6c.; dried apples, 4 to 5c.; evaporated apples, 9 to 10c.; onions, $2.10 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; figs, 8 to 10c.; Sultana raisins, 9 to 10c.; Malaga loose muscatels, 3-crown, 6½ to 6¾c.; 4-crown L. M. Californias, 7½ to 7¾c.; seeded muscatels, 1-lb. cartoons, 11 to 12c.; new Valencias, layers, 6½ to 6¾c.; citron peel, 18c.; lemon peel, 12c.; orange peel, 13c.

SUGAR—Market continues to tend firmer. There are but fair stocks held here. Trade is quiet. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4⅜c.; yellows, 3⅜ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5½ to 5¾c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

MOLASSES—Prices are more firmly held. Stocks are not large. Some orders have been filled for outside points, which affects prices, and higher quotations are looked for. Values are still low. Local demand is not large. We quote: Barbadoes, 23 to 25c.; Porto Rico, 27 to 30c.; New Orleans, bbls., 28 to 30c.; Antigua, 22 to 23c.; St. Croix, 20 to 22c.; Demerara, extra, 33 to 34c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Feeling is easy, particularly in butter and cheese. In the former stocks are large. There is steady demand for best grades, but prices are low. Cheese is light sale. Local market is small. Eggs, which showed a good demand before the holidays, are now dull. Prices are hardly maintained. We quote: Dairy butter, 16 to 18c.; creamery, 18 to 20c.; prints, 20 to 22c.; cheese, 9½ to 10c.; eggs, 18 to 20c.

FISH—There is only light business doing. Some frozen fish are moving, but supply is light, particularly in herring. Smelt fishing north is active, and shipments are large, chiefly to the American market. Pollock hold their high prices. In boneless the trade is largely over for this season. While prices have ruled high, margins have been, if anything, smaller than usual. In pickled herring supplies are light and prices firmly held. A few shad are still offered. Holders of alewives find sale slow. Values are keeping low. In smoked fish market is but fairly well supplied. Demand is light. Bloaters hold their advance, and kippers are out of the market. We quote: Large cod, $3.25 to $3.40; medium, $3.15 to $3.25; pollock, $1.80 to $2; bay herring, $1.65 to $1.75 per half-bbl.; smoked, new, 6½ to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., $4.50 to $5; boneless, 2½ to 4c.; cod, 6 to 6½c.; Shelburne, bbls., $2.75; half-bbls, $1.85 .o $1.90; Canso, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; do, half-bbl., $2.75 to $3; wolves, $2.45 to $2.50 half-bbl.; bloaters, 75 to 80c.; haddies, 4½ to c.5

PROVISIONS—Early winter trade has been light. Values tend easy. Lard is, however, firmly held, though an easier feeling is expected. Beef and mess pork show a fair sale, but clear pork is dull. In smoked meats business is confined to the retail trade. We quote: Clear pork, $14.50 to $15.50; mess, $13.50 to $14; plate beef, $13.50 to $14.50; hams, 12 to 13c.; rolls, 9½ to 10c.; pure lard, 7½ to 8c.; compound, 6½ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — Values remain unchanged. In flour a fair trade is reported. Our market is peculiar in so far that certain brands hold a large part of the trade, very little flour indeed being sold from sample. Oatmeal seems to be easier. Local prices never advanced to the full extent of millers' advance. Oats are also rather easier, with New Brunswick oats selling freely below Ontario prices. Feed is still scarce and high. Western millers find full demand at home. Cornmeal keeps low, and has a large sale. Western buckwheat finds a good market here. Beans, barley, and split peas are firmly held. We quote: Manitoba flour, $5.70 to $5.75; best Ontario, $5.00 to $5.10; medium, $4.75 to $4.80; oatmeal, $3.70 to $3.75; cornmeal, $1.90 to $2; middlings, $16 to $16.50; bran, $14.50 to $15.00; hand-picked beans, $1 to $1.10; prime, 90 to 95c.; barley, $3.10 to $3.15; round peas, $1.25; split peas, $3.25 to $3.50; yellow eye beans, $1.75.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

It is reported that D. B. Carritter, of St. John, and J. C. Patterson, of Montreal, are to undertake the manufacture of tarred roofing and building paper at Halifax.

There is quite a movement in hides to the American market. One lot of 740 bdls. went forward this week.

F. P. Reid & Co., wholesale grocers, Moncton, were burned out last week. They will suffer little loss as they were fully insured. Having large lots of goods in warehouse, they were able to resume business in a new stand with very little delay.

Since Mr. Thomas Blair has been appointed manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here there has been a large increase in the bank's business. It has been found necessary to increase their staff. Mr. Blair is a St. John boy, and is popular in his position.

Dunlop & Co., wholesale grocers, Moncton, are offering a compromise. This was not altogether unexpected. Unless the compromise is accepted there would seem to be little, if anything, for the creditors, as the bank is secured. The outside liabilities are not large.

The largest cargo of grain to be moved from St. John was shipped this week in the str. Maritinia, of the Allan-Thompson Line. The cargo consisted of 41,900 bush. of corn, 28,905 bush. of clipped oats, 77,398 bush. oats, 16,950 bush. peas, besides which she carried 2,335 packages general cargo and 160 standard of deals.

Many of our wholesale grocers are giving calendars to their friends. Among the handsomest is that of Baird & Peters, which was especially gotten up for them, the cuts representing their special brands of goods. Other particularly nice ones are those of Hall & Fairweather, Joseph Finley and Northrup & Co.

THE CANADIAN GROCER had a very pleasant call this week from J. J. Lowe, representing the MacLean Publishing Co., who spent his Christmas in our city. This was Mr. Lowe's first trip east. He expressed himself as particularly pleased with St. John. From here he went to Fredericton and St. Stephen.

KLONDYKE PREVARICATIONS.

He had just returned from the top of the Chilkoot Pass and was apparently glad of it.

"How was the weather when you left?" enquired a friend. "Cold?"

"Yes, but not so cold as it will be along in January, after the mosquitoes get out of the air and let the wind have a chance. Then it gets good and cold. A man told me who had wintered up there seven years that it was so cold in January that they froze the flames of the candles and sold them for strawberries. He said they kept their fires over night by putting them out in the air and letting them freeze and then thawed them out in the morning. He said he had seen four men die of colic from eating whiskey that was frozen so hard it wouldn't thaw inside of them. He said he knew a clerk in an hotel on the Yukon that got rich selling the diamonds he wore, said diamonds being nothing on earth but ice crystals that didn't thaw till after the clerk had got out of the country. He said he had seen a man fall off the roof of a barn and freeze so stiff before he lit that he broke in two when he hit the ground. He said he had seen smoke freeze in a chimney till the fire wouldn't draw, and he knew of one case where the smoke froze after it got a hundred feet up and fell back on the house, knocking a hole in the roof big enough to drive a yoke of steers through. He said the reason the nights were so long in that country was that the dark got frozen so hard that the daylight couldn't thaw its way through in less than six months. He said—"

"Excuse me," interrupted the friend, "did this party have affidavits with these statements?"

"He said he had, but I guess he must have frozen to death hunting for them, because he never came back when I asked him to go after them for me," and the returned Chilkooter smiled a smile that was childlike and bland.

We wish you a Prosperous New Year

SOME POSSIBILITIES IN SPARE MOMENTS.

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Franklin.

Every hour in a man's life has its own special work possible for it, and for no other hour within the allotted span of years, and once gone it will not return.—Noel Paton.

A man that is young in years may be old in hours, if he have lost no time.—Bacon.

There is not an hour of youth but is trembling with destinies—not a moment of which, once past, the appointed work can ever be done again, or the neglected blow struck on the cold iron.—Ruskin.

Lost! Somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever.—Horace Mann.

"What is the price of that book?" at length asked a man who had been dawdling for an hour in the front store of Benjamin Franklin's newspaper establishment. "One dollar," replied the clerk. "One dollar," echoed the lounger; "can't you take less than that?" "One doller is the price," was the answer.

The would-be purchaser looked over the books on sale awhile longer, and then inquired: "Is Mr. Franklin in?" "Yes," said the clerk, "he is very busy in the press-room." "Well, I want to see him," persisted the man. The proprietor was called, and the stranger asked: "What is the lowest, Mr. Franklin, that you can take for that book?" "One dollar and a quarter," was the prompt rejoinder. "One dollar and a quarter! Why, your clerk asked me only a dollar just now." "True," said Franklin, "and I could have better afforded to take a dollar than to leave my work."

The man seemed surprised; but wishing to end a parley of his own seeking, he demanded: "Well, come now, tell me your lowest price for this book." "One dollar and a half," replied Franklin. "A dollar and a half! Why, you offered it yourself for a dollar and a quarter." "Yes," said Franklin coolly, "and I could better have taken that price then than a dollar and a half now."

The man silently laid the money on the counter, took his book and left the store, having received a salutary lesson from a master in the art of transmuting time, at will, into either wealth or wisdom.

Time-wasters are everywhere.

On the floor of the gold-working room in the United States Mint at Philadelphia there is a wooden lattice-work which is taken up when the floor is swept, and the fine particles of gold-gust, thousands of dollars yearly, are thus saved. So every successful man has a kind of network to catch "the raspings and parings of existence, those leavings of days and wee bits of hours" which most people sweep into the waste of life. He who hoards and turns to account all odd minutes, half-hours, unexpected holidays, gaps "between times," and chasms of waiting for unpunctual persons, achieves results which astonish those who have not mastered this secret.

"All that I have accomplished, or expect, or hope to accomplish," said Elihu Burritt, "has been and will be by that plodding, patient, persevering process of accretion which builds the ant-heap—particle by particle, thought by thought, fact by fact. And if ever I was actuated by ambition, its highest and warmest aspiration reached no further than the hope to set before the young men of my country an example in employing those invaluable fragments of time called moments."

"I have been wondering how Ned contrived to monopolize all the talents of the family," said a brother, found in a brown study after listening to one of Burke's speeches in Parliament; "but then I remember, when we were at play he was always at work."—Pushing to the Front.

The Trade and Navigation Returns will be published shortly and will show that during the fiscal year 1896-7 the total imports entered for consumption were $111,294,021, as against $110,587,480 last year. The duty collected amounted to $19,891,997, as against $20,219,037, a decrease of $327,040. Exports were $123,959,838, an increase of $17,581,086.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Warren Bros. & Co. are in receipt of a small shipment of specially fine golden-tipped Ceylon tea. Its qualities, both style and cup, are excellent.

Burnham's "Clam Bouillon," ½ pints, pints and quarts, and clam chowder, 3's, are among the season's rapid sellers with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. report large receipts of dairy roll butter, but large shipping orders have enabled them to keep well sold up, and to obtain outside prices.

Enameline should give satisfaction to your customers, and the manufacturers claim they will not be satisfied if they ask you for it and can't get it from you.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, call attention of buyers to their last arrivals in medium grade Assams, to hand last week. These are splendid liquoring teas, with good style, and are quoted just a cent below what it would cost to import equal teas to-day.

A fresh shipment of California seeded raisins, "Santa Claus" brand, 1 lb. cartoons, and Griffin & Skelly's "Harvest" brand California prunes, 40-50's, is in store with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Rutherford & Marshall this week issued a circular to the trade in Toronto, announcing that they have secured the services of an expert, who will devote his attention entirely to the grading of eggs, and that they are in a specially good position to supply dealers regularly with fresh creamery butter in pounds.

LATE ADVERTISEMENTS.

The following items arrived too late for insertion in the regular advertising space. Reading notices inserted in this column at 5c. per word.

The sales of "Ludella" Ceylon tea, in lead packages, have made great strides this last year. H. P. Eckardt & Co. are wholesale agents for this tea.

The "Salada" Tea Company report that, notwithstanding the holiday of last week, and the fact that Christmas week is a dull one in the tea business. they have had a most extraordinary rush of orders, having had to work three nights till 11 o'clock. Reports, they say, from all over—Boston, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Rochester, Detroit, etc.—are of the most encouraging description.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited: "Our sales of 'Kolona' pure Ceylon tea show a heavy increase each year over the one preceding, to which the year just closing is no exception, attributable, we believe, to the fact that as we confine its sale to the Dominion and do not seek outside markets, we thus concentrate our experience in studying and pleasing the taste of Canadian consumers, who are not slow to appreciate these facts."

THE WHITE CANDY CO.

The White Candy Co., St. John, N.B., finding its present premises altogether too small for its ever increasing business, has decided upon moving early in the new year to more appropriate quarters at 236-240 Union street.

Its new home is a magnificent four-storey brick building, extending 160 feet to the rear, with a fine suite of offices, and should be a pleasant change to this enterprising firm. The company intends extending its output, and this will necessitate a large increase in the staff. This is one of the busiest institutions of St. John.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27, 1897.

IF there is one thing more than another upon which Winnipeg prides itself, that thing is the Christmas market. This is not vain-glorying either, for few cities, even of larger size, show as fine quality of meat, though they of course may exceed in quantity. Kobold & Co. occupy the largest number of stalls, so they are entitled to first mention. This firm has a great reputation for fat cattle, raised on their ranch at Maple Creek, N.W.T., which are successful prize-winners at the annual Industrial Exhibition both here and in Brandon. The three stalls were decorated with rows and rows of fat sheep, some 250 in all, none under 90 lbs., and most of them over 100. Then came sides and sides of beef, while the iron pillars were adorned with the gems of the herd, one, a steer, under three years, live weight over 2,000 lbs. On his back was this inscription: "Not bad for a little fellow." On the other pillar was a heifer, under three years, live weight 2,660, dressed weight 2,000. This carcase was cut nearly through between the fore and hind quarters and showed the depth to be 11½ inches. The ticket on this bore the legend, "Manitoba agreed with me" and "Where will you find another like me?" All intervening spaces were filled with poultry of fine quality, and the whole most tastefully decorated with evergreens and mottoes. Opposite to Kobold & Co. are the stalls of P. Gallagher & Sons, one of the oldest butchering firms in Manitoba. The head of the firm, Mr. Patrick Gallagher, is as ardent a politician as he is a good judge of stock, and is widely known throughout the Dominion. Much of the meat in this stall was from the ranch of D. Fraser & Co. near Emerson and all whole carcases shown bore the first prize ticket for their several classes at the last Winnipeg Industrial. The fat cow shown by this firm is claimed to be the heaviest carcase ever seen on the Manitoba market. One stall was entirely devoted to poultry piled in solid squares and decorated with wreaths of evergreens and red berries. Rocan's led the way in pork, one dead pig being marked 721 lbs. and another 519. The general scheme of decoration throughout the entire market was the same, but there was much individual taste displayed in the different stalls, and a good deal of humor in the fancy mottoes. Some of these were: "Killed for good cause," "Yours for all good service," "We ne'er shall see his like again," etc., etc. The supply of game was good and showed all the varieties in season.

Some of the window displays were very good. The Hudson Bay Co. had one window filled with a great bank of currants. On this, barrels of currants turned out in form, mottoes in almonds, pyramids of fancy peels, candy, and choice tinned goods of everything that is tinned under the sun. MacLean's had a unique window; a cottage lighted and with a spread table seen through the window, at which are seated life-sized wax figures of a man, his wife and child, while a maid at the back door is giving food to a hungry tramp. This window created a great sensation and has been surrounded with eager gazers for days.

The wheat market is dead. It is now pretty well understood that there will be few, if any, shipments east by rail. The amounts coming in are very small. In fact, during Christmas week, contrary to all past experience, almost the only points receiving wheat were Indian Head and Sintaluta. Many elevators have already paid their men to the end of the year and closed their elevators. Many of these will re-open in March, but the amount of wheat in the farmers' hands is known to be under 20 per cent. of the crop, and it is generally thought that little of this will be sold until after seeding. The Armour deal did not affect matters here except that indirectly it undoubtedly helped to keep prices firm. In spite of all the talk about elevator combines and the like, wheat has been handled here on such close margins and with such keen competition that few, if any, of the elevator companies have made money.

Wholesale trade throughout the week has been good, but has consisted chiefly of filling extra orders for fancy groceries. No change in price of any article is reported.

In produce the market is firm in all lines.

BUTTER—Fresh dairy in round lots, Winnipeg, 15½ to 16c. The supply is still only fair, but is likely to increase after the New Year, when prices will come down.

CHEESE—Little move in the market. Late made cheese brings as high as 10½c. from the retailer and retails at 12½c. It is a long time since the retail price of cheese was so high on this market.

EGGS—Dealers are paying 18 to 18½c. for strictly fresh eggs, Winnipeg, and are selling at 20c. Supply still short, but the present mild spell will be likely to increase the supply.

CURED MEATS—The market is very firm, as follows:

Sugar-cured smoked hams	12

" " backs	10½
" S.C, " shoulders	8½
" " spiced rolls	8½
American smoked hams	11½

THE DRUMMER MET HIS MATCH.

A WESTERN paper tells the story of how a drummer met his match in a little country girl.

She was a sweet, shy, innocent little village maiden, and she seemed somewhat flurried as she stepped into the grocery store where our city drummer was lounging.

The clerk knew her, and while he did up her parcel of tea, he asked her if she was not afraid to walk home alone so late at night. She asked the clerk nervously if it was so very late. When he assured her that it was but just 9 o'clock, she took the parcel and hurried away.

The city drummer, looking on, thought to himself, "It really is too bad for such a pretty little girl to walk home alone." So, throwing away his cigar, he skipped out, and overtook her just as she was turning a dark corner.

"Wouldn't you like some company?" he asked, graciously offering his arm.

"But I don't know you," she said, hesitatingly.

"Don't you? Why, I'm an old friend of your father's."

"Indeed!" she replied, but she did not take his arm.

They chatted pleasantly along, he asking many questions about her home, etc. He learned that her father was an invalid confined to his room, and that her brother was absent from town.

They soon came to a neat and somewhat pretentious cottage, and, pausing at the gate, she timidly asked him to come in.

Charmed with her shyness, and believing the coast entirely clear, the unsuspicious drummer accepted the invitation. She showed him into a tasty little parlor, then she asked to be excused for a few minutes. As she passed out of the door a smile hovered about her lips, but the drummer did not see it.

Passing down a little hall she tapped lightly at another door, which was opened by a gentleman of a decidedly ministerial aspect.

"Mr. C.," she said, "there is a gentleman in the parlor who seems to be a very anxious enquirer; won't you go and talk to him?"

"Certainly, my dear," answered her pastor, who was as prompt to improve an opportunity to attend to his business of saving souls as men of different callings are to drive sharp bargains. He hastened to the parlor, glasses and all, and grasped the drummer warmly by the hand, exclaiming, heartily:

"Glad to see you, my friend, very glad to see you."

The drummer stared at the old gentleman in astonishment, and wondered vainly who he was and why he was so very glad to see him.

The minister drew a chair close beside him, and laying one hand on his knee, began very earnestly:

"Our young friend tells me that you are an anxious inquirer. I am always glad to talk with any one who is interested in matters relating to the welfare of the soul."

The minister paused for a moment, and the drummer began to turn hot and cold.

"Have you ever made any profession of religion? Do you belong to any church?" the minister asked encouragingly.

"N-no," stammered the drummer, out loud. "Confound that girl!" he muttered under his breath.

The minister began to see that he was not getting on, and noticing the drummer's disturbed manner remarked:

"Something troubles you, my friend. Can you not confide in me? Perhaps I can relieve your doubts and fears."

"I—I think I'd better go." the drummer said, rising and vainly trying to guess which door he came in at.

"Let us have a season of prayer together," said the minister; and, suiting the action to the word, he kneeled down by his chair.

Not having decided which door he came in at, and not daring to risk meeting that "confounded girl" by opening any other, the drummer had nothing better to do than to submit to the novel experience of hearing himself prayed for.

As soon as the prayer was ended, he again essayed to go, but Mr. C. bethought himself of the "girl," and, stepping to the dining-room door, called:

"Wife, has Lettie gone?"

"Oh, yes; she did not stay. Willie went with her, and he's been gone long enough to get back."

At last the minister showed the discomfited drummer to the door, shook him warmly by the hand, hoped to meet him again, and let him out into the free air once more.

As he passed out of the gate he heard a subdued giggle, saw two figures dimly outlined against the sky, and a boy's voice remarked:

"I wonder if pa converted him?"

The "anxious inquirer" isn't anxious to inquire after the innocent young maidens of the town any more.

THAT ADULTERATED MOLASSES.

Editor GROCER: In your issue of Dec. 17th, two articles appeared relating to the adulteration of New Orleans molasses, which while perhaps correct, as applied to the conditions in the United States, are liable to convey a false impression to your many readers among the Dominion retail grocers. In the framing of your laws relative to the importation of molasses, the Solons at Ottawa have looked after the welfare of the consumers to such an extent that the importation of adulterated molasses is practically impossible. Each lot brought into Canada, be it one barrel or a thousand, is tested at Ottawa, before the duty is assessed; the appraisers at the various ports of entry having no voice in the matter. Pure molasses containing forty or more per cent. of cane saccharine, which is as much as Barbadoes and other West India molasses contains, pays 1¾c. per gallon duty. But if the Ottawa chemists find a mixture of glucose, or that the molasses has been manipulated in any way, it is assessed at 1¼c. per pound: equivalent to 21c. per gallon. The importer invariably buys New Orleans molasses delivered, duty paid, so that the shipper assumes all the risk, and there is consequently no temptation to ship adulterated goods, as it would prove very costly to the seller. Trusting you will find space in your valuable journal to publish these facts, we are,

Yours very truly,
The M. H. Alexander Co.
per Ivan C. Walter, secretary.

Cincinnati, Dec. 23, 1897.

[REMARKS: THE CANADIAN GROCER, in the articles referred to, pointed out that it was not probable any of the adulterated molasses would find its way into Canada. THE EDITOR.]

Persons handling five-dollar bills want to examine them carefully to see if they are not one dollars raised to that $5. The groundwork of the new one-dollar Dominion issue bill is the same as the revenue tobacco stamp, and by simply cutting out a figure from the latter and pasting it over the figure 1 of the bill a $5 bill can be manufactured that will be readily accepted.

CATALOGUES, PRICE LISTS, ETC.

One of the neatest catalogues and price lists we have seen for the season of 1898 has just been issued by Messrs. Dearborn & Co., St. John, N.B., manufacturers of coffees, spices, flavoring extracts, etc., and reflects credit upon this enterprising firm. It is got up in such a shape that it is an easy matter to order by letter instead of waiting for their travelers, as every article they handle is defined so explicitly. They manufacture all their own output on the premises, and this can be recognized by the well-known "Dearborn Brand" which is stamped on all packages. If you have not received one of the above lists, by simply dropping a card one will be mailed to any address. Owing to so many enquiries from the far west of the Dominion for their goods, this firm are considering the advisability of opening a branch in Winnipeg to be in touch with the trade there.

How are FIG BARS for one line?

Mr. Gibson's Special Offer.

BEFORE another issue of THE DRY GOODS REVIEW reaches its readers 1897 will have passed away, as thousands of other years have done before it. The question for each one of us to consider, as business men, is: What have I accomplished during 1897? Is my business in better condition than it was this time a year ago? Am I maintaining my position in respect to my competitors, or are some of them distancing me in the race for business supremacy? In other words, am I keeping in touch with the progressive business methods of the day? Those who are unable to answer these questions in the affirmative may well look forward with apprehension to what 1898 has in store for them.

PLANS FOR 1898. Perhaps you have plans for betterment for 1898. Maybe you have decided that you have been giving credit too freely and that you will be more careful in the selection of risks. Perhaps you have been too slow in collecting, and you have made up your mind to turn over a new leaf in this respect. Or possibly you have concluded that the credit system is all wrong, and that you will abolish it altogether so far as your business is concerned. Then, again, it may be your advertising which you are dissatisfied with. It may not pull as it ought to. Maybe it is dull and commonplace. Perhaps it is not so good as is your competitors'. These faults may arise from the fact that you are a very busy man and have'nt time to properly attend to it. Or maybe you feel that advertisement making is not exactly in your line of things, and you approach the writing of an advertisement with diffidence and distaste.

I OFFER MY SERVICES. I am in the business of preparing advertising matter for other people. I have been in this business for years. It is one of the most useful businesses in the whole world. I don't know as much about your business as you do yourself, and you probably don't know as much as I do about mine. But we can perhaps be of service to one another. You want to do better advertising and I want more clients. Not many—only a few more. The thing for us to do is to get together.

If you will send me one to three of your recent advertisements I will look over them carefully and write you a letter of criticism and advice for the nominal fee of one dollar. In my reply I may be able to give you advice worth thousands of dollars to you. In sending these specimens of advertising it will materially help things along if you also send me some samples of your chief competitors' advertising. I would also like to be in possession of the chief facts about your business—how long it has been established, exactly what lines of goods you handle, whether it is a cash or credit business and so on. Don't be afraid to write me fully. The more information I get the more service I can be to you.

This offer is only for Canadian merchants. It only holds good for this month and next (December and January.) Address

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

Toronto, Dec. 30, 1897.

This list is corrected every Thursday. The prices are solicited for publication, and are for such qualities and quantities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations for staple products are under the direct control of the Editors, who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

Quotations for proprietory articles, brands, etc., are supplied by the manufacturers or agents, who alone are responsible for their accuracy. The editors do not supervise them. If a change is made, either an advance or decline, it is referred to in the market reports as a matter of news, whether manufacturers request it or not.
